(By a Staff Reporter)

WARKWORTH, March 26—An open verdict was returned by the Coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Stuart West, 35, and her two year son, Floyd, which occurred in a fire that destroyed their home on the outskirts of the village on March 9. The jury, after hearing twenty witnesses and deliberating an hour, returned at eleven o'clock last night with a finding that death was due to causes unknown on the evidence submitted.

The testimony of all the witnesses was consistent, and the stories dovetailed into a vivid word picture of the shocking tragedy that has thrown a shadow over the entire district. Dr. Stuart West, 34, was one of the principal witnesses, telling of the tragic occurrences of the night, and repeating substantially the same story that he told Constable Cousans shortly after the fire. The protection of the court was extended to him, and he was allowed to sit during his examination. Neighbors who responded quickly to the call for help recounted their experiences; others told of improving relations between Dr. West and his wife; and Constable Phillips described his gruesome search of the debris for evidence.

The hearing was dramatic at times, and the tension was felt by all those who witnessed it; by none more, perhaps, than by Dr. S. West, father of the bereaved man, who tearfully embraced his son when the jury retired to consider its verdict. One of the mysteries in the case centres around a pair of scissors taken from the ruins of the house and carefully preserved by police, as exhibit 19, wrapped in cotton wool in a box and strictly guarded from touch. The scissors were referred to repeatedly, but no inkling of the significance attaching to the exhibit was given, nor was evidence given of what marks are being so well preserved. It was said that the exhibit will be sent to Toronto for an analysis, which suggests that there may be suspected blood stains.

There was not room in the Town Hall to accommodate the crowd that sought admission, and after the hall was filled to its utmost capacity there were many turned away. Fully one third of the spectators were women, and though many of the witnesses could not be heard beyond the reporters' tables, the building was still crowded when the jury returned with its verdict at eleven o'clock. A big proportion of the gathering was made up of Campbellford people and others from outside the village, and Warkworth telephone central was busy all evening answering enquiries as to the outcome of the inquest.

The hearing was presided over by Coroner Dr. W. F. Loucks, of Campbellford. Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., of Cobourg, conducted the examination of witnesses, and N. Alex MacColl of Campbellford watched the proceedings for Dr. West. Provincial Inspector E. C. Gurnett, of Belleville District, and Provincial Constable T. W. Cousans of Cobourg, with Constable A. Phillips of Warkworth, prepared the evidence for the Crown.

It is not yet known whether further action will be taken by the Crown, or whether the inquiries will be further prosecuted.

Reason for Inquest

In summing up at the request of the Coroner, Mr. Kerr explained the necessity for holding an inquest and the duty of the jury. There are circumstances in this case, he said, that naturally put the Crown and the public on a very close inquiry. If there is friction between people and afterwards death ensues under unusual circumstances then the strictest enquiry must be made. Then when a person closely connected with the matter gives no explanation except complete loss of memory, the very closest possible inquiry must be made. The Crown must assure itself on behalf of the public that foul play has not been done.

It is the function of the Coroner's jury to ascertain how, when, and by what means these persons met their death. Then, upon that finding, the Crown will base its further action.

The Jury

The members of the jury, empanelled on the day of the fire and called again yesterday at two o'clock were: W. A. Kelly, foreman; John Leonard, William Smooker, George Walker, A. B. Armstrong, Oscar Phillips and Edgar Elgin.

They found, upon the evidence presented, that Mrs. West and her child came to their death between ten o'clock on March 8 and two o'clock on March 9 from causes unknown.

Dr. Stuart West.

Dr. Stuart West, for whom the protection of the court was claimed by his counsel, Mr. MacColl, told of events of the fatal night. His evidence was given on the understanding that it should not be used against him. He was allowed to sit, because of a recent severe cold and illness.

Dr. West said he is 34 years old, and met his late wife in Belgium, near Brussels, having been billeted at her father's home. She came to Canada after the war, and they were married at Burnbrae.

Mr. Kerr: I don't mean the ordinary troubles that I am told are incidental to married life, but were there any troubles of a serious nature before you came to Warkworth to live?

Dr. West: No.

They came to live in Warkworth in 1921, and in 1924 the child was born, with deformed feet. He has had to wear iron supports since last July.

Last summer, Dr. West said, he had some trouble with his wife, who haled him before Police Magistrate F. W. Floyd. The case was settled between the couple, and they were asked to see whether they could get along amicably together.

Was your wife asserting that you were running around with others?

Not to me.

Was she inclined to be jealous?

She didn't show it to me. She said things were better after the police court case.

On the night of the fire, Dr. West said, tea was over at 7 o'clock, and after sitting around for a little while, he went over to Mrs. Goldring's home. She is a widow, and he went to do some chores. While he was there Mrs. West came to bring a telephone message from Roseneath. After a while they returned home together, in the best of terms. "We had a little footrace over home," Dr. West added. There was no one else in the house that night but his wife, his child, and himself.

"You have heard Mrs. Inglesby say that there were two lamps in the house, one of which was leaking and had a rag tied around it," the Crown Attorney said. "Which of these lamps was in your wife's room on the night of the fire?"

Dr. West: The good one. The leaky one was on a table downstairs.

The Alarm.

He awoke with a start, Dr. West said, following a crash. He had partly undressed—he had his underwear on, and he may have had his trousers on. He leaped out of bed and saw flames through the hole where the stove pipe entered Mrs. West's room. There was no fire in the kitchen stove, but he had been keeping the fire going in the dining-room. He rushed out of the room and about two-thirds of the way upstairs to his wife's room, and yelled. Then he was driven back by fire and smoke. After this he could not remember anything. He knew he had his socks on when he lay down, but he was not sure whether he had on his trousers.

Mr. Kerr: You heard what Wiggins said about there being no fire on the stairway when he went into the house? How do you explain that?

Dr. West: I can't account for that, sir.

Mr. Kerr: When you came back downstairs did you close the door between the hall and the dining-room?

Dr. West: I cannot remember.

Dr. West added that he had no recollection of being out on the roadway or of returning to the house.

Mr. Kerr: Mr. Cobbledick says he would be your nearest neighbor, but was not aroused. Can you recall whether or not you went to Mr. Cobbledick's door?

Dr. West: No, sir.

LIQUOR STOLEN FROM CUSTOMS MONTREAL BOND

R. C. M. P. Sergeant Gives Evidence About Alcohol Thefts.

NOT ARRESTED.

Officer Tells of Attempt To Smuggle Liquor From Vessel.

OTTAWA, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Thefts of large quantities of alcohol from the Customs 'bond' on St. Lawrence Main, Montreal, were described to the Customs Inquiry Committee by Sergeant C. P. Salt, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police this morning. The bond was owned by a man called E. M. Noel, in the name of the Imperial Export Company. Since the discovery of the thefts the Customs Department had taken action against the Surety Company for $9,140.

Sergeant Salt told the committee that he had stationed men to watch the bond, following receipt of information that the people were coming out of the building at night carrying alcohol. He had also reported the matter to J. E. A. Bisaillon, then chief preventative officer at Montreal, to whom he was responsible.

"What happened then?" questioned R. L. Calder, K.C., counsel for the committee.

"I found that the shadow was uncovered," replied the witness.

He explained that this meant that people visiting the bond apparently knew that they were watched. Few came, and these coming kept an eye on the window at which his men were stationed. Later he had paid a visit to the bond in question and found that by removing pins in the hasps of the hinges, it was a simple matter to enter the bonded compartments and obtain access to the alcohol stored there. Large quantities of alcohol had been stolen.

"Why was not Noel apprehended after the discovery of this base fraud?" asked Hon. H. S. Stevens of G. W. Taylor, assistant Deputy-Minister of Customs, who followed Sergeant Salt on the stand.

"We were primarily concerned with collecting the duty," replied Mr. Taylor. He explained that the case was one of some years' standing, and that he could not remember it clearly. No special investigation of other bonds in the city had taken place, following the revelations in regard to the Noel bond, though there was always an inspection in progress. The files of the Department would show further details of the case. Sergeant Salt also described an attempt to smuggle alcohol from a vessel at Montreal wharf, in which a Customs officer called Landy had connived with three of the ship's officers.

Though the alcohol was found on the ship and seized and two of the ship's officers were fined for their part in the affair, the charge against the Customs officer was withdrawn. Sergeant Salt did not know who gave instructions to withdraw the case against Landy.

The committee adjourned until this afternoon.

DEATH TOLL IN MINE, TWO

ELECTRIC BILL CAUSE OF FEAR

Many Conservatives Oppose Baldwin Goveornment's Plan.

CO-ORDINATION.

LONDON, March 26 (Canadian Press).—The Baldwin administration seems to have cause for considerable apprehension as to the outcome of the Government's electricity bill, providing for the co-ordination of electric light and power services throughout the country. The measure will come up for second reading in the House of Commons next Monday.

Apprehension is due to the movement which was started a week ago when a private member, Dennis Herbert, Conservative, filed an amendment for the rejection of the bill.

It appeared at the time as if he did this on his own responsibility, but since then his action has received such a volume of support from his fellow Conservatives in the House as to cause the Government to feel uncomfortable.

The main ground of objection to the electricity bill is that it is thinly veiled nationalism, destructive to the enterprise.

SAVES TWO MEN IN TORONTO BAY

Island Resident Brings Total To Twelve Rescues in Eight Months.

ICE BOAT TRIP.

TORONTO, March 26. — Canadian Press. — Rescuing two men from the bay yesterday, Thomas McDonnell, a life long resident of the island across the bay, brought his accredited total of rescues to 12 during the last eight months.

McDonnell yesterday also made the last trip of the season in an ice boat over the bay. It was while he was cruising back and forth that he rescued the two men.

PARIS, March 26. — Canadian Press. — For the first time in its history, the franc sold to-day for more than 29 to the dollar. The official bourse figures were 29.10. This new low record was due to the heavy buying of foreign securities, and also foreign exchange to meet payments falling due.

Sir Oliver Will Resign If Belief Is Criticized

LONDON, March 26. Canadian Press. — Sir Oliver Lodge to-day threatened to resign from the Royal Society if the society endorsed recent criticisms of Sir Oliver's belief in spiritualism and communication with the dead.

Several scientists have condemned Sir Oliver's spiritualistic beliefs.

LYONS COMPANY PROFITS LESS IN PAST FEW YEARS

Accountants Report Lyons Made Less Money While Minister.

DROME TOO LARGE.

Witness Says Planes Also Too Big for the Service.

TORONTO, March 26.— (Canadian Press.)—The report of Clarkson, Gordon and Dillworth, chartered accountants of the books of the James Lyons Fuel and Supply Company, Sault Ste. Marie, of which James Lyons, M.L.A., former Minister of Lands and Forests in the Ontario government, is president, was submitted to the Public Accounts committee of the Legislature this morning. The report does not make any statement of the profit and loss account of the company, but makes the bald statement that the profits of the company during the last three years since Mr. Lyons has been a member of the government are less than they were during the preceding years. The report also states that the company made no unusual profits in the materials it supplied to the companies with contracts or timber limits from the government.

Major A. E. Nash, of the Clarkson firm was the first witness and read from the report made. Major Nash will appear before the committee to-morrow for further examination as he simply read the report this morning.

L. Briggs, a former mechanic in the Provincial Air Service, was called by W. E. Raney. The witness said the planes used were obsolete and said they had not been made in the last three years. He thought the machines were too large. The 'drome at Sault Ste. Marie was four times too large if the right type of machines had been used.

The witness said eight or nine aeroplane engines were ruined because of an improper oiling system.

Five Men Sentenced For Robbing St. Peter's

Adam Cassibeau Dies As Result of Accident In Moira Lake Shaft

Was Working With W. R. Cowain at Bottom of 52 Foot Pit When Blast Occurred—Peterborough Man Died on Wednesday.

CORONER'S INQUEST NEXT THURSDAY.

Second Victim Lingered Few Days at St. Joseph's Hospital Suffering From Fractured Skull and Other Injuries—Interment in Belleville.

Adam Cassibeau, who was injured in the explosion in the Moira Lake Mine, where W. R. Cowain of Peterborough was fatally wounded, died at St. Joseph's Hospital early this morning. Mr. Cassibeau sustained a fractured skull and had his right arm broken besides suffering severe wounds on his scalp and face.

The second victim of the tragedy, that took place in a shaft fifty feet deep, when it is believed an unexploded charge was struck by a pick, is survived by his wife and a large family. He resided about three miles from Madoc. The body was removed Belleville at noon today, permission having been given by Coroner Dr. Eagleson of Madoc, who will conduct the inquest.

The accident took place on Tuesday afternoon in a zinc mine on the property of the Dominion Resources Syndicate of Peterborough. There were three men in the shaft, Mr. Cowain and Mr. Cassibeau being fatally injured while Jack Hart escaped without a scratch. Mr. Cowain expired on the train while being rushed to a Peterborough hospital on Wednesday morning.

The Coroner's inquest opens at Madoc on Thursday next.

CONVENTION OF CONSERVATIVES STARTING TO-DAY

Delegates From All Over the Province Gather at Toronto This Morning.

MANY LADIES.

Association Plans To Build Auditorium as MacDonald Memorial.

TORONTO, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Delegates gathered from all parts of the province for the annual convention to-day of the Ontario Conservative Association. President J. R. MacNicol, in his annual address at this morning's session, referred to the question of the Ontario Temperance Act, saying that he noted that the question would be brought up. He had no objections to the subject coming up after the agenda had been disposed of, presumably at four o'clock this afternoon.

Another announcement by the president was that the association has under consideration plans for an auditorium and offices, which would be a memorial to Sir John A. Macdonald.

The large number of women Conservatives present were headed by the wife of Premier G. H. Ferguson of Ontario and Mrs. Arthur Meighen.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and Premier G. Howard Ferguson will be the chief speakers at the banquet of the association this evening.

Where There's a Will— Politicians Make Trip

Dr. J. R. Fraser and H. G. Fitzgerald, two of Lakefield's enthusiastic Liberal-Conservatives, left the village yesterday by the afternoon train to attend the convention in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, at which the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and Premier Ferguson were slated to speak. The train was late, and the two gentlemen had to make connections with the 3.35 C.P.R. train at Peterboro if they intended arriving in time for the meeting. Evidently they held a conference, for when the C.N.R. train reached the northern limits of the city they were seen leaving the train, then they hopped into a taxi and were soon spinning merrily along George Street in the direction of the C.P.R. depot. They caught their train.

THE WEATHER.

The barometer has again risen, bringing with it better weather. Lowest last night 15 degrees. Frosty nights, and bright sunshiny days make ideal sugar-making weather. The sap will run upward, defying the laws of gravitation, and providing one of nature's mysteries. Perhaps the reader thinks he knows why—if he does he is wiser than the most eminent scientist. The creeks in this section have not as yet felt any influence of the thaw. The ground is not deeply frozen and the likelihood is that much of the water will be absorbed, instead of running off, thus increasing the prospects for good crops next summer, especially should the season be a dry one. — W. P.

Laughing Lines for Lady Diana Beauty Doctor Seeks His Pay

CHICAGO, March 26 (Special to The Examiner).—Lady Diana Manners and her mother, Evelyn, Duchess of Rutland, were served with a summons on Thursday in the suit of a plastic surgeon for face lifting. The bills were $1,000 for Lady Diana and $1,500 for the Duchess. The plaintiff was Dr. Henry J. Schireson, who has many times figured in print. Lady Diana has been in the caste of "The Miracle" and is moving on to Kansas City.

"I will recommend you to the Queen of Rumania" Lady Diana told him, according to Dr. Schireson.

The surgeon alleges that he gave Lady Diana a five angle facial lift with rejuvenation of the neck and laughing lines and eyes, removing puffiness from beneath the chin. The Duchess was given a "complete facial lift," according to the bill, "which made her look years younger."

As soon as they had consulted a lawyer, Lady Diana and the Duchess departed for Kansas City.

RESPONSIBLE SELF-GOVERNMENT IN INDIA ON STRONG FOUNDATION

Earl of Reading, Retiring Viceroy, Sketches Progress During His Regime.

BRITISH POLICY

DEHLI India, March 26.—(Canadian Press Cable via Reuters).—The Earl of Reading, retiring viceroy of India, delivered his farewell address to the council of state and legislative assembly Thursday. His term expires on April 3, when he will be succeeded by Lord Irwin. He was appointed in April 1921 and has therefore served five years. Lord Reading's successor is the only surviving son of Viscount Halifax, and before his elevation to the peerage was known as Hon. E. L. Wood. He was minister of agriculture until his apointment as Viceroy. In 1906 he inherited immense estates in England and is heir to his father's large properties.

Policy Unchanged.

In his address Lord Reading said that he hoped historians would chronicle the fact that the founation of responsible self-goverenment in India was well and truly laid during the past five years. The points of agreement between the government and the legislature has been more numrous than the points of difference. Although he has been associated with five prime ministers and four secretaries of state for India during his term in office there had never been any change in the main stream of British policy, whose goal was still the progressive realization of responsible government in India as an integral part of the Empire.

New Constitution

As a result of his five year's intimate connection with India, Lord Reading said, he had learnt to place a greater value on the new consitution than he had when he left England. During a long association with British rule democratic ideals had become ingrained in the minds of Indians among the essentials of national progress. He hoped his successor would find in the new regime that clear and unambiguous expression of goodwill and desire for harmonious relations that he had sought to obtain.

The Slight Cold Of To-day May Be Serious To-morrow

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse and becomes settled on the lungs, for once it does become deep-seated you are going to have a lot of trouble in getting rid of it.

Our advice to you is that on the first sign of a cough or cold you should procure a bottle of as by its timely use you may save yourself many years of suffering from some serious bronchial or lung troubles.

"Dr. Wood's" has been on the market for the past 37 years; so you are not experimenting with some new and untried remedy; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PRESENTATION TO WELCOME FAMILIES

People Leaving District Given Tokens of Remembrance.

WELCOME, March 26.—On Friday evening, over 200 friends of Mr. Tom Marsh and his sister, Miss Louscia, gathered at their home for a social evening together, before they left the old family home for new surroundings.

During the evening a programme was given, consisting of community singing, addresses, trios by Messrs. Bickle, Symons and Greenaway, and several recitations.

An address was read to Mr. and Miss Marsh expressing the regret of their friends at the departure and the breaking of old associations and asking them to accept a purse as a little token of remembrance. Dancing was the programme for the remainder of the evening.

On Monday evening, the Adult Bible Class and other friends of Morish church, met in the school room to say farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Brimacombe and family, as they leave for thier new home at Osaga.

Mrs. Brimacombe has been Bible class teacher for some time and active in all church activities.

Rev. D. C. Clare acted as chairman, while a short programme was given, then an address was read and a presentation made of a parlor clock, a cut glass butter dish and butter knife and sugar shell.

Mrs. Brima combe responded in a suitable address. Unfortunately, at present Mr. Brimacombe is in Port Hope hospital recovering from pneumonia.

The Mission Circle also made presentations to three girls who were leaving the neighborhood.

A dainty lunch was served.

While making alterations in an old Nantucket house a workman found two copper cents, dated 1793 and 1802.

The YELLOW STUB

by Ernest Lynn

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Chicago, where the theatr is. The stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he finds Olga. She faints at hearing she is wanted for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi, and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Jimmy and Olga, out one night, see the man they are looking for—the man she says got the stub. He escapes, but they identify him by a police photo as IKE JENSEN.

Church, motoring with Mary, runs over a dog. She breaks their engagement.

Jimmy gets a phone call from Olga, saying she has found Jensen. Jimmy rushes to her apartment to find her gone. Her disappearance is a newspaper sensation for days.

He is walking with his friend, BARRY COLVIN, when he spies KID DIVIS, a known intimate of Jensen, about to board a car. He trails him to a house in the outskirts and sneaks in behind him.

Olga is there, a prisoner of Jensen. The latter goes upstairs, and Jimmy creeps in the room and hits Divis with a broken andiron. Then he goes upstairs.

In the struggle that follows, Jensen crashes through the stair rail and to the floor below. Barry Colvin and a policeman enter and disarm Divis, who has revived.

Jimmy wants to know who had given Divis money to give to Jensen. Olga says she thinks she knows, and whispers a name in Jimmy's ear and faints from exhaustion.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER LI.

Jimmy picked Olga up in his arms. "A couch, Barry, a bed—anything to lay her down on. This hard floor. . ."

They found a couch in the front room, laid her down on it and lit the gas mantel.

"How did you get here, Barry? My Lord, man! Imagine walking in when you did. Did you follow me?"

Barry laughed, and Jimmy thought it was good to see the old, familiar grin. "Why, you lunatic, when you ran away from me, I hailed a taxi and tried to follow the car. Had a devil of a time, too. . . . Had to stop and get gas. I picked up this officer and piled him in with me. I recognized Divis, too, sitting down in the car, as it passed.

"We almost lost you. Fact of the matter we did. Didn't see you get off. . . . Fog too thick, and we turned up the wrong street. . . . Awful ride. Mile a minute and no roads at all."

Jimmy nodded. "I saw an automobile a block away. If I'd known it was you—"

"We came back this street, stopping at every house that had a light in it. Someone told us this shack was supposed to be vacant and yet had had a light in it for the last several nights. We knew then we were on the right track. That's all. What happened to you?"

Jimmy explained briefly. "Had to do it, Barry. Had to hit him with that andiron thing. Then I went upstairs to Jensen. Thought I'd listen in on him. He found me, and cornered me in a room. Told me how he had killed Dad. Damn him, Barry, he boasted about it."

"How'd he get there?" Barry jerked a thumb toward Jensen, lying in the hall.

"Stair rail gave way and he went through. I tried my best to kill him, Barry, but he'd have been too much for me, if—"

"You just about succeeded, too," broke in the policeman. He was bending over Jensen. "He's dead, all right. Broken neck, I think." He pulled out a notebook and jotted something down. "Accidental, of course," he observed.

"It's not my fault it's accidental," put in Jimmy. "I wanted to, badly enough. It was either him or me." put in Jimmy. "I wanted to, badly enough. It was either him or me."

He went to the front door and looked out. A man was descending the basement steps. It was the taxi driver.

"Oh!" said Jimmy, at sight of him. "I say, Barry, help me carry her into the cab. I'll take her to a hospital. No telling what those devils did. . . . Do you mind staying here with this officer and the two of you calling police headquarters?"

Together they placed her gently in the taxicab, and Jimmy had a swift recollection of another evening when he had been alone with her and had lifted her into another cab, and Mary had seen him. . . .

He slammed the door behind him, and Barry's voice came faintly to his car: "Oh Jim, who did she say—"

But they had started, and his only answer was an encouraging wave of the hand.

"Take it easy over these roads," he commanded the driver, and turned to look pityingly at the still white face on his arm.

It seemed to Jimmy as if ages had passed since he had seen Mary Lowell on the street and dashed so unceremoniously away from her. It was hard to make himself believe that it had been that very afternoon—only short hours ago. He wondered then—and for the first time since it happened he allowed his thoughts to dwell on it—what she had thought of him, what she must be thinking now. . . .

"Mary," he breathed, happy for the first time in dreary, heart-breaking weeks, now that he knew she still cared. . . .

Olga stirred in his arms, sighed, and he felt swift compassion for this girl who had braved so much just to help him. He felt that it was somehow profane and sacrilegious to be thinking of someone else, with Olga's white face upturned to his.

But he couldn't help it, he thought, with something akin to tears in his eyes. He was himself—Jimmy Rand—just as God had made him. He couldn't change. . . . He found himself wondering again about Mary, warmed by the thought of her. Was she thinking of him? There would be so much to tell her. . . .

Mary, at that very moment, was thinking of him, and her thoughts were bitter.

Why had Barry Colvin lied to her? Why had he filled her with hope—told her that Jim Rand loved her—only to have that hope dashed against her very face at the sight of Jim wheeling within five feet of her and running?

She knew. He loved that other girl. It had gone so far now that it had run away from him. She was too late, that was all.

She should have known it when he failed to answer her letter. She thought, though, that he might have had the thoughtfulness to drop her a line, or call her up, and explain.

Again she lived over that afternoon. She saw herself going down the crowded street, and looking up to see Jim and Barry approaching. They were talking very earnestly. . . . Especially had Jim appeared earnest.

She had smiled. She had thought that, in view of what Barry Colvin had told her about Jim, he might be glad to see her smile at him. And they had seen her—of that there had been no question—for hadn't she seen swift recognition leap into Jim's eyes? Hadn't she seen his hand move up to his hat?

And then, to turn on his heel and cut her dead. She simply couldn't believe it. For an instant she had believed him gone suddenly mad.

She had gone home, where a fresh bunch of flowers, carefully watered by her mother, mocked her. They were from Samuel Church, and with them was a note—a note of apology, asking for "another chance."

"I'll phone you tonight," it said. 'Mary, no one could love you as I do and bear to lose you."

She wondered vaguely what love was, after all—even felt a slight twinge of pity for Sam Church. Was one to recognize a thing as love only when one felt sure it was unrequited? Were people doomed to wander through the world loving those they could never hope to have?

Love," she soliloquized in her mirror, 'must be like opportunity. It comes but once, and if it isn't recognized it is gone forever.

"Only," she continued, tearing herself away, "I won't give him up. I won't. Not if I have to crawl to him and beg. Oh Jim, have pity!"

She flung herself on the couch and gave way to bitter tears. "I love him so," she sobbed.

Olga was conscious once more, though faint and in a state of semi-hysteria, when Jimmy Rand delivered her over to kindly nurses with instructions for constant attendance and a private room.

"Shock," he said briefly in answer to their questioning looks.

Himself, he waylaid the first doctor he saw. "Pain in my side," he explained. "Think it's a smashed rib. Want you to do something to sort of patch it up and hold it together and let me get out of here."

The doctor, after a brief examination, confirmed his own diagnosis.

"Broken rib, all right. Nothing very serious, but you ought to be quiet for a while—"

"Later on, yes. I've got to get out now. Come back, you understand."

And that's the way it was. Jimmy left the hospital tightly bandaged beneath his shirt with the doctor's voice ringing in his ear to "be careful."

He stopped long enough to telephone Lieutenant O'Day. "Be right down. Something important to tell you."

"And I've something important for you, too," said O'Day.

His nerves were so a-tingle with excitement that he ignored the chair O'Day proffered him and fidgeted and gestured as he related the happenings of the last drama-filled hours, to the occasional accompaniment of a sharp stab of pain that was the warning of the protesting and maltreated rib.

"And Jensen's dead," he said. "Divis is in the hands of police."

"Yeah, I know, Rand. I heard about it. A squad's gone out there. They'll make him talk."

"They don't have to. I know who—well, I don't know much, but—"

"Here," interrupted O'Day, shoving a sheaf of yellow paper at him. "From Mooney. Just got it. He's learned what he was after from Mexico City. Thaddeus Rand was mixed up in this thing, after all. Read it—then I'll listen to you."

And Jimmy read, with eyes that dilated with astonished wonder and dawning relalization. . . . Sharp cries of surprise came from him.

Long minutes he was silent, after he had read it all. Then he turned to O'Day:

"I think I understand now," he said softly. "I think I understand."

He turned to face O'Day squarely. "Lieutenant," and his hand was on the other's shoulder, "you've been kind to me. You're one of the few who have understood me. Now I want to ask you a favor, before I tell you the rest."

"Shoot, lad." O'Day was smiling, his voice gruff as a bulldog's.

"I want you to let me handle this thing my way, Lieutenant."

"What do you mean."

"First do you promise?"

"All right, I promise. Now, then . . . ."

TUXIS SQUARE HOLDS DEBATE

Cavan Boys Discuss Whether the World is Growing Worse.

RESULT IS TIE.

CAVAN, March 26.—On Friday evening the "Hearts of Oak" Tuxis Square of Cavan United Church held a social evening in the basement of the church. A debate, "Resolved, that the world is growing worse," formed part of the programme. The affirmative was well taken by Messrs. Ralph Staples and Archie Matchett and the negative ably upheld by Messrs. Fred Swain and Edward Dalton. Both sides of the question was well debated and the judges, Mrs. A. Kennedy, Mr. Sutton and Mr. H. Seymour pronounced it a tie.

The remainder of the programme consisted of group singing and contests. A lunch was served and the social time enjoyed completed a very pleasant evening.

On Sunday evening a male choir assisted in the singing at Cavan church and rendered three selections.

Mrs. Vance, Manvers, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. E. Fallis.

Mr. David White has completed his wood sawing in Manvers and is now sawing in Cavan.

There have been several machines at work, everybody wanting to get their wood finished up.

Some farmers who have maple bushes are busy making syrup.

The roads are in bad shape for teaming. There is so much snow that the mild weather has made the roads very soft.

Mr. Claude Porteous and family have moved from Bethany to their farm on the ninth line of Cavan. Their children are attending Bethany school, driving in and out.

Miss Preston spent the week end at her home in Lakefield.

Mrs. Lang and Mrs. Syer were visitors to Peterboro on Saturday.

Mrs. Wes. Kerr, Mrs. Robert Whitworth and Miss Mary McLean, Toronto, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Matchett.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Brown, Oshawa, were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Paul.

Mr. Leslie Lang, Bethany, visited his cousin, Mr. Harry Lang, on Wednesday and with him attended L. Hutchison's sale of farm implements and live stock.

Blackheads go quickly by a simple method that just dissolves them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist, rub this with a hot, wet cloth briskly over the blackheads—and you will wonder where they have gone.

TWO BRANCHES OF W.M.S. UNITE

Former Presbyterians and Methodists Join in Keene.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Keene, March 26.—The W. M. S. of the United Presbyterian Church and the W.M.S. of the United Methodist Church met in the former Presbyterian Church on Tuesday afternoon of last week for the purpose of uniting the two organizations.

In the future this society, to be known as the United W.M.S. of Keene.

The afternoon session opened at 2.30 o'clock, with Mrs. (Rev.) McLauchlin in the chair. Devotional exercises were conducted, followed by election of officers.

Mrs. James Macfarlane was elected by acclamation for the New Year as president. The new president then took the chair, and the following officers were elected:

President—Mrs. McFarlane.
1st Vice-Pres—Mrs. Ida Kindred.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. H Knowles.
Rec. Sec.—Mrs. H. McFee.
Cor. Sec.—Mrs. H McLachlan

Flower Committee.—Mrs. Knowles, Mrs. Bertha Wilson, Mrs. L. Burley.
Programme Committee. — Mrs. Henry Weir Mrs. G. Howson, Mrs. L. Burley.
Music Committee.—Miss Margaret Bryce, Miss Eva Taylor, Mrs. David Edwards.

A very pleasing feature of the afternoon session was the electing of Mrs. William Carter, vice-president of the former Methodist W.M.S., as honorary president of the society.

On account of ill health, Mrs. Carter was not present.

A committee was appointed to wait on Mrs. Carter and inform her of the honor that had been conferred on her, and present her with a bouquet of flowers. This very interesting meeting was closed by the singing of a hymn, followed by the Benediction.

At five o'clock a banquet was given in the basement of the church to which every lady had the privilege of inviting a gentleman friend. A sumptuous repast was partaken of, provided by the ladies in their usual good style.

The following toasts were proposed and responded to:

W.M.S.—Proposed by Rev. A. McLauchlin; responded to by Mr. R. J. McCamus.

To the United Church.—Rev. A. Archibald; Mr. David Edwards.

To Refreshment Committee.—Dr. S. Y. Walsh; Mr. Gilbert Houson.

FRIDAY, MARCH 26, 1926.

THE WATER STEAL.

The serious nature of the situation created by the illegal diversion of water from the Great Lakes by the city of Chicago for its sewer service can be judged by the statement made in the House of Commons on Wednesday by Hon. Chas. Stewart, Minister of the Interior.

Hon. Mr. Stewart declared that the level of the lakes this year will be the lowest within the last century.

The effect of such a condition upon Canadian cities situated on the great lakes can readily be imagined, while this country is also seriously hit by the fact that navigation in the Welland Canal is threatened by low water.

Under these circumstances the announcement that the Government of Canada proposes to press for the restoration of the stolen water will be endorsed by Canadians generally.

The protest of this country should be as firmly insistent as the critical nature of the situation demands, and all the political parties should co-operate in the matter.

The city of Chicago must solve its sanitary problems in some other way if Canadian shipping and Canadian harbours are harmed by the illegal action of the Illinois municipality, and the Federal Government must stand by its guns until the menace is removed.

BUSINESSMEN AND POLITICS.

Sir Henry Thornton complains that most of Canada's business and professional men are inclined to treat politics with contempt, and to take but a passing interest in the affairs of the Dominion.

The criticism is in the main well founded, and it is not a condition upon which the country is to be congratulated.

The active interest of big businessmen in the public business of Canada would be a splendid help in bringing progress and prosperity to the Dominion.

Yet when the time wasted over trifling details and the constant seeking on the part of all parties to gain a political advantage out of every situation that develops are considered, it is not to be wondered at that men used to business methods and quick intelligent decisions hold themselves aloof from politics.

With such men the spectacle of the Federal Parliament neglecting worth-while matters to squabble over a motion of a Labour member seeking cheap notoriety, and of the Ontario Legislature wasting days in futile discussions as to whether or not liquor shall be sold by the Government openly or by bootleggers illicitly, is enough to disgust them with the whole game of politics.

And it seems idle to suggest to them that they should get into the thing themselves and reform politics from the inside.

THE BRACKIN AMENDMENT.

The fate of the Brackin amendment to the Budget speech proposing the sale of liquor in Ontario under a system of Government control was just about what was expected.

The amendment was snowed under by a vote of 84 to 10, a result that was inevitable, inasmuch as Premier Ferguson had declared the Brackin motion as a direct want of confidence motion, and thereby lined up his supporters to defeat a proposal which doubtless many of them favoured.

The result does not end the controversy over the liquor question, which is just where it was before Mr. Brackin introduced his amendment.

In fact, the debate did not succeed in securing from the Premier even a hint of any change in the present system.

Mr. Ferguson contented himself with repeating his statement that the O. T. A. would be enforced until such time as the Government decided that a change was desirable.

"When we make up our minds that we can improve conditions by altering the Act, we will say so to this House and to the public," declared the Premier, and with that statement both the House and the people will have to be satisfied.

The ten members who voted for Mr. Brackin's amendment represent ridings that are decidedly wet in sentiment, and included four Conservatives, five Liberals and one Labour member.

MAKE IT A SAFE SEASON.

All indications point to a marked increase in the number of motor cars in use during the coming summer, and past experience teaches that with this growth in traffic will come a proportionate increase in the casualty list unless drivers generally resolve to follow safety first principles at all times.

It is significant that Sunday last, the first day of spring, was marked by fifty-one deaths as a result of automobile accidents, indicating that the slaughter of other years may be exceeded if there is not a conscientious effort on the part of every motorist to check the terrible toll.

A contemporary suggests as a slogan, "Be careful; you may be next."

There is grim merit in that warning.

The mania for speed, the take-a-chance spirit that prompts drivers to race trains over a crossing, the reckless individual who refuses to allow anything on wheels to pass him if he can help—these are all factors that help to fill the newspapers with stories of terrible accidents.

With most people there is no need for haste; just as at present, there is no need for most of them to be risking their lives and their cars by attempting to drive over Peterboro's street on which foot-deep ruts are a menace to vehicular traffic.

The motoring season that will shortly open up should see a general drive for more care on the part of every individual who takes the responsibility of

AUTOS VS. WHISKEY.

Many in the present age of civilization, especially those who live in the rural parts, take the view that prohibition is the greatest triumph of man over evil that has ever taken place, assuming that prohibition in time becomes absolute. It was, therefore, with some surprise that a news item in our columns the other day recorded the fact that a community club in a Kent concession had broken from traditional subjects and in a debating, "Resolved, that Henry Ford has done more to the detriment of the country than Hiram Walker," gave a verdict for the affirmative.

It was not possible for our correspondent to obtain the gist of the debate, but one can well imagine the debaters for the affirmative reasoning on these lines: That the auto takes toll of from fifteen to twenty thousand lives on the American Continent every year, and probably maims more than five times as many, causing untold hardship and actual want in many thousands of homes; that without the auto most of the gunmen would be forced to earn their living by honest toil, because a quick getaway is the essential of success in a hold-up; that the auto has been the biggest factor in the increase of crime; and, further, that the auto is one of the most deadly enemies of church-going. Whiskey has killed many thousands, been the cause of many sordid crimes and sundered many men and women from the church, but when the two are weighed in the balance it would seem that the Kent debaters did not allow sentiment to run away with fact.

This is not an argument against prohibition, but if we look truth straight in the eyes sometimes we find plenty of room for reform in other directions. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

SECESSION NOT THE REMEDY.

A Nova Scotia lawyer, Major Daniel Owen, K.C., has been doing some ill-advised talking in Boston, if he is correctly quoted in the newspapers. He is credited with saying in an address before the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Club that the present generation will see the separation of the Maritime Provinces from the rest of Canada. "The movement for the secession of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island has been gathering momentum steadily for years," the New York Times quotes him. "The next year will see the beginning of an organized effort which will crystallize the sentiment so long rampant."

This sort of talk would be bad enough at home, but when it goes abroad it may have serious effects. Americans or Canadians living in the States who know no better will accept it as representative of Maritime opinion. They will at once conclude that Canada is about to become a disrupted nation, with uncertain credit, no future, "a house divided against itself" which is doomed to fall. What could be more mischievous than the spreading of such an impression? It is at once a danger signal to prospective newcomers and a warning to ex-Canadians to remain where they are. And of the latter there are plenty. Major Owen is credited with saying that more than 800,000 of the population of Massachusetts is composed of former residents of the three Maritime Provinces or their sons. Government records have recently shown that large numbers of Canadians are returning from the States to share in the new prosperity of which they have heard. Now they are given to understand that the high tide upon which Canada is riding is but a myth, that the country is being swamped by a deluge of hard times. For it must not be forgotten that Canada is just Canada to the average newspaper reader in the United States, and to cast discredit on one part is to discredit all.

It is to be hoped that Major Owen is not guilty of this indictment of Canadian integrity. A few isolated newspaper paragraphs may have emphasized unduly some parts of his remarks which lost their proportions apart from the context. It is quite probable he was accurately quoted as saying: "When we had free trade with the United States some of our industries increased as much as 750 per cent. in one year," and that "under the present retaliatory tariffs more than 2,000 American firms have been forced to establish factories in Canada, but not one is in the Maritimes." The Maritimes have undoubtedly suffered more than the rest of the country. But will the broadcasting of this fact help their status? Will it bring capital, population, factories? Or would secession open the markets of the United States to Maritime products?

Doubtless the Maritimes could get along as a separate Dominion or Crown colony, and the rest of Canada could get along without the Maritimes, but the founders of Federation had a vision which destiny must fulfil. Canada can work into a greater future with the help of the three Atlantic Provinces. The Eastern seaports as well as those of the West will surely play an increasingly larger part in the country's development as foreign trade grows. They have already profited by the impetus of 1925 business. Eleven million tons of shipping passed through the port of Halifax last year. The increased British preferences brought eighteen steamers with Indian products. Halifax also benefited by the improved trade with Cuba, Australia and New Zealand. Lumber shipments from that port exceeded those of several years past. Shipping facilities have had to be improved. And this is at the beginning of the rise in the tide.

The Maritimes have an economic place in the Canadian Federation. The chief problem is how to count to the fullest extent. The Budget now before the House of Commons contains an item to provide for the study of this problem. Would it not be well to await the result of this inquiry before starting any movement toward secession?—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Some of those Toronto fight promoters are overlooking good material when they pass by Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Raney.

The motorist who goes out for a pleasure ride on Peterboro's streets just now has a queer idea of pleasure.

At that Victoria Day is less than two months away.

The presiding judge in the Athabaska election trial told an erring deputy returning officer that his fellow-citizens should run him out of town. And the chances are that they may eventually run him for the Legislature.

A mother complains to the Street Commissioner that there was so much water on the sidewalk that her baby got its feet wet. In some of Peterboro's streets there is water enough to drown a child, so this particular mother has little of which to complain.

Motorists are among the people these days who are finding it easy to get into a rut.

FRIDAY—

In His Name.

Read Jn. 16:20-24. Text: 16:24. Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: Ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full.

Meditation.—To the Hebrew, the "name" was a most significant word. It was more than a person's label or even his reputation, it was the symbol of his personality, his character, his spirit. "Holy is His Name," sang Mary of Jehovah. "Hallowed be thy name"—we are taught to pray that we may reverence the Fatherly spirit of God. They had missed power in prayer because they had not prayed in Christ's name, but it was not a magical formula of words that made prayer effectual. It depends upon the mind and the spirit of him who prays. He who prays in the spirit of Jesus, that is to say in the name of Jesus will ask and receive.

Prayer.—O Thou who are Holiness, Justice and Love, into Thy name we are baptised, consecrated to become like unto Thee, and like unto Him who gave himself for us because He loved us when we were most unlovable in trespasses and Sins. We are also baptised into the name of the Holy Spirit. Help us to be like the Spirit of the Living God. Give us grace to live in the Name that is above every name. Amen.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The power of concentration, the absolute necessity for specialized Service, is seriously considered by the successfuly and almost always ignored by the unsuccessful or incapable.

The disposition to do many things not so very well is a common fault of the failure.

The experience of a goose will better explain my point in this fashion: Once upon a time there was a goose who had a habit of laying her eggs in various places, and this plan of wide distribution worked well until one day the old hissing sister wanted to set.

Few there are who have the faculty of doing many things well enough to compete with the specialist. They scatter too much.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 25. — (Canadian Press).—Signs of increased business were prevalent on the wheat market here to-day, foreign news was more hopeful, with indications that European buyers would soon be active in this continent, and export sales continued to mount.

In the face of all the favorable factors, quotations responded, following yesterday's erratic session, and closed 3-4c to 1 3-4c higher, May at $1.47; July at $1.44 3-4, and October at $1.28 3-4.

EGG MARKETS

OTTAWA, March 25 (Canadian Press). — American egg markets show further strength to-day, and as a result Eastern dealers are taking Western eggs in increasing quantities.

Toronto—Prices to retailers, extras 38-39, firsts 34-35, seconds 29-30. Eight cars of States eggs have arrived here so far this week, costing about 33c delivered.

Montreal—The market is firm and active with good demand, with particular strength shown on the grade of firsts. It is expected that the market will remain steady during the coming week. Prices to retailers, extras 39-40, firsts 36-37, seconds 31-33.

Winnipeg—Prices to retailers, extras 35-37, firsts 30, seconds 25.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., March 25. — (Canadian Press). — There was a marked improvement in the inquiry from foreign buyers for all lines of grain on the Montreal market today, but as the prices bid showed no material advance, only a small volume of business was accomplished by exporters.

The feature of the local freight situation was the engagement of the first tramp vessel to load a full cargo of grain from the port of Montreal for May shipment to Antwerp-Rotterdam at 12½ cents per 100 pounds for heavy grain. The tone of the market on the whole is weaker and asking rates to all United Kingdom ports were reduced 3d per quarter, the range now being 2s 6d to 2s 9d per quarter for May loading, with the exception of Glasgow, which is quoted at 3s per quarter.

The high light of the local cash grain market was the increased demand that developed from local and country buyers for Canadian Western oats, which resulted in a more active business being done, including sales of 150,000 bushels of No. 2 feed oats at four cents per bushel under the Winnipeg May option, c.i.f. bay ports.

Owing to the marked improvement in the demand for potatoes the last day or two, and the fact that supplies on track here have been pretty well cleaned up, a firmer feeling developed in the market, and although there was no actual change in prices announced, the prospects were that they would be higher in the near future.

The feature of the local egg situation was the stronger feeling that developed in the market for fresh firsts and seconds, and prices were advanced 1c per dozen, which was attributed to the continued strength in the Chicago market. The receipts were 787 cases, as against 1,248 for the same day last week by the two railroads, and 1,765 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The receipts of butter were 37 packages, as against 1,385 for the same day last week, and 168 for the corresponding day a year ago. A feature of the trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the market and prices scored a decline of 1 1-4c to 1½c per lb., which was attributed to the fact that the production of cream in Canada was increasing rapidly on account of the favorable weather prevailing and in consequence the make of fodder creamery butter will be larger and offering on the market in the near future.

The receipts of cheese were 93 boxes, as compared with 98 for the same day last week, and 183 for the corresponding day a year ago. The market for November make of cheese was weaker and prices decline ½c to 1c per lb., with fair-sized lots offered over the cable at 18c per lb. without bringing any response. There was some demand from local buyers for small lots of Western fancy white and colored cheese at 25c per lb., and Quebec 20-lb. cheese at 20½c to 21c per lb.

TEACHER SAFELY SHEPHERDS HIS FLOCK OF 300 CHILDREN FROM PATH OF TORNADO

Texan Twister Strewed Oil Field With $500,000 Damage —One Person Killed and Eight Others Injured.

ORANGE, Texas, March 26. —(Canadian Press).—Three hundred children were snatched from the path of a tornado that swept the village of Orangefield, Texas, on Thursday and were brought safely through the rending gale by Supt. P. N. Powell of the Orangefield school.

Not a child was hurt, although the tornado caused the death of one person and the injury of eight others as it tore through Orangefield and the oil field west of here, doing damage estimated at $500,000.

Superintendent Powell, a modest grey-haired school teacher, with his left arm off, had just lined up his 300 charges in the morning when he heard the ominous roar and saw the approaching funnel-shaped cloud which meant a tornado. The children were ready to enter the school building.

Calmed Their Fear.

Quickly the superintendent ordered the children to march to the auditorium instead of to their separate rooms.

Patting the heads of whimpering and trembling boys and girls and smiling into their frightened faces as they huddled together in the auditorium, the fifty-year-old school man went calmly about his duty as the tornado neared the building.

Above the howling storm came the sound of timbers splintering and glass shattering as the school house was struck and rocked on its foundation. Not a child among the 300 cried out. Superintendent Powell had been firm in warning the boys and girls not to scream or cry out lest a panic should ensue.

IRVIN COBB TELLS OF BATH TUB PARTY

Humorist Alludes To His Well Known Features.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—Irvin S. Cobb, who was a guest at the recent Earl Carroll "bath tub party" in which Joyce Hawley, a chorus girl, was alleged to have appeared nude in a tub of wine, went before the Federal Grand Jury Thursday and told his version of the evening's entertainment.

Mr. Cobb told newspapermen that he "arrived early and left early" at the party. He said that he, himself, was not a drinking man "because you're not sure of what you get these days." For that reason, he said, he did not know of any intoxicating liquor having been used at the party.

"I saw a bathtub filled with a pink liquid," he said, "and I saw a half barrel of what was said to be near beer, but that is all I saw at the party."

Mr. Cobb said he supposed the only reason he had been subpoenaed as a witness was that his face was one not easily forgotten.

WAR IN FREIGHT RATES WITH U. S. RAILS PROBABLE

Reduction in Rates From Fort William Wanted By Quebec Port.

HEARING ENDED

St. Lawrence Route to Sea Defended By Deputy Minister.

OTTAWA, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—The St. Lawrence route to the sea was vigorously defended before the Railway Commission Thursday afternoon by Alex. Johnston, Deputy Minister of Marine and Fisheries, during the course of the hearing of Quebec port authorities' application for lower grain rates on the National Transcontinental.

Mr. Johnston declared that the public statement of Robert Rexford, President of the Shipping Federation, that there had been 65 ship casualties on the St. Lawrence route last season had been made into "gross misrepresentation" abroad. This misleading statement was being used to frighten marine underwriters. There had not been 65 casualties worthy of the term casualty. The department had investigated 15 of these cases. The rest were "incidents" of a nature that could in no way be attributed to the St. Lawrence route.

Rail Freight War.

Replying for the Canadian National Railway to the Quebec submissions, Frank Watson said in part, "There is no doubt but that a rate reduction on export grain from Fort William and Armstrong would immediately be followed by a similar reduction from Duluth and Minneapolis, if in indeed any arbitrary action on our part did not precipitate something worse. In turn the relationship between Duluth and Chicago would be immediately maintained and rates from Chicago and Milwaukee would come down proportionately."

Mr. Watson contended that the agreements between the old Grand Trunk Pacific and the Government and between Quebec City and the Transcontinental were "being carried out in spirit and in the best interests of the country."

The board, he said, could not "consider the terms of these agreements as having any bearing on the fixing of reasonable rates."

The railway Commission reserved judgment.

E. P. Flintoft, counsel for the Canadian Pacific Railway, pointed out that the present application was one of many. Only when all submissions had been made in matters of freight rates, could the railways undertake to present a complete answer.

Mr. Flintoft claimed that the submissions of the Quebec port authorities went far away from the general rate investigation as ordered by Parliament. Late phases might develop as the hearings proceeded, but it was the wish of the railways to reply briefly at the present but to reserve their main argument.

So far as the rail rate of Quebec being prohibitive, as argued, it was prohibitive only in so far as there was a cheaper route—by water. A commodity could not be forced over rails while there was a cheaper route. This was the basis of the Quebec application.

W. Kirkpatrick of the Traffic Department of the C.P.R. testified that it was more profitable to take wheat from Port McNicoll to Boston, though it had to be turned over to the Boston and Main Railroad, than it was to take it to Saint John over the C.P.R., despite the difference of 150 miles. The all-water route to Montreal, he said, was developing rapidly.

HOME BANK PROBE EXPENSE $75,956

This Was in Addition To Cost of Trials.

OTTAWA, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Expenses of investigation in connection with the Home Bank failure, including royal commission of inquiry and prosecutions, total $75,956.62. Sums paid to counsel were: E. Lafleur, K.C., $4,875.58; H. J. Symington, K.C., $5,693.80; H. J. Scott, K.C., $28,500.

This information was given in the House Thursday in reply to questions by T. L. Church, Conservative of North-West Toronto.

Mr. Church: "What is the estimated cost of paying depositors of the Home Bank entitled thereto under the legislation of 1925?"

Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance: "The work of investigating claims has not been completed and the amount involved cannot yet be stated. $2,500,000 has been advanced to liquidators to date for payment of claims, and $21,082.63 has been paid out to defray expenses incident to the distribution."

ALCOHOL FOUND BY ACCIDENT IN OLIVE OIL CASE

Customs Enquiry Reviews Evidence in Trial of Spanish Consul.

BOGUS CONSIGNER

Montreal Appraiser Had Examined Only One of Fifty Cases.

OTTAWA, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Further details in regard to the consignment of 50 cases of alcohol and olive oil which were shipped from Spain but seized by the police before they had been successfully smuggled into the country, were given to the Customs investigating committee Thursday afternoon. As brought out in the morning sitting of the committee, the consignment was made to a bogus consignee the goods being brought to Canada by the former Spanish consul at Montreal, and his agent, both of whom were later convicted on a charge of conspiracy to smuggle.

Alcohol Removed.

Regis Belanger, formerly locker at the Hill warehouse in Montreal, where 46 of these cases were stored for a couple of days, explained how goods in bond were dealt with. It was brought out during the trial of the former Spanish Consul and his agent, Tey De Torrents, that one of the cases was opened and tampered with while they were in the bond at the Hill warehouse. Mr. Belanger explained that he had the key to the bonds in this warehouse, but that it was sometimes necessary for him to leave certain compartments and proceed to other parts of the building, and while doing so, the bonds were sometimes left unlocked. The employees in the Hill warehouse were not debarred from entering the bonds but when a stranger came in, he was accompanied by the locker. The substitution, two tins of olive oil for two tins of alcohol made by De Torrents, must have taken place when he was absent from the bond, Mr. Belanger said. His salary at the time was $1,084.

Alcohol Discovered.

O. McShane, csutoms appraiser of Montreal, admitted that he had examined but one of the 50 cases. Under the regulations at least five of the cases should have been examined, but when he tried to obtain the other four, he was told that they had been delivered. His examination of the single case consisted in removing one tin, ascertaining that it apparently contained olive oil, and replacing it. When the case was nailed up, the nailer drove his nail through one of the other tins, and it was found that it contained alcohol. Then an effort was made to recover the rest of the shipment but it had been delivered to a bogus consignee whose whereabouts were unknown.

There had been a change in the method of examination in recent years, Mr. McShane said, and now every tin of olive oil was opened and the contents stirred to prove that the contents were as represented.

The witness said that his work as an appraiser was never inspected and that the collector of the port never looked to see how he did his work.

BEER-RUNNER IS BADLY WOUNDED BY DRY AGENTS

Detroit Prohibition Agent Charged With Shooting With Intent to Kill.

TOLD FALSE STORY

Guns Emptied at Three Men Unloading Beer on River Rouge.

DETROIT, Mich., March 26. —(Canadian Press). — Ralph M. Pierce, Federal prohibition agent, charged with shooting and seriously injuring Stephen Cooper while the latter and two companions were unloading beer from a scow in River Rouge Tuesday, pleaded not guilty yesterday when arraigned in Recorder's Court for assault with intent to kill. He was held on $1,000 bail for examination March 31.

The arrest of Pierce Thursday followed an investigation by the police and Thomas H. Brennan, Deputy Prohibition Administrator, since the alleged beer-runner was found suffering from bullet wounds Tuesday. Neither Pierce nor four other agents with him had reported the shooting to the Prohibition Administrator's office. When questioned by Brennan they said they had fired two shots into air, but not at a boat.

When the agents were turned over to the police for investigation, Pierce and another agent admitted their original story was false. They had emptied their guns at three men unloading barrels of beer from a boat when the men refused to come ashore and surrender, the police said the agents admitted. Pierce and the agents declared they did not know anyone was wounded, police said.

BANDIT SYSTEM NEARLY PERFECT IN GEM THEFTS

Whittemore Gang, Except One Member, Rounded Up in New York.

MILLION IS LOST

Murder and Robbery Included in Charges — Jewelry Store Specialists.

NEW YORK, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—The complete confession of Anthony Paladino, member of the Whittemore robber gang, which was described by Assistant District Attorney Pecora as "an almost perfect crime system", was made public yesterday by the District Attorney's office. The confession had been withheld because Mr. Pecora said he believed "that more harm than you could imagine would be done to the youth of the country if the plans were made public."

At about the same time, Richard Reese Whittemore, self-confessed murderer and robber, offered to tell a story that would "astonish New York, if the police would release his wife, known as the "Tiger Girl," who is now under indictment, charged with complicity with him in a series of robberies. Police withheld comment.

The Paladino document covers twenty-two typewritten pages and was couched in the vernacular of the underworld. The story starts with Paladino's first meeting with Whitemore shortly after the former's release from Elmira Reformatory in May, 1925.

Details of Banditry.

Intimate details are given of a series of minor holdups ranging from robberies of jewelry stores to the theft of automobiles.

The confession related how members of the gang "timed" places which they intended to rob later. One or two of the gang would make a purchase at the jewelry store, paying down a small deposit and giving fictitious names. In this way they would become familiar with 'the lay' of the interior of the place.

Another member would linger in the neighborhood, taking note of size of crowds in the vicinity at different times of day, thus determining what time would be most propitious to make the robbery. A day or two after these details were learned the robbery would be staged.

Automobiles Stolen.

In nearly all cases one or two of the gang went ahead, at a time when there would be few customers about. While the leaders held the store clerks in conversation over a prospective purchase the others of the gang would rush in with guns and hold up the place. Automobiles were stolen especially for each "job."

The loot carried away in suitcases would be taken to Paladino's house, or to a hotel, and one of the gangsters would get in touch with a "buyer." It usually only required from one to four days for them to dispose of the stolen jewels, and to receive the money.

RESPECT FOR MACE SOUGHT BY MAYOR

Has School Children Salute It—Labor Moves Contempt Motion.

LONDON, March 26.—(Canadian Press Despatch).—In previous despatches some account has been given of the efforts of the Mayor of Oxford, the Rev. John Carter, to instil a greater respect among his fellow-citizens for the City of Mace, the symbol of civic authority. With this end in view His Worship has made several visits to the elementary schools of the university city, and required the scholars to solemnly file past the mace and salute it. The Rev. John Carter, who is now retired from the Anglican Ministry, is a graduate of the University of Toronto, but was never engaged in the Canadian ministry.

His Worship's exhortations in regard to paying due respect to the City Mace have fallen on deaf ears so far as the local Trades and Labor Council are concerned. The Council has passed a resolution stating that "Until we see some signs of real endeavor by the Mayor and City Council to better the conditions of the mass of the citizens we pledge ourselves to treat the mace with the contempt we consider it deserves. It is useless to try to instil into the minds of children any respect for the mace as an emblem of civic responsibility while there are 2,000 houseless, and thousands more existing in courts where decency is impossible."

ADDRESS GIVEN TO GROVE BOYS

Judge Huycke Tells Them About Wolfe and Montcalm.

MUCH ENJOYED.

LAKEFIELD, March 26. — His Honor Judge Huycke gave an interesting and instructive address to the boys of The Grove School and a number of their friends on Tuesday evening, on the important subject of Montcalm and Wolfe two outstanding figures of Canada's national history and its two great races.

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, the headmaster of the school, introduced the speaker, recalling the fact that a few years ago Judge Huycke paid a visit to the school and gave a lecture on the Holy Grail.

Judge Huycke, before beginning his address expressed pleasure at being a guest of the school and of his deep enjoyment of the Chapel service which he attended with the boys, being especially impressed by the reverence displayed.

The speaker, a few years ago, visited Quebec with his two daughters to whom he desired to show the beautiful and historic city, the most interesting in Canada and to him very familiar.

Among the sights which impressed them most, was the monument, simple in character, which lies west of what is now known as the Chateau Frontenac, but was formerly Chateau St. Louis, and on which is inscribed on one side 'Montcalm" and on the other side "Wolfe." This monument is neither imposing or obstrusive, but was erected about 70 years after the death of these heroes by the combined effort of French and English with a Latin inscription of which this is the English version: "Valour gave them a comman death, history a common fame, and posterity a common monument."

Montcalm was a nobleman of France, whose father was a Huguenot and his mother a Roman Catholic, and the famous hero was brought up in the latter faith and was deeply religious and of great nobility and generosity of character. He left a wife and several children in France when he came to serve his King and country in Canada.

Wolfe was of the middle class, a gallant, courteous and unselfish man, deeply religious, who left in England an aged mother and a couple of sisters and the young lady to whom he was engaged to be married. Both these gallant soldiers cheerfully gave up their lives for their country's sake.

Montcalm was in Canada for the three or four years preceding his death as there was a good deal of unrest and warfare between the English and French settlers, in which the Indian allies of both sides bore a part. The seven years' war was going on in the old land and it had its effect on the French colony in Quebec province, and the English colony in what is now known as the United States. In a battle at Fort William Henry the French defeated the English, taking some prisoners but Montcalm courteously accepted their assurance that they would not fight again and let them go, and, as they departed, some of the Indian allies of the French lost their heads and pursued, killing several and captured one young man, whom they tied to a tree before torturing him. Montcalm heard of this and with is own body protected the young man and rebuked the Indians who loved and feared him. For this and other generous acts, Montcalm won the respect of the English as well as the French.

During the seige of Quebec, Wolfe captured some French prisoners near the city, among whom were some farmers and nurses, and he took them to one of his ships where, they were so well treated that the ladies produced their autograph books and obtained autographs of Wolfe, Carleton, and their officers. Wolfe raised a flag asking for an armistice to send some wounded to his hospital and promised if he was given permission, he would free the French prisoners. This was arranged showing the chivalrous spirit of both generals.

Wolfe had been a soldier all his life, and was an officer under the Duke of Cumberland at the battle of Culloden, where the Highlanders were defeated. After the battle the cruel Duke was going over the battlefield with some of his staff and they saw a dying Highlander, who gave a derisive smile at his hated and despised foe. Cumberland was so incensed that he ordered Colonel (as he then was(Wolfe to slay the man at once, but Wolfe refused, and offered to surrender his commission rather than commit such a crime.

"This shows again," said the speaker, "the brave and generous heart. These incidents are indicative of the characters of these two men whom we should all admire and revere."

Wolfe was sent to Canada by King George II. to take command of the forces on the advice of Willian Pitt, the great statesman, and while his task was rendered difficult by jealousy among his subordinates, still his brilliant strategy won a signal success.

Wolfe captured and held the Isle of Orleans Levis, opposite Quebec, and also had a small entrenched force on the north shore of the river east of the Montmorency River. Montcalm held the city and the citadel, and also had fortifications along the Beauport Road from the St. Charles to the Montmorency River. The position was difficult of defence, but more difficult of attack.

Wolfe drifted up with the tide with a couple of boat loads of soldiers till they located a place where a landing was possible and then one dark night when the British made a landing and when morning dawned the British army was on the plateau, known as the plains of Abraham, because it was part of a farm owned by Abraham Martin. Vaudreuil, the governor of the colony, who traduced Montcalm in life and vilified him after death, lent no aid, and Montcalm, the brave picturesque leader rode out at the head of his men to meet the invaders. There were a thousand of each side killed, including the two gallant commanders. Wolfe died on the field, thanking God for the victory; and Montcalm died the next day in the city at the house of a friend, which still stands as a national landmark. Montcalm thanked God that he did not live to see Quebec surrender. Montcalm was buried beneath the chapel of the Ursuline Convent, which was partially wrecked by a shell from Levis during the seige. Later, his remains were taken to France and interred beside his wife. Before his death, Montcalm sent a message to General Wolfe, not that knowing he was dead, and the text of the message was this: "The humanity of the English sets my mind at peace concerning the fate of the French prisoners, and the Canadians. Feel toward them as they have taught one to feel and do not let them perceive that they have changed masters."

"We learn a useful lesson from these two men," said Judge Huycke, "who respected each other and never derided one another. If we are to have a Donne Entente between the French and English, and Heaven knows it's needed, the only way is to forget the foolish prejudices of the past and for the two great races to be friends, for this is the only way Canada can become great. United we stand, divided we fall, let the lesson of the monument have its effect.

"This battle had probably the greatest effect of any battle in the world, as at that time England was only little England, and as a result of that battle Canada became a British possession. Clive, in 1756 won the decisive Battle of Plassey, winning India for the British crown. From this on, the Empire grew by leaps and bounds, with no setbacks till the last war when Britain was weakened but not disabled, and still remains the greatest moral influence in the world next to the church.

"The two Pitts deserve the credit for the wise policy which made possible these great advances, as it was by the advice of Pitt, Sr., that Wolfe was sent to Canada and Clive to India.

What would have happened if Montcalm had won? Perhaps the thirteen colonies to the south might have remained British. One cannot tell.

"We should learn to respect the opinions of others and learn to respect our fellow men, as Montcalm respected Wolfe.

"If our country is ever great it will be when we learn to know, respect and tolerate one another. As young Canadians, let us take 'Respect for One Another' as our motto."

At the close of the address, Mr. Mackenzie thanked the speaker for the pleasure he had given the boys and their friends.

JURY FINDS MRS. WEST AND SON

Mr. Kerr: Are you sure whether or not the leaky lamp was upstairs?

Dr. West (positively): The leaky lamp was downstairs.

Mr. Kerr: What is your theory as to how the fire occurred?

Dr. West: I can't say, sir.

Mr. Kerr: Do you think the lamp exploded?

Dr. West: I don't know. Both lamps were burning all right.

Mr. Kerr: Your hands were injured when the neighbors found you. Were they injured when you left Goldring's?

Dr. West: Not to my knowledge. My hands were all right when I left Goldring's.

Mr. Kerr: Have you any idea what happened to them?

Dr. West: No, sir.

Mr. Kerr: What was the nature of the trouble between you and your wife?

Dr. West: All our troubles were over petty affairs.

Mr. Kerr: Had they anything to do with religion?

Dr. West: No.

Mr. Kerr: Her aunt says your wife was annoyed by your advertising her and running around with other women. Why did you advertise not to give her credit? Was she extravagant?

Dr. West: I guess not any more than the rest of us. She told me she was going to get a lot of stuff out of stores, and I advertised that I would not be responsible for any debts contracted without my written order.

Dr. West said he had been thrown from his horse two or three times during the war, hurting his head. He had had seven or eight seizures since 1919. In that year he had a severe attack, when Dr. E. J. Free was called to attend him. In 1920 Dr. H. B. Lon more attended him. After a seizure, witness said, he remained unconscious for from half an hour to eight or ten hours. His memory was faint of things immediately before the attack. He had no consciousness of having an attack on the night of the fire.

Questioned by Mr. MacColl as to whether he was bound over to keep the peace as the result of the police court case, Dr. West said no, but that an arrangement was made. He had sent the baby to hospital in Toronto six or seven times, paying the expenses. He was making monthly payments on the house which he was buying.

When he heard the noise he jumped out of bed, Dr. West repeated to Mr. MacColl, but he did not know whether he got to the bend of the stairs. He was in a better position to see flames when he was two-thirds of the way up than would anyone standing at the bottom of the stairs. Mrs. West kept the lamp at the head of her bed and sometimes kept it burning all night. If it was not left burning, she might have lighted it during the night, since she had matches handy.

Arrangements were under way to have the baby baptized, and his wife was in agreement with him. The date had not been set, because the baby had cold. The baby did not wear the supporters every night. Sometimes the braces were put on at night, and sometimes his wife left them off. He did not go to his wife's room that night.

On Best of Terms

He and his wife had been on the best of terms on the evening of the tragedy, Dr. West said. On their return from Goldring's, he went out to care for his horses. Then he sat on the couch and his wife sat behind the stove and they chatted. She said she was going to be busy, because she had a dress to make. Then she went to bed, and he lit his pipe.

After the fire, when he recovered consciousness at Williams' home, he found that his hair and eyebrows had been singed, Dr. West continued.

Re-examined by Mr. Kerr, the witness said it was the practice after the last visit to Toronto for the boy to wear bootees during the day and the iron supports at night. On one night his wife forgot to put the supports on.

Dr. Free

Dr. E. J. Free of Campbellford said he had known Dr. West for some years, and knew that he had an epileptic seizure about five years ago. Epilepsy in some cases ends in insanity, the witness said, but there is no danger to others unless the patient does become insane.

Dr. H. T. Longmore of Campbellford, said he had treated Dr. West for epilepsy during a minor attack, and on this occasion Dr. West recognized him after ten minutes. Epilepsy, this witness said, is a thing with many stages, and it varies from a case of unconsciousness for a second or two, in which case there will be no knowledge of it remaining with the patient, to attacks lasting for many hours.

Mr. MacColl: Would an attack of epilepsy effect a blank in the memory for a short time before the seizure?

Dr. Longmore: I shouldn't think so. The unconsciousness is during the seizure. At such times there are periods when the patient's own will doesn't operate, and if you said "Strike that man" he would strike him.

Mr. Kerr: Is it possible that this man might have gone 100 yards and back without knowing it?

Dr. Longmore: There is a saying that in epilepsy all things are possible. It is not probable, but possible.

Dr. Haight

Dr. W. R. W. Haight of Warkworth attended Dr. West on the morning of the fire. Dr. West's hands, sleeves, and the neckband of his shirt had blood on them. There were what Dr. Haight at the time took to be scratches on the backs of Dr. West's hands, but later on Dr. Haight found that they were cuts. They were not deep and the surrounding skin was not ragged.

West was apparently conscious when Dr. Haight arrived, and was making peculiar whimpering noises. He would give no reply to questions at that time. Later, when he recognized Dr. Height, and was asked about his wife and child, he said, "Did they not get out?"

Dr. Haight's examination showed Dr. West was suffering from cold. He had never seen West during an epileptic seizure, but West had told him that during such fits he fell down.

A man who becomes insane from elilepsy is dangerous, Dr. Haight admitted. Generally, epilepsy has no effect on the memory. Anything preceding the seizure should remain perfectly clear in the memory afterward, but anything happening during the seizure would be unknown.

West's nose had been bleeding, but there was no physical mark on it.

"Were the cuts deeper as they got down to where the fingers were?"

"I don't remember. Most of the cuts were about three inches long and mathematically straight.

"Would you say he was recovering from an epileptic fit or just suffering from cold?"

Dr. Haight: I didn't see enough to make a decision, but I think he was suffering from shock and cold. No treatment was given on the morning of the fire for epilepsy but Dr. Haight gave West a hypodermic injection to relieve the pain and excitement.

Mr. MacColl: Was he in condition to simulate surprise when you asked him about his wife?

Dr. Haight: I wouldn't think it.

Mr. MacColl: Could the cuts be occasioned by his becoming entangled in a barbed wire fence?

Dr. Haight: No, that would make scratches.

"Could each individual cut have been occasioned by a barb on a fence?

"I don't think so."

Mrs. Ingleby.

Mrs. William Ingleby said she was born in England, and one of her brothers went to racing stables at Brussels, where he married a Belgian lady. The late Mrs. West was this brother's daughter. Dr. West was billeted at the home where Mrs. West lived, and they were married in Canada five years ago. They lived in Campbellford for a time, and then moved to a farm in Percy township, and later to Warkworth where the boy was born. Mrs. Ingleby had visited the West family several times.

While they were living on the farm Mrs. West began writing to her aunt complaining of the treatment she was receiving from her husband. Last November Mrs. Ingleby visited them and stayed at their home in Warkworth for ten or twelve days. During this visit Dr. West asked Mrs. Ingleby if she had heard that Mrs. West was talking of going to work. Mrs. Ingleby charged Dr. West with not giving his wife sufficient money, and with riding around with other girls. Mrs. West had had to get money from her own people.

Regarding the assertion that he was riding around with other girls, Dr. West said he did not, but that his wife was jealous of him, and he did it only for their protection. Mrs. Ingleby told him he should stay at home and look after his wife better. He ordered her out of the house but she stayed until after the trial, and then he asked her back, saying he thought things would be better. Mrs. Ingleby attended the trial, the charge of assault against Dr. West being dismissed, when both parties agreed to try to live together in peace.

A Leaky Lamp.

The baby had always slept in the room with his mother, Mrs. Ingleby said, and Dr. West slept on a lounge in the dining room. There were two stairways up to Mrs. West's room, one from the kitchen and the other from the front hall.

The house was lighted by two coal oil lamps one of which leaked and had a rag tied around it. This rag was always soaked with oil and Mrs. Ingleby had warned Mrs. West about the danger of the lamp. Every time she lighted the lamp she was afraid. She told her niece repeatedly that if that if ever that rag took fire the lamp would explode. This leaky lamp was taken upstairs when Dr. West was using the other lamp down stairs. If he sat up reading he kept the good lamp.

The baby was deformed from birth and wore iron supports; pieces of iron found in the debris of the house were identified by Mrs. Ingleby as parts of the supports he wore. He wore them night and day while she was there.

Mrs. West visited at Mrs. Ingleby's in the beginning of the year and said that they were getting on better since the court case. When she returned home she wrote to Mrs. Ingleby saying her husband was alright. She was afraid he would be vexed because she stayed away so long. She had written to Mrs. Ingleby expressing her desire to visit her aunt and saying "Write me a letter telling me you are sick and want me to go up." Then after her return she wrote saying how pleased she was to have received $5 from Mrs. Ingleby—"in case he would not give it to me."

The last letter to Mrs. Ingleby, in which Mrs. West said things were going along satisfactorily, was written on Feb. 28th, nine days before the fatality.

The door between the dining room and the hall was always left open, Mrs. Ingleby said. She did not see any bones of horses or other animals in the house while she was there.

Paid his Wife's Fare.

To Mr. MacColl: Mrs. Ingleby said that Dr. West had paid the fare for his wife from Europe. They were on good terms when she first visited them and seemed to be getting on alright after the trial. She had sent Mrs. West about twenty dollars altogether.

"There's no reason under the sun," Mrs. Ingleby volunteered, "why he could not have saved that woman."

Mr. MacColl: "He was very fond of his boy, wasn't he"

Mrs. Ingleby: He was not. Sometimes he would come into the house, and walk around and never notice him.

Rang the Alarm.

George Wiggins, who resides about 400 yards from the West residence, said he was awakened at 2 o'clock on the morning of the fire by his wife, who saw the blaze. He could see the reflection of the fire on his own window. He saw that the fire was in an upstairs room of the West house. He woke some neighbors and then went to the Methodist church and rang the bell there for two or three minutes as a fire alarm. It was ten or fifteen minutes from the time he woke up until he got to West's house. He found Dr. West lying on the kitchen verandah, partly dressed. Charles Bowen and John Summers came later. Mr. Wiggins asked Dr. West if his wife was in the house, but the Doctor was moaning and groaning and made no response. There was blood on his face and hands, and on his shirt. The kitchen door was open, and witness went inside and called two or three times without getting any answer. He called again from the dining room. The door between the dining room and the hall was closed, and he opened this and went into the hall. There was no smoke downstairs at this time, though smoke and flames were bursting through the bedroom window. He called from the front hall, where it was dark. He could not say whether it was smoke that caused the darkness. He could not see to the top of the stairs, but he did not see any flames there. He did not attempt to go upstairs. On his way back through the dining room he saw that the fire was coming through the ceiling.

John Summers and Charlie Bowen were first to get to the house after Wiggins did, he said. They took West away to Williams' house. There was no smoke or fire in the kitchen at that time. He went to the barn and let out the horses. There were no windows broken, and there was no fire coming out of the chimney. Witness did not notice any fire in the dining room stove. There was blood on the verandah where the doctor was lying.

Saw Dr. West.

Joseph Dixon, who lives near the scene of the fire, was awakened about 2.15 by Charles Bowen. He saw fire coming out of the window of the West house, and a man whom he took to be Dr. West coming down the road quickly toward the West house. Dr. West began to shout when he got to his back verandah, and witness recognized Dr. West's voice. When witness got to the burning house two men were taking West down the road. West had blood on his shirt sleeves.

Under examination by Mr. MacColl, Mr. Dixon said no one seemed to know if there was anyone in the house. On his arrival at the scene fire was beginning to come through the ceiling of the dining room. There was no fire coming from the chimney and he did not see any on the stairs. Rev. W. D. Jones was outside and an attempt was made to get up through a window, but failed because of the smoke and fire. Witness then helped to get the car out of the garage.

When he first saw Dr. West on the road going towards his house, Mr. Dixon said, he was not running, but he was walking quickly. He was sure the man was West, as both he and his wife had recognized him.

Mr. MacColl: If you had been in that house and had discovered fire, where would you have gone for help?

Mr. Dixon: To the nearest neighbor. It was from the direction of his nearest neighbor that West was coming when seen.

"I Tried to Get Her."

John Summers, who was awakened by Mr. Bowen, saw the fire from his home. He and his brother saw Dr. West coming down the road. West went to his own house and up the side steps into the house. Witness heard him groan as he came out, and then saw him fall down on the porch. His hands were covered with blood and witness and Bowen took him to a neighbor's house. Joseph Summers, Harry Walker and Oscar Phillips tried to get up to a window, but were driven back by smoke and fire. Witness heard Bowen ask West where his wife was, and West said, "I tried to get her."

To Mr. MacColl witness said he and Bowen had to partly carry the Doctor away from the blazing house. West could not speak and seemed in a semi-conscious condition.

No Signs of Disorder.

George Wiggins was recalled to testify that the kitchen table in the West home was set for breakfast, and there was no evidence of any disorder in the house downstairs.

Charles Bowen was aroused by the barking of his dog and saw the fire.

He found Dr. West lying on his face on the verandah and asked about his wife. "I tried to get her out. I think she's in there yet," was Dr. West's answer, witness said.

Joseph Summers said he saw a man coming down the road, walking quickly toward the West home, shouting for help. When he reached the house he saw Dr. West on the verandah. There was no fire downstairs at that time. He got a ladder and put it up at the bedroom window, and went up, but could not see anything as the room was full of smoke.

Was Not Called.

James Cobbledick said Dr. West did not call him or go to his place on the morning of the fire. He is a very light sleeper, he said, and was awakened easily.

When shown the irons for the child's feet, this witness said Mrs. West used to keep them on all the time, but latterly, he understood, it was not necessary to have them on in daytime.

To Mr. MacColl witness said he did not hear a knock at the door, and admitted that he did not hear the fire bell either. He would not swear nobody knocked at the door, but he was pretty sure that no one did.

William Goldring was awakened by the church bell. He went to the Williams' house to see West, and noticed that his hands were scratched. When West was asked about his wife he would not answer.

Human Bones Found.

Constable Abraham Phillips of Warkworth was awakened at four o'clock and warned of the fire. He saw Dr. West and noticed that his hands were cut. Later, he assisted in searching the debris of the house.

A box of exhibits was produced by the Constable, who told of the finding of several articles of jewellery, small bones, a corset steel, and other small articles. Part of a body was found, and this was believed to be the remains of Mrs. West.

The scissors, exhibit 19, were found in the ashes near where the body was found. Only one corset steel was found on the body, but others were found in different places.

Answering Mr. MacColl, witness said that so far as he could ascertain, the remains were found as nearly below the sleeping anartment of Mrs. West as possible. Neither bed nor bed spring was found, but a small cot spring was found.

The Police Evidence.

Provincial Constable T. W. Cousans, stationed at Cobourg, said he investigated the fire on instructions from Crown Attorney Kerr. There were five cuts on Dr. West's left hand, and three on his right hand, the cuts being deeper near the fingers. The cuts were caused by a sharp instrument.

A pair of scissors, exhibit 19, was again identified.

On March 11, when he visited Dr. West at his brother's farm, the Doctor told him the story of the fatal night. He had been at Mrs. Goldring's home helping her with some chores, and about nine o'clock Mrs. West left the child in the house and came over with a telephone message from Roseneath. They went into Mrs. Goldring's house, and about half past nine the Doctor and his wife went home. The child was in bed. Mrs. West went to bed about ten or a little later. They were on good terms at that time. Dr. West told the Constable. He slept downstairs so that he should be near the telephone and able to attend the fires. About two o'clock in the morning he was awakened by a crash and jumped to his feet. He saw fire coming through the dining-room ceiling, then he tried to run upstairs, and got about two-thirds of the way up and was overcome by smoke. He did not remember anything more until he was dragged out of the kitchen. He could not explain why he was on the road, but he could remember being assisted to the Williams' house by two men.

Dr. West said the fits were attacks to which he was subject since returning from overseas, and they came on him suddenly, causing him to fall back on his head. Dr. Free had attended him on one occasion, when he was unconscious for four or five hours. Dr. Longmore had attended him on another occasion when he had an attack. He had had altogether about eight of these seizures.

The blood-stained trousers worn by West on the night of the fire are in the possession of the police, Constable Cousans said.

In reply to questions by Mr. MacColl, witness said the cuts on Dr. West's hands could not have been made by barbed wire, in his opinion. They were clean as if made by something with a sharp edge. A needle or a pin would not have made the cuts.

To Mr. Kerr the witness said Dr. West told him he could not explain how he got the cuts.

The Scissors Found

District Provincial Police Inspector Ernest Charles Gurnett of Belleville told of the finding on March 22 of the scissors, exhibit 19. They were found by Constable Phillips and handed to him. The search of the debris was very thorough.

Inspector Gurnett corroborated the evidence given by Constable Cousans regarding the cuts on Dr. West's hands. He was present when diagrams were drawn, showing the location of the cuts. The cuts were partially healed, but near the knuckles of the hand they were deeper, as though more pressure had been exerted there.

On March 11 the Inspector was present when Constable Cousans interrogated Dr. West at his brother's house. "In all fairness," he said, "I would like to state that I questioned Dr. West about the cuts on his hands and tried to get an idea of where he got them. He seemed to try to concentrate and didn't answer at once. He said 'I know something terrible has happened but I cannot tell you anything about the cuts'. He seemed to be trying to figure something out, but couldn't, was my impression."

Tribute to West

Mrs. Susan Goldring, a near neighbor of the Wests, thought they were getting along alright, she said, and that Dr. West was always kind to his little boy.

Viewed Remains

Dr. Haight was recalled to view the remains which had been brought from the vault yesterday evening. He judged them to be the remains of an adult human, but could not form any opinion as to the sex. One small bone produced might be that of an adult thumb, and others might be human also, and if so would likely be adult.

This concluded the evidence.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

Tick: You have a strong, active, creative nature, logical and daring, and inclined to disregard the rights of others. This disposition is a good one, if you keep it down and strive to control its faults. Because the only way for you to achieve happiness and success in life—the only way, remember—is to serve those about you as well as you serve yourself, and to have your service inspired by love. This plan of action will not appeal to you, because you feel, although your sympathies are kindly enough when aroused, that your own affairs require the most of your attention. But the other way alone points to success. You are capable of great things if you can be induced to stick at anything long enough. In your own nature lies the cause of much unrest. You can dominate it, if you try. You have a mind that is constantly at work and dissatisfied. You are of the type whose stars are constantly pushing you forward to greater achievement, and could be of the salt of the earth by controlling a quick temper, a scolding habit and tendency to sarcasm, and by a greater degree of energy in your work, not by fits and starts, but at all times. You would make a good farmer. Why return to the Old Land? Canada is a good place to be. You will carry your incubus, your own nature, with you, wherever you go. Yes, you were born on Friday. Your color is flame. Your lucky day is Tuesday, your lucky months January and July.

Etta: Although you have an active, independent nature, it is quite feminine in its affectionate and kind disposition. You are bound to rise and will do well in any commercial position, for which you are well fitted by temperament. In going through life, do not forget your manifest destiny, which is to serve others in an intimate, personal way. The more you love those about you the happier and more successful you will be. You would make a good teacher, milliner or designer, and can fill any commercial position admirably. I would suggest that you take a business course with an eye to getting into some business for yourself later on. Follow out your own original ideas at all times—do not be a copyist. Self-reliance should be your own line in life. Marry a man born in May, July, February or November, and—marry while you are young. Remember that there is something higher than the intellect and control your temper at all times. Strive for self-poise.

You were born on Wednesday, not Tuesday. That was a Leap Year. The date you ask about is past. Your colors are gold and white.

V. E. P.: You have a strong, highly-developed nature, and are quite able to face the circumstances of daily life. You are thoughtful, persevering and sensible and very anxious to acquire information along any line, but particularly with regard to educational and religious matters. You have at times an irritating habit of asking unnecessary questions and demand, as well as give, an exact reason for everything. You are not as self-assertive and self-confident as you might be, and other, more dominant people can easily shove you into a corner and take what belongs to you, while you look on in a sort of dumb exasperation. You are nervous and inclined to be fault-finding in business and domestic life. You must always seek success by the way of cleverness and diplomacy. Tactful methods will suit you best and get what you want from life. You would make a good nurse. Marry a man born in October, January or June. You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are red and brown. The date you ask about, a Wednesday, is a good day to acquire knowledge. Don't engage in any important business enterprise on this day

Melba: You have a strong, active, creative nature, liking to dominate any situation and those about you. You are apt to disregard the rights of others, having an inborn conviction that you are right at all times. You have a curious disposition which alternates from a free, jovial bearing, with an animated and convincing style of conversation, to a rather reserved mode of demeanor, inclining at times to shyness. Do not ever meddle with spiritualistic matters or you will become involved in a mesh of other-world affairs which will not be of any good to you. You are at most times good-natured but at others are quite sulky when offended, and have too much leaning toward the emotional side of things, allowing your impulses to guide you almost wholly. You may be imposed upon by your friends, if you are not careful. You can always be depended upon to carry out what you believe is right but are often misunderstood. Cultivate self-control and patience and the habit of seeing with the other fellow's eyes, particularly in matters involving him and his life. Yes, you were born on Wednesday. The day you ask about is past. Your color is flame, in all its variations from yellow to misty blue.

Card: Scientific and mental affairs have quite an appeal for you and you should cultivate your mind by good reading. Take an interest in whatever appeals to you most, even if others about you cannot see their attraction. Diplomacy, rather than force, should be your watchword in life. You have an earnest, frank manner of speech that frequently gets you into difficulties with your friends. Although quite jovial at most times, you are apt to be suspicious and to distrust what you cannot comprehend. If you do not understand a thing, you are apt to condemn it entirely. You are quick-tempered and impulsive. You should never rely upon the advice of others but follow out your own impressions at all times. You were born busy and are liable to overtax your strength by always wanting to be doing something. You are much stronger than you look.

You were born on Wednesday. Your colors are opal shades and buffs. The date you enquire about, a Saturday, is one for assuming any responsibility offered you. Don't put off anything that should be completed on that day. Be cheerful and generous.

M.C.O.: You have quite a strong nature, with much physical power and tenacity. Your inclination to educational matters should be encouraged, as you would make an excellent teacher or leader in any sort of educational work. The only way for you to achieve success in life, as long as you remain unmarried anyway, is for you to work very hard, to keep everlastingly plugging away at the job or studies in which you are engaged at the moment. You have a calm, confident bearing and are always quite self-possessed. You will usually succeed in what you undertake in life, but do not let a superior attitude of mind nor a tendency to criticism of others and selfishness take too strong a hold on you. You have very keen eyesight and a powerful memory. Inharmonious conditions about you affect your health disagreeably and you should always exercise great care in the choice of food. You were born on Tuesday. Your colors are blue and silver. As I am not a fortune-teller, I cannot answer you enquiry regarding examinations, but with your mental proficiency and care in your work, you should succeed, if you study ceaselessly.

Bright Eyes: You have quite a strong physique, with some creative power and tenacity in your makeup, and rather a sympathetic and emotional inclination. As you go through life you must associate yourself with others in any enterprise. You will not achieve success alone. You will make a model housewife, economical, industrious and provident, and thoroughly devoted to the interests of your home and family. You are saving in your ways and will be inclined as you grow older, unless you guard against it, to become miserly. Your feelings are easily hurt by unkindness and you are affected readily by the mental and physical conditions of others. You have strong likes and dislikes in the choice of companions, and are quite changeable in this respect. You are apt to be misled by a show of friendship in others, not being very intuitive. You are easily ruled by kindness, but resent the least semblance of compulsion. You are adapted to the study of instrumental music, with special ability in the rendition of sentimental music. You are quite talkative and fond of company, especially that of men, but you should be careful in marrying, as you have a very sensitive nature. Marry a man born in November, March or January. Your good months are February and September, your lucky day Monday. You were born on Tuesday. The day you ask about is past. Your colors are blue and green.

Cele: You have a courageous nature and a jovial, free, friendly disposition. You are an interesting and convincing talker and are naturally very kind and loving, but, being very emotional and liable to extremes, are apt to fly into great rages, and also to be sulky when offended. You like to entertain your friends in liberal style. You are not naturally studious but are very observant, and, although you have great respect for law and authority, your imperious and independent nature causes you to feel resentment when commanded by others. Your actions are mainly guided by your impulses and emotions, and you have a habit of taking a strong dislike to other people without being able to give a real cause. You sometimes criticize others too, although you would be the last to admit this trait in yourself, doing it quite unconsciously. You should be careful of your heart and guard against undue excitement or hard climbing. You have a great liking for mystic and religious things and should guard against a wish to delve into spiritualistic matters. You are quite a good financier in a small way.

You were born on Sunday. Your colors are steel and purple shades.

Menus for the Family

Breakfast — Oranges, cereal, thin cream, fish hash, corn bread, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Spinach and cheese souffle, toasted corn bread, rhubarb tapioca, milk, tea.

Dinner—Stuffed pork tenderloin, fried apple rings, onions basked in husks, radishes, whole wheat bread, steamed fig pudding, milk, coffee.

Bulk is added to the breakfast menu by serving whole oranges rather than just juice. While children under four years of age should never be given more than the juice of an orange older children and adults need the "roughage" found in the pulp of the fruit.

As rhubarb comes into market keep in mind the necessity of serving it often.

Rhubarb Tapioca.

One cup quick-cooking tapioca, 2 cups water, 3 cups rhubarb cut in inch lengths, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 3-4 cups sugar, 1-4 teaspoon soda.

Cook tapioca in water with salt until clear. Pour boiling water to more than cover over rhubarb, add soda and let boil up once. Drain and rinse in clear cold water. Add to boiling tapioca with sugar and cook five or ten minutes. Turn into a mold and let stand several hours to chill and become firm. Serve with sweetened whipped cream or sugar and cream.

The apple rings are sprinkled with sugar and cinnamon before frying and the fruit is not pared.

LEGISLATURE WILLING TO HELP BRITISH MOTION PICTURES HERE BY ENFORCING THEIR SHOWING

Not Enough British Films Produce Said Hon. Mr. Price.

AUSTRALIA'S PLAN.

Requires Theatres To Run 1,000 Feet of British Film.

TORONTO, March 26. (Canadian Press).—In accordance with part of his debt retirement plan as announced in his budget address, Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer in the Legislature yesterday, introduced a bill to amend the power commission whereby the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission will pay its obligations to the province in cash instead of in bonds as at present. The Hydro has already paid over some $4,800,000 in bonds.

Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Public Works and Highways, introduced a bill enabling cities of more than 30,000 population to spend greater sums of money on publicity than they are now able to do under the law. He proposes that in these cities, up to 10 cents a head of population may be spent by the city authorities in publicity. At present, such municipalities cannot spend more than $2,000.

The House yesterday was quiet following the all-night sitting and the division at 9 o'clock in the morning on the government control of liquor amendment to the motion to go into supply. Rapid progress was made, however, with considerable legislation. Eighteen bills which have all been before committees and debated on second reading were given third reading and now await only the Royal assent. Premier Ferguson introduced a resolution calling for a loan of $5,000,000 for northern development. Mr. Price introduced a resolution to get sanction to borrow $40,000,000 for provincial purposes.

More British Films

The motion picture industry as it affects Ontario was debated at some length by the House on a motion introduced by Russell Nesbitt (Con. Northwest Toronto), which asked the Legislature to express the opinion that there should be more British made films shown in our movie theatres, and that a system should be worked out that would eventually leave the theatres showing pictures of which only 25 per cent. would be made outside the British Empire. In support of his motion, Mr. Nesbitt said that it was compulsory in Australia to have 1,000 feet of British made film in every show. Mr. Price said it would be a fortunate thing for Canada if we had more pictures of British origin, but the situation must be met in a practical way.

"I have a report from the board of moving picture censors which shows that of the pictures shown in Ontario during 1925, 99½ per cent were of United States manufacture," said Mr. Price. "We have had several corporations in Canada for making pictures, but most of them went out of business because of the competition of the American film making plants."

Mr. Price pointed out that until quite recently the rest of the world in comparison with California suffered because of atmospheric and weather conditions in the making of pictures. California seemed to have the ideal setting for film making. He pointed out that the British Government was considering the subsidizing of British made pictures.

Question of Production.

"I wil say this: That if British and Canadian films are made, we will see that they are shown," said Mr. Price, who also referred briefly to the work being done by the government in making films of Ontario life and mining activities which had become very popular in Great Britain.

Sam Clarke (Liberal, West Northumberland) urged the government to greater activity in producing Ontaio films especially for farm scenes for display overseas. F. C. Biggs (Progressive, North Wentworth) thought there might be more pictures of tourist attractions, and quoted Florida as being very much alive in the adoption of this method of publicity. Other members expressed similar views and having secured these favorable opinions, Mr. Nebitt withdrew his motion.

The House in committee then went on with the estimates. Discussing an item of $10,000 for the board of license commissioners, Mr. Nickle, Attorney General, said he did not propose to replace George Smith of that board, who had been superannuated. He thought the board of two would do as well as the board of three, and one salary would be saved.

The House adjourned at 6.10 p.m. until today. Speaker Thompson was not present, and Hon. W. F. Nickle, acted Speaker for a moment and accepted the motion to adjourn.

TRAGIC STORIES OF AMAZON DISASTER

Cigarette, Smoked in Bed, Started Fire on Ship.

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 26.—Tales of horror and sudden death aboard the Amazon River Steamboat Company's steamer Paes de Carvalho came yesterday from Manaos, Brazil, where the survivors of the explosion have been landed.

A message from Manaos reported the dead to number 48 instead of 84, as was first reported by the survivors. The master the vessel, 11 members of the crew and 35 passengers are now said to have died, following the explosion, which rent the steamer Monday and sent her to the bottom.

In the third-class compartment a passenger smoked a cigarette in bed. His mattress caught fire and the flames spread to the cargo of kerosene. The vessel was in the Solimoes River, one of the headwaters of the Amazon, at the time. Near the engine-room the flames ignited a box of powder, which exploded with terrific force. The vessel was stopped in mid-river as the passengers struggled for life.

Panic swept the decks and many persons leaped overboard. The explosion had taken many lives and others were burned or drowned as they lay senseless on the deck of the sinking vessel.

Mother Went Mad.

Among the passengers was a family whose only survivor was the mother. She saw her husband and four children die, and became insane.

Almost immediately after the gunpowder blast, the steamer began to list and sink.

The river steamer Indio do Brazil rescued 78 persons from the blazing wreck or from the river waters and brought them to Manaos. Most of the dead were third-class passengers.

LINDSAY BOARD OF TRADE BUSY

Arnold Casket Company Willing To Locate If Assisted.

TRAIN SERVICE.

LINDSAY, March 26.—At the organization meeting of the Board of Trade last night, retiring President John McCrae announced that Lindsay was likely to secure a new industry—the Arnold Casket Company of Toronto. This company was ready and willing to locate in Lindsay, free of any incumbrances, but would require a guarantee of $3,000 in order to get firmly located. It did a big line of business, especially in the West. Those present at the meeting looked with favor upon the proposition, and an effort will be made to have the concern locate in Lindsay.

President McCrae also announced that he had been informed by a member of the company behind the proposed denatured alcohol plant that the company would agree to the terms outlined by the town relative to fixed assessment and the payment of the outstanding taxes on the old cereal mill, which will be the site of the new industry. Mr. T. H. Stinson, K.C., M.P., was looking after the Federal license, and as soon as weather conditions were favorable the work of remodelling the old mill would commence.

The meeting also discussed the recent changes in train service on the different branches of the C.N.R. Owing to the changes on the Haliburton, Coboconk and Lindsay-Millbrook line via Bethany, considerable business has been lost to the merchants, and representations will be made to the C. N. R. management with a view to bringing about a change.

Easter Hat Styles for Early Spring

They Make Use of Fabrics and Fine Straws.

BY ANNETTE BRADSHAW

Although numbers of hats have been shown in the new Spring fashions openings, smart women still choose small hats for general wear.

They are different from the small hats of others seasons, however, in that there is less use of felt and more of individual trimmings, carefully placed. Women are realizing more and more the value of the individually fitted hat, and are taking as much trouble to have their hats made to measure as they do their gowns.

The chic hat at the center is a model of straw and ribbon woven together. The color is a soft red, and the unusual ornament is a tiny roosetr made of gay-colored feathers.

At the upper right is shown a small hat exploiting the newest of ornaments, a pair of long-headed crystal pins. The hat itself is dusty pink felt, and the crystal pins take on the color of the felt.

At the lower right is a small, closely-fitted hat of brown satin with flesh-colored belting ribbon used for the binding and vertical bow.

The little hat up at the left-hand corner is a dashing affair of navy belting ribbon. The crown is made in sections, while the brim turns back flat against the crown. A unique ornament is seen in the straw of grosgrain ribbon which fastens at one side with a short chain made of real gold.

Below this, at the left, is a high-crowned hat of dark green braid, with an ornament of emeralds.

U. S. DEBT TERMS ACCORDED ITALY NOT FOR FRANCE

Uncle Sam Will Not Be So Liberal in French Settlement.

SENATOR'S REMARKS

Agreement With Italy Based on Her Capacity to Pay.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—France will never be given terms as liberal as those accorded to Italy in funding her war debt to the United States, Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, told the Senate Thursday in opening debate on the Italian settlement plan.

His statement was interpolated in the midst of the reading of a prepared address urging Senate ratification of the settlement and when he had concluded Senator Johnson, Republican, California, arose to attack the agreement as unfair to United States taxpayers.

In making his reference to the French debt Senator Smoot said he had heard a number of senators say that whatever settlement was made with Italy would be made with France. This, he said, was far from the mark, because the two debt problems could in now way be compared.

"I want to assure senators now personally," he said, "that no such settlement will ever be made with France as has been made with Italy, notwithstanding that England has made a better settlement with Italy than we ourselves have made."

Only a few senators were in the chamber at the time and Senator Smoot was not questioned on his statement. In urging approval of the Italian settlement he declared the terms were the best that could be made and represented the utmost of Italy's capacity to pay.

It would be better, he argued, to collect the sum that Italy could pay than to let the whole debt go by default.

SPRING? YEP!

With all its slushy sidewalks and dripping eavesdrops, spring, the beginning of the glad season of the year, comes at last to gladden the hearts of the storm buffeted people of Peterboro.

In the home the housewife is busy doing the housecleaning, washing windows, dusting and airing rooms with the helping aid of the lord of the manor who comes home tired and disgruntled, strong with the symptoms of spring fever but still happy with the thought that soon this will be all over and he can rest in the evening amid the warm breezes of early summer.

Last but not least comes the youth of the city, the boy who walks to school with reluctant steps and a sulky look and who looks upon the cruelty of his parents, especially in making him go to school on a spring day.

In the school room he is the same if not worse. Physically he is in the presence of his school mates but mentally he is far away, dreaming of a cool spot in some shallow creek, where a youngster can laugh, play, and enjoy himself to the full without the eagle of a school teacher bent upon him. Perchance the teacher notices the abstracted look that lies upon the boy's face and enquires in rather a sharp voice: "Henry, are you paying attention" and a weary voice answers as if from a great distance, "Yes ma'am". In any schoolroom this question is liable to be asked and answered in the same way at least a dozen times a day. The principal becomes irritable at this lack of attention and sharply reprimands the pupils, for he does not realize that spring means the coming of swimming and all kinds of summer sports that are joy to a boys heart after being hemmed in by the snows of winter.

OLD FAVORITES

I love it, I love it, and who shall dare
To chide me for loving that old arm chair,
I've treasured it long as a holy prize,
I've bedew'd it with tears, and embalm'd it with sighs;
'Tis bound by a thousand bands to my heart,
Not a tie will break, not a link will start,
Would ye learn the spell, a mother sat there,
And a sacred thing is that old arm chair.

I sat and watched her many a day,
When her eye grew dim and her locks were gray,
And I almost worshipp'd her when she smil'd
And turn'd from her Bible to bless her child.
Years roll'd on, but the last one sped,
My idol was shatter'd, by earth star fled;
I learnt how much the heart can bear,
When I saw her die in that old arm chair.

'Tis past! 'Tis past! But I gaze on it now
With quivering breath and throbbing brow,
'Twas there she nurs'd me e. 'twas there she died.
And mem'ry flows with lava tide.
Say it is folly and deem me weak;
While the scalding drops start down my cheek;
But I love it, I love it, and cannot tear
My soul from a mother's old arm chair.

POPULAR GOVERNOR TO LEAVE OFFICE

Receives Notice of Expiration of His Term on Island.

LONDON, March 26.—(Canadian Press Despatch).—Sir William Fry, Lieutenant-Governor of the Isle of Man, has received notification from the Home Office that his term of office is to expire next month. The islanders will receive the general regret. Sir William news with considerable and Fry was appointed to succeed Lord Raglan in 1919. Many Manxmen at the time would have preferred a younger man and a civilian, but Major-General Fry, apart from his personal qualities, carried a recommendation to the goodwill of the islanders in the fact that his wife was a Manx lady, the eldest daughter of the late Sir John Goldie Taubman, Speaker of the House of Keys. In his six years of office Sir William Fry has carried himself with extreme discretion, and in the years immediately following the war, when the Isle of Man suffered bitterly not merely in the loss of its sons at the front, but in the almost complete loss of its normally tremendous holiday traffic. Sir William and Lady Fry's encouragement did much to cheer and encourage the people of Man in recovering from their trials.

Some weeks ago a majority of the House of Keys approached the Home Secretary, begging that Governor Fry should be appointed for a further term. Some resentment is felt that their wishes have not been respected.

Before assuming the governorship General Fry was for five years Colonel of the West Yorkshire Regiment, and commanded the Second Battalion in the South African War. He also served in the Afghanistan campaign.

GRIPPE EPIDEMIC WANES IN MONTREAL

Not Necessary To Close the Schools.

MONTREAL, March 26 (Canadian Press).—The grippe epidemic is waning, according to reports from the city health department, obtained from Dr. Eugene Gagnon, acting director of public health. After investigation of 250 schools in this city, the health director said it would not be necessary to close these institutions, as was suggested earlier this week. The director of health stated that there were only from 12 to 15 per cent. of the pupils absent through grippe, and thought the schools would not be entirely closed. He would suggest that as a remedial measure the institutions be closed two or three days earlier than usual for the Easter vacation in order to allow disinfection and fumigation.

No deaths have been reported this week.

EXODUS TO FARMS.

Vancouver Sends Help To Prairies.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 26.—(Canadian Press). — Answering a call for farm help from Saskatchewan, J. H. Harvey, superintendent of the Government employment service for British Columbia, announced Thursday that 225 men would be sent from here Saturday to the Moose Jaw and Swift Current districts.

During the past two weeks more than 200 men have left here, most of them for Saskatchewan.

DOURO NATIVE WINS SUCCESS

Fred F. Fitzpatick President of Big United States' Corporation.

WORTH MILLIONS.

LINDSAY, March 26.—A recent issue of the St. Louis Post-Despatch carries a feature story relative to the career of a native of Douro township, Peterboro county, in the person of Fred F. Fitzpatrick, who on March 14th was chosen president of a $132,000,000 corporation. This corporation is formed by the merger of the Railway Steel Spring Company, of which Mr. Fitzpatrick has been president for sixteen years, and the American Locomotive Co.

Many of the older residents of Peterborough and Douro township will remember Mr. Fitzpatrick, who is a cousin of Messrs. D. M. O'Leary and John J. O'Leary of Downeyville, Emily township, and John O'Leary, of Lindsay. He left Douro at an early age and dirfted to Chillicothe, Mo., where he entered the employ of the Missouri Pacific railway, learning telegraphy. To-day, at the age of 56 years, he is a multi-millionaire. In 1898 he resigned the position of secretary to the general manager of the Missouri Pacific railway which he had held eight years, and became agent for a St. Louis Company, which made steel car springs. He was 28 years old at the time. In 1906 he was vice-president of the Railway Steel Spring Company, and four years later became its president. Following the merger of the different railway steel spring companies in the U. S., Mr. Fitzpatrick located in St. Louis and later in New York. The Steel Spring Coompany, of which Mr. Fitzpatrick was the head, had assets of $430,000,000. The American Locomotive Company, with which it has merged, has assets of $89,000,000, with six plants in the United States and Canada.

PRISONER PALSIED BY MURDER CHARGE

Nova Scotia Man Accused of Killing Wife.

REGINA, Sask., March 26. — (Canadian Press.) — Shaking as though palsied and evidently in delicate health, George Peoples, charged with the murder of his wife at Mulgrave, N.S., on Jan. 5, last, stood up in the prisoner's dock in the city police court yesterday long enough to get a remand till such time as an escort arrived from the eastern province. The formal remand was for one week, but it was explained to Peoples that he would be delivered to the Nova Scotia official on the latter's arrival.

Immeditaely following the remand, Peoples was assisted from the dock and was half carried and half guided down the stairway leading to the cells. He made no comment and has made no statement since his arrest here Wednesday afternoon. After the death of his wife, Peoples, it is alleged, sold all his property and came to Regina. The arrest was made at the request of the agent of the Attorney-General of Nova Scotia.

Easter Showing

ON OUR MILLINERY FLOOR.

Crowns continue to rise to lofty heights—in fact, the higher the crown the more assured one is of unquestioned chic. Brims, however, are not quite so consistent, for one may decide one moment that the brim that turns up at the back and down over the eyes is smartest, to have one's view refuted the next by the appearance of a brim that rolls off the face. Some of the smartest Hats that are being worn around town have no brims at all.

Another very important feature of the new Millinery is the employment of trimmings in flat, appliqued effects. Flowers, feathers and even ribbons are treated alike. The high square crowned Hat of black bangkok has a fine shaped trimming of belting ribbon in shades of red, yellow and black. You will find all styles represented in the lovely Easter collection we have gathered together for your wear in the Easter promenade. Styles to suit your fancy. Colors to suit all types. Prices to suit every purse.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach,' says a well know authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestents that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie,—I am a young girl in my early twenties. I am at present going with a young man of my own age, but I have another boy friend too, but he is not coming to see me. I haven't heard from him in about two months. This other fellow made him mad. The boy I am going with at present has a farm, and the other boy has nothing, only his day's work. I like them both about the same, but the first one was the best sport and spooniyst. They both want to get married.—Honeydew.

HONEYDEW: It is said that "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush." If you wish to establish yourself in life, you had better take the man with the farm, as you like them both about the same. The sporty and spoony qualities of the other gentleman are not real requisites for a happy married life.

Dear Annie Laurie,—I am a young girl in my early teens. I like going to parties. I always have a fellow to bring me home. They ask when they can come back, and I say any time at all. Is this proper? I like to keep good friends with them, but do not want a steady one. I just want to have a good time, so should I ask them back once or twice to keep good friends with them.—Lady Fair.

LADY FAIR: In your early 'teens it is quite all right to want to have a good time, but you will probably wish to settle down at a later date. As long as you don't become too free and easy in your attitude with a number of boy friends, you are quite within bounds in asking them to come and see you.

Handwoven woolens are very much liked for sport dresses and they are dyed in the softest and most seductive shades.

The Young Girl's Room -:- By Annette Bradshaw

The surest way of instilling the housewifely spirit in the young girl is to give her a room of her very own. No matter how tiny, nor how close under the eaves it may be, if she knows it is hers, the pride of possession will be sufficient impetus in keeping it always neat and orderly.

Particularly is this so if the mother will spend a little thought in furnishing such a room. If a girl is forced to spend her time in a room the furnishings of which she intensely dislikes, she will never take the faintest pride in it—or in herself. If, however, it has dainty curtains in her favorite colors, and she is allowed to have a say in the selection of furniture, it will be the pride of her life.

The room illustrated above is an attic room that had long been used for storage purposes. The outstanding feature of the room was the deep alcove with its casement windows and this the mother chose as the keystone on which to build.

An old bureau was transformed into a chest of drawers; the dressing table was assembled from odds and ends and the bed which Daughter had declared was an atrocity, magically became a queen's couch—all with the aid of the paintbrush. The furniture was painted a soft apple green, with stripings of darker green. The casement windows were hung in dainty net curtains with overdrapes of gay colored cretonne. The walls were painted a soft grey which blended beautifully into the green of the base-board.

Mother made ruffled covers for the dressing table, chest of drawers, and bedspread to match, of voile, a shade lighter than the paint used, and the effect was adorably fresh and youthful. Result: Daughter was delighted with her own room and it's the joy of her life to invite her girl friends into her very own room, with its crisp, dainty charm, and Mother is repaid a hundred-fold for the care and thought expended.

Try it, Mothers, and see, for don't you remember your own girlhood days when you longed with your whole heart for a room of your very own?

STIR, BOIL AND SERVE!

Aha, now somebody's going the Lucy Stoners one better! The Lucy Stoners only want their own names and not their husbands's. But they're never yelped very loudly against handles "Miss" or "Mrs." Now comes The League Against Useless Prefixes. It is headed by Elisabeth Marbury, political leader. She wants to do "away with" "Mr." "Mrs." "Miss," all of 'em! Everybody, men and women, to be known by first names without handles. "Why, I might be introduced to a man called 'Mr. Shaw' and talk to him for an hour or so about the weather before discovering that he was George Bernard Shaw" she explains.

They now sell a hand washing machine for the faire one's linger'e tubbing. Costs almost as much as six lingeries, and what faire one would use one today?

They say that Sargent's famous paintings soon will be lost. They are darkening it to oblivion. They say all modern canvases are fading, due to poor oils.

YE STYLE!

The neck, they tell us, of the perfect woman should be just double the circumference of her wrist. Two slave bracelets should make a choker. The slave bracelet will not die. It's modern freeborn woman's hanker for a remnant of the past, no doubt.

YE FOOD!

Many a party can be held about nothing but a brimming punch bowl. Here's a punch that cheers. Take 3 cups sugar, 1 can grated pineapple. Cook 10 minutes. Add 3-4 cup lemon juice, 1 1-2 cups orange juice, strain into punch bowl over hunk of ice, and garnish with sprigs of mint and cherries. Add ginger ale to dilute.

HER OWN WAY by a Girl of Today

THE TEARS OF THE STRONG

I stood for a moment looking at her, perfectly aghast. I could hardly believe it was Mamie Riley, who had stood in my mind for all that was self-reliant and self-sufficient, that was weeping there.

"What is the matter, Mamie?" I asked as I put my arms around her.

She looked up, rather dazed at first and then when she realized that it was I, she tried to stifle the sob that rose in her throat.

"I thought you were in, Judy, and upstairs in bed. I was trying to get the tears out of my system before I came upstairs."

"But, my dear girl, surely you must know that I am not one of those friends that would leave you to weep alone! Of course I don't want to intrude upon you, but won't you let me share your trouble?"

As I said this, Mamie's sobs broke out afresh.

"Hush, dear, you know what will happen if you wake your mother."

She looked frightened as we both listened intently, and then she whispered:

"I can't stand it, Julie, I can't stand it!"

"What can't you stand, dear? Maybe if you can't stand it alone, with me to brace you, you can keep upright, even if the burden is heavy."

Mamie sat up and wiped her eyes.

"Julie," she said, "my prayer for you is that you will never have every hope you have in the world taken from you all at one fell swoop.

"Surely, Mamie, that's not happened to you? I have always looked upon you as the hopefullest girl I ever knew. Come, isn't some of it a part of the pity you are now feeling for yourself?"

"Yes, dear, I know. I know that self-pity is the most terrible of all emotions. But, honestly, Julie, I have nothing to look forward to."

As she said this she broke out again.

I let her cry. It seemed to me that that was the kindest thing I could do for her.

After a few minutes she seemed to get a new hold upon herself.

"Has anyone told you, Julie, that ever since I could talk my great ambition was to be an opera singer? I kept this determination to myself—a secret in my heart—but to my mother, all kind of play-actors, including grand opera stars, are emissaries of the devil. Mother, as you know, was left with three children and she worked hard to bring us up. When I was fourteen, the youngest legal age when one could leave school, I had to go out to earn my living."

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THE THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1926.

FASHION NOTES.

By HEDDA HOYT

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, March 26 (United Press).—Handbags and purses of green snake-skin or lizard skin are among the Spring accessories. One of the newest bags has the zipper closing which makes it a safe bag to carry. The zipper was first used on tobacco pouches, later on galoshes and now on handbags.

Slave bracelets grow larger linked each day. Among the favored types are those combining imitation jade links with dull-finished gold links of large size. Even diamond bracelets are now being made in large link form.

Coats for Spring are either those with cape effects or those of straight lines. We see very few flared-hemmed garments other than dresses. Navy blue, green, tan, brown and plaid materials are those which will be prominent this Spring for coats and suits.

Matching accessories is a fad of the moment. This week we find sets consisting of bloomers, brassiere, garters and handkerchief in matching shades. Taupe bloomers, garters, stockings, handkerchief and brassiere, for instance, are chosen to match a taupe frock. Hat and wrap may be contrasting.

Lovely, indeed, are the latest evening shoes which combine colored satin vamps with silver backs, heels and anklestraps. Either green or red shades, particularly a rose red, are shown in the shops.

Pleated sports skirts are made with tape loops at the sides of the belt so that they may be hung on coathangers. This is the only correct way to hang up a pleated skirt and since pleats play a prominent part this Spring, it is a fact worth remembering.

Sleeveless pajamas of crepe de chine in pastel colors are shown for resort wear. Usually they are piped in contrasting color.

Among the dressier types of jumper dresses is one for afternoon wear whose skirt is made entirely of gray fringe with the jumper of gray charmeuse. The fringe is very deep, being joined to the skirt beneath the jumper.

WOMEN VOTERS ARE RESTRICTED

Heavy Restrictions to be Placed Upon Qualifications of Suffrage.

HUNGARIAN REFORM

WINNIPEG, Man., March 26.—(Canadian Press).—Sister Slachta, in describing conditions in Hungary at the meeting of the Women's Press Club, explained the situation of woman suffrage. Previous to the war every woman over 24 years of age was accorded the franchise, but they were in such a majority following the war that their vote has since been restricted. Qualifications for suffrage are altered so that a woman of university education if she is over 24, and al married women with three or more children.

Sister Slachta also discussed the reforms she had introduced as the only woman member of the Hungarian legislature. One bill which raised much opposition among the men was that calling for an increase in the taxation of horse races. This increase was to be utilized in social service work among children. At first they were strongly opposed, but were finally brought to see the merits of the measure.

Sister Slachta said she was much concerned by the condition of her countrymen on farm settlements in Canada. It was hard for them to be isolated in the prairie country, accustomed as they were to living in small communities. Her suggestion was that intensive cultivation, and farming from a community centre, be adopted in the Place of the block section divisions now existing.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

MINK AND CHARLEY OTTER

"Is everybody spring-cleaned?" asked Nick when the March Hare and the Twins returned to Scrub-Up Land after taking Tatters to his new home.

"No indeed!" said Mister Rubadub, looking meaningly at the March Hare.

The March Hare looked very unhappy. "No, indeed!" he repeated, turning the pages of his big book. "I only wish they were. But here's Mister Mink to be spring-cleaned. And as everyone knows, it may be that he's hungry for a rabbit dinner."

"Now see here, Mister Hare," said Rubadub, "don't be foolish and worry about nothing. I've been reading it all up in the 'Loghollow Gazette.' It says very plainly that a fairy rabbit is different from any other kind of rabbit. And you're a fairy rabbit, aren't you? The same as the Easter Bunny. You can go anywhere you wish and nothing can hurt you."

"Is that so—is that really so?" beamed the March Hare. "And no matter how I get after the rest of those sleepy rascals, they can't bit me—is that what you mean?"

"Certainly," said Mister Rubadub. "Now go and get that mink fellow. And while you're at it, look up Charley Otter as you pass by."

"Aye, aye, sir!" said the March Hare. "Come on, children."

Nancy and Nick stepped right along in their magic shoes, following the March Hare down the path by the secret bush.

Then they turned off through the meadow toward Ripple Creek.

Then they went along Ripple Creek past Marky Muskrat's house, past Billy Beaver's dam, and past Mosy Mud Turtle's log, where he usually sunned himself, on and on and on, until they came to a pretty wild place where the water ran between rocky banks. A lot of old trees lay across the water like so many bridges.

On one of these bridges sat Charley Otter, and on another sat Marty Mink.

"Hush!" said the March Hare. "Let's watch them and see what they're doing."

"I bet you I catch the first fish," Marty Mink was saying.

"I bet you don't," said Charley Otter. With that there was a streak of brown and a splash, and Charley Otter bobbed to the top of the water with a fish in his mouth.

He swam to shore and Marty Mink ran over, and waited for him to climb the bank.

"I lost that time," said Marty, eyeing the fish hungrily. "But I'll beat you yet. I can yell louder than you can."

Charley Otter opened his mouth to yell, the fish fell out and Marty grabbed it. Like a flash he leaped behind a rock and was gone, knowing that he could move much faster than Charley, and that by the time Charley reached him the fish would be finished.

"That's the way with minks," whispered the March Hare to the Twins. "They let someone else do the work half the time."

"Look at Charley Otter," said Nancy. "He doesn't seem to care much."

And indeed it seemed so. For the little Otter boy was sliding down the mud slide into the water and having the time of his life!

But that's only half of the story.

POST OFFICE FOR RED LAKE

Inset, in the circle, is William Smith, Hudson Bay factor at Red Lake, who as a trapper has known every foot of ground around Howey Bay for years, without ever suspecting that it contained gold. At the lower left are William Mogridge and Bert Draycott, of Toronto, who have staked claims on the same ground which they prospected three years ago in search of silver. At the lower right is John E. Hammell, with a trout and pike taken through the ice at Red Lake.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

For various reasons women do not like to have conspicuous feet—conspicuous for size, I mean. Even with that qualifying clause I haven't said exactly what I have in mind. To be blunt about it, no woman is proud of big feet.

The prevailing styles have given us rather accurate information regarding a matter formerly hidden in mystery. We know a lot more than we did in the older days.

But along comes the manager of a great hosiery company who says: "Despite the probable protest from the fair sex throughout the country, the feet of women in America are growing larger!"

Only a few years ago, he insists, women wore hosiery well divided in sizes between 8 and 10. Now the smaller sizes are rapidly decreasing and the larger sizes are in increasing demand. "Size 9 is the general average worn by women, but size 10 is coming more and more into demand."

I follow the statistician to this point, but part company when he says, "In another generation there will be little difference in the size of a woman's foot and a man's foot."

I don't believe it.

I have heard many dire predictions about what will happen to women and have lived to see every one fall by the wayside.

They used to say that corsets would cramp the organs and lead them to disaster.

That high-heeled shoes would "throw the spine out of alignment" and disturb the nervous system.

That veils would cause irritation of the retina and produce blindness.

That sheer costumes would lead to bronchitis, pneumonia and tuberculosis.

That rouge and powder would poison the system and damage the nerves.

But they didn't!

In spite of all her bad but charming habits, lovely woman has survived and continues to rule the world from her throne of undisputed power. Her feet may be a trifle larger than they used to be, but even that I doubt. Anyhow, fair woman will never become as gross and massive as is man.

Women have a different outlook on life than their mid-Victorian ancestors had. Western women have been emancipated just as have Chinese women. No longer will they bunch their toes and crowd their feet into tiny shoes. They are wearing shoes the size Nature requires for their pedal extremities. Of course, they need larger sizes in hosiery, not because they have bigger feet, but because they have bigger brains.

They eat honest-to-goodness food. They take a real exercise. They walk and dance. Stately minuets, through which a foot-tortured maiden could move with mincing steps, have given way to dances which set the pulses beating for sheer exercise.

The feet aren't bigger—they simply spread out over the territory Nature intended. They won't be any bigger in the future, because with woman's present sensible foot dressing they have reached, not larger sizes, but merely the sizes they should have worn all the time. Just as you see more of woman these days, you see more of her feet. It is the mode, nothing else.

WHERE A PEELED GRAPEFRUIT AWAITS YOU AFTER A SWIM

The "hot-dog" stands and apples on the stick have so long been the standard refreshment on the beaches we know that we begin to think that they must be universal. But in Old Nassau the food as well as the surroundings are different.

Old Nassau is located on New Providence Island about 140 miles from the Florida coast on a line with the southern tips of the mainland. It is semi-tropical in climate and has the dazzling white sands that invite one to the refreshment of a dip in the brine.

In the old days Nassau was a rendezvous for the brave adventurer of the high seas. There the gay spirits of the Spanish Main came to seek the gold that was reputed to be found in the island and remained to enjoy the balmy delight of the delightful climate.

Two old forts guard the island of Providence and a statue of Queen Victoria adorns the chief square. Time seems to have stopped in Old Nassau in the late Queen's reign. For the pink cream and delicate tan tints of the stuccoed houses, the unused old slave market and the meeting-place aspect of the post office recall strongly a village of the last century.

Even more, perhaps, do the shays which are commonly used as conveyances recall a time gone by. There are a few automobiles and they are chiefly used by visitors. The real conveyance of Nassau is the shay, with its gaily colored cushions. A shay usually boasts a curtain at the rear to keep off the intense rays of the sun. Two-wheeled donkeys carts, driven by the black natives, roam the streets, while the white-coated, tightly belted black policemen admonish all travelers on their streets to "keep to the left."

Naturally the climate lends itself to an outdoor life and golf and swimming are the chief sports. One swims at Hog Island which guards the entrance to the harbor of Nassau. The dazzling, crescent-shaped beach is alive with smartly accoutred visitors. And when one emerges from the pleasant swim in the crystal clear water, one is rewarded by a peeled grapefruit, proffered at the end of a long stick by a solemn native girl.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DORIS LEARNS SOMETHING NEW

Doris leaned over the clover plant and looked at the leaves.

"Now, I'll bet old Tabby has been out here clawing my clovers." She tried to straighten up the leaves that were all lopped down over each other. The lower leaves were almost touching each other and the top leaf was bent double, down over the other two leaves.

"Shoo," whispered a tiny voice. A tiny hand caught hold of Doris's arm. "Please don't touch them. They're just going to sleep, you know."

"To sleep!" Doris exclaimed, facing the wee elfin. "Why, Happy Giggles. Who ever heard of a clover going to sleep? That's too funny for words."

"Miss Clover doesn't think so," replied Happy Giggles. "She has been working hard all day long and she's tired out."

"Now, Happy Giggles," Doris laughed merrily, "do you really and truly mean those leaves are asleep?"

"I certainly do mean it," replied the elfin. "I guess you don't know it's hard work to catch all the sunshine, the dew and the fresh air the mother plant needs to keep her alive. Why, these leaves are busy from early morning until night helping Miss Clover grow."

"Isn't that funny?" Doris laughed. "I never in the world would think plants had to sleep."

"Indeed they do," replied the elfin. "Now look at the leaves on the locust tree."

Doris glanced up at the locust leaves. Everyone of them was lying over against its neighbor in the cunningest way.

"Why, sure enough they are all cuddled up," cried Doris. "Are they asleep, Happy Giggles? It wasn't very long ago I saw them all spread out the way they should be."

"Sure they were," laughed Happy Giggles, "and before very long you will be all curled up sound asleep too. So you were going to blame poor old Tabby for the clover's leaves? I guess little folks think that plants never go to sleep, because they very seldom go to sleep until after dark. There are plants though that sleep in the daytime. Take Mrs. Moon Flower, she stays open at night, so she sleeps in the daytime.

"They're Just Going to Sleep."

"But why does she stay open at night?" queried Doris. "There are no bees nor butterflies flying at night."

"No, but who would feed Mr. Moth?" asked Happy Giggles. "You see Mrs. Moon Flower keeps open at night to supply the night flyers. Then this little Clover Lady take care of the bees and butterflies in the daytime."

"I'm glad you told me all this Happy Giggles," said Doris. "I wouldn't touch her leaves for the world. Good-night, pretty white clover. I'll give you a fresh drink of water tomorrow." Then bidding the elfin good-by, Doris ran into the house and tumbled into her own bed.

Good Health In Old Age!

AS WE grow older the body needs more and more help in warding off sickness. Sleeplessness, loss of appetite, impoverished blood, loss of vitality, all show that the body needs help in restoring the vital energy it is using up, and before health returns this vital energy must be restored.

Medical research has definitely proved that one of the causes of a run down condition of the body is a shortage of certain mineral elements, including iron, potassium, calcium, sodium and phosphorus, and until a sufficient supply of these minerals is restored to the body, good health is impossible. Wincarnis contains every one of these elements in addition to other health giving ingredients and in a form in which they are most rapidly absorbed into the blood and carried to every part of the body to be converted into vital force.

Wincarnis has been recommended by over ten thousand physicians in cases of nervousness, anaemia, sleeplessness, and the general debility that accompanies a run down body. For fifty years this strength giver and nerve restorative has brought new life and happiness to weakened men and women.

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing It

When you wash children's hair, be careful what you use. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store, and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

BRAND NEW

It started out when mother bought some goods down at the store, an' little sister soon found out just what the goods was for. She watched the patient cutting of the cloth to pattern size an' even tried to help a bit—like every youngster tries.

The trimming and the pinning were the parts mom did by hand, an' quite a bit too difficult for sis to understand. But every move was gazed at by this interested child, who knew what mom was makin', an' whose hopes were runnin' wild.

The hemming and the stitchin' and the basting by machine still found wee smiling daughter very much upon the scene. The several yards of pretty cloth, which lace was due to drape, were very slow, but surely, drifting into proper shape.

At last, the final touches, and a youngster's shout of glee at seeing mother's handiwork—as pretty as could be. Now why was little sister thrilled? I'll bet you'd never guess. But, never mind, I'll tell you: Sister has a brand new dress.

A lucky man is rare than a white crowd. —Juvenal.

Advice For Young Mothers

Hamilton, Ont.—"Before the arrival of my little boy my health was very poor, my back hurt and my nerves were so upset I could not sleep. I grew very weak and miserable and suffered from morning sickness. Finally I saw Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in the drug store where I trade, so I decided to try it, and it did me a world of good. It relieved me of all distress in my back, built me up in strength and my nerves did not give me any more trouble. I got along fine the remainder of the time and I had a very strong, healthy baby. In addition to keeping a woman healthy and strong it relieves her of a certain mental strain, from which most women suffer during motherhood." —Mrs. Joseph Curto, 147 Bay St., North. HON. GEORGE P. GRAHAM CHAIRMAN OF NEW CANADIAN TARIFF BOARD

Personnel Announced By Premier King—East and West Represented.

EXPERTS TO HELP

OTTAWA, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—Rt. Hon. Geo. P. Graham will head Canada's new tariff board. The personnel of the Commission which will enquire into tariff matters and advise the Government was announced in the House of Commons Thursday by Premier Mackenzie King. Mr. Graham, as chairman, Joseph Daoust of Montreal and Donald G. Mackenzie of Winnipeg, will consitute the tariff board. Mr. Mackenzie is secretary of the United Farmers of Manitoba.

Associated with the regularly appointed members of the Board will be experts from the various branches of the Government service, and any other financial and economic experts who may be called in from time to time to co-operate with the board.

Premier King's announcement was made in answer to a question from Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, who said that he had heard that the Government had appointed a board and it was surprising that no announcement had been made in the House concerning the personnel of the committee.

Returns to Public Life.

Premier King replied that he was glad to say that Mr. Graham had consented to return to public life and accept the chairmanship of the board. The veteran statesman had been reluctant to forego the best and retirement from public life which he felt that he was entitled to. From a sense of public duty, Mr. Graham had decided to accept the post. Mr. King expressed the hope that he would occupy it for many years to come.

Mr. Meighen asked—"What has become of the promised woman member of the board?"

Premier King: "No doubt she will be among the experts immediately to be selected to assist the board."

LITTLE SMUGGLING IN MAILED PAPERS

Montreal Postmaster Doubts This Method Employed.

MONTREAL, Que., March 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Belief expressed by the United States' customs officials that widespread smuggling of dutiable and contraband articles across the border through the medium of mailed newspapers is being carried out, is not shared by Postmaster V. Gaudet here.

"We will, of course, co-operate with the United States post office officials to the utmost of our own resources," said Mr. Gaudet. "What form such co-operation will take, however, I am unable to say.

"Personally, I think very little smuggling is going on between Canada and the United States through newspapers mailed from this country."

In conclusion Mr. Gaudet said that in his opinion it was extremely unlikely contrabandists would attempt to use the newspaper mail service at all extensively as a "bootleg" route for valuable commodities like precious stones, for fear of losing them in transit, but conceded the mailed newspaper might present an attractive underground route for the drugs.

POLICE REVEAL SATANIST SECT

Evidence in Murder Case Points To Devil Worship.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 26. — A Sax Rohmer tale of black magic, of weird rites and supernatural imaginings has been written into the police records of this city, and detectives investigating the murder of Macario Timon have found evidences of a devil cult" of medieval origin.

Timon is believed to have been a member of the "Satanic Order of Lucifer," and to have practised a form of devil worship that drifted westward from Mesopotamia into Spain and from there to Mexico and parts of California.

The coroner's verdict in the murder of Timon, whose body was found last Friday night after he apparently had been dead for 48 hours, was simply that death came from laceration of the throat "by persons unknown." But the police reconstructing the crime believe that he was slain when he threatened to leave the "order" after having failed to find the "key of pacts."

This "key" it was claimed by the devil worshippers, would endow him with supernatural powers.

FRENCH BUDGET PROGRESS SLOW

Revenue Section of Finance Bill Passes Chamber to Senate.

MALVY MAY RESIGN

PARIS, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—Activities relative to M. Percy's financial measures are mostly confined to the lobbies of the chamber of deputies, where the friends of the government are endeavoring to bring into line enough deputies to pass the bills, The weakness of the franc is the argument which has had the most influence in the past two days.

It is regarded as possible that the Government could muster a majority were it not for the determined opposition of the moderates and Conservatives to Louis Malvy's presence in the cabinet as minister of the interior.

Malvy Takes Rest.

M. Malvy went to the South of France a few days ago to recuperate from a collapse which he suffered at the conclusion of a speech in his own defence in the chamber, and it is currently reported that he left his resignation in the hands of Premier Briand, to become effective whenever the premier considered it necessary.

It was remarked by several deputies that M. Briand had sacrificed two ministers of finance, and the least that could be expected of him would be to sacrifice one Minister of the Interior in order to get a majority to pass the financial restoration measures.

The chamber yesterday passed the revenue section of the finance bill by a vote of 415 to 128. This section provides for revenue amounting to 36,451,000,000 francs (about $1,275,885,000) and now goes to the Senate. This, however, does not balance the budget as there is still a deficit of 4,437,000,000 francs.

CAUSES DEADLOCK.

WOMEN IN POLITICS.

Much Praise Bestowed Women at Part Played in Government.

MONTREAL, Que., March 25.—(Canadian Press).—Much praise was bestowed on the part taken by women in politics by Sir George Foster and Senator L'Esperance, in speaking at a luncheon tendered them by the Montreal Women's Liberal - Conservative Association. Sir George Foster traced the history of women's entry into politics as dating from the time when legislation began to concern the home, country.

Mrs. Henry Joseph, who presided, introduced the speaker. Before Senator L'Esperance was introduced, she dwelt on the need for preserving unity between the French and English-speaking races. Mrs. John Scott, who, at the request of Mrs. Henry Joseph, introduced Senator LEsperance, took issue with Sir George upon his statement that "the door is wide open" to women, and inquired whether that was so in regard to the Senate. Indicating the group of three seated at the centre of the head table, Senator Sir George Foster, Mrs. Joseph and Senator L'Esperance, she suggested that they might very fittingly be found together in the Dominion Senate.

DOMINION GOVERNMENT'S SCHEME OF FARM LOANS TO SETTLERS LIMITED TO $5,000,000 ANNUAL SUM

Loans of $1,000 to Canadian Citizens, and $500 to Other Settlers on Crown Lands, Hon. Chas. Stewart Explains.

MR. MEIGHEN NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

Minister of Interior Believes Settlement of Prairie Provinces Would be Rapidly Increased — Loans Could be Protected.

OTTAWA, March 26 (By Canadian Press) — Preliminary to a bill to authorize advances of money to settlers on crown lands, a government resolution was discussed in the House of Commons Thursday.

The resolution sponsored by Hon. Charles Stewart, acting Minister of Immigration, proposes that the government should advance to settlers on crown lands, who are Canadian citizens within the meaning of the Immigration Act, loans up to $1,000 and to other settlers not coming within that definition, loans up to $500. The total sum which the government would be authorized to pay out in any particular year, would be limited to $5,000,000.

Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of the Interior, stated that in the old days of settlement, there had been plenty of land adjacent to the railways which was suitable for farming. There was still a considerable area of crown lands in the prairie provinces within an area of 15 miles from the railways. This land was not, of course, as desirable as that which had been taken up in the early days of settlement. One of the objects of the legislation was to encourage settlers to take up these lands, clear them, and cultivate them. "What we ought to try to do is to consolidate settlement along the existing lines of railway," said Mr. Stewart.

Open New Territory

The minister pointed out that if settlement was pushed back far from the existing lines of railway, settlers were working under a certain amount of hardship and later came a demand for railway extensions. It was desirable to save the Dominion and Provincial Governments the cost of opening up new territory.

It was felt, stated Mr. Stewart, that some difference should be made between Canadian citizens and other settlers. For this reason the maximum amount loanable to a Canadian was placed at $1,000 and to other settlers $500.

Mr. Stewart further stated that the bill was designed to thicken settlement along railway lines. No elaborate system for obtaining these advances was being set up, but government officials qualified in the matter would be on the various settlement loan committees which would be appointed to deal with applications.

Meighen Not Opposed

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen said that he was not opposed to the bill, but he could not feel very enthusiastic about it. It was the sort of measure which was likely to be popular at first, "but after the night of intoxication, there must be an awakening."

Mr. Meighen thought that the Soldiers' Settlement scheme was a parallel to this one. Canada found itself today faced with the necessity for a great new scheme of revaluation of soldier settlement land. The reason for the disappointing results from that attempt at goverment loans to settlers, were well known. He thought that the present plan would be "daily exposed to all the ills that the soldier settlement scheme was."

The minister had said that his new land settlement loan bill would stimulate settlement on homesteads.

Mr. Meighen did not believe that land now available for homesteading would greatly attract new settlers. The minister must be aware that in the west abandoned homesteads were legion, and where they were still occupied, the resident farmer was not the man who originally settled on the land. As a scheme to attract new immigratns the government's loan proposals could only be justified if they were thoroughly practicable. Since the present government came into power, immigration had been "stimulated to death" until last year had proved about the worst for Canada from the point of view of immigration. As a complement to immigration schemes, there might be some measures of justification for the present bill. But having in mind the load of taxation now superimposed upon the backs of Canadian citizens, Mr. Meighen did not feel that the government was really justified in launching unproved schemes which involved, if they were going to be effective, considerable expenditure.

Safeguard Appraisals

John Millar (Progressive-Qu'Appelle) believed that proper safeguards should be placed around the work of appraisal.

Arthur Beaubien (Progressive-Provencher) thought that Mr. Meighen had confuused Manitoba farm loans with the rural credits scheme there. "Manitoba farm loans have been a success," he said. Mr. Beaubien suupported the proposed legislation. Such a scheme would build up the scattered settlements.

Peter McGibbon (Conservative-Muskoka) declared he was opposed to the principle of the resolution. The proposal was unfair to the Dominion of Canada, unfair to the Province, and unfair to the settlers. It was not sound to endeavor to place settlers on "inferior lands." He objected to this method of "spoon feeding people." Canada was not going to have "self reliant" citizens as long as they were going to depend upon the government.

Bennett In Favor

Hon. R. B. Bennett (Conservative-Calgary West) said that he was willing to support the government's resolution simply because he believed it was the duty of the government to assist in every possible way the development of western lands. He believed, however, that the government was destined to be disappointed over the results of its scheme. He urged that the maximum yearly expenditure specified ($5,000,000) should be reduced to a much smaller sum; that the operation should be limited to one year experimentally; and that the government takes steps to prevent abuses of the loan privilege. There was, said Mr. Bennett, a class of potential settlers who were deserving; but it also was possible that the benefits of the act might be extended to people who had settled on lands too far from the railway or unlikely for some other reason to prove remunerative, and in that case, the government's investment would be irretrievably lost. He would like to remind the government that the farm loan schemes in the Western United States had not proved very successful, and Canada should learn from that example. Mr. Bennett did not believe that land which had gone unhomesteaded for the last 25 years were the sort which a government should encourage by monetary loans, new settlers to take up.

The House then went into committee on Mr. Stewart's resolution.

C. H. Cahan (Conservative-St. Lawrence St. George) urged that there should be a time limit set in which the government would continue to extend such loans.

Sir Eugene Fiset (Liberal-Rimouski) said that all crown lands available for settlement in Quebec province were more than 15 miles distant from railways. He asked the minister to give consideration to this point, as he understood the legislation proposed would apply only to lands within 15 miles from railway lines.

Toronto Opposition

David Spence (Conservative-Parkdale) said we were "loading up the industrial world." Too great a burden was being placed on the east and he suggested the withdrawal of the proposal.

Mr. Stewart replied that there evidently was some "misapprehension" in respect to the scheme. He felt he could safeguard the legislation so thoroughly "that the losses will be reduced to a minimum."

Mr. Forke's Comment

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, said he doubted whether any great sum of money would be spent in this scheme. He doubted whether $5,000,000 would be used in ten years. He thought that the scheme was one which would be taken advantage of only by working men.

Mr. Forke protested against the argument that the east was being made to pay for the west when legislation beneficial to the western farmer was introduced in the house. Why, he asked, should eastern members claim that anything done for the west was an added burden to the east. What he wanted was a United Canada, and he thought talk such as referred to was detrimental to the progress of the country.

All the members agreed that increased population was a most important thing for Canada, said Mr. Forke. What was to be done with the new people when got them. The agricultural population must be increased if Canada was to prosper, and the way to do it was to take steps which would make those now on the farms prosperous and happy.

DIED OF PARIS GREEN.

Evidence in Trial of Hull Woman.

OTTAWA, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Wilfrid Derome, Quebec medico-legal expert, testified yesterday the death of William Henri Martel was undoubtedly caused by paris green poisoning. He gave evidence at the trial of Mrs. Dora Navion Paquette, who is accused of the murder of Martel, her common law husband. Powder which the doctor found in the intestines of the dead man and which he later found in the Martel home, both were paris green. High Constable Joseph Chevalier, who accompanied Dr. Derome in his search of the Martel home produced a note which he found there. It read: "Dear Dora. Tired of life. Beg pardon of you and the children." The note was unsigned.

BROADENED THEIR SCOPE

Botnick Bros. Move Into the Store Lately Occupied By Jeffries a Good Move.

Yesterday saw one of our George Street business houses take a move ahead, when Botnick Bros. vacated their store at 432 George Street and moved into the fine roomy store recently occupied by the Jeffries business. Botnick Bros. came to Peterboro eight years ago, and started in a rather small way, handling ladies' ready-to-wear, etc., and have gradually won the confidence of a large circle of patrons. For some time the firm has been on the lookout for larger premises, where their growing business could be better handled, both in their own and their customers' interests, and when the opportunity came to secure the fine store they have now moved into, they quickly availed themselves of it. The stock was transferred yesterday, and a large staff of helpers are busy in an effort to settle down temporarily and be ready to welcome the firm's customers in the new store.

With the brighter surroundings and more roomy quarters, Messrs. Botnick Bros. will feel that they have indeed moved up the ladder both of utility and situation.

MONTREAL WOMEN APPEAL TO COUNCIL IN THEIR QUEST OF MUNICIPAL FRANCHISE

Right To Vote Should Not Be Restricted To Married Women Having Certain Property Qualifications — Set Back in Legislature.

MONTREAL, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—Montreal women interested in citizenship for their sex are determined not to be deterred by the defeat of the amendment in the Montreal bill in regard to giving women of Montreal the right to vote in municipal elections, last week in the Quebec Legislature. At a meeting held here Thursday, under the auspices of the Provincial Committee for Women's Franchise, it was pointed out that married women with the necessary property qualifications and separate as to property have had the right to vote at municipal elections in the City of Quebec since 1854 and it was the unanimous opinion of the meeting that Montreal women should have like privileges.

A letter drafted by the meeting will be sent to the aldermanic candidates in the coming civic elections containing the following questions:

"Are you in favor of vote for women upon the same terms as men?

"If elected will you support by your vote and influence any measure along this line which may be brought before the City Council in future."

This letter will be signed by representatives of the committee for civic rights for women and it was intimated that if no answer was received before March 31, it would be assumed by the committee that the aldermen were opposed to the above requests.

The meeting was largely attended by both French and English members and was presided over by Mrs. John Scott, in absence of both the French and English presidents.

WINNIPEG MURDER.

Common Law Wife Beaten To Death.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 26. — (Canadian Press.)— Without visible interest in the proceedings, Dan Proskin, charged with the murder of his common law wife, Mrs. Annie Ardno, who was beaten to death in her home here on March 16, sat in the prisoners dock at the city police station Thursday while witnesses, mostly police officials, related events of the crime.

An alleged confession from the accused, in which he admitted hitting the woman, was produced, and evidence concerning the post mortem examination dealt with. Blood stains found on his clothing Proskin told the police, were the result of an accident. He had cut his hand with an axe, and the stains were from the wound.

The case was adjourned one week, while police seek a missing witness, "French Mary" Norman, who visited the woman on the afternoon of the murder.

WOMAN FACES MURDER CHARGE

Infant's Body Left on Doorstep—Envelope in Bundle.

MOTHER DIVORCED.

TORONTO, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Following the finding of a male infant on the rear verandah of John Kneeshaw's home, yesterday morning, Jean Fraser, aged 34, was taken into custody on a charge of murder. The body of the infant was removed to the morgue.

Last night the prisoner was removed from the police station to St. Michael's Hospital.

The baby was discovered by Kneeshaw when he opened the back door yesterday morning. It was wrapped in a newspaper.

But in her haste the woman wrapped an envelope in the paper also. This envelope, bearing her name and address, was found by Kneeshaw, and led to the arrest.

Mrs. Fraser is a Scotch woman. Some years ago she was divorced from her husband, who is resident in Glasgow with his three children.

FOREIGN POWERS DRAFT TARIFF SCHEDULES FOR CHINA BUT LACK AGREEMENT ON USE OF REVENUES

Schedules Closely Follow Proposals Made by Chinese Last October.

AUTONOMY IN 1929

Powers Determined Tax on Internal Trade Shall Be Lifted.

PEKING, March 26.—(Canadian Press).—Representatives of the powers in the international conference on Chinese tariffs, after many weeks of committee discussion and in spite of the reign of civil war and the rapid changing of Chinese Cabinets, have practically reached an agreement on a new tariff schedule for China, but have yet to agree with the Chinese as to the disposition of the additional revenues to be derived.

The schedules evolved in committee are in substantial accord with the proposals made by the Chinese delegates at the opening of the conference last October, for the levying of surtaxes ranging from five to 30 per cent. prior to the granting of full tariff autonomy to China in 1929. These schedules have yet to be discussed with the Chinese.

Purposes of Revenue.

There remains, moreover, the difficult problem of reaching an agreement with the Chinese Government as to the purposes to which the new revenues shall be applied. The powers are firmly determined that they shall be employed to finance the abolition of the Likin, or tax on internal trade, which China has undertaken to do away with for the service of bonds issued to cover China's outstanding unsecured or inadequately secured foreign and domestic debts and for administrative purposes. The powers also demand that adequate assurances be given that the funds are so employed.

Consideration of this subject has been delayed by China's defaults on railway loans, particularly on the Hukuang Railway's loan of 1911, and the Tientsin-Pukow bonds. The terms under which these loans were negotiated contemplate that, if there is a default of payment from the railway revenues, then the interest and installments due shall be paid from the surplus customs receipts. Already the defaults total $2,500,000 (Mexican), and if the default continues throughout 1927, the total which will fall upon the customs will be $21,000,000 (Mexican). (The Mexican dollar is worth about 56 cents).

New Law Codes.

The International Commission charged with studying the question of extra-territorial provisions in China has concluded its examination of the new law codes published by China. The members of the commission intend to sail from Tientsin on April 6 for Shanghai. There they will split into two groups, one of which will visit Hankow and the other Canton. After this they will return to North China and visit the Manchurian cities of Mukden and Harbin.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR ROBERT FAIR

Friends Gather at His Home To Celebrate His Birthday.

VETERAN MERCHANT.

About fifty friends of Robert Fair gathered as a surprise party at his home 505 Dickson street, last night. The evening was spent in games after which a luncheon was held. A large birthday cake adorned with numerous candles, was in the centre of the table. Many speeches were made and the evening passed very joyfully.

Mr .Fair is the oldest merchant doing business to-day on George street, having started about forty years ago. Mr. Fair is the son of the late William Fair, who came from the north of Ireland, and was one of the pioneer settlers of Cavan, being a Cavan Blazer. His father settled at Centreville on the farm owned now by J. N. McGill. Mr. Fair went to the little red school house just north of Centreville.

Early in life Mr. Fair took to business, buying out the store at Centreville, owned by the late Hugh Wadell. From Centreville he went to Port Hope to do business, and from there he came to Peterborough, some forty years ago.

Mr. Fair is a member of St. John's Anglican church, and is also a Mason. There is no man in Peterboro today who knows the public like Mr. Fair; he always has a joke and a story for everyone he meets.

PROVINCE ASKED FOR ASSISTANCE

Municipalities Seek Share of Some Taxes—Mayor Holloway Present.

FERGUSON REPLIES.

TORONTO, March 26 (Canadian Press).—"When we feel that we can abandon some sources of taxation we will do it cheerfully," Premier G. Howard Ferguson told a large deputation of Mayors and other representatives of about 25 Ontario municipalities who visited the Parliament Buildings to-day to ask the Provincial Cabinet to turn over to the municipalities a certain percentage of the various amusement, gasoline and other taxes.

The deputation complained that assistance was absolutely necessary because the province had cut deeply into municipal sources of revenue. Premier Ferguson pointed out that the Government had made strenuous efforts to reduce expenditures but found it was impossible. If taxation was decreased expenditures would have to be reduced and certain charges on the province were increasing yearly. He appreciated the unanimity with which the deputation had expressed its moderate requests.

Mayor Holloway and City Clerk S. R. Armstrong are in Toronto representing Peterborough on this delegation.

Trading Becomes Uneven On the Mining Exchange

CHICAGO, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Active trading and higher prices to-day in the wheat market here accompanied the word of decided fresh advances in quotations at Liverpool, where scentiness of world shipments and better demand from Continental Europe were the strengthening factors.

Reports that three days of high winds in Nebraska may have seriously damaged winter wheat tended further to lift values here. Advices were also at hand that, with the shipping demand increasing and with receipts negligible, the entire depletion of stocks appeared imminent.

Chicago, opening 1 to 1½c higher, May (new) 158 to 158¼ and July 137 7-8 to 138 1-8, were followed by further gains. Assertions that for the present the heavy country marketings of corn is overhelped to strengthen the values of corn and oats. After opening 3-8 to 3-4c higher, May 73 1-8 to 73¼, the corn market scored additional upturns. Oats started 3-8 to ½c up, May 39 5-8 to 39 3-4, and later continued to harden. Provisions were responsive to the advance of grain values.

Prices Show Upward Trend Despite Trading Attacks

NEW YORK, March 26. — Canadian Press. — Stock prices maintained an upward trend to-day, despite another attempt of bear traders to unsettle the general list by heavy selling of public utility and food shares.

Buying was influenced by the speculative belief that the market had been oversold, at least temporarily. With several of the high grade industrial and railroad issues down to levels which made their dividend yield basis attractive to investors, constructive forces found little difficulty in attracting buyers of these issues; rapid run-up in many stocks also suggested retreat of an overcrowded short interest, early gains of 2 to 6 points being spread over a rather broad list.

General Electric and Atlantic Coast Line were bid up at least six points above yesterday's final figures. Dupont over five and Sears-Roebuck, Mack Trucks, General Motors, American Loco, American Smelting and Allied Chemical 2 to 4.

Mines Weakest To-day Rest Of List Is Firmer

TORONTO, March 26.— (Canadian Press.) — General strength marked the trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, all sections of the market except mines showing firmness. Outstanding gains were the two and a half points advance in Smelters, at 198 1-4, and two points in Canadian Pacific at 157. Brazilian advanced a half at 89, Steel of Canada preferred three-quarters at 118 1-2, and Twin City a half at 71 1-4. British Columbia Fishing firmed three-quarters at 67 1-2. Dome Mines sold down fifty cents at 16.00 and McIntyre four at 23.76.

Trading Becomes Active Wheat Gains Big Increase

TORONTO, Mar. 26 (Canadian Press) — The trend of the market was uncertain on the mining exchange this morning, strong upward movements contrasting with the weaker issues. Tough Oakes gained 1 1-2 at 47 and Teck Hughes lost six at 292. McIntyre gained 15 cents at 23.90 while Dome, weakest spot on the list, lost sixty at 15.85. Barry Hollinger advanced 1 1-2 at 42 and Capitol lost 1 1-2 at 41.

FIRED HIS HOME TWO WOMEN DIE

Ohio Farmer Confesses To Deliberate Crime in February.

WERE A BURDEN.

WEST UNION, Ohio, March 26. — The burden of caring for his crippled wife, Eliza, 62, and her aged mother, Mrs. Rebecca Craigmeil, 92, "was unbearable," Thomas Hill, 50, West Union farmer, told police Thursday in a confession in which he recounted how he deliberately fired his home, burning the two women to death.

The house was destroyed by flames February 13. Convinced that the blaze had been the work of an arsonist, police kept Hill under surveillance until late Wednesday, when they arrested him. His alleged confession and a second supplemental one followed.

Hill insisted he killed the women because they were "too great a burden for him."

"Both were hopelessly crippled," he calmly declared. "I had to take care of them all the time. I had no freedom. Both were going to die, anyway," he explained.

On the day the house was destroyed, Hill said, he poured kerosene about the house, ignited it and ran to the barn to watch the flames through a crack.

As the blaze ate through the flimsy structure, remorse and fright seized him, he said. He summoned neighbors and made a desperate attempt to save the women.

TO REVALUE LAND SOLD TO SOLDIERS

Resolution Introduced in the House of Commons To Aid Setlers.

OTTAWA, March 26 (Canadian Press).—A resolution to provide for the re-valuation of soldiers' settlement lands and district arbitration committees to hear petitions by soldier settlers for re-valuation was introduced in the House of Commons last night by Hon. Charles Stewart, acting Minister of Immigration.

Mr. Stewart said that the proposed measure was one which was the result of requests made to the Government on behalf of soldier settlers. It was an endeavor to make redress to the settlers whose lands had been purchased from them during the period of inflated prices.

In some instances, land had been bought at $40 an acre, while prevailing prices were $25 or $30 in the same district.

RADIO USEFUL IN NORTHWEST

National Defence Officer Tells of Stations Being Installed.

SIMPLE APARATUS.

Last night, at the regular meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada Major Arthur W. Steel of the Department of National Defence in Ottawa, gave an address on the "Installation and Operation of the North-West Territories Radio System."

Major Steel first pointed out the different districts that the North-West Territories have been divided into. District One included the basin of the Mackenzie River and has from it a sub-district, the Yukon territory. This district is supplied from Edmonton. District Two includes section around Hudson Bay, Baffin Island and points north; this district is supplied from Ottawa.

District One is the part where there has been considerable development. The basin of the Mackenzie River is thought to be very rich in silver and also oil. Fully two-thirds the furs produced in Canada come from this region.

This region is vast in extent, so if it is ever to be developed, communication must come first, then transportation, and from these two development will follow. "Some people ask why has not the telegraph been used as a manner of communication," said the speaker. His answer was that places are so far apart that the cost would be tremendous."

Fort Smith is the principal centre of this district, being the seat of government, and a point through which all baggage and supplies must pass in going into the Mackenzie Basin. Major Steel went on to show the places where the stations were established, pointing out the difficulties in establishing these stations and showing the value of these stations.

The value of this radio system, said the speaker, was in its speedy communication to the people in there. The tranper now could get over the radio the price he ought to receive for his furs, and then he could go to the Hudson Bay post and demand that price. All orders from the mining companies are sent out over the radio. Lately the weatherman in Toronto has come to believe that the section of country around the Mackenzie Basin has a lot to do with the weather conditions elswhere in Canada, so reports of the weather are sent to him in Toronto twice a day from all stations along the Mackenzie River. The United States weather bureau has also asked for these reports. Then again the Canadian Press sends in a resume of the news of the world every day, so that the inhabitants in these may know what is being done in the world outside. The radio stations are of the simplest type possible, a three kilowatt Delco plant charging the batteries. Everything in the system is self- contained, so there can be no serious mishap to upset communication, especially when engineers are so far distant.

Mr. Steel illustrated his address by lantern slides, which were very interesting and descriptive of the country. E. R. Shirley, M.E.I.C., occupied the chair.

KIP RHINELANDER IS AGAIN A LOSER

Motion To Set Aside Jury's Verdict Denied.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., March 26.—Leonard Kip Rhinelander came out loser again Thursday in another step in his litigation to annul his marriage to Alice Beatrice Jones Rhinelander, on the grounds that negro blood flowed in her veins.

Supreme Court Justice Morschauser denied the motion of young Rhinelander's attorneys to set aside the jury's verdict, which sustained the legality of the marriage, and also denied the motion for a new trial.

Briefs on these motions recently were filed.

An immediate appeal is expected.

Counsel fees of $12,000 were allowed against young Rhinelander, Justice Morschauser cutting the original request for $25,000 to that amount, in a separate memorandum which he handed down.

Asks Also That Department Police Patrol Main Highways.

The following resolution were passed by the Peterboro branch of the Ontario Motor League.

The O. M. L., Peterborough branch, commends the Department of Public Highways for the efficient manner in which the Highways were policed in 1925 and are unequivocally opposed to any rearrangement which will transfer the policing of the highways to another department.

"Whereas certain sections of the road connecting Peterborough with Lindsay via Fowlers' Corners, Omemee and Reaboro have fallen into a very bad state of repair.

"Resolved that the O. M. L., Peterborough branch, strongly recommends, in the interests of the community, and to facilitate tourist traffic through this area, that the Department of Public Highways complete the construction of a provincial highway connecting highways 12 and 12A through the city, town and villages above named."

FINE PROGRAMME AT KIWANIS CLUB

Male Voice Choir Concert Soloists Entertain Members at Luncheon.

INTERESTING TALK.

Peterborough Kiwanis Club had a galaxy of artists today, including Miss Downing harpist, of Toronto, and Kiwanian Albert David of the Downtown Club, Toronto. Miss Downing presented a beautiful harp number, and Kiwanian David sang three selections. Dr. G. S. Cameron was the speaker of the day, giving an interesting address on the work of the Peterborough Health Association.

Charlie Cook presided, taking advice occasionally from the president, John Craig. The following guests were entertained: F. G. Gandy, president; Arthur Pitchford, secretary, and W. F. Skitch and Dr. C. H. Fulford, members, of Peterborough Male Voice Choir; Harry Rush, James Hamilton and Dr. F. C. Neal. Frank Stinson presented a bouquet to Miss Downing.

Dr. Cameron

Dr. Cameron thanked Kiwanis Club for the interest it had taken in the affairs of the Peterborough Health Association.

During the year just past the Association functioned as usual in three branches—a general service through a nurse who is constantly on duty; a service to tuberculosis patients; and the summer camp at Jackson Park, in which Kiwanis Club is particularly interested. Last year there were 160 children at the camp ranging from 6 to 14 yeas of age. A fully qualified nurse has charge of the children. All the children attending the camp were medicaly examined through the kindness of several medical men who gave their services.

The Health Association feels that Kiwanis Club has been very generous in the past and equipment is adequate this year. It was suggested that teaching along kindergarten lines might be attempted and Dr. Cameron suggested that the salary of a teacher be this year's Kiwanis contribution to the camp.

Sanatorium Needed

Dr. Cameron told of the benefits to be derived from a sanitorium for tuberculosis patients of Peterborough city and county. This is the only city in Canada that has not made provision for tuberculosis sufferers.

Last year 14 people died in Peterborough as the result of tuberculosis and in 3 years there were 40. For every one that dies there are said to be ten cases.

The hospitals in the city are doing splendid work but very litle is being done for tuberculosis patients.

Objections have been made, but Dr. Cameron thinks they would not weigh against facts. The building of a sanitorium would not label the city as the congregating place of tuberculosis patients. Assistance is given by the Provincial Government, in the erection of sanitoria, and a per week allowance is made toward the care of patients.

The excessive cost of maintaining patients in these sanatoria is no longer something to frighten municipalities.

It is a far more serious thing to have 140 tuberculosis sufferers roaming loose around the city than to face the expenditure necessary to give these patients a suitable treatment in an appropriate building in the midst of their friends, Dr. Cameron said, and while he did not suggest the immediate erection of a sanatorium, he thought that he way should be cleared for an improvement that must come.

The vote of thanks was proposed by George N. Gordon.

INTERNATIONAL BIBLE STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION

When Jesus Christ was upon earth He stated that His mission was "to preach the gospel to the poor; to heal the broken hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, recovery of sight to the blind; to set at liberty them that are bruised, and to preach the acceptable year of the Lord."

THIS COMMISSION was also given to His disciples who were sent forth to "preach this gospel unto all nations for a witness." The consummation of this preaching was to be found in the end of earth's night of sin and degradation and the dawn of a new age of blessing, happiness and contentment.

THAT the whole world today is in a condition of unrest and dissatisfaction is admitted by all thinking people. That the plans and schemes of the world's statesmen and politicians for alleviation of the conditions are at best only palliatives and not permanent cures is also admitted. This being so, the surest hope of emancipation lies in the intervention of some beneficient power which cannot be swayed by any corrupt influence, and which is able and willing to adjust all unjust and inequitable conditions to the benefit of all.

CHRISTIANS have prayed for 1900 years for the coming of this kingdom of justice and righteousness; "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth, as in Heaven."

THIS ASPECT of world conditions will be dealt with in the lecture:

BABE RUTH, LEFT, AND "TOT" SHANER

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 26.—If Outfielder Shaner makes good for the Boston Red Sox, the American League is to have a double for Babe Ruth, in appearances at least. Shaner is six feet, two, weighs 195 pounds, just about Babe's weight when he made his American League debut as a pitcher. Unlike Babe, he hits from the right side of the plate.

There is a decided facial as well as physical resemblance between the youngster and the Yankee star.

MILLION PEOPLE WILL VIEW RACE

Annual Rowing Event Between Oxford and Cambridge Tomorrow.

KEEN INTEREST

LONDON, Eng., March 26.—(By Canadian Press).—One of the big sports events of the year to Londoners and others, the Oxford-Cambridge University boat race on the Thames, which annually draws crowds of spectators estimated all the way from 500,000 to 1,000,000 will take place on Saturday, March 27. This will be the 78th race between the Dark Blue (Oxford) and the Light Blue (Cambridge) and as usual keen interest is being shown in the coming contest.

The race last year was disappointing in the fact that there was a cold wind which churned the water up to such an extent that the Oxford boat became water-logged and the Dark Blue was unable to remain in the contest to the end. The Thames was very rough, especially on the south or Surrey side, which the Oxford crew perforce had to take because Cambridge won the toss and chose the Middlesex or north shore, which furnished some protection from the biting wind. Cambridge finished the race alone, the time being 21 minutes and 51 seconds, slower than usual but regarded as creditable in view of the wind and water conditions.

The course, from Putney to Mortlake is 4¼ miles.

Cambridge's victory last year was the 36th win for the Light Blue, four less than that of Oxford. Cambridge was the general favorite before the 1925 race. The 1877 race resulted in a tie. Since the war Cambridge has won every race except one, Oxford being victorious in 1923. During the war the annual inter-university boat races were suspended.

In last year's contest Cambridge started with a stroke of 34 and Oxford 33. The latter jumped into the lead and at the first quarter-mile was a quarter of a length ahead. Cambridge however soon overtook its rivals and at the mile post was leading by about three length. At Hammersmith Bridge, nearly two miles from the starting point, Cambridge led by more than 100 yards, and this lead had been increased to 120 yards when the Oxford crew was forced to quit on account of its boat being water-logged. Thereafter Cambridge rowed alone until the full distance of 4¼ miles had been covered.

The extremely unfavorable condition under which last years race was rowed led old-timers to recall some interesting past experiences.

In 1912, when the race was set for March 30, the Cambridge boat sank near Harrods, a mile and a half from Putney, while the Oxford eight had to bail the water out of their boat before entering Chiswick Reach a mile further on. The umpires declare it no race and it was arranged that the race should be rowed on April 1. Oxford then won by six lengths.

Away back in 1859 there was a sensational race between Oxford and Cambridge. Some idea of the condition of that occasion may be gathered from the official announcement at the conclusion as follows: "Oxford won in 24 minutes, 20 seconds, and Cambridge sank." On that memorable day Putney Reach was a veritable sea, and the Cambridge boat shipped water all the way down until it finally sank beneath the waves on passing Barnes Bridge, about a mile from the finishing point. Oxford paddled home in a sinking state.

The first race over the present course, which took place in 1845, also has a prominent place in the inter-university boat race chronicles. In that year the race was rowed with the thermometer registering 12 degrees of frost and ice was floating in the Thames.

Previous to the 1925 race there was an epidemic of influenza and both crews were affected by it. Oxford suffered more than Cambridge from sickness and some last-minute changes in the Oxford crew became necessary.

The first row of the long series of boat races between the two universities was rowed in 1829 but the annual contests were not instituted until some years later.

AT K. OF C. ALLEYS.

At the Knights of Columbus' bowling alleys last evening, ladies' teams bowling scheduled games were the Tulips (Miss Josephine Hunt, captain), who won two games out of three from the Regler Fellers (Miss Florence Giroux, captain), thus breaking the tie between the two teams, and the Marigolds (Miss Nora Shevlin, captain) to whom the Roses (Miss Mamie Archambault, captain) concede three games. This continues the tie for second place between the Marigolds and the Wrens (Miss Myra Moloney, captain), and the two teams will have to play off to decide second and third place in the League games, which finish this week.

Miss Josephine Hunt created a new record last evening for ladies' high three games, making scores of 223, 201 and 184. Mrs. H. O'Heron of the Tulips' team made 153, and members of the Regler Fellers' team who had nice scores were Miss Marguerite Merrell 202, Miss F. Giroux 169, and Mrs. J. J. Southern 150. The Marigolds played off their three games and had some nice scores: Miss Kathleen Garden 183 and 170, Miss Carmelita Crowley 183, Miss Jeanne Girard 152, and Miss Catheleen McCarthy 163.

This evening sees the concluding games in the Ladies' Bowling League, when the Bluebells (Miss Gertrude Doyle, captain) and the West Ends (Mrs. J. J. Doris, captain) meet, also the Owls (Miss Katherine McDonald, captain) and the Buttercups (Miss Margaret O'Toole, captain).

A short schedule of games for ladies has been planned for the month of April, and many of the teams who have been playing all winter are entering this for a final contest of skill. Several of the teams which played indifferently in the beginning of the season, owing to unpractised players, have come up splendidly in the last few weeks, and the short schedule should prove interesting to all the players.

BANDIT SHOOTS BANK MANAGER

Flees Strathroy Bank After Shooting With No Loot.

CAR ABANDONED.

STRATHROY, March 25—A lone bandit attempted to hold up the Royal Bank at the corner of Front and Frank streets here at three o'clock yesterday afternoon and after wounding the bank manager with a revolver shot, escaped in a motor car. He got no money, and it is reported that he had to abandon the car two miles north of Strathroy on the London-Sarnia highway.

Shot in Forearm

F. P. Hughes, manager of the bank, was wounded when he came out of the office on hearing a disturbance in the bank. He was carrying his revolver in his hand, but without warning the bandit fired, striking Mr. Hughes in the right forearm, near the wrist. This shot disabled the arm in which the manager held his revolver. Then the bandit fled, followed by the bank accountant, S. G. Moore, who, also armed with a revolver, chased him out in the street, and got several motorists to follow the robber's car.

It was just after three o'clock that a young man entered the bank premises, and walking up to the teller William Johnson, asked him to give him bills in change for eight quarters. As the teller turned to him, the bandit, seeing that there was no one in the bank but the bank staff, pulled a revolver and demanded, "Hands up."

The only people in the bank were the teller and accountant, and a ledger-keeper, a stenographer and a junior clerk. The bandit ordered all off them to throw up their hands, but found difficulty in keeping all of them covered with his gun.

Mr. Hughes heard the disturbance and came out of the door of his office. Just at the door he met the bandit, who fired, making a lucky hit. It was apparently a .22 calibre revolver that he was using, for the lead bullet was found after going through Mr. Hughes' arm.

Think Car Abandoned

The bandit is described as a young man about 25 years old, dark, about five feet, eight inches tall, weighing 145-150 pounds, wearing a brown overcoat and a cap, and with a piece of black court plaster on his chin.

The car in which he escaped and which had been left in front of the bank was a small six cylinder sedan, on which the license numbers had been apparently changed. The number as it read belonged to a London man whose car on investigation was learned to be in his garage and which was of an entirely different make than the bandit car. The report that the bandit had to abandon his car on account of mud and take to the fields has not been officially confirmed yet.

PRODUCTION IS BEING INCREASED

Iron and Steel Industry of Canada is Speeding Up.

PRICES HIGHER

TORONTO, March 26.—In a summary of the iron, steel and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following comment this week:

Production is being speeded up to a still higher degree in the iron and steel industry as consumers book new business and find themselves in need of supplies. The action last week of Montreal and Eastern Canada mills in advancing bar and shape prices has given the entire Canadian structure added strength.

It is thought unlikely that higher prices will be reached in [illegible] ing mood.

Aggressive operation of all the subsidiary plants of the Britsh Empire Steel Corporation is planned for the summer, Vice-President J. E. McLurg stating good orders are being received, but declining to comment on the report that a further rail order for 75,000 tons had been received. Besco's satisfactory wage agreement with the Nova Scotia miners is expected to bring two years labor peace.

Heavy shipments of steel are being made to the Chute a Caron site of the aluminum development from Montreal. English Electric Co. have received a contract from the St. Lawrence Pulp and Paper Co., for complete electrical equipment for their new plant at Three Rivers for the electrical equipment for the addition to the Brompton Pulp and Paper Co.'s mills, for complete power plant for the town of Coaticook, Que., and for electrical equipment for the Coniarum mine in Porcupine.

The non-ferrous metals has a comparatively quiet week, with normal trading and good demand for supplies. Prices have been unchanged in the Canadian market, while international quotations are firm and steady. Tin is still scarce. The demand for second quarter supplies is giving strength to prices.

NY FAVORITES OF SCREEN N IN "THUNDER MOUNTAIN" NEW FOX PICTURE

ge Bellamy, Alec Francis and Zasu Pitts Cast in Film Version of John Golden's Stage Success, "Howdy Folks"

SCHERTZINGER IS DIRECTOR

Thunder Mountain," a thrilling of the Kentucky hill country, ed by William Fox from the Golden stage success "Howdy ," will be shown today at the Re- Theatre.

to this fascinating picture is n the romance of a little circus waif and an idealistic mountain lad, together with that of an ignorant little mountain girl and her father's feudal enemy, the thrilling battles of the Givens Gang and the very human comedy found in the crude ways of the people who live on Thunder Mountain.

There are many favorites included in the all-star cast who so ably portray the characters. Madge Bellamy heads the list as Arelea, the little circus girl—Leslie Fenton, one of the most promising of the younger generation of male stars, plays opposite her in the role of Sam Martin, the mountain lad whose ambition is to clean up Thunder Mountain.

Paul Panzer, the villain of the famous "Perils of Pauline" is Morgan, the evil owner of the little two-ring circus from which Arelea runs away. Alec Francis is the lovable old circuit-rider whose kindly influence and religious "Ma" Mac Birney and Dan Mason her henpecked spouse.

"THE ENCHANTED HILL."

With a very attractive title, an interesting cast that includes Jack Holt, Florence Vidor, Noah Beery and Mary Brian, "The Enchanted Hill," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end, is one of those productions that commences admirably and then flattens out in the middle like a soggy pancake. It starts out with all the elements of one of those breezy western pictures that are very familiar to the majority of theatre-goers but still retain a good deal of attraction by reason of their backgrounding and swift action, but it doesn't live up to the promise of its youth. As far as it goes, it's all right, but it doesn't go far enough. There is a good deal of excitement in some of the scenes and plenty of humor also in the presentation of Jake, the villainous-looking foreman, but the plot weakens at the finale, and the good acting of the cast combined with the picturesque screening, cannot make up for the lack of continuity in the theme. One wonders just why producers put pictures like this out on the road.

The short reels are the most amusing part of the programme, with a Pathe comedy, "Window Dummy," the interesting Topics of the Day, a cartoon fable and one of Felix the Cat's specialties.—Jeanette.

TORONTO AWARDED THIRD ALLAN CUP IF VARSITY WINS TONIGHT

First Game With Fort William Not Largely Attended in Montreal.

RULES DISCUSSED

MONTREAL, Que., March 26. — Canadian Press. — If a third game is necessary to decide the amateur hockey championship of Canada the deciding contest will be played in Toronto next Monday night.

This was decided at a special executive meeting of the Canadian amateur hockey association held on Thursday afternoon following the regular general sessions of the association now convened in Montreal.

The first game of the Allan Cup series was played at the forum Wednesday night and the second is scheduled for to-night, also at the forum Port Arthur won the first game 1 to 0, but in the event of University of Toronto winning to-night's fixture a third game will be necessary.

Ottawa put in a strong bid for the deciding game, if one has to be played, but the majority of the executive members thought that Toronto would be the ideal place. The financial question had a good deal to do with the possible third contest, the only fair attendance at the opening fixture in Montreal having something to do with the switching of the game from here. It was also felt that support would not be as strong in Ottawa as in Toronto, so the Queen City obtained the majority vote.

Bylaws Amended.

At the regular morning and afternoon sessions several changes in the bylaws of the association were made while other changes were proposed, and acted upon at to-day's session, which will probably bring the annual meeting to a close; also officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

Additions or changes which were passed follow:

The President will in future have power at random to call on clubs to show their books to be regularly audited.

Any branch not having declared a champion by March 5 will be automatically suspended from all cup play downs. The same applies to the junior championship elimination.

Any officials of clubs who make overtures or certain inducements to players will be made to sever his connection with that club or any other amateur hockey organization for a certain period. Formerly only the player at fault was penalized but from now on the official who is responsible for the erring ways of the player will also be disciplined.

New articles of agreement between the A. A. U. of C. and the C. A. H. A. drawn up by a joint committee, and passed upon by the C.A.H.A., the A.A.U. of C., has yet to ratify the agreement.

Standardise Expenses.

It was proposed to standardise the expenses allowed teams in Allan cup competition as well as the junior finals. A committee was appointed to talk the matter over with W. E. Allan Cup trustee.

It was proposed to change the —residence rule to Jan. 1st, or revert back to the old rule of Aug. 1st, but it was finally decided leave the residence as it stan present, May 15th.

The question of junior age was talked over and there is babability that at to-morrow mor session the age limit will be to 21 years of age instead of 2 now stands.

Discuss Rules.

President Frank Calder o National Hockey League, the ern professional organization, president at the afternoon ses the invitation of President Qui the C.A.R.A. to balk with the gates about a possible standa tion of the rules of hockey. I finally ecided to appoint a co tee from the C.A.H.A. to me similar one from the N.H.L. f ing the annual meeting of the organization.

Treasurer-Registrar Hewitt C.A.H.A. and Chairman of the Committee, announced that no es were to be made in the a playing rules for the 1926-27 but that in 1927-28 it was to gested that the goal-keepers' p reduced in width from 12 to 10 Mr. Calder thought the onl out of the present low-scorin was to increase the width goal nets.

OTTAWA TEAM FOR CENTRAL LEAGUE?

Triangular Circuit Doesn't Please Kingston Club.

KINGSTON, March 26 (Canadian Press).—A meeting of the executive of the Kingston Baseball Club was held Wednesday night, but little progress was made owing to the uncertain condition of the Central Ontario Baseball League. Right at present it looks as though Kingston, Belleville and Peterboro would be the only three teams in the league. This of course would not be very acceptable if other arrangements could be made.

It is just possible that Ottawa may enter the league in place of Oshawa, which club dropped out. Ottawa would be a good drawing card and though it might be a rather long jump for the Peterboro team, there is little doubt that the Petes [illegible] that jump than

QUEBEC CHAMPIONS EMPLOYED BAILIFF

St. Francis Xavier Team Issue Writ For Game.

MONTREAL, March 26 (Canadian Press).—A monkey wrench was thrown into the thus far peaceful machinery of the Amateur Hockey convention here Thursday when a bailiff from the Superior Court served a writ upon President Finch of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association on behalf of the St. Francois Xavier club of this city, who are still claimants for the right to play off for the Allan Cup as representing the Province of Quebec.

The writ was a demand that consideration be given at once to a protest filed by St. Francois Xavier on March 26th against the methods used in the play-off and against the right of the Sons of Ireland to enter the Quebec series, which St. Francois Xavier won.

The action seems to imply that St. Francois Xavier expects that the entire play-off series is to be thrown out as irregular.

The lawyers in the case for St. Francois are Cormier and Forget, and their notice gave President [illegible] inch 24 hours in which to reply or e brought before the courts.

What the outcome of the case will e is difficult to say, but it created tremendous if subdued excitement nong the amateur hockey delegates om all over the country assembled re.

JUNIOR FINAL ROUND IS TIED

Calgary Canadiens Beat Kingston 3-2 in Second Game.

PLAY TO-NIGHT.

WINNIPEG, March 26.—(Canadian Press.)— The Calgary Canadiens stayed right in the running for the Dominion junior hockey championship by defeating Kingston here last night by the score of 3 to 2.

With an even break in the two games played to date, the teams will decide the issue in a sudden death contest to-night. The westerns launched a determined attack in the first period which netted them two goals.

The middle period was scoreless, but Kingston came through with a characteristic fighting finish to tie the score mid way through the third. Savage, a defence player, stick-handled through the Kingston team to score the winning goal of the game before the bell ended the final period.

The game was played before a small crowd of about 1,200 fans. The fast Calgary outfit showed a complete reversal over their first game on Tuesday and were full value for their victory last night. They took a two goal lead in the first period, outplayed their opponents in the scoreless second period, and after watching Kingston stage one of their characteristic comebacks to tie up th the count in the final spasm, the Canadiens still had something in reserve to notch the winning counter wi th only a matter of seconds to go. It was Calgary's forward line's close back-checking that was really responsible for the victory.

MONTREAL, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Ottawa Senators and Montreal Maroons will enter the second game of the final play-offs for the National League title on an even footing. Before a crowd estimated at 11,500, the two N.H.L. leaders battled to a 1—1 tie for the first game of the finals here last night. The finish provided a climax which rivalled stagecraft at its best.

STANLEY CUP IS QUITE HISTORIC

Originally Given by Lord Stanley to Amateurs 33 Years Ago.

NOW HELD BY PROS

TORONTO, Ont., March 26.—(By Canadian Press).—More of an international flavor was given to the Stanley Cup hockey championship games this year by the Pittsburgh team in the National Hockey League being well in the running for the big honors.

The Stanley Cup, which is now emblematic of the professional hockey championship of the world, has been in existence for 33 years. It was donated in 1893 to the Amateur Hockey Association of Canada, by the late Lord Stanley of Preston, then Governor-General of Canada, as a challenge trophy to be competed for and held by the champions of recognized senior leagues at that time.

The first holders of the cup were the Montreal Amateur Athletic team, champions of the Amateur Hockey Association of Canada in 1893. From 1893 to 1898, the contests for the cup consisted of single matches. In 1899 the idea of playing best two out of three games for the cup was inaugurated by the association, the Victoria of Montreal and Victorias of Winnipeg making the request to the trustees to play under that arrangement.

The Stanley Cup remained an amateur trophy for 20 years, until in 1914 it was turned over for competition by professional teams. The last amateur team to hold the cup was Quebec, which in 1913 defeated the Sydney, N.B., team in the ancient city.

Toronto was the first professional team to win the Stanley Cup, beating the Victorias of the Coast league three straight games in Toronto. The cup went west in the following year, Ottawa winning the National Hockey Association championship but losing to the Vancouver team.

Stanley Cup championship for 1926 will be eventually decided by the result of the coming series of games between the head-liners of the National Hockey League season and the champion team of the Western Canada Hockey League. The winner of the N.H.L. play-offs will meet the western champion to contest for the trophy.

The Stanley Cup at present is in the West, being held by the Victoria Cougars of the Western Canada League through their win over Canadiens of the N.H.L. in Victoria last season. This year the Western team winning the West Canada League title will travel East and play in the city represented by the team which emerges on top after the N.H.L. play-offs.

The record of teams winning the Cup since it became a professional trophy in 1914 is as follows:

1914—Toronto defeated Victoria in Toronto.
1915—Vancouver defeated Ottawa in Vancouver.
1916—Canadiens defeated Portland in Montreal.
1917—Seattle defeated Canadiens in Seattle.
1918—Toronto defeated Vancouver in Vancouver.
1919—No decision. Canadiens played Seattle in Seattle, but the series was stopped by influenza epidemic.
1920—Ottawa defeated Seattle, playing three games in Ottawa and two in Toronto.
1921—Ottawa defeated Vancouver in Vancouver.
1922—Toronto defeated Vancouver in Toronto.
1923—Ottawa defeated Vancouver in Edmonton in two series.
1924—Canadiens defeated Calgary in Toronto.
1925—Victoria defeated Canadiens in Victoria.

Who Is Your Favorite?

Boys! Here's your chance!

Here's a competition you can all get in.

Write two hundred words about your favorite player on the Peterborough Senior Hockey Team, Champions of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The prize winner will be the guest of The Examiner at the banquet to be given to the team in recognition of its splendid work this season.

This is the idea. The Petes have brought to this city the first Senior Championship it has ever had. They deserve all kinds of credit. Every boy on the team did his share. But you have your favorite—maybe you think he plays smarter hockey than the others; or he may skate better; or he may be merely better looking. Whatever your reason, write it out in not more than 200 words, and send it to "The Contest Editor, The Examiner," observing these simple rules:

(1) Open only to boys of 17 or under.
(2) Accuracy, penmanship, composition and neatness count.
(3) Contest closes at midnight, March 27.
(4) Pictures of the players will be run every day, without names. Clip out the picture of your favorite and paste it on a sheet of paper with his name written carefully under it. Pin this to your 200 word story or essay.
(5) A coupon, properly filled in and signed by a parent or guardian, must accompany every entry.

A committee of prominent citizens will be asked to decide the winner, and in case of dispute the Editor's decision will be final.

The date of the banquet will be announced later.

Georgian Outpunches and Outlasts Buffalo Boxer.

WEIGHT HELPS.

NEW YORK, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Young Stribling of Georgia continues on the direct road to honors in heavyweight boxing, while Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo again has turned from the main thoroughfare.

Stribling, just up from the fiasco of Miami, where his match with Gene Tunney was cancelled for lack of financial guarantee, last night, in Madison Square Garden, outpunched and outlasted the man who two years ago defeated him in a six-round contest. Weight gained the verdict in the final analysis with the Georgian ten pounds heavier than Slattery.

To-day Tunney again looms before Stribling, and Billy Gibson, manager of the United States light-heavyweight champion, says that the match can be made by a promoter of standing at any time.

By Special Arrangement With Colliers' Magazine.

GENE SARAZEN—LEARN BY WATCHING EXPERTS

I learned many things about golf in tournaments and I realized I had a long distance to travel. In fact I was a little discouraged over my showing.

Some of the boys were grumbling about their luck and the putting greens. I felt I had had hard luck on the greens, also, because so many putts stayed out of the hole. However, I have since learned that if you hit your putts properly they will generally drop.

I played in a few other tournaments, learning something in each competition but winning no money. However, my confidence was increasing and the more I saw of the other players, the more I thought I could do as well as most of them.

But I also realized that fellows like Hutchison, Barnes and Hagen had shots I knew nothing about and were champions because of their exceptional skill.

Hutchison's iron play, particularly impressed me. At Pinehurst I watched him closely. In fact, after I had played two rounds I withdrew from the tournament and followed Jock, studying his swing all the way.

VETERAN SCOTT WITH WHITE SOX

Will Start Season at Shortstop For Chicago Team.

IN GOOD SHAPE.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 26.—Shortstop Everett Scott, discarded by the Yankees and Nationals, waived out of the majors and then granted his unconditional release because he is a 10-year man, will open the season at short for the Chicago White Sox.

Moe Berg, former Princeton University star, who figured to start at short for the Sox, will not report until late in June.

It seems Moe, who is a Jewish boy and a business man, has decided to become a lawyer. He is studying at Columbia University and has decided business before pleasure, so baseball must wait. He graduates in June.

No doubt this situation influenced the signing of Scott, who had announced his retirement.

Scott, by the way, looks in better shape this very minute than he did at the close of the 1925 season. Incidentally, he is taking the business of spring training seriously.

Present intentions are to keep Scott at short until Berg reports. Manager Collins feels that Scott's much overworked legs should hold up at least that long. Then as he goes stale, Berg will be ready to step in and fill the bill.

Scott doesn't look at it that way. He believes Moe Berg is going to have the toughest kind of a time breaking into the Sox lineup now that he has been given the jump on the collegian.

"I'm not through and am figuring on playing every game of the season," says Everett.

"I hope he does," replies Collins, "for I should be much better working alongside of a finished and experienced player like Scott. All I will have to do is play second base, shortstop will be well taken care of."

WILL COACH YANKEES

Fred Merkle and Paul Kritchel, former major leaguers, will look after the recruit batterymen on the Yankees' roster during early training days this season. About 10 pitchers and three catchers are expected in the initial detachment. The Huggins entourage will prep at St. Petersburg, Fla.

HARDEST WORKING CATCHER.

Charley Hartnett of the Cubs was the only National League catcher to take part in 100 games or over last season. Hartnett was in 110. Then followed Snyder, Giants; Taylor, Brooklyn, and Smith, Pittsburg, with 96 apiece.

BILLY EVANS SAYS.

THE RESIN BALL—MINORS REJECT IT—DISLIKED BY MANY

The resin ball is certain to make for an unsettled pitching condition.

The National League, responsible for the return of resin as a pitching asset, says the use of it is optional not compulsory.

The American League has already gone on record against the use of resin or any other foreign substance. Resin is sure to be used as the old alibi for all forms of trick pitching.

The first big minor league to consider the resin ball issue has taken sides with the American. At a recent meeting of the International League magnates the use of the resin ball was banned.

"Bad policy," was the stand taken by the International in declining to accept the resin bag as permitted by the rule makers.

It is a certainty that many leagues will follow the lead of the International while others will allow the pitchers to use resin. This condition is sure to react on many pitchers when they come up to the majors, with one league permitting its use and the other forbidding it.

It has taken practically five years to eliminate trick pitching, a menace to the best interests of the game. It seems a shame to offer a loophole for its return.

The International League also took another stand that is contrary to the decision made by the rules committee. It relates to the sacrifice fly.

The old rule was that the batsman received credit for a sacrifice hit when with one no one out, he hits a fly ball that is caught but results in a run being scored on the catch.

The new arrangement of this rule gives the batsman credit for a sacrifice hit in all cases where a runner is advanced a base.

I much preferred the old rule. When a batter delivers a long fly with a runner on third that enables said runner to score, he has delivered in the pinch and is entitled to some credit. The sacrifice hit, removing the time at bat, is deserved.

Crediting the batter with a sacrifice hit, thereby removing the time at bat, any time a runner advances a base on the fly ball, makes the premium a rather cheap one.

The new rule will make for fatter batting averages. Likewise there will be a lack of uniformity in the averages, since many leagues will no doubt adopt the attitude of the International.

Getting back to the use of resin. Even though the National League will permit it, there will be many pitchers in that organization who will not use it. Only the other day Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Chicago Cubs came out flat-footed against it.

Here is what Fred Clarke, former manager of the Pittsburg Pirates, the man who helped Bill McKechnie make the club the world champs last year, says:

"If I were a pitcher and could control the ball with the gloss on it I would never use resin. The wood of the bat can get hold of a ball with a sticky surface better than a slick one."

The thought of the National League in going strong for the return of resin was due to the belief that it would greatly help the control of the pitchers.

That remains to be proved. Incidentally it may result in far worse evil than mere wildness on the part of the pitchers.

Men in no way approach so nearly to the gods as in doing good to men. —Cicero.

EDDIE PRAISES BENDER

SHREVEPORT, La., March 22—'I regard Chief Bender as the smartest pitcher I have ever seen in action during my major league career."

That is the compliment Manager Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox pays the big Indian.

"I played with Bender on the Philadelphia Athletics when he was in his prime. I never saw him make a dumb move."

Having such an opinion of Bender, it was only natural that Collins should sign him as coach when he assumed the management of the Chicago club.

In his first season as assistant to the White Sox leader, Bender has already proved his worth. Collins gives him all the credit for the remarkable progress made by the two Teds, Lyons and Blankenship, who carried most of the Chicago pitching burden last season.

LEADERS Their Records of 1925 BATTING

EDDIE ROMMEL

Made major league debut with Athletics in 1920.

Had best season in 1922, winning 27 games and losing 13 with seventh-place club.

In 1925 won 21 and dropped 10, being one of the four American League hurlers to win 20 or more contests.

Took part in 56 games in 1923; 55 in 1925 and 51 in 1922. Pitched 298 innings in 1923.

Pitched two-hit game against Cleveland last season.

Famous exponent of the 'knuckle" ball. It's his outstanding delivery. Has used it with remarkable success.

About 70 per cent of the hurlers in American League have tried to imittate Rommel's "knuckler". But only with varying luck.

Her tennis racquets were taken along at the special invitation of Premier Mussolini, who expressed a desire to see her in action She has accepted an invitation to play in several double matches with Baron de Morpurgo, the Italian singles champion.

In seventy days spent in the Riviera district, Miss Wills played against more than 70 opponents, and was beaten in only one match and that by Mlle. Lenglen. She won about 650 out of 800 games and won eight out of nine tournament cups, some of them the most valuable in France. She was not so successful in doubles competition, however, because of the difficulty in geting good partners.

CANADIAN TRADE IN 1925 WAS HEAVIER

Old Country Best Country of Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 26.—(Canadian Press.)— United Kingdom purchases from Canada during the 12 months ended February totalled $502,000,000. This was $109,000,000 more than the United Kingdom purchased in the previous 12 months from Canada and $29,000,000 more than purchases in Canada by the United States. In the 12 months, the United Kingdom was Canada's best customer.

On the other hand, Canada bought from the United States, in the 12 months, goods to the value of $597,000,000, as against imports from the United Kingdom valued at $162,000,00.

Total Canadian trade for the 12 months showed a considerable improvement over the 12 months ending February 1925. Exports of Canadian goods in the last twelve months were $1,297,000,000, an increase over the previous twelve months of $231,000,000. Imports were $911,000,000, an increase of $112,000,000.

PROVINCES OPPOSED TO OLD AGE PENSIONS IN CANADA, SIR HENRY DRAYTON ARGUES AGAINST BILL

Federal Government Would Pay Half of Expenditure Provided For By Provincial Legislation—Hon. Dr. King Introduces Resolution.

98,840 PERSONS WOULD BE ELIGIBLE COSTING THE DOMINION $11,860,920

Adoption Would Be Optional With Provinces—Quebec Has Declared Opposition and British Columbia Approval.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 27 (Canadian Press)—Participapation by the Federal Government in a scheme of Old Age Pensions was moved in the House of Commons Friday by Hon. Dr. J. H. King, acting Minister of Labor.

Dr. King's resolution proposes that the Federal Government should pay an amount equal to one-half of any expenditure on Old Age Pensions which might be provided for by Provincial legislation.

Payment of such pensions would be made only to British subjects, after twenty years' residence in Canada who had attained the age of 70 years. Beneficiaries under the scheme would also have to have resided for five years in the province in which they made claim, Indians would not come under the act. Nobody would benefit who had made voluntary assignment or transfer of property for the purpose of qualifying for a pension.

Recommended Last Year

The principle of old age pensions had been recognized widely, said Dr. King, and the subject in Canada was not a new one. Last year a committee of the House of Commons had reported in favor of the adoption of some old age pensions scheme. In drafting the resolution before the house, the government had adhered closely to the recommendations of that committee. That committee had estimated that the number of persons eligible to benefit from the proposal was approximately 98,840 and if each of these persons drew the maximum pension of $20.00 a month the payment of the Dominion would amount to about $11,860,920.

Dr. King said that there would be no loss to Canada through adoption of the scheme. The work was being performed now by charitable people and organizations. Many people had been unable to put by money for a rainy day. The Federal government, under the legislation, would provide half the amount required and the province would furnish the other half, the cost of administration to be borne by the province. No province was required to adopt the scheme unless it wished to. Apparently, up to the present, the provinces had not given the proposal much consideration. One province only, British Columbia, had asked for the adoption of some such scheme.

"This legislation will be to the advantage of the people of Canada," concluded Dr. King, "and will render a service to a class of people whom we will always have in our midst and for whom we must, from a humane standpoint, provide for in some way."

Says Provinces Opposed

"This is entirely a provincial matter," remarked Sir Henry Drayton (Conservative-York West). What was the reason that this legislation was not sooner introduced by the Government? The reason that no action was taken was that none of the provinces wanted it. "Today none of the provinces want it with the possible exception of one," Sir Henry said. He quoted correspondence from various governments in support of this statement.

Because of these letters, the government took no action last year. Sir Henry hoped that it wasn't simply a method of raising false hopes of people by merely an idle gesture. Canada should be a place where people could be sure of getting work before they reached the age of 70.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, said the legislation was far too important to be set aside. Except for the province of Quebec, there had been no real negative answers to the questions asked by the provinces. He doubted if the scheme in operation would materially increase taxation.

Heenan Favors Bill

Peter Heenan (Liberal-Kenora-Rainy River) was of the opinion that it was the duty of Canada to assist "old worn-out industrial workers." It was also the duty of parliament to assist Provincial governments to look after the poor and the aged, and this was what was purposed under the bill. "Old worn-out industrial workers" should not be "stigmatized as paupers.' Legislation, it was true, had been passed by various provincial governments in the interests of industrial workers, such as the Workmen's Compensation Act. No effective step had, however, been taken to look after those who were worn out. The Dominion Government was therefore, to be commended for this step "in the right direction." He was satisfied that Ontario would be one of the first provinces to take advantage of this measure.

Quebec Against It

R. S. White (Conservative-Mount Royal) opposed the resolution. The proposed measure was "utterly impracticable."

Parliament could not pass and enforce legislation of this nature "until you have the consent and cooperation of every province in Canada," without doing a serious injustice to taxpayers. Quebec did not want this legislation. Only a few days ago, Premier Taschereau had made a declaration to this effect.

The amount of $24,000,000 involved in the scheme, was not a matter to be lightly considered by a people so heavily burdened as Canadians were. He dobted if the government were "sincere" in introducing this resolutuion.

Mr. White also thought it was a mistake to advertise to the world that this country afforded so slight a margin between income and the cost of living, that our people upon

The trial of Billos, who was charged with putting ballot papers other than those authorized in the ballot box and with initialling the backs of ballot papers, occupied the entire day. On Wednesday Jenner had been found builty of initialling the backs of ballot papers and not guilty of "stuffling" the ballot box.

LOCAL COMPANY IS RE-ORGANIZED

Lavoie Knitting Co. Installs New Machinery—New Capital.

GROWING BUSINESS.

The Lavoie Knitting Company of east city has undergone reorganization and will be known from now on as The Lavoie Knitting Company Limited of Peterborough. William A. Lavoie the president and general manager of this new company commenced business in Peterborough in 1915 with two hand machines; today more than fifty machines are required to handle the output of this growing company. A new plant of the latest English type, for the manufacture of hose and half hose, has been installed recently.

Mr. Lavoie has a practical knowledge of the knitting business, both as to the sales department and the manufacturing. This is evidenced by his management of the business during the last ten years in which time the Lavoie Knitters has advanced from weak beginnings to its present strong position. The Lavoie Knitters sell principally to wholesalers, jobbers and departmental stores. W.G. Rickert, of 275 Craig street West, Montreal, supervises the sales for the eastern business from Ottawa to Halifax and Mr. Lavoie from Ottawa to Vancouver. It is acknowledged by the trade that Mr. Lavoie is an exceptionally good salesman and has a comprehensive knowledge of the trade in Canada.

Assets valued at $30,000.00 are being turned over to the new company by William A. Lavoie and his two sons, for which they are accepting common stock in the new company formed. The Lavoie Knitters have established for themselves an enviable record in business throughout Canada and this new company formed will have the advantage of selling a product which is favorably known to the trade.

This company with each moiety of new capital, expects to be able to handle a larger amount of the new business that is being offered. The company at present has a list of wholesalers and jobbers from one side of Canada to the other which are now its patrons. At the present time they have three months business booked ahead and are now offering for sale a limited number of shares of common stock at $100 per share. They have every prospect to pay a substantial dividend and will be able to employ more hands. The officers of the company are: William A. Lavoie, president and general manager; Lawrence A. Lavoie, first vice-president and secretary-treasurer; Wilfred A. Lavoie, second vice-president and superintendent; John C. Smith, director, and William G. Rickert, director.

WOMAN FREED IN HULL COURT ON MURDER CHARGE

Mrs. Dora Paquette Accused of Poisoning Common Law Husband.

DIED OF POISON.

Jury Returned Verdict After Short Period in Deliberation.

OTTAWA, March 27 (Canadian Press)—Mrs. Dora Navion Paquette was yesterday afternoon acquitted by a jury in the Hull Criminal Assizes of the charge of murdering, by poison, William Martel, her common law husband.

Evidence for the defence having been completed Friday morning, Mr. Justice Loranger addressed the jury in French and English. The jury took but a short time to reach their verdict.

There were scenes of rejoicing in the court-room when the verdict was announced. The trial has caused unusual interest in Hull, hundreds following the evidence which has lasted several days.

William Henri Martel walked into the hospital in Hull one day last September, accompanied by Mrs. Paquette. He did not seem to be very ill, and was placed in the public ward. Some hours later he became critical, and a doctor was telephoned for, but he died before the doctor arrived. An autopsy showed that he had died from paris green poisoning. Mrs. Paquette, who was Martel's common law wife, was placed under arrest on the charge of murder.

The principal witnesses at the trial were two small Martel children. A girl, eleven years old, told of quarrelling between her father and mother, and of her father later going to the drug store and buying something "in a green bottle" which he drank in his bedroom and soon became ill. The boy, aged nine, told that he had been with his mother when she bought a box of paris green, and on the day of the quarrel the father went to the box and mixed a potion of the poison in the cup which he drank. He later became very ill and went to the hospital.

Evidence was given by the constable who examined the Martel house that Mrs. Paquette had said, "You will not find any poison here," without being asked anything about poison. Evidence was also given that the prisoner had mentioned that Martel carried considerable life insurance. Neighbors told of Martel threatening to do away with himself.

HE WILL BE.

MRS. SUBURBS—So your husband has taken his radio all apart. Is he an expert?

MRS. TOWNHALLE—Not yet! He hasn't put it back together yet. —Life.

FINAL MEETING OF BY-ELECTION

Liberals Holding Twelve Gatherings To-day in West Middlesex.

VOTING ON MONDAY.

STRATHROY, March 27 (Canadian Press).—The West Middlesex bye-election campaign draws to a close in a burst of Liberal oratory. Twelve meetings are being held this afternoon and evening in the interests of the Hon. J. C. Elliott Minister of Labor, the official wind-up being at Glencoe this evening, with Premier King and Hon. Mr. Elliott, as the speakers. Other Dominion cabinet ministers will also be in the riding, and will address the various meetings. The scheduled speaking campaign as far as the Liberal Conservatives were concerned, closed last night, when meetings in the interests of Thomas A. Elliott were held at Wardsville, Delaware, and Adelaide. The riding goes to the polls on Monday. Both sides profess to be confident of the outcome and supporters of both parties will continue personal activity till the polls close on Monday evening.

FRENCH VOTE ON TAX PROPOSALS AFTER HOLIDAY

Unlikely That Budget Measures Will Be Voted By Easter.

CABINET SHAKY.

Radicals Unconverted, to the Government's Financial Programme.

PARIS, March 27. Canadian Press. — The Socialists and a considerable number of Radicals remain unconverted to the Government's financial programme.

Mr. Peret, the finance minister, in outlining his plan for overcoming the budget deficit before the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies Friday told the committeemen that whatever was to be done must be done quickly and that if they had anything better to offer than an increase in the tax on business transactions, which he proposed to balance the budget, he was ready to consider it.

The members of the committee merely reiterater the old arguments against indirect taxes and went back to the old projects of the finance committee which the chamber rejected during the reign of the preceding cabinet. When the attitude of the committee became known, pessimism succeeded the tendency to optismism which was shown yesterday morning. The reaction on the franc was immediate, the dollar for the first time in history going above 29 francs.

Cabinet Totters.

In the lobbies of the chamber the opinion was heard that the cabinet was in a bad way; that its only possible salvation was a compromise with the Moderates and Conservatives. This gave fresh impetus to the rumors that M. Malvy proffered his resignation several days after he had been made the target of verbal attack in the chamber.

His friends, however, declared that they had communicated with him by telephone, and that he would soon be back from the south of France, where he went to recuperate from a collapse which he suffered at the conclusion of a speech in his own defense when he was attacked in the chamber. These friends said he would remain at his post as long as the present government was in power.

Agreement Difficult.

It appeared clear after M. Peret's meeting with the finance committee that he would find difficulty in reaching an agreement with the committee and that a direct vote on his measures in the chamber would be necessary, as was the case with the projects of his predecessor, M. Doumer. At any event it is now regarded as extremely unlikely that measures to balance the budget can be voted before the Easter holidays.

ANOTHER ARREST IN WHITEMORE CASE

Joseph Trop Held By New York Police as "Fence."

NEW YORK, March 27 (Canadian Press).—The vision of freedom at the price of jeopardizing the life of Richard Reese Whittemore, accused gangster and murdered loomed before his pretty blonde wife yesterday, and then apparently vanished. For, soon after the Whittemores, husband shackled to a detective, and the woman, nervous and tearful, had conferred in the District Attorney's ofice, with Mr. Benton and his aides, Inspector Coughlin's detectives announced the capture which may make the Whittemore's proposed confession unnecessary.

The latest arrest yesterday was of Joseph Trop, 40 years old. Trop says he is a jeweler and the detectives say he is the "fence" through whom the Whittemore "mob" disposed of their loot. He is said to have been arrested in Toronto some years ago, and to have served three years in Portsmouth Penitentiary.

Prominent Engineer Says Noranda Only In Infancy

E. S. Gordon, in an article in the Financial Post, March 26, says in reference to Noranda:

"I have but to offer the following advice to shareholders in Noranda, and that is to pay little attentions to market fluctuations in the price of these shares, but rather to remember that this great property with its enormous resources in ore, is only in its infancy, and in the course of time will compare in my opinion most favorable with such undertakings as Consolidated Smelters and International Nickel."

Girl Electrocuted In Tub Using Electric Curlers

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Mar. 27 (United Press) — Marguerite Prevot, 18, Green Bay student at the School of Telegraphy was electrocuted here last night when she attempted to curl her hair with an electric iron while sitting in a tub of water. A circuit in the curling iron sent 120 volts through the girls body.

EVIDENCE GIVEN BY ACCOUNTANT

Tells of Sales By Lyons Firm To Pulp Companies.

LARGER SALES.

TORONTO, Mar. 27 (Canadian Press)—The examination of Major A. B. Nash, accountant, was commenced in the public accounts committee of the Ontario Legislature today, when it resumed its enquiry into the operations of the Lyons Fuel and Supply Company, of which James Lyons, former Minister of Lands and Forests, is president.

Major Nash examined the firm's books for the committee, and read his report yesterday, to the effect that the firm had shown less profits while its president was a Cabinet Minister than it had before he was given the portfolio.

In answer to the questions of W. E. Raney, Progressive leader, Major Nash stated the Lyons company had sold goods to the value of $11,614 to the Lake Superior Pulp and Paper Company, licensees of Government timber limits, in 1920; $17,316 in 1923, $110,646 in 1924 and $67,020 in 1925. To the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company, also operators of Government limits the firm had sold goods to the value of $20,710 in 1920; $39,599 in 1922; $83,354 in 1924 and $88,403 in 1925.

STORE DAMAGED BADLY BY FIRE IN HAMILTON

Loss of G. W. Robinson Co. May Reach Million Mark.

CAUSE UNKNOWN.

All Stock in Big Building Ruined By Water and Smoke.

HAMILTON, Mar. 27 (Canadian Press) — Fire damaged the G. W. Robinson Company's departmental store and the Spectator building to the extent of about $700,000 early this morning. It started at 3 a.m. and is now under control.

The examination of the five storey building by experts now being conducted may swell this estimated damage loss to the million mark. Water, poured on the building in hundreds of tons to quench the flames, washed its way down through the successive floors, practically ruining all the stock in the store. Four-fifths of the damage sustained was caused by water. For an hour after the fire was reported the fate of the block bounded by James, King, Main and McNab streets hung in the balance. Only the absence of any considerable wind saved this block.

The fire, of unknown origin, was reported shortly after 3 o'clock. At 5.40 o'clock it was under control and shortly after this the firemen were clearing up their apparatus.

G. W. Robinson, president of the company, who had been watching the fire, said that they were just about to start the biggest sale in the history of the store and that everything in the building was ruined. Complete insurance was carried.

CUSTOMS OFFICER MADE SPECIAL REPORT ON BISAILLON BUT FIRST DENIED IT BEFORE ENQUIRY BOARD

Hon. H. H. Stevens Indignant at Evidence of Robert P. Clerk.

EVIDENCE REFUTED.

Company Unable To Produce Its Books For Committee's Examination.

OTTAWA, March 27 (Canadian Press).—Robert P. Clerk, Inspector of Customs and Excise, Montreal, was examined exhaustively by Hon. H. H. Stevens of the Customs enquiry committee Friday afternoon as to a report on J. E. Bisaillon which Mr. Clerk was supposed to have made to Hon. P. J. Cardin, acting minister of customs, for a part of last year. Mr. Clerk denied that he had ever made a special report on Bisaillon at the request of the acting minister. Mr. Stevens thereupon produced four witnesses who testified that they had been informed by Mr. Clerk that he was making this report. Inspector Walter Duncan said that Mr. Clerk had told him that he had sent his report on Bisaillon up to Ottawa.

Recalled to the stand, the Montreal inspector admitted that he had come up to Otawa, seen Mr. Cardin and implored him "For the good name of the officers of the Montreal customs, to dismiss Bisaillon."

"Why did you not tell me this an hour ago?" asked Mr. Stevens heatedly. "You were deliberately trying to evade the question."

"I don't think you have any right to say that," retorted Mr. Clerk.

Insult to Committee.

"The frivolous nonsense that this witness has been talking today is an insult to the committee" declared Stevens.

At the request of Chairman Paul Mercier, Mr. Clerk handed him up some papers which he had formerly referred to as affidavits and which he claimed to have shown Mr. Cardin when making his appeal for the discharge of Bisaillon.

"Do you call these affidavits?" asked the chairman. "They are simply memoranda, nothing more."

Mr. Clerk admitted that on looking at them he realized that they were not affidavits.

"They are not good enough to shave with," remarked the chairman, tossing them on the table in front of him.

R. P. Sparks, chairman of the Commercial Protective Association, told about having met Mr. Clerk in Ottawa, who informed him that he had ben asked by Mr. Cardin to make a report on Bisaillon.

Thief and Scoundrel

Mr. Clerk had produced a document with regard to the smuggling of automobiles into Canada and Bisaillon's relation to this "He told me Mr. Bisaillon was a thief and a scoundrel," said Mr. Sparks, "and he told of having been offered a bribe by Bisaillon of $100 a week to assign him (Bisaillon) to certain duty."

Officer Knox was called and stated that Mr. Clerk had called to see him and Inspector Duncan and that he had given Mr. Clerk information in regard to Bisaillon.

Inspector Duncan corroborated the evidence given by Officer Knox. He said Inspector Clerk told him that he was making a report on Bisaillon and that he would give him a copy of the report.

"You never received the copy?" asked Mr. Stevens.

"No."

A. J. Bisonnette, president of the Peerless Overall Company, was called to give information in regard to the production of books of that company which does its business at Rock Island, Quebec. He explained that he could not produce books or records dating back earlier than the beginning of the present year. The books of the Peerless Overall Company had "got into a mix-up" during the previous year and he had ordered the installation of a new set of books. Neither he nor his bookkeeper, A. J. Moore, were able to tell the committee what had been done with the old books or documents. They undertook to produce the books and documents for 1926.

"Looked Very Bad."

Mr. Stevens expressed surprise that a company doing a fairly large business should destroy all it books and records.

To this Mr. Bissonnette said he was very sorry that the books had disappeared, especially as it "looked very bad." He said that his company had nothing whatever to hide.

"You do business in Derby Line, Vermont?"

"Yes."

"Will you produce the records of that office?"

Mr. Bissonette explained that regular records were not kept at the Derby Line office. Whatever was there which would be of use to the committee would be produced.

THREE SHOOTING CRIMES DURING NIGHT IN DETROIT

Robber and Street Car Conductor Die From Wounds Received.

POLICEMAN DYING.

Negroes Sought For Murder and Attempted Robbery of Conductor.

DETROIT March 27 (Canadian Press).—A street car conductor and a robber were fatally wounded and a policeman fatally injured in three shootings here last night and early today.

The robber, Leo White, 30 years old, was shot and killed shortly before midnight by a policeman in plain clothes while he was in the act of holding up a cigar store. It was the fifth successive night that a robber had held up one of a group of chain cigar stores in the downtown district, and policemen in plain clothes were on guard at all the stores.

Just after midnight LeRoy Coble, a street car conductor, was shot and wounded fatally by two negroes who attempted to rob him. Coble resisted robbery and the negroes fired six shots, two taking effect. They escaped. Two hours later Boyd Bedere, a policeman, was found in an upstairs room of a place said by the police to be a gambling house. His empty revolver and his hat and coat were found downstairs. He had been shot three times through the stomach and it is believed he will die.

Police were seeking the negroes who shot the street car conductor.

TORNADO SWEEPS OVER TURKESTAN

Much Loss of Life and Property By Wind and Rain.

TASHKEND, Asiatic Russia, Mar. 27 (Canadian Press). — A tornado, accompanied by rains, has swept Turkestan, causing much loss of life and property. Railroads have been torn up, hundreds of houses destroyed wire communication interrupted and herds of sheep and cattle killed. The government has mobilized the population to met the situation and troops are leading the sufferers.

Guilty Conscience Had No Reason To Feel Bad

At least one man read the item in last night's Examiner regarding 85 summonses being issued by Tax Collector Green in connection with unpaid poll tax. A young man stepped into police station this morning and presented Detective Sergeant William Meagher with a $5.00 bill, and asked how much the costs would be. He was informed that the costs would be 85 cents. He paid that, too. When Detective Meagher took the money to Tax Collector Green he was informed that the man in question had already paid his tax last June. He will get his refund on Monday.

THE WEATHER.

Lowest temperature last night 15 degrees; highest yesterday 38 degrees. In some places the streets and roads are bare but only where the sun has shone unobstructedly. Generally the conditions are such as the poet had in mind when he spoke of "winter lingering in the lap of spring." I saw my first robin this morning though several had been heard previously. A few song sparrows are also here. In some parts of Alberta seeding has been in progress for several days. Such operations are not general and much of the country is still winter-bound.—W. P.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

TEACHINGS OF JOHN'S GOSPEL

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 28. Review Lesson.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

The first great teaching of the Gospel of John is concerning God and his revelation of himself in human life: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God." How this Word found expression in the life and teaching of Jesus of Nazareth is the theme of the Gospel.

It is the purpose of the Gospel to set forth the various elements in the witness and testimony of, and to Christ; the witness of his own gracious personality winning didscples to himself and establishing the little circle that became the nucleus of the Christian Church; the witness of various individuals who came under the power of his ministry; the witness of Jesus' mighty works; and the witness, above all, of his sublime teachings, of his sacrificial death, and of his resurrection.

The great theme of this Gospel is the new life. It is manifest in the experience of Andrew and Peter, Philip and Nathaniel, whose hearts glow with a new joy as they come under the influence of their divine friend. It is the theme of the conversation of Jesus with Nicodemus. It dominates the story of his great sermon to the woman of Samaria, with its insistence upon the most fundamental of all truths, that God is spirit and that they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.

Typical Verse.

Possibly the most typical verse to characterize the whole Gospel of John is found in the words of Jesus: "The words that I speak unto you they are spirit, they are life." How significant this statement becomes is seen as we follow through the intimate teachings of Jesus concerning his relationship to men and God. He is the Good Shepherd, laying down his life for his sheep that they may have life and salvation. He is the way to God, bringing immortality to light and triumph And the resurrection is but the seal and witness to his teaching and revelation.

The theme of the Gospel of John is the divinity of Christ. But we ought to realize how beautifully this Gospel sets forth his true humanity and the rich intimacy of his relationship with men and women in the ordinary walks and experiences of life. Not only have we the glorious revelation of the upper room, but we have the picture of the sympathetic Christ in contact with the home at Bethany.

The sublimity of the teaching of the Gospel of John would lose almost all its meaning and significance were it not for the profound truth that the Gospel emphasizes, that all this sublimity is brought near to the lives and homes of men everywhere.

He is divine to make us divine, and whether or not the words came from the same writer, the comment in John's Epistle is a true rendering of the whole spirit and purpose of John's Gospel: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear, what we shall be; but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is."

Expressing Divinity.

It is entirely in harmony with the purpose of Christ in coming to the world that his divinity should thus be vitally expressed in human contacts and in terms of human experience. The divinity of our Lord is not a theoretical speculative thing, something about which men may engage in controversy and quarrel. All the divinity of his life was revealed before men that he might show them the way to God.

No man truly believes in the divinity of Jesus who is not seeking through close contacts with Jesus to make his own life divine. It is the privilege of Christ's disciples to become "partakers of the divine mature."

We cannot be too insistent upon the richly human aspects of John's Gospel. Many have tended to think of Luke's Gospel as pre-eminently expressing the humanity of Jesus, but all the Gospels express that humanity just as they express the glory and beauty of his divinity.

In the twentieth chapter of John's Gospel there is a verse that is rich n its fullness of expression. It tells jow Jesus came to the disciples after his death, and very simply it says: "Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord." Ought not that be the ideal for every Christian to find the gladnessof seeing the risen Christ?

The Gospel of John has been one of the most controverted documents in Christendom. Who wrote it no one can say with assurance. Ever against the tradition that John lived to a great old age there is the strong belief of some scholars, upon what they regard as good evidence, that John was one of the earliest of the Christian martyrs.

But, whoever wrote it, the Gospel of John is a profound and noble document,. Interpet it, as one will, it speaks of the deepest things of the soul and it is in it that pre-eminently Jesus appears as the way to God, the bond between earth and heaven.

TALKS TO TEACHERS IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Place of Teacher in Church First Mentioned By St. Paul.

"Christ gave some Apostles, some prophets, some evangelists and some pastors and teachers for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministery and for the edifying of the Body of Christ. So wrote the apostle St. Paul of the action of the great head of the Church in giving to it's different members varying gifts which they might use for the good of the whole body. Writing in the first generation of the church's life, he puts the apostles first for it was to them as the original chosen witnesses, that He committed the task of leadership in the building up of the body. So too, in a generation when the foundations of a Christian church in every city and country had to be laid, he put second the wandering ministery of the prophets and evangelists. Thirdly, looking on beyond the first preaching to the time when the evangelized countries should be dotted with tiny Christian congregations, he put the settled local ministry of the pastor and teacher. In lands largely heathen, the prophet and evangelist must still hold the foremost place. In lands nominally Christian, the teacher is at the forefront. The pastor guides, governs and organizes. The teacher gives extended instruction. The ordained ministry should be one of teaching. This teaching must needs to be given to young and old alike. Every Christian must be a learner to the end of his earthly life. But childhood is a time above all others for learning.

"Now here is the place of the Sunday school teacher. Teaching is a gift of the Spirit. Let no Sunday school teacher think his vocation slight or trivial. He cannot value it too highly. He cannot over estimate the possible results of his work. One teacher started work upan a class of boys in a school in the north of England. One boys was particularly ill-clothed and was given a new suit by the superintendent upon condition that he came regularly. After a few Sundays he stayed away and when the teacher looked him up, the clothes were found to have been pawned. He was given a second new suit upon the same conditions. He again came regularly for a few Sundays and then stayed away. The teacher again seeking him found that the reason was the same. He then went in despair to the superintendent and said the boy must be hopeless. The superintendent begged him to try once more. A third time the boy was fetched back and this time he stayed. He became an apt pupil and grew to be one of the best members of the school. Years aterwards someone asked a leading Chinese statesman what was the real origin of the great revolution which has transformed ancient China into the China of today. The reply was: 'The Chinese revolution began on the day when Robert Morrison first landed in China as a Christian missionery.' Robert Morrison was that ill-clothed truant of that Northern Sunday school. Remember that the child is the father of the man. The nature of a child bears a strong resemblance to wax. It is plastic. We can mould it almost any way we please. But nature hardens as wax hardens. The impressions that has been made upon it in its plastic stage remain. Train up a child in the way he should go and he will not depart from it. The Sunday school teacher deals with human nature in its plastice stage.

"If the Sunday school teacher's vocation it so high and sacred, who is sufficient for it? In other words, who may be a Sunday school teacher? Teachers are confined to no rank of human society. They are to be found belonging to some of our oldest families, but the vast majority are drawn from the ranks of the working folk. This does not mean, however, that all can be teachers. The most important requirement is a moral and spiritual one. The teacher must have a real faith in and a real love for Jesus Christ. Secondly he must have a knowledge of facts to be taught, and of the methods of teaching. He must have a knowledge of child nature and must learn to know each child individually.

"Let us now turn our attention for a short time to the characteristics of children. No two children of the same age are alike. The difference constitutes individuality which is precisely what makes human nature so interesting. The factors which produce individuality are heredity and environment. By heredity we mean all those qualities which we receive from our ancestors. Under environment we include every influence which works upon us from the outside. The neighborhood in which we live, our home, our school, the companions with whom we associate, parents, brothers, sisters, friends, the books we read and the recreations we enjoy.

"Now there are three stages in a child's life. The stage of early childhood up to the age of six or seven years. The period from then to the age of fourteen, and the stage of adolescence lasting until about the age of twenty-one. No clear line can really be drawn between these stages as the charcteristics of one period sometimes survives the next.

"Little children are very active. This is really necessary, for a young child helps his body to grow by exercising it. By learning from experience what he can and what he cannot do, he learns to control his limbs and also how to ifnd his way about the world. The child will be active whether we like it or not. Therefore let him be active at your suggestion in an ordered way. After the opening exercises, the time when the child must sit still and listen to the lesson should be short. Much time could be devoted to singing hymns. Now little children learn by using their five senses. While he is still young his power of thought and reasoning is but slightly developed. This is why children are so anxious to see, hear, handle and smell everything. Destructiveness on their part is not always deliberate but only unfortunate experiment. Teachers must appeal to their sense of sight as that is the one which they use most. Pictures of Bible stories to illustrate the lesson being taught will do a great deal of good. Children are very imaginative. They live in a world of make believe. There is no line between fact and fancy or what older people term as truth and falsehood. Free use may be made of legend in imparting Christian truth to the child. The little child has no doubt in the reality of the unseen, he therefore has no trouble in believing that there is a God who hears his prayers. Children are also imitative. This makes it necessary to be orderly, reverent, and quiet in movement. The saying that actions speak louder than words is very true in the relationship between teachers and young children. Little can be said about the religion of a little child. They seem to know instinctively that there is a Heavenly Father and they have a simple faith in his goodness.

"We now pass on the characteristics of the second period between the ages of seven and fourteen. The activity and curiosity prominent in very young children together produce impulsiveness in the child as he grows older. This often leads him into actions which are destructive, more so than younger children because their physical powers are greater. These actions are often done for the sake of doing something. Then again their activity is sometimes purposeful. Deliberate action if often repeated become habits. The second period of a child' life is the most important habit-forming period. Special habits for the teacher to consider are those of reverent demeanour, orderliness, diligence in the study of the lesson and a real earnestness in prayer. He should be induced to cultivate these habits of his own choice. They should be insisted upon Sunday after Sunday. Children of this age have a keener sense of reality. Santa Claus is left behind as babyish. The sense of truth grows strong. Therefore the truth of the stories which we tell them matters. Stories from life are the best with which to illustrate a lesson. Personal stories are the best. The power of thought and reasons grows rapidly. He is fond of exploration. The collection instinct is very prevalent at this age. This may be turned to advantage by having them collect attendance stamps or stars. Another characteristic is hero worship, so it is essential to bring out the heroic element in the character of our Lord, and get the children to look up to Him and admire Him. We speak of Him as the Man of Sorrows, the Sufferer, Gentle Jesus, meek and mild, but rather emphasize the courage of Christ, His moral strength, His adventures for His Kingdom. The stories of Daniel in the Old Testament and St. Paul in the New Testament appeal to these children. Children of this age learn very quickly. Their memory is good therefore it is the best time for them to learn the catechism and Bible passages. They have a keen sense of humor. They delight in ringing bells and running away, in shooting peas and such pranks. A sense of humor on the part of the teacher will be a great help. It is also wise to explain why these things are wrong.

"We have thus far considered the characteristics of children up to the age of fourteen years, let us now consider those of the adolescent. Adolescence is the critical period of life. It is a time of rapid changes. There are bodily changes which have an influence upon the moral and spiritual condition. The sexual changes which take place help to intensify the consciousness of individuality. Their plays are more strenuous and they still delight in reading adventure stories. They have a thirst for knowledge. At this stage the adolescent sometimes passes through a period of doubt. They possess an intensity of emotion which expresses itself in many different forms. As they grow older they get into the habit of using slang to express themselves. Some are keenly interested in nature and music while others display a morbid interest in evil. At this age too, the development of the passion of anger, sarcasm and spitefulness. This last is more evident in girls than in boys. To the adolescent, the spectacular form of Christian worship is more appealing than the simpler forms. The singing of rousing hymns and tunes pleases them. Adolescents must be led without perceiving it too clearly. At this stage the authority of the parents is more often than not thrown over. We must all submit to authority of some kind, and this should be impressed upon adolescents. To do this the teacher must gain their confidence and sympathize with them. There is a real desire for friendship. This may be one particular person, but the gang spirit is a formidable reality that has to be reckoned with. Friendship with the opposite sex is increasingly common. Not very much can be said about the religion of the adolescent. There is a craving for certainty which can only be satisfied by personal experience, through which we learn the value and blessedness of Christ's sacrifice. They also possess a vivid sense of sin, and the desire for repentence must be stimulated.

"We have so far considered only the characteristics of the children with whom we have to deal. Let us now pass from the study of children to the study of the main principle of teaching.

"The plan of a lesson is divided into seven parts. The aim, introduction, presentation, association, doctrine, application and expression work. The aim is not strictly part of the lesson. There is a general and a constant aim which is to bring every boy and girl to the knowledge of Christ. Then there is the particular aim arising from the lesson of the day. For instance, the story of the Feeding of the Five Thousand may be told to emphasize the hunger and need of the multitudes and the love and power of Jesus in feeding them in the wilderness when the disciples wanted to send them away hungry. Then again it might be told in such a way so as to bring out the co-operation of God and man in the performing of a miracle. Jesus part in blessing the loaves and miraculously increasing them. The disciples part in fetching the loaves, arranging the people, distributing the bread and gathering up the fragments. The first lesson on God's love is suitable for the juniors and the second lesson is more suitable for the seniors. So much for the aim. The introduction of a lesson should be very short, and usually takes the form of questions on the previous lesson. The presentation of a lesson is the longest section, and during it, it is important to remember the aim. The lesson material should be divided into a number of sections. Take for instance the feeding of the Five Thousand. Preaching—coming of the disciples and our Lord's conversation with them—the search for the loaves—distribution and the gathering up of the fragments. If the lesson material is unfamiliar it should take the form of a story. Story lessons are best for children in the junior classes at any time. The teacher should remember the characteristics of the children he is teaching. The story should be made as dramatic as possible for the younger children and more detailed for the older ones. The building-up method is a very good one for children over nine years of age. Let them help by asking them questions and getting them to answer, let them read passages in the Bible and find references. In some lessons both these methods may be blended. In the association of a lesson we must try to find a series of points of contact between the new matter and the old matter of previous lessons. Illustrations of or parallels with or contrasts to our new matter on the old stories. In the doctrine of the lesson let the children point the moral themselves by the use of suitable questions. Let them find out step by step and it will come to them in the light of a discovery. In the application we should suggest ways in which they can go and act upon what they have learned. At this point a word may be said in regard to the time allotted for the lesson. Beginners in teaching find in most cases that their lesson material is exhausted before the time is up but if a lesson is carefully prepared that will not happen. On the other hand most teachers find the time too short and must therefore crowd the last two sections. But the doctrines and applications are the very ones that must not be crowded out, or else it leaves the lesson hanging in the balance with no particular good having been done. Rather shorten the presentation. Lastly we come to the expression work. If the scholars are to retain the impression which has been made upon them in the lesson, they need to give expression to it in some activity at its conclusion. This is where the questions in the leaflet come in. Let them be asked to write out the answers and bring them the following Sunday. The superintendent may ask questions on the lesson and in this way the teacher is able to find out just how much of the lesson has been assimilated by the pupil. A word now on the preparation of the lesson. Consider the aim assigned in the notes. It may require a little modification but get it fixed firmly in your mind. Find the best connecting link between the subject of the lesson and the previous knowledge of your class. Digest the new matter for presentation carefully. Bear in mind the age of your class. Think of suitable questions in connection with the lesson. Make up your mind what definite application you will suggest. Use notes if necessary.

"Now about the giving of a lesson. The teacher should be on hand to receive the scholars as they come in. It is in this way that they can exercise control from the outset. The teacher could talk quiely to the pupils to find out about their daily lives and interests. The personality of the teacher is brought to bear upon the children through the teaching of the lesson and also by personal contact. It is therefore the teachers duty to develop a personality that will have a good impression upon the class. Dignity, decisiveness and a love for the pupils. He should place himsef so as to be able to see all the class easily and should speak loudly enough for all the class to hear clearly but if possible, not so loudly that the next class can hear. Similarly the pupils should be urged to speak quietly. If a child is troublesome, he needs more attention than the rest, not less. Now just a word or two about the use of the Bible. Unless the children can read fairly well, it is useless trying to get them to read the scripture lesson, for while they are stumbling over the words, all sense of their meaning is lost. When they are old enough to read it is advisable to let them find references in the Bible in order to help them know the Book. They should be taught to treat it reverently.

"Now about the use of illustrations. The Good Samaritan is a good example of a kind-hearted man. His character stands out in sharp relief to those of the Priest and the Levite. The Rich Fool is an example of a man who thought too much of this world's goods. The Prodigal Son is probably the most favourite Bible story of this kind. The love of God is shown by one character, the history of the sinner's fall and recovery by another and the exclusive righteousness of the Pharisee by another. Be on the lookout for illusrations in your everyday life. Let us consider the use of questions in teaching and the kinds. There is the preparatory question, which is chiefly used at the beginning of a lesson and its aim is to prepare the way for it. The expressive question is used to test out the scholars memory during the presentation. The deductive question helps the pupil to think out the application of the lesson. Make all questions simple. Ask for one thing at a time. Be clear. Be short. Be direct. Be consecutive. Easy questions for the slower children and include all.

"Now we come to the management of a class, which is by far the greatest difficulty which besets the teacher. A group of children in a class will not behave as well as one child alone, because of the influence of the group spirit. The mischievous child is full of original ideas which he puts into practice so it is best to keep him occupied as much as possible. The shy child is nervous about responding therefore encourage him by asking him simple questions. The sulky child is easily hurt and broods over the slightest injustice. These fits are better ignored or relieved by a little judicious humor. The strong-willed or stubborn child cannot be driven, he must be led. Strength of will is an excellent thing and should not be broken. Oppose him as little as possible. When, however, opposition is necessary, it is best to take a firm stand. A battle of this sort usually needs to be fought and won only once.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

TEACHINGS OF JOHN'S GOSPEL

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 28. Review Lesson.

By WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

The first great teaching of the Gospel of John is concerning God and his revelation of himself in human life: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God." How this Word found expression in the life and teaching of Jesus of Nazareth is the theme of the Gospel.

It is the purpose of the Gospel to set forth the various elements in the witness and testimony of, and to Christ; the witness of his own gracious personality winning didsciples to himself and establishing the little circle that became the nucleus of the Christian Church; the witness of various individuals who came under the power of his ministry; the witness of Jesus' mighty works; and the witness, above all, of his sublime teachings, of his sacrificial death, and of his resurrection.

The great theme of this Gospel is the new life. It is manifest in the experience of Andrew and Peter, Philip and Nathaniel, whose hearts glow with a new joy as they come under the influence of their divine friend. It is the theme of the conversation of Jesus with Nicodemus. It dominates the story of his great sermon to the woman of Samaria, with its insistence upon the most fundamental of all truths, that God is spirit and that they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.

Typical Verse.

Possibly the most typical verse to characterize the whole Gospel of John is found in the words of Jesus: "The words that I speak unto you they are spirit, they are life." How significant this statement becomes is seen as we follow through the intimate teachings of Jesus concerning his relationship to men and God. He is the Good Shepherd, laying down his life for his sheep that they may have life and salvation. He is the way to God, bringing immortality to light and triumph And the resurrection is but the seal and witness to his teaching and revelation.

The theme of the Gospel of John is the divinity of Christ. But we ought to realize how beautifully this Gospel sets forth his true humanity and the rich intimacy of his relationship with men and women in the ordinary walks and experiences of life. Not only have we the glorious revelation of the upper room, but we have the picture of the sympathetic Christ in contact with the home at Bethany.

The sublimity of the teaching of the Gospel of John would lose almost all its meaning and significance were it not for the profound truth that the Gospel emphasizes, that all this sublimity is brought near to the lives and homes of men everywhere.

He is divine to make us divine, and whether or not the words came from the same writer, the comment in John's Epistle is a true rendering of the whole spirit and purpose of John's Gospel: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is."

Expressing Divinity.

It is entirely in harmony with the purpose of Christ in coming to the world that his divinity should thus be vitally expressed in human contacts and in terms of human experience. The divinity of our Lord is not a theoretical speculative thing, something about which men may engage in controversy and quarrel. All the divinity of his life was revealed before men that he might show them the way to God.

No man truly believes in the divinity of Jesus who is not seeking through close contacts with Jesus to make his own life divine. It is the privilege of Christ's disciples to become "partakers of the divine mature."

We cannot be too insistent upon the richly human aspects of John's Gospel. Many have tended to think of Luke's Gospel as pre-eminently expressing the humanity of Jesus, but all the Gospels express that humanity just as they express the glory and beauty of his divinity.

In the twentieth chapter of John's Gospel there is a verse that is rich n its fullness of expression. It tells jow Jesus came to the disciples after his death, and very simply it says: "Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord." Ought not that be the i lela for every Christian to find the gladnessof seeing the risen Christ?

The Gospel of John has been one of the most controverted documents in Christendom. Who wrote it no one can say with assurance. Ever against the tradition that John lived to a great old age there is the strong belief of some scholars, upon what they regard as good evidence, that John was one of the earliest of the Christian martyrs.

But, whoever wrote it, the Gospel of John is a profound and noble document,. Interpet it, as one will, it speaks of the deepest things of the soul and it is in it that pre-eminently Jesus appears as the way to God, the bond between earth and heaven.

TALKS TO TEACHERS IN SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Place of Teacher in Church First Mentioned By St. Paul.

"Christ gave some Apostles, some prophets, some evangelists and some pastors and teachers for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministery and for the edifying of the Body of Christ. So wrote the apostle St. Paul of the action of the great head of the Church in giving to it's different members varying gifts which they might use for the good of the whole body. Writing in the first generation of the church's life, he puts the apostles first for it was to them as the original chosen witnesses, that He committed the task of leadership in the building up of the body. So too, in a generation when the foundations of a Christian church in every city and country had to be laid, he put second the wandering ministery of the prophets and evangelists. Thirdly, looking on beyond the first preaching to the time when the evangelized countries should be dotted with tiny Christian congregations, he put the settled local ministry of the pastor and teacher. In lands largely heathen, the prophet and evangelist must still hold the foremost place. In lands nominally Christian, the teacher is at the forefront. The pastor guides, governs and organizes. The teacher gives extended instruction. The ordained ministry should be one of teaching. This teaching must needs to be given to young and old alike. Every Christian must be a learner to the end of his earthly life. But childhood is a time above all others for learning.

"Now here is the place of the Sunday school teacher. Teaching is a gift of the Spirit. Let no Sunday school teacher think his vocation slight or trivial. He cannot value it too highly. He cannot over estimate the possible results of his work. One teacher started work upan a class of boys in a school in the north of England. One boys was particularly ill-clothed and was given a new suit by the superintendent upon condition that he came regularly. After a few Sundays he stayed away and when the teacher looked him up, the clothes were found to have been pawned. He was given a second new suit upon the same conditions. He again came regularly for a few Sundays and then stayed away. The teacher again seeking him found that the reason was the same. He then went in despair to the superintendent and said the boy must be hopeless. The superintendent begged him to try once more. A third time the boy was fetched back and this time he stayed. He became an apt pupil and grew to be one of the best members of the school. Years afterwards someone asked a leading Chinese statesman what was the real origin of the great revolution which has transformed ancient China into the China of today. The reply was: 'The Chinese revolution began on the day when Robert Morrison first landed in China as a Christian missionery.' Robert Morrison was that ill-clothed truant of that Northern Sunday school. Remember that the child is the father of the man. The nature of a child bears a strong resemblance to wax. It is plastic. We can mould it almost any way we please. But nature hardens as wax hardens. The impressions that has been made upon it in its plastic stage remain. Train up a child in the way he should go and he will not depart from it. The Sunday school teacher deals with human nature in its plastice stage.

"If the Sunday school teacher's vocation it so high and sacred, who is sufficient for it? In other words, who may be a Sunday school teacher? Teachers are confined to no rank of human society. They are to be found belonging to some of our oldest families, but the vast majority are drawn from the ranks of the working folk. This does not mean, however, that all can be teachers. The most important requirement is a moral and spiritual one. The teacher must have a real faith in and a real love for Jesus Christ. Secondly he must have a knowledge of facts to be taught, and of the methods of teaching. He must have a knowledge of child nature and must learn to know each child individually.

"Let us now turn our attention for a short time to the characteristics of children. No two children of the same age are alike. The difference constitutes individuality which is precisely what makes human nature so interesting. The factors which produce individuality are heredity and environment. By heredity we mean all those qualities which we receive from our ancestors. Under environment we include every influence which works upon us from the outside. The neighborhood in which we live, our home, our school, the companions with whom we associate, parents, brothers, sisters, friends, the books we read and the recreations we enjoy.

"Now there are three stages in a child's life. The stage of early childhood up to the age of six or seven years. The period from then to the age of fourteen, and the stage of adolescence lasting until about the age of twenty-one. No clear line can really be drawn between these stages as the charcteristics of one period sometimes survives the next.

"Little children are very active. This is really necessary, for a young child helps his body to grow by exercising it. By learning from experience what he can and what he cannot do, he learns to control his limbs and also how to ifnd his way about the world. The child will be active whether we like it or not. Therefore let him be active at your suggestion in an ordered way. After the opening exercises, the time when the child must sit still and listen to the lesson should be short. Much time could be devoted to singing hymns. Now little children learn by using their five senses. While he is still young his power of thought and reasoning is but slightly developed. This is why children are so anxious to see, hear, handle and smell everything. Destructiveness on their part is not always deliberate but only unfortunate experiment. Teachers must appeal to their sense of sight as that is the one which they use most. Pictures of Bible stories to illustrate the lesson being taught will do a great deal of good. Children are very imaginative. They live in a world of make believe. There is no line between fact and fancy or what older people term as truth and falsehood. Free use may be made of legend in imparting Christian truth to the child. The little child has no doubt in the reality of the unseen, he therefore has no trouble in believing that there is a God who hears his prayers. Children are also imitative. This makes it necessary to be orderly, reverent, and quiet in movement. The saying that actions speak louder than words is very true in the relationship between teachers and young children. Little can be said about the religion of a little child. They seem to know instinctively that there is a Heavenly Father and they have a simple faith in his goodness.

"We now pass on the characteristics of the second period between the ages of seven and fourteen. The activity and curiosity prominent in very young children together produce impulsiveness in the child as he grows older. This often leads him into actions which are destructive, more so than younger children because their physical powers are greater. These actions are often done for the sake of doing something. Then again their activity is sometimes purposeful. Deliberate action if often repeated become habits. The second period of a child life is the most important habit-forming period. Special habits for the teacher to consider are those of reverent demeanour, orderliness, diligence in the study of the lesson and a real earnestness in prayer. He should be induced to cultivate these habits of his own choice. They should be insisted upon Sunday after Sunday. Children of this age have a keener sense of reality. Santa Claus is left behind as babyish. The sense of truth grows strong. Therefore the truth of the stories which we tell them matters. Stories from life are the best with which to illustrate a lesson. Personal stories are the best. The power of thought and reasons grows rapidly. He is fond of exploration. The collection instinct is very prevalent at this age. This may be turned to advantage by having them collect attendance stamps or stars. Another characteristic is hero worship, so it is essential to bring out the heroic element in the character of our Lord, and get the children to look up to Him and admire Him. We speak of Him as the Man of Sorrows, the Sufferer, Gentle Jesus, meek and mild, but rather emphasize the courage of Christ, His moral strength, His adventures for His Kingdom. The stories of Daniel in the Old Testament and St. Paul in the New Testament appeal to these children. Children of this age learn very quickly. Their memory is good therefore it is the best time for them to learn the catechism and Bible passages. They have a keen sense of humor. They delight in ringing bells and running away, in shooting peas and such pranks. A sense of humor on the part of the teacher will be a great help. It is also wise to explain why these things are wrong.

"We have thus far considered the characteristics of children up to the age of fourteen years, let us now consider those of the adolescent. Adolescence is the critical period of life. It is a time of rapid changes. There are bodily changes which have an influence upon the moral and spiritual condition. The sexual changes which take place help to intensify the consciousness of individuality. Their plays are more strenuous and they still delight in reading adventure stories. They have a thirst for knowledge. At this stage the adolescent sometimes passes through a period of doubt. They possess an intensity of emotion which expresses itself in many different forms. As they grow older they get into the habit of using slang to express themselves. Some are keenly interested in nature and music while others display a morbid interest in evil. At this age too, the development of the passion of anger, sarcasm and spitefulness. This last is more evident in girls than in boys. To the adolescent, the spectacular form of Christian worship is more appealing than the simpler forms. The singing of rousing hymns and tunes pleases them. Adolescents must be led without perceiving it too clearly. At this stage the authority of the parents is more often than not thrown over. We must all submit to authority of some kind, and this should be impressed upon adolescents. To do this the teacher must gain their confidence and sympathize with them. There is a real desire for friendship. This may be one particular person, but the gang spirit is a formidable reality that has to be reckoned with. Friendship with the opposite sex is increasingly common. Not very much can be said about the religion of the adolescent. There is a craving for certainty which can only be satisfied by personal experience, through which we learn the value and blessedness of Christ's sacrifice. They also possess a vivid sense of sin, and the desire for repentence must be stimulated.

"We have so far considered only the characteristics of the children with whom we have to deal. Let us now pass from the study of children to the study of the main principle of teaching.

"The plan of a lesson is divided into seven parts. The aim, introduction, presentation, association, doctrine, application and expression work. The aim is not strictly part of the lesson. There is a general and a constant aim which is to bring every boy and girl to the knowledge of Christ. Then there is the particular aim arising from the lesson of the day. For instance, the story of the Feeding of the Five Thousand may be told to emphasize the hunger and need of the multitudes and the love and power of Jesus in feeding them in the wilderness when the disciples wanted to send them away hungry. Then again it might be told in such a way so as to bring out the co-operation of God and man in the performing of a miracle. Jesus part in blessing the loaves and miraculously increasing them. The disciples part in fetching the loaves, arranging the people, distributing the bread and gathering up the fragments. The first lesson on God's love is suitable for the juniors and the second lesson is more suitable for the seniors. So much for the aim. The introduction of a lesson should be very short, and usually takes the form of questions on the previous lesson. The presentation of a lesson is the longest section, and during it, it is important to remember the aim. The lesson material should be divided into a number of sections. Take for instance the feeding of the Five Thousand. Preaching—coming of the disciples and our Lord's conversation with them—the search for the loaves—distribution and the gathering up of the fragments. If the lesson material is unfamiliar it should take the form of a story. Story lessons are best for children in the junior classes at any time. The teacher should remember the characteristics of the children he is teaching. The story should be made as dramatic as possible for the younger children and more detailed for the older ones. The building-up method is a very good one for children over nine years of age. Let them help by asking them questions and getting them to answer, let them read passages in the Bible and find references. In some lessons both these methods may be blended. In the association of a lesson we must try to find a series of points of contact between the new matter and the old matter of previous lessons. Illustrations of or parallels with or contrasts to our new matter on the old stories. In the doctrine of the lesson let the children point the moral themselves by the use of suitable questions. Let them find out step by step and it will come to them in the light of a discovery. In the application we should suggest ways in which they can go and act upon what they have learned. At this point a word may be said in regard to the time allotted for the lesson. Beginners in teaching find in most cases that their lesson material is exhausted before the time is up but if a lesson is carefully prepared that will not happen. On the other hand most teachers find the time too short and must therefore crowd the last two sections. But the doctrines and applications are the very ones that must not be crowded out, or else it leaves the lesson hanging in the balance with no particular good having been done. Rather shorten the presentation. Lastly we come to the expression work. If the scholars are to retain the impression which has been made upon them in the lesson, they need to give expression to it in some activity at its conclusion. This is where the questions in the leaflet come in. Let them be asked to write out the answers and bring them the following Sunday. The superintendent may ask questions on the lesson and in this way the teacher is able to find out just how much of the lesson has been assimilated by the pupil. A word now on the preparation of the lesson. Consider the aim assigned in the notes. It may require a little modification but get it fixed firmly in your mind. Find the best connecting link between the subject of the lesson and the previous knowledge of your class. Digest the new matter for presentation carefully. Bear in mind the age of your class. Think of suitable questions in connection with the lesson. Make up your mind what definite application you will suggest. Use notes if necessary.

"Now about the giving of a lesson. The teacher should be on hand to receive the scholars as they come in. It is in this way that they can exercise control from the outset. The teacher could talk quiely to the pupils to find out about their daily lives and interests. The personality of the teacher is brought to bear upon the children through the teaching of the lesson and also by personal contact. It is therefore the teachers duty to develop a personality that will have a good impression upon the class. Dignity, decisiveness and a love for the pupils. He should place himsef so as to be able to see all the class easily and should speak loudly enough for all the class to hear clearly but if possible, not so loudly that the next class can hear. Similarly the pupils should be urged to speak quietly. If a child is troublesome, he needs more attention than the rest, not less. Now just a word or two about the use of the Bible. Unless the children can read fairly well, it is useless trying to get them to read the scripture lesson, for while they are stumbling over the words, all sense of their meaning is lost. When they are old enough to read it is advisable to let them find references in the Bible in order to help them know the Book. They should be taught to treat it reverently.

"Now about the use of illustrations. The Good Samaritan is a good example of a kind-hearted man. His character stands out in sharp relief to those of the Priest and the Levite. The Rich Fool is an example of a man who thought too much of this world's goods. The Prodigal Son is probably the most favourite Bible story of this kind. The love of God is shown by one character, the history of the sinner's fall and recovery by another and the exclusive righteousness of the Pharisee by another. Be on the lookout for illusrations in your everyday life. Let us consider the use of questions in teaching and the kinds. There is the preparatory question, which is chiefly used at the beginning of a lesson and its aim is to prepare the way for it. The expressive question is used to test out the scholars memory during the presentation. The deductive question helps the pupil to think out the application of the lesson. Make all questions simple. Ask for one thing at a time. Be clear. Be short. Be direct. Be consecutive. Easy questions for the slower children and include all.

"Now we come to the management of a class, which is by far the greatest difficulty which besets the teacher. A group of children in a class will not behave as well as one child alone, because of the influence of the group spirit. The mischievous child is full of original ideas which he puts into practice so it is best to keep him occupied as much as possible. The shy child is nervous about responding therefore encourage him by asking him simple questions. The sulky child is easily hurt and broods over the slightest injustice. These fits are better ignored or relieved by a little judicious humor. The strong-willed or stubborn child cannot be driven, he must be led. Strength of will is an excellent thing and should not be broken. Oppose him as little as possible. When, however, opposition is necessary, it is best to take a firm stand. A battle of this sort usually needs to be fought and won only once.

THE TARIFF BOARD.

The appointment of Rt. Hon. George P. Graham as Chairman of the new Tariff Board will be accepted with satisfaction by the majority of Canadians.

Mr. Graham is one of the few public men in this country who has succeeded in retaining the friendly regards of those opposed to him politically, and his return to public life, therefore, is looked upon as a very desirable development.

It is stated that he was reluctant to accept the post, feeling that he had earned a rest, but he has been persuaded to take over the responsible duties of this new position.

The manufacturers of Canada are represented by Joseph Daoust of Montreal, while the Western viewpoint will find expression through Donald Mackenzie, Secretary of the United Farmers of Manitoba.

No fault is to be found with the personnel of the committee, who will be assisted by experts from the various branches of the Government.

The last word as to the tariff will, of course, remain with Parliament, and because of that fact the result of the experiment will be awaited with interest.

MERELY WASTING TIME.

Municipalities sending deputations to wait upon the Ontario Government urging that a share of the revenue derived from such levies as the gasoline tax and the amusement tax may be logical in their demands, but they are nevertheless merely wasting time.

The simple truth of the situation is that the Government needs every cent of revenue it now extracts from the people of the Province.

It has not yet got to the stage when its revenue and expenditures balance, and unless an era of economy much more vigorous than at present sets in, that happy period will not arrive for some time.

To expect, therefore, that the Provincial administration would consent to see a portion of its present revenue diverted to the municipalities is to expect a good deal too much.

And if by some miracle the municipal delegations did succeed in persuading the Government to consent to a change in the situation, the benefit to the public would be doubtful.

The Province would merely have to find some other way of finding the revenue it gave up, and the people as usual would have to dig down deep into their pockets and pay.

MORE BRITISH FILMS.

A resolution seeking to increase the use of British motion pictures in Ontario was introduced into the Legislature the other day by Russell Nesbitt, member for Northwest Toronto, debated for some time and finally withdrawn.

That will be about the last that will be heard of it, yet Mr. Nesbitt was seeking to cure an evil that is apparent to every one who has given a moment's thought to the subject.

The effect of such a steady diet of United States films upon the people of this country cannot in the long run fail to be harmful.

As a matter of fact, 99 1-2 per cent. of the films shown in this Province last year were made in the United States.

Many of these pictures could easily have been spared; they were manufactured frankly for the American patron of the movies, and as such were not suitable for use in this country.

Australia meets the situation by requiring 1,000 feet of British film at every performance, and Mr. Nesbitt had this method in mind when he brought forward his resolution and declared that eventually a scheme could be worked out by which only 25 per cent. of the pictures shown in Canadian theatres would be made outside the British Empire.

Although the motion was finally withdrawn, the discussion in the Legislature on the subject should be of some value.

PATROLLING THE HIGHWAYS.

The Peterboro branch of the Ontario Motor League has set itself on record via two resolutions passed at the last executive meeting as against a change in the system of highway patrols and in favour of the Lindsay-Peterboro road being made a Provincial highway.

The local organization takes the position that a transfer of the policing of the highways to another department instead of having it carried on by the Department of Public Highways would be a mistake.

In this connection it is pointed out that the system gave good satisfaction last year, especially because the majority of the patrol officers were apparently men with some judgment and discretion.

The Motor League feels that the main object of the highways' patrol should be to check reckless driving, and not merely to catch every motorist who under conditions that made such driving safe might happen to exceed the speed limit to some extent.

The irresponsible driver who cares nothing apparently for his own safety or the safety of everybody else on the highway should be fair game for the patrol officers.

As for the proposed Provincial highway, there is no question of the value of the road to the tourists, as well as to the people living along the route and the citizens of Lindsay and Peterboro.

STREET CARS OBSOLETE?

In view of the local transportation situation, it is interesting to note that the Border Cities Star is advising against constructing new street railway lines in the outlying districts of Windsor.

The Windsor paper inclines to the view that the street railway as a means of transportation may be obsolete in the course of a few years.

"There is no denying that the public of today prefers busses to street cars," continues the Star. "One has only to look across the river to appreciate the truth of that statement. The bus fare is twice as high, but ask the average bus patron and he will tell you that he would rather pay the double amount and ride in a bus. And the same thing is true here in the more or less limited bus service that this community enjoys at present.

"Pavements are being extended everywhere, and it is thus possible to make bus service a universal sort of thing. Another factor is that bus lines can be laid out to follow the needs of community growth. It takes months to build a street car line and get it into operation. A new bus line can be arranged and put under way overnight. There are no post holes to be dug, no boulevards to be defaced, no pavements to be torn up, no wires to be strung. Busses can be sent anywhere that ordinary vehicular traffic goes. They are swift, practically silent and amenable to changing traffic needs. Put a street car line on a street and, in most cases, it stays there. Put on a bus line and a year or so later if it is found desirable to move it over a block or so no capital investment suffers and the change can be made on a few hours' notice."

AMERICAN UNPREPARDEDNESS IN 1917.

Remarkably little comment is to be seen upon one amazing feature of the World War: the omission of the Americans to make any military preparations during their period of neutrality. When Americans mention it, they often blandly advance it as a proof of virtue; so little did they intend or expect to take part in the universal slaughter that entry when it came found them unready. They declared war in April, 1917, but struck no blow until July, 1918, and no considerable one till the October following. The German leaders, whose fault was preoccupation with material resources, saw that they had no army and could not see beyond that fact; it came near being a sound calculation, for what happened was that the Allies took the strain while the United States were assembling, organizing and training their army, and had the sorely tried British and French yielded, the United States would have proved as impotent as Berlin believed. It was a very near thing. The summer and autumn of 1917, the spring of 1918 cost the lives of several hundred thousand, pernaps of several million, men; it exhausted Great Britain, France and Italy, and plunged Russia into the living death of Bolshevism. It is rather a high price for the rest of the world to pay for American virtue.

The situation of the United States from 1914 onwards was that a tremendous struggle was raging into which they might be drawn; they hoped not, but in very great wars neutrals tend to find their position impossible. There are two ways of behaving when a country wishes to remain a neutral; one is to take no active steps and to confine oneself to wishing; the other is so to prepare that each of the belligerents will perceive that aggression will be dangerous. The Allies—at all events Great Britain—knew perfectly well that the Americans if they entered the war in one way and another would be very formidable, and they conducted themselves accordingly; the Germans, who could understand only existing armies, did not realize it, and learned the lesson by experience. Looking at the matter from the American point of view, it seems clear that if the Germans had been as wary of offending the United States as the Allies, the Great Republic might have kept out of the struggle. What would have made the Germans respect American strength? An army.

Let us put a case. Suppose that early in 1915, when it became clear that the war was to be long as well as furious, the United States had resolved to arm, in protection of their neutrality. Suppose that they had resolved to form twenty divisions. The Canadian Army Corps, four large divisions with abundance of artillery and auxiliary troops, numbered about 125 000 men, and five such formations would have meant an army of some 600,000 to 700,000 men. The American Regular Army and National Guard would have been perfectly able within two years to organize and train such a force, and to make provision, not merely for the provision of reinforcements, but also for the smooth and rapid raising of additional divisions; at every step they would have had the advantage of studying the developments in organization, armament and tactics of the belligerents, the task would not have been beyond the directional powers of the officers already trained, and the new army by 1917 should have been an exceedingly formidable force. As over 400,000 voluntary enlistments occurred in addition to the draft, it is quite likely that the twenty divisions could have been raised by voluntary enlistment, thus avoiding the moral strain — the social wrench — of conscription, and the accompanying violent propaganda, which have produced so serious a reaction. Then when the German soldiers and statesmen in 1917 debated the question of unrestricted submarine warfare, they would have seen on the other side of the Atlantic twenty divisions ready to be ferried across to France. It is very hard to believe that they would have presented their enemies with such a reinforcement. Still looking at it from the American standpoint, perhaps the Allied statesmen would have been more amenable to President Wilson's desires in 1916.

"If Wilson had prepared for the ordeal of war in practice as he prepared for it in principle, his claim to supreme greatness among statesmen would not be open to dispute," says Mr. Walter Lippman in commenting in Foreign Affairs upon the latest revelations. If President Wilson had begun to arm in 1915, it is not only possible, it is probable, that the United States would not have been provoked to war. If the German madness had persisted, if the Americans had become belligerents in April, 1917, it is fair to suppose that the Allies, with shipping undepleted by the submarine, could have got into France before the campaigning season ended a force sufficient to have turned the tide, for the new-comers would not have been the untrained amateurs of 1918, but men of two years' training, under officers who had had time to acquire skill in leadership and staff-work—a very fine army indeed. And again—several million lives would have been saved; so would an enormous amount of social disintegration.

In short, American refusal to arm in 1915 was one of the enormous blunders of the war.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

About the only thing the average newspaper man knows about "legals" is that he never possessed one.

People are beginning to wonder what the members of the Ontario Legislature would find to talk about if there were no Ontario Temperance Act.

An Athens girl has been jailed for wearing a short skirt. The jails in this country are not large enough for such a law to be possible here.

For those who failed to prove in the polling booth that they were good citizens, there is still a chance. They can win back the title by judicious use of the axe and the snow-shovel.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

RICH—POOR—WEALTHY.

To have nothing but cash for a companion—to be married to money and divorced from friends—to be compelled to buy love and affection and beg respect and confidence—to have nothing but money—means that you are rich.

To have a consuming ambition to acquire an abundance of money—to devote one's entire energies to making nothing but money—means that you are poor.

To have a tranquil mind; a clean, calm, conscientious purpose; a few true friends; good health; a happy home; a sufficient amount of securities or cash drawing a reasonable rate of interest to guarantee against any embarrassment from want means that you are wealthy.

Take your choice.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

SATURDAY.
Overcoming the World.

Read Jn. 16:28-33. Text: 16:33. Be of good cheer I have overcome the world.

Meditation—We are afraid, filled with dismay. The voice of Jesus calls through the darkness "be of good cheer." He bids us to be unafraid, to have confidence that we shall overcome. The world can be overcome. "I have overcome"—he is present with us—watch, pray, act in his spirit and we can overcome the world. It is obedient faith in him which overcomes the world.

"Be strong and of good courage, be not afraid no rdismayed . . . for there is a greater with us than with him. With him is an arm of flesh, but with us is Jehovah our God."

"For all your days prepare,
And meet them ever alike:
When you are the anvil, bear—
When you are the hammer, strike."

Prayer—O Eternal and Almighty to deliver—Thou didst change unstable Simon, impulsive with good purpose but vacillating as water into a man of rock. Thou canst transform the faint heartedness of the coward into the valor of the hero. Declare Thy power unto us till we shall not fear the arm of flesh with its strength to work us harm no, nor the tongue of flesh, its malice or its guile. Amen.

SUNDAY.
Calling Disciples.

Read Jn. 1:43-49. Text: 1:43. Jesus saith unto him, follow me.

Meditation—These fishermen of Galilee had been on a pilgrimage beyond Jordan, where they had spent days in listening to John the Baptist as he preached to multitudes the evangel of repentance in token of which he baptised them in Jordan. John baptised in water, and pointed them to one who would immerse them in a new spirit—the Spirit of God. Jesus called Philip to follow him back to Galilee the place of the common task. It is there that we most often make our greatest discovery of God. At Elim they began to be acquainted with Jesus but vision of truth could not be complete apart from obedience in the service of truth. Before Philip could really become Jesus' disciple he first findeth Nathaniel and brought him to Jesus.

Prayer—O Thou who callest us to follow Thee, forgive us that we have been content to seek Thee for ourselves alone. Having found Thee may we never neglect to share our riches with others. Teach us to win others to Thee. Restore unto us the joy of Thy salvation. Help us to teach transgressors Thy ways.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

HOW WELCOME IS THE ARRIVAL OF SPRING.

The Editor of The Examiner:—
Dear Sir,
In all thy beauty comest thou so soon?
Bringing bright sunshine, earth's highest boon.

See the glad meadows on every hand
Rivulets flowing, gladden the land.

The above lines—a translation from the German of part of one of Mendelssohn's "Open Air Songs"—a lovely—to my mind—collection of music, seemed to have been almost true of this first day of spring. On Friday night last, when I wrote an article for this newspaper, "Spring, Spring, Beautiful Spring," it certainly did not look as if we were likely to experience such a lovely day as was last Sunday. The sun shone all day long and its beneficent rays were warm and especially cheering. Probably some of my readers thought I was a pessimist—which I am far from being, for I am at times blamed for being too optimistic—because I did not take a halcyon view of the next few hours, while inditing my column. But with the clerk of the weather, alias the meteorological office, forecasting colder weather, otherwise lower temperature, together with snow or rain and taking into consideration the general outlook at the time I wrote, I really think I may be forgiven. Anyway, no one was more pleased than I was to see such a glorious day ushering in spring for it was like a renewal of life.

The lines with which I have commenced this article may not be strictly true as regards this particular part of the Dominion; yet there were many places where they honestly applied. It is true that, in this city, a large quantity of snow disappeared, and consequent rivulets—where they were not wanted and did not gladden, except in the one sense that they indicated a thaw—were to be found in all directions in our streets, both on the roads and sidewalks. Anyway, taken on the whole, it was a day to gladden the heart of man and to a certain extent the hearts of the fairer sex. It was a day upon which a new spring hat might well be introduced, or a spring overcoat put in an appearance. The average temperature of the day, so I am informed by my old friend, the genial "W.P.," who has for many years kept the records of the weather, etc., for this neighbourhood for the Government was 47 degrees and the sunshine lasted until the regular going down of the sun.

In last Saturday's feature article on "Spring," I spoke of the summer and winter solstice and the vernal and autumnal equinoxes. Lest any reader should not clearly understand these terms, let me here say that the seasons—of which we all know, there are four—are due to the inclination of the earth's axis to the plane of the ecliptic. At one position of the earth in its orbit, the northern end of the axis is inclined towards the sun, and the sun's rays strike perpendicularly upon the Tropic of Cancer, and therefore more directly and with greater power on all parts of the northern hemisphere, the greater length of daylight aiding in the accumulation of heat. This position is known as the summer solstice which occurs in the third week in June. Six months later or around the 21st of December, commonly known as "the shortest day," the conditions are reversed. The South Pole is inclined to the sun, the vertical rays fall on the tropic of Capricorn, the southern hemisphere receives the more direct rays, and enjoys its midsummer at the winter solstice of the northern hemisphere. When the earth is midway between these two positions in its orbit, neither pole is inclined to the sun. The rays are perpendicular to the equator and, therefore, equally inclined to places in corresponding latitudes in the northern and southern hemispheres. These positions are the vernal (or spring) and the autumnal equinoxes.

LAPSE OF MEMORY DIVERTS JOURNEY

Started For Florida and Arrived at Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 27—(Canadian Press)—A country-wide search for William Burkhardt, member of the Illinois Commerce Commission and brother-in-law of former Mayor Wm. Thompson, of Chicago, ended Friday when Burkhardt was located in a private convalescent home here. He was last heard of a week ago in Springfield, Ills., when he left his hotel there to join his family at Palm Beach, Fla.

The commissioner was apparently seized with an attack of amnesia upon leaving Springfield Hotel and instead of going to Palm Beach, reached Calgary, Alta., coming on to Vancouver last Tuesday, where he consulted a physician and was advised to enter the convalescent home and he has been resting there ever since.

PROVINCE OPPOSED

reaching 70 years of age had to be looked after by the state. The effect also would be to discourage thrift.

Varied Comment

Dr. J. E. Fontaine (Liberal-Hull) said that he had always been in favor of old age pensions. In 1924 he had sponsored a resolution which embodied that principle.

Henry Bourassa (Independent, Labelle) opopsed the resolution. He thought that the federal government should not have made such a move until it had thoroughly canvassed the opinion of the provinces and secured their co-operation.

Leon Ladner (Conservative, South Vancouver) was in favor of the resolution. It was better, he thought, that the cost of protecting the aged from penury should be spread over the country as a whole rather than that a generous few should have to bear the burden. He would rather see $10,000,000 spent on old age pensions than on such projects as the Hudson Bay railway.

Government's Delay

In considering the merits of the proposal, the government's record must be considered. For four years when the government had 65 Progressives to support the measure, it found only excuses. If the government did not act then, there was little likelihood of its pressing the matter now. The government had promised to call a conference of premiers, but now announced that it had decided not to. For its initial stages in the proposal, the government was to be commended, but its record indicated that the measure would not be carried through.

"We are all going to get old," said Mr. Ladner in reiterating his support to the scheme. "Some of us may require $20 a month. I hope I won't."

A. W. Neill (Independent-Comox-Alberni) stated that British Columbia favored old age pensions. It was cheaper to maintain these aged people in their homes than in poor houses.

THOMPSON IN FINAL.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 27 (Canadian Press)—Frank Thompson, of Toronto, Canada, former amateur golf champion of Canada, and Harry Evans, of St. Augustine, winner of the spring championship here two weeks ago, will meet here to-day in the 36-hole final of the Florida winter golf championship tournament.

SCHOOL BOARD TO GIVE STREET

Agree To Donate Strip 66 Feet Wide To Town—To Sell Lots.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 27. — The March meeting of the Board of Education was held Thursday evening, with Chairman O'Sullivan presiding, and all but two of the members present; the absentees being Trustees Precy Denyes and Dr. H. O. Watson.

John Hall, a 1925 member of the Board and one who always took an active interest in beautifying the High School grounds, wrote his former colleagues to suggest that no one be allowed on the seeded portion of the yard until after the summer holidays so as to give the young sod a chance to become firm.

Give Land for Street.

Some time ago, the board offered to donate to the town sufficient land for a roadway 40 feet wide which would form a continuation of Booth Street through the High School grounds. When the offer was considered by the Council, attention was called to the fact that a roadway of that width would require the approval of the Municipal and Railway Board, and in order to avoid the trouble and expense of laying the matter before that body, the Board of Education was asked to donate sufficient land to construct a roadway 66 feet wide the regulation width of a street. A number of the members of the Board met at the school grounds Friday afternoon to look over the situation, and they decided that the suggestion of the Council be accepted.

The new street will run along the east side of the ground leaving on the east side of the thoroughfare a portion of land still belonging to the board. This will be divided into two lots and these, which will form desidable sites for building purposes, will be offered for sale.

Time for An Equalization.

Trustees Stephens and Cock, who represent the school sections in the township that are affiliated with the Campbellford schools, called attention to the fact that that an equalization of the cost of maintenance as between the town and township be made as the agreement provides that such action be taken every fifth year. At present the township pays eight and the town 92 per cent of the cost of maintenance.

It was decided that this was a matter for the Seymour Council, not for the Board, to deal with.

LAX METHODS IN POLLING BOOTH

District Returning Officer on Trial in Edmonton Court.

IN ALBERTA RIDING.

EDMONTON, March 27 (Canadian Press).—Admission of the laxity which prevailed at the polling booth at Venice, No. 153 in the Athabasca riding, during the last election, was given in the Criminal Court Friday, when J. C. Billos was arraigned before Mr. Justice Ives on two charges of fraudulent practices while he was district returning officer of the poll. The case is proceeding.

Will... Jex, who acted as poll clerk to Billos on the day of the election was a witness.

If there had been any roguery, he said, it could not have been himself that did it. E. B. Cogswell K.C., Crown prosecutor, got the witness to admit that numerous irregularities had taken place, but when asked by Mr. Cogswell why he had registered the names of various voters in the poll book, he invariably replied:

"Mr. Billos told me to do it."

Officer Couldn't Write

"You are of no more use than a wooden Indian on that job, and if I were you I would resign, or you will find yourself in trouble one of these days," said Mr. Justice Ives to Isaac Gagnon, returning officer for the electoral district of Athabasca at the last Dominion election.

Gagnon admitted that he could not write, and that he had sent out numerous blank forms for the appointment of district returning officers in the Athabasca riding.

Mr. Justice Ives expressed the hope that the whole matter of the appointment of returning officers would be drawn to the attention of the proper authorities in Ottawa.

"If this is the type of man that gets those jobs, it's time the whole thing was changed," he concluded.

Gagnon was a witness against J. O. Billos.

HAMILTON WOMAN FATALLY INJURED

Car Plunged 50 Feet Into Tiger River.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., March 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Mrs. H. F. Graham, of Hamilton, Ont., was probably fatally injured and her husband was slightly hurt Friday when their car left the highway eight miles west of Spartanburg and plunged fifty feet into the Tiger River. Surgeons said Mrs. Graham's skull was fractured.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham were en route from Florida to their home in Canada. The accident was said to have been caused by a collision with another machine at the approach to a bridge. The driver of the other car did not stop.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY CONFRONTS GIRL

Mother Dead and Father Dying After Quarrel.

DETROIT, Mich., March 27.—(Canadian Press.)— When Stella Elion, 12 years old, returned home from school Friday, she found her mother, Anna, 40, dead, and her father, Nicholas, 39, fatally wounded, with a revolver lying on the floor near Elion. He died shortly afterward in a hospital.

Police of Hamtramck suburb, in which the Elions lived, believed the double tragedy followed renewal of marital differences which a few months ago led Elion to file charge of assault and battery against his wife. Elion subsequently refused to press the charge, and reconciliation was affected.

The body of Mrs. Elion was found propped against a door, while her husband was sprawled on the floor across the room. A broken sugar bowl on the beyboard of the piano gave evidence of commotion.

That Elion shot his wife and then turned the gun to his head and fired two bullets was the conjecture of the police.

The German fleet scuttled at Scapa Flow cost about $200,000,000.

"The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted"

BY S. GERTRUDE DE WENTWORTH-JAMES

SYNOPSIS

Loath to prosecute his son on a manslaughter charge, John Mannering, District Attorney, tries to resign, but leaders show him that party honor is at stake. Eileen in mother love desperation bargains with his political rival, Wallace, to defeat her husband for re-election, upon Wallace's promise to free Bob if elected. But Wallace doublecrosses Eileen, whose husband, unaware of her innocent sacrifice, finds her in Wallace's arms. Dazed, she flees. Bledsoe, Wallace's backer, upon learning how Eileen was framed up, unexpectedly turns on his henchman.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued from last week.

The jailer stopped before a cell door, and rising hastily at sight of his father, Bob moved forward and thrust his hand through the bars.

"Dad!" he cried joyously. "Dad!"

"My son!" responded John. And leaping from the depths of the soul of this lonely and grief stricken man, what a wealth of love and affection was in his tones!

"I'll open the door, sir, if you'll stand aside for one moment," said the jailer.

"No," protested John, clinging to his son's hand as if he could not bear to release it, as if it were a veritable life line leading back to all that he held most dear, which he did not dare let go. "Don't trouble—I'll soon have him out from behind those bars."

Bob regarded him curiously. The feverish glint in his father's eyes, the nervous timbre in his voice and his haggard, tired face were not lost upon the boy.

"What is this rumor I hear of you having resigned as District Attorney, dad?"

"It is true, my boy. I have resigned."

"Oh, dad!" cried Bob, anxious instantly. "Did I—did this trouble of mine have anything to do with it?"

"Don't let it worry you. You have enough here to disturb you without bothering about that."

"But your career, your profession, dad?" Quite old enough was Bob to understand the importance of these things in his father's life.

"I have you to defend. That seems to me quite an important case," he said, squeezing his son's hand as if he would crush it from sheer excess of feeling.

"I've brought you a few things," he said, emptying his pockets of packages. Then he extended the mutilated newspaper, and his tones grew less certain. "This—er—this fell into a mud puddle as I came along. It's sort of shot full of holes, but—"

"How's mother?" interrupted Bob suddenly.

Releasing his son's hand, John clutched at a steel bar for support, his brain aflame. God! She who for over twenty years had lain at his side through her sleeping hours—where had she spent the night? Better might it be if he could tell his son—her son—that she lay upon a bier a corpse.

With a mighty effort he steeled himself. Always had he abhorred untruths, but in this ugly new world in which he found himself what mattered a falsehood or two?

"Oh, yes, I forgot. Your mother wanted me to tell you that she had a slight headache and probably would not be down today."

In Bob's boyish face was anxiety as well as sympathy.

"Poor mother! She can't deceive me. I know how much having me here worries her. I have been afraid that it would make her sick, and now this headache—"

"It's nothing," interrupted John quickly.

"I know, dad. She'd say so. Always brave, always ready with a cheery word to help a fellow along. She's wonderful. I would not have anything happen to her for worlds. She's a perfect brick, mother is—isn't she, Dad?"

Tense, drawn, John gazed down into the eager face of his son, while seconds ticked.

"She is," he agreed finally.

"It's for her sake more than anything else, dad, that I regret all this and long to be home."

Home! Again and again had John Mannering's consciousness been seared as by a red hot iron that morning. This boy, whose clear eyes looked up into his, no longer had a home. True, there were the roof, walls and furnishings of a house he had once called home. But with Eileen gone the guardian spirit had fled. That left was cold material and worthless.

"Bob—good morning, Bob!" It was a cheery feminine voice which interrupted the somber chain of John Mannering's thoughts.

Down the steel corridor before the cells tripped Marjorie Patterson, her arms laden with packages. There was a dewy freshness in her girlish beauty but in her face was assurance and self confidence, that assurance and directness with which Marjorie alway faced the problem of life.

"Have you asked your father yet, Bob?" she demanded, fixing upon him an adoring look which was but thinly veiled by maiden modesty.

Before her question the youth flushed hotly and a great embarrassment seized him.

Nothing daunted, she turned and faced John's cold countenance most cheerfully.

"I want to marry Bob."

"You see," Marjorie calmly continued, and in her eye was the look of one who saw beautiful visions, "in case Bob has to go to prison I want to be able to live right across the street so I can visit him conveniently—yes, and take all our children over, too."

Back along the line of cells he moved heedless of all about him. On through barred doors, where keys jangled and locks clicked, and beyond down the long corridor. There before the door of the jail office he would have passed E. J. Bledsoe with never a sign of recognition had that gentleman not hailed him.

"Hold on, Mannering!" cried the former backer of Messrs. Wallace and Jennings. "I've been looking for you every place. Where can I talk to you?"

As one recalled from deep thought John regarded the speaker uncertainly for an instant. Then he turned to the jailor.

"We'd like to use the office for a moment, please."

"Surely," agreed that functionary promptly.

Bledsoe took a deep breath and squared his shoulders.

"First I want to apologize to you for backing the biggest crook in politics, and that's saying something."

John Mannering only sighed. What interest had he in politics, or, for that matter, in anything? He waited there, white faced and indifferent, as Bledsoe went on:

"Next I want to speak to you—er—about your wife, Mannering."

John's face grew grim and there was a terrible light in his eyes. What other blow had Fate in store for him? Yet even as Bledsoe began to speak there came a change, a marvelous change, which continued as the other's words flowed on, a change which ended only when John sank weakly back against a desk. And then there was wonder in his countenance, yes, and grief and repentance, too, but behind it all a great happiness, the glory of a love assured.

"So that—that's why she did it?" he cried in tones which were a dry sob. "And I—I—fool that I was, doubted her." Now alarm seized him. "How can I make her understand?"

"See her—see her and explain. She'll forgive you, don't worry about that," said Bledsoe with all the confidence of a man whose rest has been unbroken.

"But, Bledsoe, I—I left her. I don't know where she is!" groaned John repentantly.

"I do," said Bledsoe, producing the telegram from his daughter. "See here. Diane says she's there. That must mean Meadville."

"Meadville?"

"You never heard of it, Mannering. t's a little village near my country, place. My car is outside. Come on let's go."

CHAPTER XIV.

All that day Eileen lay stretched across the bed in her little room at the hotel utterly motionless. Sleeping the sleep of complete exhaustion, she might almost have been dead. For her wearied body Nature had decreed an armistice; for her tired soul had granted a cessation of grief in gentle slumber.

Yet to Diane Bledsoe, at her father's lodge in the forest, came no such peace. While her telegram to her father had allayed in a measure that excess of terror which, seemingly inspired by the sight of Eileen at the little hotel, had sent the girl galloping madly homewards as if pursued by the devil himself, she seemed obsessed by fears which found expression in great nervousness.

For a time after the message had gone she stationed herself at a front window of the lodge and gazed back over the wooded hills through which she had just ridden so madly as if expecting a pursuer to appear at any moment. It was a beautiful view she gazed upon, in its peace and restfulness the last place from which harm might emerge. Before her eyes an undulatin sea of green stretched away for miles to where in the hazy distance it was bounded by the silvery thread of the river.

A remarkable site was this that Bledsoe had chosen for his summer home All about it a primeval forest, within whose majestic aisles the ax of man had never sounded, yet which echoed to the distant whistles of locomotives and the low moan of far away factory sirens, while sometimes overhead an aeroplane vied with the eagle's flight. A few hours' ride and all the activities of civilization pulsed about one, but here amidst these giants of the ages the centuries seemed turned back, and they in philosophical calm to scorn the march of progress.

It was Bledsoe's great wealth which had made this thing possible. Out of some complicated business transaction he had emerged the owner of this vast tract as simply as if he, a marauder baron, had laid subject to his sword a choice bit of a neighboring kingdom. Now, like some lord of the middle ages, he could gaze forth at his forest domain as far as the eye could see.

Bledsoe seemed to love this forest, yet it is doubtful if he had ever penetrated its depths more than a few steps from the roadside in all the years that he had owned it. This, however, was not true of Diane. Like a dryad of these hills, she had run wild in their shadowed recesses since infancy. Now, disturbed as she was by some inward fear, they seemed to call to her.

Making her way downstairs she moved off into the quiet woodland with the assurance of familiarity. A few steps and all semblance of a path had disappeared. But on she went, circling a mass of underbrush here or some monstrous giant which lay prone there. Now there lay before her a bed of pine needles as soft as any carpet, then she must climb a rotten log, which, dry as punk, shivered off a splinter beneath her light tread.

Careless! Diane moved away quite heedless that her foot had not stepped upon the lighted end of her cigarette or that her action had merely shifted it into the cup of a leaf as dry as tinder. Hardly had she gone twenty yards before a thread of smoke lifted itself perhaps an inch from the ground as might the coil of a tiny serpent.

Crackle! Pop! Zoom! It is a flaming torch, a torch to spread destruction far and near. Bledsoe's forest is afire.

Such a disaster was farthermost from Bledsoe's thoughts as he sped towards his lodge with John Mannering at his side. In fact, he was at peace with the world and himself, particularly himself. Had he not extricated himself with promptness and honor from a most disagreeable situation in respect to the election? Having acted so righteously he was inclined to take a calm view of life. Although he had urged John to proceed with him to Meadville with the utmost dispatch, no sooner had they started than, from John's point of view, he grew most exasperatingly dilatory. He had to stop at his office and leave instructions. His chauffeur had better go and get gas. There was a tire that should be changed. Then it was almost lunch time, they had better have lunch. Inwardly John fretted and fumed at the imp of procrastination which had seized the man. Alone and with his own car he would have been well on the way. But uplifted by hope, where all had been hopeless, he had borne the delay stoically.

At last they were off. Filled with impatience, John fretted under their slow progress through the congested traffic. He was on pins and needles as they sped more swiftly through the environs of the city. Finally out on the highway as the speedometer began to climb, he sank back in his corner with a sigh of relief and left Bledsoe complacently enjoying his cigar in the other.

On, on they went through the long hours of the afternoon. It was a silent ride. And now John found himself the prey of a thousand fears and regrets. Would Eileen forgive him? Once reached she must be made to understand. In his repentance he was ready to go to any lengths to restore himself in her graces. But he had accused her of dreadful things—in his anger said terrible things. How terrible he was not quite sure. She must be made to understand the misapprehension under which he had labored. Ah, but Eileen was proud! Would she forgive him? There was the rub.

On, on they went against a rising wind which did not fall with the setting of the sun. Twilight came and darkness. As they topped the hill John thought he perceived a red glow in the sky.

There's a town ahead or a big fire" he told Bledsoe.

"Can't be" said the other with all the assurance of exact knowledge.

On on they went while the miles sped by. Once more they topped the hill.

"Look!" cried Bledsoe sitting up and staring ahead with startled eyes. "It is a fire as I live an immense one! But what can it be?"

A fierce gust of wind swept down on the car and John sniffed the air.

"It's a forest fire!" he cried. "Don't you smell it?"

Bledsoe got to his feet bending forward and a great fear was in his eyes.

"There is only one forest in that direction. It surrounds my lodge. Diane is there."

"And Meadville?" said John softly his face ghastly white.

"Yes and Meadville!" cried Bledsoe and shouted at his chauffeur: "Drive drive man drive as you never drove in your life before!"

So long and so heavily did Eileen sleep that when she awoke her faculties were befogged for a time. This strange shabby little room . . . was she still dreaming? Ah . . . she remembered now. . . . Bob . . John . . surely it was all a dream? She must really wake up. Such horrible things were not possible. But those hoarse excited shouts . . . that sound like the tramp of running feet on a wooden sidewalk? Was that a woman's scream? . . What could have happened? And this strange red glare which lighted the room so fitfully was it . . day . . . sunlight?

Bewildered Eileen sat up on the edge of the bed and coughed then she rubbed her eyes. How they smarted! This heavy pungent resinous odor . . . pine . . . smoke? She leaped to her feet and made for the window.

She gasped. Was this the end of the world? Around the edge of the great hill which overlooked the town a wall of flame red yellow golden was eating its way through the forest. Above it in a hellish pyrotechnic display sparks leaped up to the skies and great billows of smoke blotted out the stars.

Her eyes dropped to the street below. Lighted by the lurid glare of the oncoming flames a panic stricken mass of men women and children bearing every conceivable burden of plunging and excited horses of honking automobiles was fleeing the awful red horror bearing down upon the town.

Slowly Eileen turned but only to hesitate. She remembered everything all. Why hurry? . . . Why struggle? . . . What did life mean to her . . . now? Why not end it all . . here?

Then came the remembrance of Bob and her face grew firm. She opened the door and passed out into the hall. The smoke seemed thicker and she coughed as she groped her way amidst those unfamiliar surroundings. She reached the stairs and descended to find the room below deserted. She moved on and came out on the porch which spanned the building at the front.

A fiery glare lay over the doomed town and the crash and roar of the approaching flames could be plainly heard. Heat as from a mighty furnace beat against her cheek. The crowd had thinned and only a few stragglers were passing. Yet even as Eileen emerged a frightened girl stumbled up the stairs leading to the porch and paused breathless to gaze back at the approaching flames. Hardly heeding the newcomer's presence Eileen was upon the point of passing her when she turned and perceiving Eileen screamed.

"Diane!" cried Eileen stepping towards her.

But terror stricken Diane Bledsoe drew back to cringe against a post.

"I know—you've come for me! But I intend to give myself up" she cried wildly.

Startled and amazed Eileen stared at her.

"I didn't mean to go so far—I wouldn't have let them send him to prison!" sobbed Diane.

"Who?" said Eileen trying to get her arms about the girl and sooth her.

But Diane wrenched herself away.

"Bob!" she cried hysterically. "He didn't kill that woman—he wasn't driving the car when she was killed."

"What do you mean?" demanded Eileen with sudden fierceness.

"Well—you see I—I was fooling" sobbed Diane. "And Bob said 'f you want to drive drive.' Then he slipped out on the running b-b-board and I—I took the wheel and gave her some g-gas. Then Bob shouted 'Look out!' And before I could do anything—it happened."

"But why didn't Bob say so?" breathed Eileen quickly.

"Er—h-he must have been knocked c-cuckoo and forgot—er—he was just a g-good sport and wouldn't squeal" concluded Diane weakly.

Either way she had no reason to be ashamed of her son and joy leaped up in Eileen's heart but only to die before a great bitterness as she turned upon the sobbing girl. Her cowardice her weakness had wrought all the evil of the last few days. Had Diane but spoken but told the truth! Ah the pity of it the crime of it! In sudden hatred Eileen clenched her fists as if to strike the girl.

A strange thing happened. Groping blindly in her grief as Diane thrust forth her hand it touched Eileen's arm touched those muscles tense with enmity towards her. Before such helplessness the sympathy of that mother heart was quick to intervene. Her own wrongs forgotten Eileen's face softened. With all her faults Diane was but a child. Now her arm was about the weeping girl.

"Come" she said gently and as falling sparks and that ominous roar recalled her to their peril "we must go."

"No" protested Diane hysterically. "They will put me in jail."

"Listen dear—we can't stay here. All the people have gone—look!" The nervous staccato of Eileen's voice grew to a cry of fear.

And well it might for that oncoming wall of flame licking already at the edge of the town raining a fiery shower of sparks about them and scorching them with its hot breath was not all.

As if aroused to greater rancour by the scared mortals fleeing its approach as might a hill of disturbed ants the flame terror had crept swiftly around the heights which overlooked the town. Now bursting forth from below a new advance sent a blazing host of skirmishers leaping forward to close the line of escape.

Even as Eileen watched the swift moving flames formed a veritable arch of fire above the last departing fugitives. She and Diane were alone in a town beleaguered by fire.

Still she did not despair.

"Come!" she cried and then uncertainly: "But where can we go?"

"The river!" cried Diane startled from her apathy and pointing to the left.

They rushed away in the direction she had indicated. At the edge of the town the encompassing flames were upon them.

"I can't—I can't!" screamed Diane as a blast of withering heat beat down upon them.

"You must!" shouted Eileen. And seizing the girl's arm she literally dragged her forward to plunge blindly into a veritable inferno of smoke and heat and of singing flame.

Stumbling coughing choking gasping for the very breath of life they struggled on for what seemed an eternity.

This Lassie Has Her Colds "Rubbed Away"

The mother of this attractive little girl, Mrs. E. E. Emmans, of 215 Seventh Ave., N. E., Portage La Prairie, Man., is one of the many Canadian mothers who are enthusiastic about the vaporizing salve, Vicks VapoRub, for treating children's colds. Mrs. Emmans writes: "My little girl had croup at night pretty badly and Vicks did her a lot of good. I have also used it with very satisfactory results for head and chest colds."

Vicks is just "rubbed on" for sore throat, tonsilitis, bronchitis, croup or deep chest colds. When so applied, Vicks has a double direct action: internally medicated vapors are inhaled while, at the same time, externally, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin.

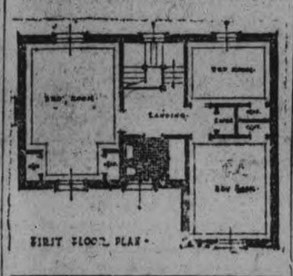
The Tuder House of Beauty and Convenience

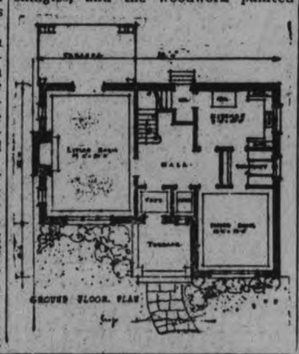
(By Warren and McDonnell, Architects.)

Planned for a lot with fifty feet frontage, this house, thirty-eight feet by thirty feet, comprises six rooms with the bath-room and the dining alcove in addition. The living-room with its verandah is the best arranged room as to doors and windows, and leaves very little to be desired for a house of this size. The fireplace, located to give ample space for cozy chairs and reading lamps, and wall space for piano and the settee. What might be termed a square hall, with returned stairs, and a window on the landing, will make this unusually attractive and homelike. The dining-room and dining alcove—which latter has now become a necessary feature in modern house planning—is served directly from the kitchen, which has the trades and basement entrances in close touch.



Three bedrooms on the first floor, with cupboards to each, the larger room being about fourteen feet by nineteen feet. Off the main hall is a roomy bathroom finished with tile and sanitary walls. The basement contains the usual accommodation for laundry, heating plant and storage—well drained and lighted.

The exterior shows a house of Tudor design of much merit simple, pleasing roof outlines, with eave lines broken by the gabled first floor windows, and interest is added by the careful grouping of the casement openings, and the half timbering of a portion of the first floor. The chimney, carried well above the roof, and offsetting the dominating parallel lines by its strong vertical design showing experienced study. Kept snug down on the site the house seems to be a part of the lawns and approaches, an effect not always easily obtained, but very helpful to this style of domestic architecture.



This house will look well built with dark red brick, laid Flemish bond, in white mortar the roofing of oak stained shingles, and the woodwork painted brown, the half timbered work being left "off the saw," and stained the same color.

A plain Tudor panelled door for the main entrance—oak preferably, and red Dutch tiles for the terrace, will make this a very suitable and attractive entrance.

Regarding the interior finish—all the floors are hardwood—oak and birch, stained and floor varnished. Walls throughout with the plastering finished in fine sand stucco, for cold water paint finish of various tints. The trim, doors and staircase on the ground floor are of plain oak, upper floor in pine, with paint finish.

The plumbing and heating—the latter by hot water—are of the best quality and suitable for this class of a dwelling.

The cost of this house, ready for occupancy, would be about eight thousand, five hundred dollars, exclusive of the land.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architect direct. Address, Warren and McDonnell, Home Bank Bldg., Hamilton, Ont. Copyright, 1926, MacLean Building Reports Limited.

DAMAGE DONE LAKEFIELD RINK

Boys Force Entry and Play Around Inside Building.

CHIEF WARNED.

LAKEFIELD, March 27.—It has been reported to the Rink management that on Sunday last, March 21, a number of boys forced an entrance into the skating rink, where they amused themselves with the curling stones, and other stunts on the ice, while others amused themselves running over the roofs of the buildings.

The management has taken the matter up with Chief Webster, with instructions to punish to the full extent of the law. The names of the boys who were in the rink buildings on Sunday last are known, and the management have a list of these names and action against them will be taken if there is a repetition of this sort of thing.

During last summer a number of lights of glass were broken by missles from the outside. This notice is intended as a fair warning to keep away from these buildings, as they are now watched, and any further trespassing wil be dealt with by the management without fear or favoritism to the limit of the law.

DRIVING SHAFT BREAKS ON ENGINE

Tears Up Ties and Pierces Boiler—No Person Hurt.

LINDSAY, March 27 (Special to The Examiner).—A serious accident was narrowly averted on the Midland division of the C.N.R. a few days ago, when the driving shaft of the engine of the morning train broke near Schepler. The train was travelling at a speed of 50 miles an hour, when the huge rod flashed round like a flail, tearing up the ties and breaking whatever it could reach on the engine. It pierced the boiler and let the steam out in a flood. As it struck the ground it lifted the engine clean off the track but fortunately it came back on again and remained on the rails. The firemen jumped to get clear of the flying pieces and the flood of steam. An engine was sent from Lorneville to take the train through to Blackwater. The pasengers were greatly excited, but no one was injured.

MONTREAL MAN MODERN SAINT GEORGE SLAYING DREAD DRAGONS OF DISEASE

By WILLIAM H. INGRAM.
PARIS.

He is one of Canada's most distinguished sons. And one of the least known.

His fame is world-wide. But few outside the circle of research workers and medical men have even so much as heard his name.

It is Felix d'Herelle. He is the discoverer of the bacteriophage and is the man who has conquered the bubonic plague and dysentery.

He is a soldier of fortune in the army which is battling against plague and pestilence. Nor is he a member of the stay-at-home defense force but rather he is a modern St. George, faring forth into distant lands to locate and combat the dragons of disease in their own noisome dens.

When he has occasion to study an infectious disease, he goes to the place at which the epidemic is then raging at its most devastating worst. Thus this valiant crusader during the course of his high mission has made pilgrimages to Central America, Indo-China, Mexico, South America, Asia Minor, Africa and the most remote parts of the Orient.

Such a procedure is, of course, far more dangerous than remaining at home to pursue one's research work in a laboratory. But Dr. d'Herelle is firmly of the belief that a problem must be studied at first hand to see it truly and justly. Theories evolved in the laboratory, he feels, are all too often half-baked and merely impede the progress of science, since they are founded on a study of created diseases and often are valueless when applied to the treatment of "natural" disease.

For his labors on behalf of humanity Dr. d'Herelle recently was awarded the much-coveted Leeuwenhoek medal by the Royal Academy of Sciences at Amsterdam. This is an honor conferred only once every ten years. In 1915 the medal was bestowed upon Sir I avid Bruce, the eminent British pathologist, and in 1895 it went to the great Pasteur.

Born in Montreal.

Montreal was the natal city of Felix d'Herelle, he having been born there in the year 1873. Although he left the Dominion at a comparatively early age, he has always remained a Canadian, despite the fact that it would have been to his advantage to become a naturalized Frenchman.

It was in 1908, while in the state of Yucatan, Mexico, studying an outbreak of yellow fever which coincided with a plague of infected grasshoppers, that he started working on the line of investigation which later led to his momentous discovery of the bacteriophage.

In a word, this involved an appreciation of the fact that even so small a body as a microbe can in turn be invaded and destroyed by a yet more minute organism—the bacteriophage. The discovery of this infinitesimal cannibal has been the starting point for numerous and important researches which promise to revolutionize the science of bacteriology and to make man victor over many of the most dreaded diseases.

In this same year he became a member of the Pasteur Institute of Paris—a fact which disproves the general but erroneously-held belief that no foreigner is admitted into membership in this world-renowned organization.

In 1922 he left to become a professor at the University of Leyden in the Netherlands, where he remained for a couple of years and where he had conferred upon him an honorary M.D. degree—a distinction which is now enjoyed by himself alone among all the world's scientists.

The Pasteur Institute then persuaded him to go to Egypt in 1924. There he was made director of the bacteriological laboratory in Alexandria and director of the International Sanitary Council of Egypt.

Recently he was in Paris for a two months' holiday and was able to report that just prior to his departure from Egypt he had treated six cases of the bubonic plague and cured them all in thirty-six hours. In addition, the fact has now been established after long research that the cause of the plague and of dysentery is exactly the same. There are one or two points yet to be cleared up, but they will not affect what has already been ascertained.

Both by temperament and as a result of the exacting nature of his work Dr. d'Herelle is much of a recluse, being but little known or seen outside of his scientific and family circles. The international nature of his affiliations is attested to, however, by the fact that of his two daughters one lives in Paris and the other in London.

Elude Even Microscope.

His most widely known contribution to medical literature is his volume entitled "The Bacteriophage," which has now been published in French, English, German and Russian. In addition, however, he is the author of three other more recent books and of some sixty theses contributed to scientific reviews.

But despite this comparatively prolific output for the technical press, Dr. d'Herelle has never contributed anything to the popular press, and it therefore was not without some difficulty that your correspondent persuaded him to outline for his Canadian compatriots the romantic story of his research work and of the life-and-death battles in the world of bacteria which he has studied with more ardor and zeal than a military strategist would employ in investigating the major engagements of the Great War.

"I have written a number of memoirs in scientific reviews," says Dr. d'Herelle, "but this is the first time that I speak to the profane and I do not know how I am going to end up.

"This is why: I study beings so little that no microscope can see them. These beings are only known by their properties and to arrive at their properties different kinds of very delicate experiments are necessary. These are impossible to explain without entering into technical details which can only be understood by specialists. So, extraordinary as may appear the facts about which I am to write—such as, for example, being able to enumerate in an exact manner invisible beings—the reader will have to take my word for it.

"Here are only the actual results arrived at through eight years of work, carried out first through the Pasteur Institute of Paris, then in Indo-China, where I spent the year 1920 looking after epidemics, and then in Egypt.

"There exists in the stomach of every individual, man to insect — that is to say, among the vertebrates—an ultravirus, a living being of an extreme smallness passing the closest porcelain filters, invisible to the greatest enlargements of the microscope. But it is, however, possible to count them. This ultravirus that I have called 'bacteriophage' causes among the microbes an infectious disease extremely contagious. In short, man and animals are subject to maladies caused by microbes. These microbes, in their turn, are subject to maladies caused by bacteriophage.

One Bacteriophage Enough.

"If one introduces in a culture of living microbes a 'bouillon' containing several hundred millions of these microbes, a single bacteriophage, this bacteriophage grafts upon a microbe, penetrates into its interior and reproduces itself there. After about an hour there exists in the parasitical microbe fifty young bacteriophage. At this moment the microbe bursts, freeing the young bacteriophage, which scatter in the liquid. Each of them goes to live on a new microbe. In the space of some hours all the microbes present are destroyed, and what was a culture of microbes has become a culture of bacteriophage.

"The bacteriophage are not capable of attacking at a given moment all the microbes; in other words, they do not possess at the same moment the virulence for all the microbes. But they are susceptible of acquiring the power of attacking any microbes whatsoever if the circumstances are favorable. In a word, they can accustom themselves to prey on any microbe whatsoever.

"On their side, the microbes, who are also living beings, can resist the disease and even acquire immunity vis-a-vis virulent bacteriophage, and that immunity can be transmitted to its descendants during a certain number of generations.

"As one sees, the problem of infectious disease, human or animal, is much more complicated than it has been considered up to now. The process does not reside in the actions or reactions of two beings, the animal and the microbe provoking disease, but in the actions and reactions of three living beings: the man or the sick animal on the one part, the parasitical microbe and an ultravirus bacteriophage, a parasite of the parasitical microbe, on the other part.

Fight Battle Royal.

"In man and a normal animal, there exists at the same time in the stomach both bacteriophage and common microbes (colchic baccilli in particular) which possess a resistance acquired vis-a-vis bacteriophage. These last live on, and multiply at the expense of, the microbes continually introduced into the digestive tube with food and drink. In addition, new bacteriophage are also daily introduced in the stomach, specially by water, which always contains them.

"Suppose a disease-provoking microbe reaches the stomach. The fate of the individual depends upon the behavior of the bacteriophage present at the moment, and this behavior depends principally on hereditary properties. For example, a typhoid bacillus arrives in the stomach. If at this moment there has been taken with water, and is still present, a bacteriophage which comes from the stomach of a person convalescent from typhoid, this bacteriophage possesses virulence for the typhoid bacillus. It preys on it immediately, destroys it, and typhoid fever cannot declare itself.

"To sum up: In case of the penetration of a disease-provoking microbe, if one of the bacteriophage present possesses a virulence for this one, the disease-provoking microbe is destroyed at once and the disease does not occur. If no bacteriophage possesses actual virulence but acquires it rapidly, the microbes which have commenced to reproduce are rapidly destroyed and the malady avoided.

"In the contrary case the microbes cultivate, the disease breaks out and continues up to the moment where the bacteriophage succeeds in acquiring virulence for the disease-provoking microbe which caused the sickness; the latter are then always attacked and destroyed one after the other by young bacteriophage of which the virulence increases until the last disease-provoking microbe is destroyed."

AGENT GUILTY OF ILLEGAL LOTTERY

Represented Art Union of Britain in Canada.

OTTAWA, March 27 (Canadian Press).—Eugene LeBlanc of Hull, Que., was found guilty Friday afternoon by the Carelton County Assize jury of having illegally conducted a lottery, as agent for the Art Union of Great Britain, Limited, Canadian headquarters of which are in Montreal.

Mr. Justice Lennox intimated that he would pass sentence today and would only impose a fine. He further intimated that he hoped that the Montreal promoters could be compelled to pay LeBlanc's fine.

LeBlanc admitted selling lottery tickets in the Art Union of Great Britain and the Art Union of Ireland. He was acting as local representative of the Canadian company, which had its headquarters in Montreal, and had been informed by them that he was within the law as the amendments to the Criminal Code in 1906 had exempted these two lotteries. The court, however, found that as the Art Union of Great Britain was only incorporated in 1924, this exemption was not effective.

MILLBROOK PEOPLE REMEMBER FRIENDS

Departing Families Visited By Surprise Party Bearing Gifts.

MILLBROOK, March 27.—Another of the several surprise parties which have been held in Millbrook and vicinity during recent weeks took place on Tuesday evening when about sixty of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Janes arrived at their hospitable home to enjoy a social occasion with them before their removal to Massey to reside.

Games, dancing and social intercourse made the hours pass pleasantly and rapidly, and midway in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Janes were asked to come forward when they were presented with a handsome mantel clock, as a token of affection and esteem, Mr. F. N. Alcorn reading the address, while Mr. Frank Gray offered the gift.

"To Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Janes:

"Dear Friends,—As you are about to leave Millbrook, we, your friends, have gathered to express our regret, and at the same time to wish you every success and happiness in your new home.

"While here you have won a warm place in our hearts through your unfailing generosity and good fellowship; your home has always been open to us, and many pleasant hours have been spent under your hospitable roof with yourselves and your family.

"As a small token of our high esteem, we ask you to accept this mantel clock. May it always be a reminder of the years you have spent in Cavan and Millbrook.

"Signed on behalf of your Cavan and Millbrook friends—F. N. Alcorn, F. Gray."

Mr. Janes, on behalf of his wife and himself, spoke briefly thanking the friends for their kind remembrance, and expressing the pleasure which both he and Mrs. Janes have experienced during the thirteen or more years they have made their home, first at Cavan and then at Millbrook.

Councillor P. Stinson then made an address emphasizing the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Janes have been good citizens, and have made many warm friends in the community, the former "not taking money out of the district, but by an increasing business bringing trade to this neighborhood and its vicinity, giving employment to a number of men, keeping money in circulation, and generally adding to the prosperity of the community."

A second presentation was a feature of the evening, Mr. Charles Robinson, who is also leaving Millbrook, being the recipient of a Duofold fountain pen. The address was read by F. N. Alcorn and the gift was presented by F. Gray.

"Mr. Charles Robinson, Millbrook:

"Dear Friend,—We, your friends in Millbrook, desire to express to you our sincere regret that you are leaving us.

"You have been a good citizen, an interested and clean sport, taking an active part in all that made for the betterment of this town and community, and we shall all miss you.

"We hope that in your new home you and your highly respected family will find good friends, and that you will be successful and happy. We will be glad to hear of your continued progress in the years to come.

"Kindly accept this fountain pen as a small token of our very best wishes.

"Signed on behalf of your friends in Millbrook—F. Gray, F. N. Alcorn."

Mr. Robinson's reply reflected his sincere appreciation of the remembrance and the kindly words which accompanied it.

The committee in charge served a bountiful supper shortly before midnight, and it was some time afterward before final good-nights were said.

Massey, where the Janes brothers have removed their veneer factory, is situated sixty miles west of Sudbury, and twice that distance from Sault Ste. Marie. It is a place of about seven hundred inhabitants, and has the advantage of being a good business centre, besides great natural beauty of location. Mr. Janes' sons have taken over his interest in the business, but he is still active in promoting its welfare and will remain for the summer in the northern town. He and Mrs. Janes leave on Friday for Toronto, where they will visit for two weeks before going on to their new home. They will probably return here for the winter months, though their local property is for sale.

The unfavorable state of the roads and weather prevented a number from Cavan and vicinity from being present on Tuesday evening.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM NEWMAN

NORHAM, March 27.—William Newman, who owns a drygood store in Toronto, on Yonge street, and another in Waterloo, and who was in Waterloo for the past three weeks coducting a sale in his store there, took a stroke on Monday and passed away on Tuesday. Mr. Newman was born in Cramahe township 57 years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his wife, who hsa just recovered from an operation, five sons and one daughter. A brother keeps store in Castleton. J. W. Newman of Norham is another brother. Interment took place at Toronto on Thursday.

NORHAM NEWS.

NORHAM, March 27.—Mrs. Bruce Gummer and her baby are ill.

J. W. Newman was in Toronto on Thursday, attending the funeral of his brother William, who died from a stroke on Monday.

The Campbellford-Brighton stage has resumed the use of the truck to be pulled through the snow banks south of Meyersburg.

The Warkworth to Colborne stage is still travelling with the horses.

Albert Williams who draws the mail from Warkworth around through Cramahe township had a narrow escape from losing his horse in the deep water one day the first of the week.

The Norham congregation of the United church of Canada has raised the full amount of its allotment, $387.00, toward the Maintenance and Extension Fund and this sum will be forwarded to Toronto before the end of March.

J. Wesley Newman had a valuable cow slip on the ice a short time ago and break one of its legs so that the cow had to be killed.

DAMAGE DONE TO TOWN HALL

Fee For Inquest Will Not Nearly Pay Cost of Repairs.

STEPS BROKEN.

WARKWORTH, March 27—Percy Township Council, which rents the town hall here for meetings of all kinds, including regular party and U.F.O. conventions, will realize nothing from the West inquest which was held here Thursday as the $20 which was charged for the use of the building will not begin to pay for the damage that was done to the structure by the vast throng that gathered to hear the evidence. The steps on one side leading up to the entrance could not sustain the weight of the crowd that waited for the doors to open and collapsed. It is estimated that it will cost at least $50 for repairs. Fortunately no one was injured when the steps gave way.

Soft Ball League

Sometime next week a meeting will be held here to discuss the question of organizing a soft ball league which all surrounding towns, including Meyersburg, Hastings, Brickley, Dartford and Castleton will be invited to join. This form of sport was very popular in the village last summer and the proposed league may be regarded as a certainty.

Goes to Colborne

James Coyle, who for the past six years has been employed on the farm of Reeve McCubbin of Percy, has leased a farm near Colborne and will take pocssession at once. During his residence here, Mr. Coyle has carried on chicken farming as a side line and was well known as a prize winner at the fall fairs. He will continue that business on a more extensive plan at his new location.

Mr. McCubbin's farm this year will be worked by his son-in-law, W. S. Nelson.

To Rebuild Church Shed

Some time ago the managers of the United Church at Meyersburg advertised for tenders to rebuild the church sheds and the contract has been awarded to Sidney Bidgood, the Campbellford builder.

BLIZZARDS SWEEP JAPANESE ISLANDS

Considerable Loss of Life Reported—Railways Are Blocked.

TOKIO, March 27. — (United Press.)—Blizzards to-day swept the islands of Yezo and the Kuriles, north of Japan and, according to first reports received here, caused considerable loss of life. A railway train, containing 60 passengers, was buried in the snow near Tishio and the railways throughout the area are blocked.

Twenty fishing boats are reported missing from Sado Island and it is feared that their crews, aggregating fifty persons, may be lost.

CUSTOMS OFFICER MADE SPECIAL

"Do you mean to tell me that you are carrying on business, and yet you couldn't give one of your customers a statement of his account?" asked Mr. Stevens.

Mr. Moore said that he was not in a position to furnish such statements for past years.

Mr. Stevens expressed great dissatisfaction with the explanations given in regard to the disappearance of books and records.

Documents Stolen

G. Hunter, acting chief preventive officer in Montreal, stated that he had heard Inspector Clerk say that some documents had been stolen from his (Clerk's) office.

Mr. Clerk was recalled. He said that he could produce no report because he had made none. He had seen Mr. Cardin in June, 1925, and asked him "for the sake of the good name of Montreal to dismiss Bisaillon."

Mr. Clerk, answering Hon. H. H. Stevens, said that he had never been told that documents had been burned in the customs department at Montreal. No did he know that any documents had ever been burned.

"I met Mr. Bureau a few days ago and he said that he could produce any documents that were called for," added Mr. Clerk.

"We must call for them," commented Mr. Stevens.

Chairman Mercier read a report from the committee auditors, which stated that they had been unable to carry out their investigation of the operations of the Cleveland Dress Company, because the company had gone into liquidation. They had been referred to a man named Buchannan, but had not been able to find him. The auditors asked for further instructions from the committee.

The report was filed without further discussion. Adjournment was agreed upon, and the next sitting of the committee was fixed for Tuesday, April 6.

Contact Heat Puts the Speed into SPEEDIRON

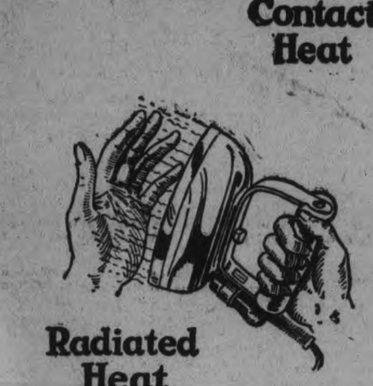
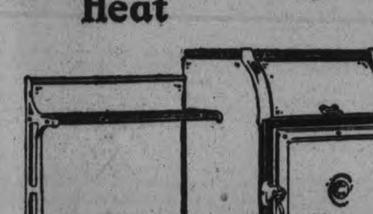
PAT'D and REG'D. 1925





WHEN a boy pokes his finger into a pie hot out of the oven, he is instantly made aware of the meaning of "contact" heat, just as you would be if you put your finger on a hot iron.

When you put your hand near a hot iron you feel "radiated" heat.

When you set a kettle or pan on the Speediron Element in a McClary's Electric Range you get contact heat.

There is no air space to waste or radiate the heat. The heat can't go anywhere but upward into the bottom of your pan or kettle, because the bottom of the Speediron Element is specially and thoroughly insulated, preventing heat from going down and forcing it to go up through the bottom of the cooking utensils.

That flat, even top surface and the insulated bottom of the Speediron Element forcing the heat up, put the speed into Speediron—the speediest protected element ever designed.

It Lifts Out

McClary's New Element, Speediron, is made in three parts held together by one bolt. The whole unit lifts out almost as easily as you lift a stove lid—no screws or bolts or wire connections to unfasten. With the unit out it is a simple matter to unscrew the bolt and lift off the iron protector. The burned out heating coil is then easily and quickly replaced with a new one. Then you drop the unit back into place and the Speediron Element is ready for service again.

No liquids, forks, dirt or anything else can get into the coils of McClary's Speediron Element—the electric range element without an "if."

Come and See It

If you have an Electric Range now you will want to see this new, splendid improvement, because you know all about Electric Range troubles now. If you are going to buy an Electric Range you should see the Speediron Element in McClary's Electric Range—the trouble-proof Element. The new Speediron Elements are now on view at all leading dealers. Come and see it—today.

McClary's new Element—Speediron—was originated, developed and perfected in McClary's Electrical Engineering Department—is patented and registered by McClary's, used exclusively in McClary's Electric Ranges. It is the greatest achievement in Electric Ranges ever brought out and makes McClary's Electric Range the absolute leader of all Electric Ranges.

The YELLOW STUB

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Chicago, where the theater is. The stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he finds Olga. She faints at hearing she is wanted for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder.

Jimmy and Olga, out one night, get a swift glimpse of the man she says got the stub. Later they identify him by his police photo as IKE JENSEN.

Mary promises to marry Church, but later breaks the engagement.

Jimmy gets a phone call from Olga, saying she has found Jensen. He rushes to her apartment to find her gone. Her disappearance becomes a newspaper sensation.

Later, Jimmy accidentally sees KID DIVIS, a known intimate of Jensen, and trails him to a lonely house where he and Jensen are holding Olga prisoner.

Jimmy sneaks in the house. When Jensen goes upstairs to answer the phone, he hits Divis over the head with a broken andiron, then rushes after Jensen.

In the fight that follows, Jensen crashes through the stair railing and breaks his neck. Jimmy takes Olga to a hospital, then goes to see LIEUTENANT O'DAY, his police friend, who shows him an important telegram.

Jimmy makes O'Day promise to "let me handle this thing in my own way."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER LII.

Aside from being one of its wealthiest men, Samuel Church was one of Chicago's unexplained mysteries.

For instance, it was hard for the average man in the street to understand why a bachelor should want an 18-room house, when something much smaller would have answered as well, without sacrifice of comfort or beautiful surroundings.

"Think of the money he squanders in upkeep," they often remarked. "A butler, a gardener, a cook, and Lord knows how many other servants. Personally, I think Sam Church just likes to show off."

Which may or may not have been true. It was certainly to be conceded that Sam Church loved his ease and comfort and elegance, and it was not surprising that he should be fond of a certain amount of ostentation.

Another mystery was his sudden leap from the position of an obscure lawyer to that of one of the best known in the city and, indeed, in that part of the state. As is so often the case, his prominence came hard on the heels of his newly-acquired wealth.

One day he had been a fairly successful law practitioner, and the next thing you heard he had bought this mansion and was suddenly looked up to as one of the brightest of legal lights.

However grudgingly they may have looked on Sam Church's affluence, people were free to admit that he was a hard worker. Rare indeed was the night when someone did not observe a late burning light in his library and remark, "Sam Church burning the midnight oil again. Think he'd take it easy, now he's got such a pile."

And this evening was no exception.

Of all the rooms in his house, Sam Church loved his library best. Here there was a broad fireplace, and a rare Italian walnut table, and easy leather-covered chairs, and cases of books, brave in their many-colored bindings.

He sat in his favorite chair before the table, the heavy bowl of his pipe almost caressing his chin, its curved stem gripped loosely in his teeth.

But Sam Church was not working; he was reading a newspaper.

From time to time he looked up, glanced irresolutely toward the telephone nearby, and turned back again to the print.

After a time he threw the paper down, puffed savagely on his pipe and turned a loose-leaf notebook on the table in front of him.

A quiet step in the wide doorway that opened living room into library failed to disturb him. . . . The butler was very light on his feet.

Without looking up, Sam Church said, "Yes, Thorne."

But Thorne's low, unctuous voice did not answer him. The silence was disturbing. . . . Church slowly raised his eyes and then gave a sudden start.

"Good evening," said Jimmy Rand. With admirable control, Church removed the pipe from his mouth and with both hands pushed himself back from the table.

"How did you get in here?" he asked coolly.

"The same way, I suppose, that most people get in—through the front door. How did you suppose?"

"But the butler, where—how—"

"Oh, your butler—very fine butler you have, Church. Didn't want to let me in at all. I had to persuade him."

"Damn you!" cried Church hotly, his calm vanished in the face of the other's maddening coolness. "What do you want here?" His face was red, his voice loud and no longer under control.

His fingers twitched. "I'll ring for a servant and have you thrown out. Damn your impudence."

"Go ahead and ring, Church. I don't think anyone will answer," Rand's tone was still level, unconcerned. Then he said sharply, "Sit down, Church," and there was a rising, ominous note in his voice that caused the other man to stop dead still and stare.

"Go on, sit down," he reiterated, "If you don't, I may have to use this." From his hip pocket he drew a revolver, which he laid on the end of the table nearest him. Then, as Church slowly settled into his chair, Jimmy drew one for himself.

He said, leaning forward and fixing the other with an unblinking stare, "Church, I've got a long story to tell you tonight—and I've got something to settle with you." He continued, noting the swift blanching of Church's face. "First, there's the matter of Olga Maynard."

He paused, and at his next words sudden relief was stamped on Church's countenance.

"Church," he said, "you hounded that girl to death, didn't you? Because she defied you, you had her fired from every job she could find. Only a low dog would play a trick like that."

"Even if that were true," replied Church, who had regained much of his lost composure, "I can't see where it becomes your business."

"If that were all that I had to say I wouldn't be here, never fear. It became my business when you had me fired, didn't it?"

"What do you mean? You're crazy!"

"Listen, Church, save your breath for what you're going to tell me presently. Mr. Hilton, at the Q. & R. Railroad, admitted he fired me at your suggestion. Furthermore, that man Porter at the laundry admits he was paid a hundred dollars to let me go. His stenographer told on him.

"But even that, Mr. Church, isn't all, and you know it."

"Well, hurry up. I've no time to waste sitting here listening to you."

"There's no hurry." Jimmy's voice was tantalizingly cool. "You're not going anywhere—not just yet, anyway," he added significantly.

"You young cub," Church sputtered, "I'll have you thrown out on your neck."

"You'll listen to me first. . . ." Jimmy looked straight into the other's eyes. "Why don't you call up Jensen or Kid Divis and see if you can get any help from them?" He saw every vestige of color recede from Church's face.

"I see you know the gentlemen," pursued Jimmy.

Church looked as if he had been struck a sudden blow. "I don't know what you're talking about," he snarled. "You're crazy."

"Perhaps I am—but let me go on with my story. You had me fired, but I didn't leave town. And then you conceived the brilliant idea of writing me anonymous notes of warning. Usually they were delivered by your good friend Divis. Once he paid a little boy to leave one at my door.

"Never mind. Sit still," and Jimmy raised a hand to ward off the other's interruption. "Why, would you believe it, Mr. Church? One night Mr. Divis, a little nettled that I wasn't paying much attention to his love letters, actually shot at me."

Church struggled angrily to his feet, red color once more flooding his cheeks. "This has gone far enough. I won't sit here and listen to you make mysterious allusions to things that don't concern me. I don't care if you were shot at. It's too bad he missed you."

"Indeed it was, from your standpoint. But the time for allusions is nearly over with now. I'm going to surprise you in a moment or two by coming right out with what the newspapers would call a starling disclosure. You read the newspapers, don't you? Of course. I see you have just laid one aside. Well, you will have read, then, of the mysterious disappearance of Olga Maynard."

Jimmy had picked up the revolver and pointed it carelessly at Church, who sank back again in his chair. And Rand's voice, continuing, was cold, without emotion.

"Funny thing about her disappearance, Church. In her apartment we found a picture. It was a picture of my father, taken when he was a boy of fifteen or so. Wouldn't have recognized it myself, I suppose, if it hadn't been for Lieutenant O'Day. Ever met O'Day, Church? Charming fellow. It seems he knew my father when the both of them were mere kids. Oh, that surprises you, eh?

"Now, the peculiar thing about the finding of that picture was just this. It positively incriminated Olga Maynard in a murder. . . . My father's murder. He was killed some time ago in Grafton. You probably read that in the papers, too? Yes, incriminated her. She was known to be in Grafton the day of the murder. Furthermore, her handkerchief was found in the room, and the stub of a theater ticket that she had used. When we found the picture, there was nothing to it, of course. You'd say she was guilty yourself, wouldn't you—from all that evidence?"

"Yes, of course, God, yes!" Church fished a handkerchief from a pocket, mopped his forehead; and his eyes were like black beads.

"Of course. Any fool could see that. But the funny thing, Church, is that Olga Maynard never saw that picture. It seems she had a couple of visitors the night she disappeared, and one of them left the picture on the mantelpiece. Now you see what a difference that makes? From implicating her in the murder, it begins to look as if someone, who knew she was under suspicion, deliberately planted it there to tighten the net around her."

Jimmy took his eyes from the other man's. Deliberately he began to turn the revolver over in his hands. His silence was positively maddening and Church looked as if he was ready to scream.

Still holding the weapon, still looking at it, Rand went on: "You can imagine how surprised I was, Church to learn that picture came from you."

Again that flat silence. Once Church's mouth writhed as if he were about to utter hot denial. Then he sank back, his beady eyes fixed on Jimmy as a fascinated bird eyes a snake.

Then Jimmy closed his hand on the handle of the revolver and pointed it. "That bookcase over there, Church. Right through the middle of the glass, now. Watch."

He pulled the trigger, and Church jumped as the room was filled with explosive sound. There was a tinkle of glass on the floor. . . .

"Not so bad, eh, Church?" Jimmy patted the revolver. "The next bullet's for you"—he pulled out his watch and laid it on the table—"unless you tell me inside of five minutes why you murdered Henry Rand."

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, March 26 (Canadian Press). — The Montreal market shows further strength today, but conditions are unchanged throughout Canada.

Toronto—Prices to retailers, extras 38-39, firsts 34-35, seconds 29-30.

Montreal—The egg market is firm with good demand. Prices to retailers, extras 40-41, firsts 36, seconds 33-34. Jobbing, extras 37, firsts 34, seconds 28.

Winnipeg—Prices to retailers, extras 35-37, firsts 30, seconds 25.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG March 26 (Canadian Press).—Favorable foreign reports from all sections imparted a strong tone to all grain prices here today, and at the top quotations for the day gains were ranging from 1c to 3 1-4c above Thursday: May wheat touching a high mark of $1.50 1-4, recording the biggest advance.

The wheat market recorded an active session, importers were reported looking to Canada for their requirements, and quotations were sharply higher throughout the session, closing at 2 5-8c to 3c higher. Final quotations were May $1.50; July $1.47 5-8; October $1.31 3-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, March 26 (Canadian Press).—The demand from the United Kingdom and Continental buyers for Canadian grain on the Montreal market today continued good, but as the prices bid were below working basis, little business was transacted.

The trade in cash grain on the domestic market was inactive, and the only sale of importance reported was a round lot of Canadian Western No. 1 feed oats at 1 cent per bushel under the Winnipeg May option, c.i.f. Bay ports. The tone of the market for spot supplies of Canadian Western oats was stronger and prices were marked up 1 1-2 to 2 cents per bushel.

Owing to the steady increased demand for Manitoba shorts of late and the somewhat limited supplies available, a stronger feeling developed, and prices were advanced $2 per ton. There was no change in other lines, but the undertone was firm. The tone of the market for rolled oats was steady.

According to advices received from Chicago today, an easier feeling developed in the market for eggs and prices were 1-2c per dozen lower. There was some demand from local dealers and sales of odd cars were made at 28 3-4c per dozen, f.o.b. Chicago for prompt shipment Above, however, had no influence on the condition of the local situation, as prices were firmly maintained under a good demand. The receipts were 2,240 cases, as compared with 1,897 for the same day last week, and 1,873 for the corresponding day a year ago.

The feature of the potato trade was the pronounced strength that developed and prices scored an advance of 30c to 45c per bag, which was attributed to the fact that prices in all the leading United States markets were much higher than they have been of late. Another strong factor was the demand from the United States in this market and this coupled with that of local and outside dealers resulted in a large volume of busines being done and the market was quite active with indications that values will go still higher in the near future. Sales of car lots of Quebec white potatoes were made at $3.30 per bag; Prince Edward Island white at $3.60 per bag; blue at $3 per bag, reds at $2.90 per bag, and Western grades at $2.60 to $3.25 per bag of 99 lbs, ex-track.

The receipts of butter were 195 packages, as compared with 547 for the same day last week, and 197 for the corresponding day a year ago. An easy feeling prevailed in the market at the recent decline noted and prices were again shaded another 1-4c per lb. for broken lots, but even at the lower level buyers showed no disposition to operate to any extent.

The receipts of cheese were 110 boxes, as against 49 for the same day last week, and 620 for the corresponding day a year ago. There were no further developments in the trade, but the undertone to the market was easy with November cheese offering at 18c per lb., while sales of odd small lots of Western fancy white and colored for local consumption were made at 25c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Soaring prices and big buying hoisted the wheat market today to above 1.60 a bushel for Chicago May delivery, indications of smaller world shipments and of better demand from Europe, together with freezing temperatures in Kansas, were largely responsible. Wheat closed buoyant 1 1-4 to 4 1-8c net higher at the day's tip-top figures. May (new) $1.60 to $1.60 1-8 and July $1.38 7-8 to $1.38, with corn 1 to 1 3-8c up; oats showing 1-2 to 1c gain, and provisions 5c to 17c advance.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, March 26 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.85 3-8.
Sterling cables $4.86 1-4.

MINNEAPOLIS GRAIN

MINNEAPOLIS, March 26 (Canadian Press)—Flour unchanged to 10 cents higher at $8.90 to $9.05 a barrel. Shipments 45,000 barrels.

Wheat, No. 1 Northern $1.56 1-4 to $1.58 1-4; May $1.53 1-4; July $1.46 1-4.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

Dear Annie Laurie,—I am writing to you in hopes that you can enlighten me.

For a long time I have been in love with a boy one year my senior —ever since my childhood days when we walked to and fro from school.

I feel sure that he also loves me, as his sister often tells me things he says about me. Often I turn around to see him watching me longingly; but the trouble is he never asks me to go anywhere with him.

I am popular with others boys, especially in the ance hall. I go about with other boys—never with a steady—but I cannot enjoy myself as I am always thinking of him.

He takes his sister everywhere with him as she does not go with anyone.

Don't you think it rather selfish of her when she knows he might take other girls out

If you were I would you give up going around with the other boys and wait for him to ask me — or would you continue to go around even if you know he is jealous.

PATSY.

PATSY: I don't think you should give up any good times you may be having just on the chance that this rather slow young man would probably invite you out occasionally. There are some men who would be quite content to go along for years having a girl they cared about hang on a hook waiting to be taken down by them. I have no doubt that he is jealous of the attentions other men pay you, but if he hasn't enough gumption in his system to make a play for you himself, you should certainly not try to cater to his ideas. Of course, you can be very nice whenever you meet him, and think of him all you want to, if you can't forget him. One would imagine that if he is very fond of you, he would at least try to show it in some other way than in merely gazing at you longingly. Life is rather short. If he is content to waste his years in this way, you should not be.

Of course he may be of the John Alden type of lover, sincere but very bashful. Priscilla, although she lived in a diferent age, took the initiative in her own hands when she discovered this and said a mouthful in the famous phrase, "Why don't you speak for yourself, John?"

A SPRING TONIC AN AID TO HEALTH

You Can Lay the Foundation of Good Health Now By Building Up Your Blood and Strengthening Your Nerves Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The good old fashion of taking a tonic in the Springtime, like most of the customs of our grandparents, is based upon sound common sense and good medical practice. Winter is always a trying time for those who are not in rugged health. Many men, women and children go through the winter on reserve strength they have stored up during the sunny summer months, and grow increasingly pale and languid as the spring days approach. A tonic for the blood and nerves at this time will do much for such people, by putting color in the cheeks and banishing that tired feeling that worries thousands of people at this season of the year.

It is impossible to be energetic if your blood is thin and weak, or if your nerves are frayed or shattered. You cannot compete with others if you do not get refreshing sleep at night, or if your appetite is poor or you are losing weight. You need a tonic at this time to add to your efficiency now, as well as to save you from suffering later on. And in all the realm of medicine, there is no safer or better tonic than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills tone and enrich the blood which circulates through every portion of the body, strengthening jaded nerves and run down organs, and bringing a feeling of new strength and energy to weak, easily tired, despondent men, women and children.

Miss K. Sirois, Kamouraska, Que., says:—"I would feel that I was neglecting an opportunity to help some other poor sufferer if I failed to tell you how much benefit I had through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before taking the pills I was in a badly run-down condition. I was very weak, pale and breathless at the least exertion. I often had headaches and my appetite was poor. I began taking the pills and they restored me to better health than I had enjoyed for a long time; in fact, my health is now the best, and I am sure that what this medicine has done for me it will do for all weak, ailing people."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori.

This exercise I am going to give you today may look a bit difficult from the illustrations, but if you try it out you will find that it is not hard to do. Better still, you should enjoy mastering it, for I think any beauty exercise that gives you some small feat to accomplish arouses more interest than an exercise which is mastered perfectly at the first attempt.

This Exercise Will Reduce Your Thighs and Hips.

Therefore I advise that you try this, and if you cannot do it with a chair of ordinary height procure a lower chair. Then I am sure you will gradually become limber enough to be able to bend to the floor from a chair of medium size.

Now, this is an excellent exercise to reduce your thighs and hips. Any brisk movement, you know, carries renewed supplies of blood to the parts exercised, which blood, in turn, carries away the broken down cells of excessive fat. What you want to do is to stimulate action which will aid in breaking down those cells and taking away the fat.

To be really good looking you must mold your body into lines of graceful symmetry. It is often that some annoying "fat spot" keeps our bodies from being truly symmetrical. The thing to do is to concentrate on this spot and set about to reduce it.

For the following exercise you must be lightly clothed. A bathing suit is good or you may do the exercise in your bloomers and shirt while dressing in the morning and going to bed at night.

Stand erect, far enough from a straight-backed chair placed at your side so that you may raise your foot with a sweeping motion of the leg and rest the foot on the back of the chair, as shown in the illustration.

Next bend down, leaving your foot in its high position, until you can touch the floor with the palms of both hands.

Do this six times to one side, then change so you may prop the other foot on the chair and repeat six times to the other side.

This may seem difficult at first but if you can start with a fairly low chair I am sure you can become limber enough to use a chair of medium height.

Repeat night and morning for best beauty results.

FASHION NOTES.

NEW YORK, March 27.—(United Press).—Dame Fashion has taken up the game of checkers this spring, her last move being checks and plaids in various sizes. She jumps from tiny checked taffetas to huge plaid woollens, remindful of steamer blankets, unhesitatingly.

Plaids, in both silk and woollen materials will be out anding among the spring styles. Garments of every type are being made entirely in plaid or trimmed in plaid. Most prominent among the styles displayed in the Fifth avenue windows are spring coats of black and white plaid mixtures. On most models the plaids are rather indistinctly woven since black and white checks without shadings are apt to be blatant.

One particularly lovely coat has a black background with a single wide grey stripe used as a border. It looks as though it were made of a steamer blanket since there are four white squares placed where the grey stripes cross at the corners. This coat has a cape formed of the bordered portion with two ends of the square falling in points at the sides. The slender skirt portion of the coat is also bordered. Other models similar to this are made of navy blue and green or red plaid combinations. In some instances a self fringe forms the borders. Very soft squares of rug size are being sold in the shops for coat purposes.

Suits with plaid skirts and with plain Tuxedo jackets collared in plaid are both new and smart. Usually the skirt is pleated in front and at the sides if not all the way about. The jacket is the typical smoking jacket variety with long lapels of plaid. A few plain double-breasted coats are also shown with plaid skirts of harmonizing color.

Jumper frocks for spring street wear come in all sorts of plaid combinations with blue being the dominant color and red, green, gold or henna forming the plaid design. Plaid scarfs are offered for those who wish to use plaid sparingly. Gypsy sashes of plaid on plain dresses are prominent. Gloves with plaid cuffs are pressed into service. Crisp taffetas with tiny checks will be popular as spring advances.

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL of TODAY

PREVIOUS CHAPTERS.

Julia Dean spurned Charles Becker and with $250 given her by her dad Jason Dean, went to Toronto under the name of Julie Kean to make her own way. She lost her $250 in a cafe. But Clement Sterns gave her a job as hat checker, and she found a friend in Mamie Riley, with whom she worked. An old acquaintance, Jimmie Costello, showed up. He punched the nose of a "lobby lizard" who insulted Julie, then took her out to dinner and introduced Jerry Hathaway, who promised to recover the $250. Going home, Julie found Mamie Riley crying. Mamie began telling Julie of her life and her ambition to be an opera singer.

THE ECSTASY OF INSPIRATION.

"Through some provision of chance I became an errand girl in a hat shop, and you can imagine my joy when I was told to deliver a hat to Mme. Rosario, the opera singer.

"I went to her house without the slightest idea that I could see her, but just to walk the steps her feet had trod and when I was told to take the hat up to Madam's room, I was so excited I could hardly walk.

"There I found Rosario surrounded with the greatest luxury. Her room was like something I could never imagine, but that had no temptation for the little girl standing there awe-struck because she was in the presence of a real opera singer.

"Trembling, I held out the box to the maid. I could not have spoken had I died for it.

"Afterwards I still stood by the door, forgotten by the diva as well as her maid. Presently she began to sing. First almost to herself, but finally her glorious voice filled my heart with ecstasy. I crept nearer and nearer until I was kneeling at her feet. She must have felt me there kissing the toe to her little satin slipper, for she said.

"'What ees it? Why do you kees my slipper?'

"'I don't know,' I stammered, 'unless it is that I have heard you sing.'

"'You have heard me sing in opera, my child?'

"'No, but I have just heard you sing here.'

"I suspect Madame Rosario had never had such sincere tribute paid to her voice, for she said:

'I will sing for you, my child.'

'Immediately the whole room was filled with that glorious aria from Thais.

Of course at the time I didn't know what it was but I learned it later.

For a moment I stood spell-bound and then, strange as it may seem, for I was utterly unconscious of it until Madame stopped abruptly, I was trying to follow her.

Child, child, eet ees you that haf a voice,' she said.

Oh, I did not mean to. Forgive me! I did not know what I was doing.'

I'm glad you did it for you must learn to sing. You must let nothing, nothing my child, stand in the way of making it possible for you to give that voice to the world.'

Madame Rosario did not know what she was doing to the child. I took her words literally and that's why I'm crying tonight."

CHATTERINGS!

Now they're fussing as to just who's to blame for the skinny birth rate. Health commissioners blame housing conditions and inflated standards of living which make men and women marry late in life when we have enough." Birth control devotees say that their doctrine did it, even as did little Cock Robin. Hospitals are decent enough to admit that their high prices in maternity wards have something to do with it. Neurologists say that woman is diverting her energies into other channels than child-bearing.

IN OUR SCHOOLS.

A certain hamlet is all riled because its teachers demand Oriental and not plain domestic rugs in their teachers' room. The board sardonically opines that they'll be wanting old masters on the walls next!"

Well, what of it? Do you want females teaching your children to instill in them love for good things or don't you? And if you want your offspring taught culture, you might as well make up your mind to pay for it! And there's the vicious circle again of the high standard of living" that makes paupers of us all!

Hooray, Skinny! They're making the arithmetics over. Pedagogs say that the old problems about eating one-fourth of an apple and how much will Willy have left, are all blooey! Modern life goes by decimals and not fractions, they say, shooing one-fourth and three-fourths from the kids' books. S'all right, maybe, only if we yank everything out of the school books that isn't in modern life," the empty covers will flap dismally in the wintry blasts!

TIDBITS.

D'ye ever make sandwiches of sardines, hard-boiled egg, sliced thin, and lettuce with a dash of lemon, all on rye bread? Wunnderful! D'ye ever make French berry pie? Open-face variety of cream base with stewed berries over the top sprinkled with sugar? Superb!

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

There is no wonder colds multiply and that from time to time the disease becomes so common as to assume almost epidemic proportions.

I have been watching a group of persons to see what they do, if anything, to protect others from infection. It is only an occasional person who does the slightest thing to guard his friends from the cold which is so distressing to him.

Common as they are, we seem to be as helpless in controlling and treating colds as we were a generation ago. This isn't because we don't know more about colds, because as a matter of fact, we do know a lot more than we did even a dozen years ago. The trouble is we don't apply our knowledge.

Let me review the matter: It is believed that colds are conveyed by the secretions of the nose and throat. Sneezing, coughing and loud talking produce a spray of moisture which may be blown into the air, for a distance of several feet perhaps. The tiny drops of moisture carry the infecting germs of the disease.

It is the habit of a good many persons to cover the nose and mouth with the hand. This has virtue of being at least a half-way measure, because it saves the standers-by from a spray of dangerous moisture. But this practice concentrates in the hand a quantity of infectious material.

The moist hand carries the germs to the door knob, the soap, the pencil or other object which may be handled the next moment by one who is not yet the victim of a cold. This hand may clasp that of a friend. What is intended as a friendly greeting may lead to a serious illness. The soiled hand is capable of carrying to the nose and mouth the germs of disease.

You cannot "catch" a cold from your neighbor if he will keep his germs to himself. To this end he should carry a supply of handkerchiefs, squares of gauze, or sheets of thin paper. Every effort must be made by a kind-hearted person to protect his fellow man.

It is true of the eating utensils, too, that they must be borne in mind if the cold one member of the family has shall not be carried to every other member of the family. All such articles must be boiled to make sure the germs are destroyed.

Remember that soiled hands and an atmosphere impregnated with contaminated moisture are the means of carrying the material capable of infecting you and infecting others. A cold is not so serious an experience to a strong adult as it is to a tiny baby. But your cold may be passed on to an infant or a weak adult, then there may be serious trouble. The acute infections of this sort are among the chief causes of baby deaths. They have lessened the efficiency of many a grown person and paved the way for something far more serious.

The best advice I can give you is to avoid taking cold. Do this by exercise, fresh air, simple food and restful sleep.

Answers to Health Queries.

Mrs. B. D. Q.—What causes my forehead and face to break out in little red pimples?

A.—This is probably due to incorrect diet, lack of proper exercise in the fresh air and possibly insufficient rest. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and repeat your question.

E. P. L. Q.—Will sour food, such as oranges, lemons, etc., cause skin blemishes, such as pimples and blackheads?

(2) What would you suggest for a poor complexion?

A.—An excess of acid foods is not good for the blood or complexion and may cause blemishes such as you describe. 2. Proper attention to the diet and avoidance of constipation should clear the complexion and benefit the entire system. For further particulars send a self-addressed stamped envelope and restate your question.

M. M. U. Q.—What do you suggest for liver and gall bladder conditions?

(2) What do you advise for low blood pressure.

A.—First of all, watch your diet, avoiding rich, heavy foods, and be sure that the intestinal tract is kept clear. For further particulars send a self-addressed and stamped envelope and repeat your question.

(2) Low blood pressure usually accompanies such conditions as infection, fever, diabetes, general debility and auto-intoxication. Your doctor will outline suitable treatment after he has located the source of the trouble.

L. R. L. Q.—Can ordinary tincture of iodine with maximum alcohol 38 per cent, black or deodorized, be successfully used in the treatment of or prevention of goitre?

(2) Will a 2 per cent solution be advisable in water in districts where this condition exists?

A.—Iodine is used in certain quantities for goitre, but it should only be taken under the direction of a physician, since each case should have specific attention.

(2) Your doctor should advise you.

A. B. Q.—Does crying cause blindness?

A.—No.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, MARCH 28 AND 29.

Sunday's horoscope holds augury of some new undertakings, following the removal of a stubborn obstacle, but warns against fraud or subtle attack. Those whose birthday it is may find a year of new opportunity, but they should make changes carefully and be armed against fraud or subtlety. A child born on this day may be restless and fond of change, but may be industrious and dependable, notwithstanding. It may have unusual characteristics.

Monday's astrological forecast holds many perplexities. It should be a lively day, but one calling for good judgment in the use of money, in employment and in the handling of all contracts and writings.

Those whose birthday it is should have a lively year, but one of complications and problems, calling for careful management, especially in money matters, employment and with papers. A child born on this day should be resourceful and adventurous and may need these qualities to meet its problems.

TO-DAY'S HOROSCOPE
SATURDAY, MARCH 27.

An event of sudden and abrupt nature may make this day a momentous one, judging by the Parallel of Sol to Uranus. There may be a radical change or a removal involving travel, which might possibly bring one into some manner of public notice or service. Such an advantage should not be negatived by a tendency to irritability or contention. In social, domestic and affectional matters there is some hint of duplicity. Be on guard against betrayal or misrepresentation.

Those whose birthday it is may expect an eventful year, with probably an unplanned change of radical nature. It may be a complete upheaval, bringing one into the limelight or in some public service. The tendency to rash or irritable conduct should not be permitted to undo any advantages. A child born on this day may probably have an interesting and eventful career in the public service or notable for inventions or experiments in some of the finer forces—electricity, radio or aeronautics

HOME-MAKING HELPS

KEEP THINGS MOVING

Each season brings its quota of new things, and there must be a suitable place to keep them. In order to have the space we must clean house, so to speak. This should be done in all families four times a year. All of us have some people who depend upon us to supply some of their needs. When we buy a new gown we have a second best to relieve it. We should be ready then to pass on the third best to some one who needs it. Ten chances to one we will never make it over in these days of rapid changes. In the first place, the old-fashioned seamstress who used to do such things has disappeared from our midst. There are small modistes, but they charge as much for the job as they would to make a new gown.

The same thing applies to old hats and furs. Rip, brush and save the best trimmings if they are worth while. If they are faded or injured, part with them without more ado. No one in these latter days wears shoes that have obviously been mended. The short skirts expose the shoes, and it just is not done. So when they are shabby pass them on where shabbiness is forgiven where a watertight cover is craved.

Blankets that have become worn and hardened, the borders faded, will be very welcome somewhere, and it is nice to fill in with fresh ones. Don't fill closet shelves with them where room is at a premium. You think maybe they will do in the Summer cottage or camping or some other way, but they never do, for if we go among friends we want smart new camp blankets and at the cottage thick cotton ones for Summer.

In the pantries we find broken dishes and ornaments that we tuck away to mend and never do. In the kitchen it is utensils that need a handle or something done to them to restore them to usefulness. Tucked away, we forget them and buy new then eventually they get thrown out when we are just desperate for room. All this wear and tear would have been spared if we had attended to the mending at once or thrown the thing out instead of hoarding it away. Think it over. Every one of us are probably doing the same thing. But when we complain of lack of room let's look first and see what the trouble is and overcome the hoarding habit.

FAMOUS FORTUNES

By Barbara Bayne

HENRY OSBORNE HAVEMEYER —"THE SUGAR KING"

A sugar refinery business established at Williamsburg, New York, by William and Frederick Christian Havemeyer, who came from Germany in 1799, became one of the largest refining houses in the world and formed the nucleus of the great "Sugar Trust."

Henry Osborne Havemeyer, born in 1847 in New York, became the manager of the Havemeyer & Elder sugar refinery in 1887. Later, when it was reorganized, it paid John E. Parsons a legal fee of $400,000 for planning its organization. When the New York courts condemned it, the so-called "Sugar Trust" dissolved and reorganized with a New Jersey charter and the name of the American Sugar Refining Company. Asked if there was any difference except in the name, Havemeyer replied: "Well, from being illegal, as we were, we became legal, as we are. Isn't that enough?"

Refineries Sprang Up All Over the Country.

The new organization's creative genius, H. O. Havemeyer, became president and until his death remained the dominant personality of the company.

After the Civil War sugar refineries sprang up all over the country and the Havemeyer "crowd" blithely gathered them into its fold. All except two belligerent factors in the field refused to come in—Spreckles and Arbuckle.

Claus Spreckels, of the Western Sugar Refining Co., when crippled in the West, carried the war into the enemy's country and built a refinery in Philadelphia. Millions were lost by both companies in this battle which resulted in a compromise—the trust taking over the Western concern for $10,000,000, on a lease, Spreckels retaining fifty per cent of the stock. Havemeyer had beaten Spreckels into line but he knew he had been a fight.

Likewise the famous Arbuckle war which waged on fiercely until Havemyer's death. The American Sugar Refining Co., had invaded the coffee field and to control the coffee market had purchased a major interest in many wholesale and retail grocery houses throughout the Middle West.

When the beet-sugar industry raised its head, threatening serious competition, Havemeyer bludgeoned it into submission; the twenty-eight companies that had started out independently, eventually surrendered and were regulated by the trust.

But when the national mania for trust busting swept across the land, the Government did not overlook the American Sugar Refining Co.

But Henry O. Havemeyer escaped the storm. He died in 1907 at his "Merrivale Stock Farm" on Long Island. He had homes in several States and his office in Wall Street. He was officer and director in many corporations and considered one of the wealthiest men in New York.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

CHARLEY OTTER GETS EVEN.

Charley Otter went on sliding down his mud slide into the creek.

When he struck the water he rolled over and swam on his back, and then on his side, and twisted and turned and had the best time ever.

He seemed to have forgotten all about Marty Mink stealing his fish. Really Charley was in a very happy frame of mind. He really is a very good-natured person.

He is also a very smart person, Charley Otter is—one of the smartest of all the outdoor people.

That is what the March Hare whispered to Nancy and Nick in their hiding hole behind a big green rock.

The fairy rabbit and the children had seen everything. They had seen how Marty Mink played the trick on good-natured Charley by stealing his fish when he stopped to shout out loud at the mink's suggestion.

Just now Marty was eating the fish on the other side of a fallen log where no one could see him.

"Tum, te, um, te, um, tum, tum!" sang Charley Otter. Slide! Splash! Swim! Climb up again! Slide! Splash! Swim! Do it all over again!

"Just watch him," said the march Hare. "He hasn't forgotten what Marty did—not for a minute. He's only fooling."

Just then Marty Mink stuck up his head and peeped over the log. He was licking his lips.

He watched Charley Otter sliding and splashing and decided he'd try to make Charley catch another fish for him.

"Hoy, Charley," he called. "Let's play that game again."

"All right," said Charley cheerfully, splashing his webbed feet about in the water. "Only you are so much better at fishing than I am! You're the best fisherman in Ripple Creek, and you know how to catch all the big fellows. I wish I was smart like you. Would you mind giving me a lesson and showing me how you do it—just this once?"

Marty Mink puffed out his fat cheeks and swelled up with importance. "Not at all," he said proudly, coming over to the top of the bank and looking down.

He dived into the water and pretty soon up he bobbed with a big fat shiner in his mouth.

"Well, I declare!" shouted Charley Otter. "That was pretty good. Let me see how big he is."

Marty climbed out of the water. He couldn't eat fish in the water anyway, any more than Charley Otter could. Out he came and laid the fish carefully on his front paws, keeping his weather eye on Charley all the time. Marty was almost, but not quite, as smart as Charley.

Suddenly Charley said, "Oh, my goodness!" And he began to stare at something right behind Marty's back. "What is it?" cried Marty, turning quickly in alarm.

Like a fish Charley seized Marty's fish and was off.

"Nothing," laughed Charley.

Marty looked like two cents. "I'll get you," he cried starting after him. "Give me my fish."

"No you don't, young fellow," said the March Hare suddenly. "You are coming with us to Scrub-Up Land to get the snarls and knots brushed out of you. Fairy Queen's orders. She says everyone has to be barbered at least once a year." Then he called, "Finish your fish, Charley Otter, and come along, too. We'll wait."

"Um, yum, I'll be there in a minute," called Charley with his mouth full.

Mary Mink scowled.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

BUNNY RABBIT HAS A PLEASANT SURPRISE

Bunny Rabbit opened his eyes and stretched his little legs. The jolly old moon was peeking in between the briers at him.

"Goodness, I've let the moon beat me up," chuckled Bunny Rabbit, and he hopped out of bed and ran to his doorway. There, piled up right in front of his entranceway was a great mound of dirt. Bunny Rabbit rubbed his head as he thought. That mound of dirt wasn't there when he went to bed that morning.

"Whoever did that will have to answer for it," Bunny Rabbit said angrily. He was so mad his little cotton tail wiggled up and down. He rushed out of his house, and there, digging as nice as you please, was a little furry creature a wee bit larger than himself. Bunny Rabbit could see in the moon light that the worker wore a brownish yellow coat and his feet were a very dark brown. His vest was reddish-orange and he showered it with the dirt.

"Well, what's the big idea?" Bunny Rabbit exclaimed in a gruff voice, trying to frighten the newcomer away. "Don't you know you are throwing that dirt right in front of my doorway? What's the trouble? Who are you, anyway?"

"No trouble at all, neighbor," replied the busy fellow, stopping long enough to glance at Bunny Rabbit. "If I've thrown the dirt in front of your doorway I'm very sorry. I'll smooth it all down after a bit."

"So you will," fretted Bunny Rab-

"I'm building another doorway."

bit in a rage. "What are you digging around here for, any way? I'll teach you how to mess up other folk's yards," and Bunny Rabbit was just about to jump upon the intruder when Gray Squirrel, Bunny Rabbit's best friend and neighbor, ran down the tree and called him.

"Oh, Bunny Rabbit, have you ever met my cousin, Willie Woodchuck?" he laughed. "I'll bet you didn't know Willie Woodchuck was my cousin, did you?"

Bunny Rabbit looked rather confused and backed a hop. Then he held out his paw.

"Sure, I'm glad to meet you, Willie Woodchuck. I should have known you were related to Gray Squirrel. You look like him," and Bunny Rabbit shook Willy Woodchuck's paw. "What are you hunting for, anyway?"

"I'm building another doorway to my house," replied Willy Woodchuck. "The wife and I moved in here to be near our cousin. I'll take all the dirt away from in front of your place, so no one will ever know anyone has been digging here. Come in and meet the wife and babies," and he led Bunny Rabbit and Gray Squirrel into his burrow. Mrs. Woodchuck was delighted to meet her cousin and his friend.

Bunny Rabbit said the babies were the cutest he had ever seen.

"Now, just make my yard your yard," he chuckled. "I'll watch the youngsters for you so they'll not come to harm. Come on, fellows, we'll all help you pull the dirt out of sight."

Then the three friends ran out into the moonlight and soon the telltale dirt was all smoothed out. Bunny Rabbit invited Willy Woodchuck and Gray Squirrel in for a bit of lunch, and from that day to this Bunny Rabbit, Willy Woodchuck and Gray Squirrel are the best of friends.

DAD'S LULLABY

Hotsy, totsy, cake and pie, come now, youngster, don't you cry. Mister Sandman, bye and bye, plans to close your little eye.

Rockin', rockin', to and fro. Down we come and up we go. First it's fast and then it's slow. Toodle, tumpty, toddle tow.

Ride the road that seems so steep, on our way so fast asleep. Happy playtime's sure to keep. Quiet, youngster, don't you peep.

Little paddies, held so tight. Time to turn down low the light. Peace and quiet—through the night. Rockin' left and rockin' right.

Now we're on our way to bed. Wide-awakeness all has fled. Softly, softly is the tread. To the trundle bed we're led.

Maybe silly—maybe sad. Still it makes a youngster glad. Verse like this each tot has had—rocked to sleep at night by dad.

Nervous Strain of Modern Life

LIFE was never lived at such high tension. There is a mania for speed, hurry and excitement. Nerve force is consumed at a tremendous rate and there is little time for recuperation.

But there is a limit to human strength. Sooner or later there comes the nervous breakdown.

There is usually plenty of warning of the approach of nervous exhaustion or collapse. You find you do not rest or sleep well. You are nervous and irritable. Little things annoy and worry you. You may have indigestion and headaches.

To get away from this condition you must have rest. You must help the nerves to get back health and vigor.

The most effective restorative of the nerves is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Many have been restored after months or years of the most serious forms of nervous trouble. But prevention is the wiser course. It is so easy to head off trouble by using this great restorative when the warning symptoms come.

You will feel younger and look younger and your friends will notice this and compliment you. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 60 cts. a box, all dealers or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Ltd., Toronto, 2, Canada.

STORAGE DAMS FOR QUEBEC PULP MILLS

Provide Winter Employment For Paper Plant Staff.

MONTREAL, March 27 (Canadian Press).—By the recent completion of extensive storage dams in the region lying between Lake Kenogami and the Saguenay River, a solution of an industrial problem of long standing, namely that of keeping pulp and paper plant employees occupied during the winter months, has been reached, in the opinion of O. Lefebvre, chief engineer to the Quebec Streams Commission.

"Hitherto," said Mr. Lefebvre "several paper mills operating in this region, have been compelled to lay off large numbers of workmen during the winter months, owing to the impossibility of developing sufficient power during the low water periods to operate their plants. However, this winter, due to the completion of the dams, the companies have been able to keep their plants in operation continuously."

TAXATION CONFERENCE OF THE WHOLE DOMINION THIS SUMMER

Announcement By Premier Ferguson in Discussion of Liberal Amendment.

SYSTEMATIC PLAN.

TORONTO, March 27 (Canadian Press). — By another amendment moved by the Liberals in the Legislature Friday to the motion to go into supply, another miniature budget debate was started and ended within the three hours of the sitting. The amendment was declared lost without a formal division. It was moved by W. E. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, and seconded by A. Belanger (Liberal, Russell) and was worded as follows:

"That this House regrets that the Government has failed to adopt a systematic scheme of Provincial taxation, and recommends that a committee of inquiry be appointed to sit during the recess to investigate Provincial taxation, taking into consideration its encroachment upon municipal taxation and to report to this House at its next session."

The amendment gave the Premier the opportunity to announce that early this summer there would be a general taxation conference of the whole Dominion at which would be present Federal, Provincial and municipal representatives so that the whole field of taxation could be canvassed and each type of government allotted its proper sphere of taxation. Thus overlapping would be prevented.

Alarming Increases.

Mr. Sinclair said the increases in Provincial expenditure in recent years had really become alarming and that much of it was unwarranted. He declared that the Provincial taxation had encroached quite heavily on the municipal field. He pointed to the amusement tax as one example of this. The municipalities paid for the police and fire protection of amusement houses and were therefore entitled to the taxation on them. The land transfer tax was another. There was no reason why a person who bought a piece of land should pay one-fifth of one per cent. of its price to the Provincial treasury. Mr. Sinclair also protested against any of the gasoline tax going to consolidated revenue fund, claiming that it should all go to road maintenance and the payment of interests on road capital expenditure. He claimed that half a million had not been so used.

"The tax on motorists is justifiable, but not above the amount required for the maintenance and interests payments on roads," he declared. "It is tax here, tax there, tax everywhere in Ontario now, and it is time that we did something about it. It is not a political question. It is a matter of business entirely, and I think a committee would help come to some real understanding on the matter."

Mr. Belanger said that a committee of inquiry as suggested in the resolution would be quite in keeping with the policy of the Government which already had an agricultural committee, a road committee and a committee inquiring into French English schools.

Dodging the Issue.

The Premier, replying, said that in one case the Liberals wanted him to balance his budget and in the next to cut down taxation. Although the Government had only two new sources of revenue since it came into power, it had increased the revenue by $6,000,000, and the gas and beverage tax only accounted for $2,500,000. He claimed that the province had also cut down its expenditure, but was challenged by Mr. Sinclair, who contended that the expenditure had gone up and not down.

"You are dodging the issue," said Mr. Sinclair. "The expenditure has gone up."

The Premier claimed that in its "household expenditure" the Government had spent two million less than the revenue. Certain expenditures had gone up, but he asked the House to look at the great expansion of Provincial service.

"The government is passing through an era of unrivalled prosperity and expansion," he said. "How can the expenditure be cut? No one would argue that we should cut down on the great economic project, the Hydro.

Institutions Crowded.

"But that is not domestic, it is capital expenditure," said Mr. Sinclair. The Premier replied that the interest payments on it had to be met from ordinary revenue. He declared that many of the public institutions were bursting from overcrowding, and the overflow must be looked after. He claimed that the cities were not paying any more than their share of the gas tax, and said Toronto was paying 20 per cent., which was just its portion of the population of the province. He sympathized with the demand for cutting off the amusement tax and leaving it to the municipalities. It would be done when the province was able to do it. He announced in conclusion that there was to be a Dominion-wide conference on taxation early this next summer.

The amendment was then declared lost and the motion to go into supply carried.

Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, took occasion to protest against dairy officials in New York, who alleged that people were being poisoned by Canadian milk and dairy products. He claimed it was part of a campaign to increase the tariff against Canadian dairy products, and that it was their usual method. He had wired offering an official investigation.

An Act was passing through second reading regarding psychiatric hospitals. The Premier explained that Toronto had one of these institutions now. It provides for their construction in cities of over 100,000. The city builds them and the province operates them. They are for people suffering from diseases but who are not fit subjects to place in asylums.

Several members also protested during discussion in committee of another bill about having to send to Toronto for birth certificates. It was argued that municipal clerks should issue such certificates. The suggestion will be considered by the Government.

Aeroplanes Bought.

In reply to questions, the House was informed that the Lands Department had bought 13 aeroplanes from the United States Navy for forest patrol work; that there were eight liquor dispensaries in the province; that the total expenditure on the railway started in the Rouyn mining district was $517,000; that the Government had taken over new Provincial highway mileage.

Hon. W. E. Raney urged the Government to hurry in its reply to a question asking for information about a motion picture called "Indoor Sports," which was made some years ago. Wm. Ireland (Conservative, West Hastings) is asking about it. Mr. Raney thought that perhaps it might have to come before public accounts.

PREMIUM LIST FOR HORT. MEMBERS

Comment on the Last Half of the Fine List of Options Offered By the Society

Not many flower lovers will require any information about the plants offered on the last half of the option list, but for the benefit of the few who may not be familiar with the several items, this comment is offered. Option 19, an orange and a lemon plant, is for those who live in apartments and want something nice for their windows. The orange bears real orange blossoms and handsome fruit, that is not eatable. The lemon bears flowers that are also fragrant, and the fruit grows to an enormous size, 1 to 2 lbs. Both will grow and fruit in an ordinary 5 or 6-inch pot. The dahlias are imported European, named sorts, but will not be named as labels were lost in the field last year. Some are decorative, cactus, exhibition and pompon. The 3 roots will be all different. Option 21, foliage plants, are the popular coleus, used for outdoor bedding, where a bright colored border is wanted. The cannas are for the centres of beds, or where an effective rather tall plant is required. Flowers are red.

The tuberous begonias are also for outside bedding, and give continuous bloom all season. A rich soil and shade from the afternoon sun is best for them. The fibrous begonias are house plants, but do well on the verandah during summer. They want shade where light is good.

The geraniums are the very best outdoor bedders known. Nothing gives such constant bloom all season, or retains a fine appearance at all times. The asparagus fern is a very popular house plant. The one offered is a large specimen, ready for immediate effect. The fuchsias are also house plants, and are constant bloomers, bearing attractive flowers.

The boxes of seedlings offer a big choice of annuals, such an asters, marigolds, zinnias, verbenas, nasturtiums and many other summer flowers, as well as cabbages, tomatoes, cauliflowers, peppers,, celery, etc., in vegetables.

The member may have any three kinds desired. The salvia are the fine bright red flowers, seen at the latter part of the season in the borders around homes that have a south or west front. They require sun to get lots of bloom.

The second week of the campaign for 1,000 members in a month is now at an end, and a lot of names have been handed in. In a few days the result up to date will be announced and the citizens get an idea of what this rejuvenated society is doing, and what fine company they will miss being affiliated with, if they do not get their names on the roll.

BUSINESS TRANSACTION OF CITY PASSED THROUGH THREE STAGES BARTER CREDIT AND CASH SALES

First Settlers, Practically Independent of Others, Raised Own Food and Made Own Clothing — Credit and Money Appeared Next.

SYSTEM CHANGED AS TOWN GREW.

Present Day Mode Calls For Cash in Most Transactions of Daily Life—Inducements Offered—Credit Only to Persons Known.

"Times are changing" is a very old saying, and with them change the manner of financing.

In the early thirties there was very little money in this district. Our forefathers were practically dependent on nobody; they grew enough wheat to make their own flour, spun their own wool, raised their own vegetables and meat and boiled down maple syrup for sugar. But there were a few necessities of life they had to get, and they got these by means of barter. They would bring their eggs and butter to the general store and would receive the necessities they wanted in exchange, being allowed about eight cents a dozen for eggs and ten cents a pound for butter. It is within the memory of some citizens of this city today when the storekeepers got so many eggs on hand that they had to throw some of them into the river. But things improved; a small town sprung up, more money came into circulation, not American money as in other parts of Ontario, but English and Canadian money.

Long-Time Credit.

The country's financial system grew and with it Peterboro grew industrially; barter became a thing of the past and a long-time credit scheme came into force, especially in buying lands. There developed many credit troubles, but our fathers always seemed to find a way out. The storekeepers also gave credit; they knew the man was good if given time to pay, and every man was trusted then.

But the city grew in size, strangers came in who were not known to the residents, and this tended to curtail the giving of credit and cash was demanded. Credit was still given if the customer was able to establish himself first.

Cash Basis.

From this followed the institution of a strictly cash basis, a system which is becoming more noticeable in the stores every day, especially in chain stores, for today these chain stores make their appeal to the public on lower prices through cash buying.

Results of War.

During the war the cash system was most noticeable; there seemed to be more money in circulation, people having more money came to demand something more than the mere necessities of life, and much money was spent in pleasure. After the war money conditions tightened; but the demand of the people remained the same. How was this to be overcome? was the great question. The cost of living had not gone back to a pre-war basis, there was more unemployment and greater demands developed on the wage-earner. So a new system developed, not the long-credit system, but a system on a definite payment plan. It was not new for piano and organ salesman and implement manufactures had been using it for years. It is known as the "instalment plan," and generally referred to as a dollar down and a dollar a month until the thing wears out. Some insurance companies, with their industrial policies fitted for those who worked in industries and were not financially able to make payments once a year, arranged monthly payments and in some cases weekly payments. But let it be pointed out, the companies thus concerned are perhaps the most outstanding in the world of insurance today. Then the furniture dealer tried this plan, but the biggest boost it got was in the automobile industry.

Auto Sales.

In the early days of the automobile ownership, autos were restricted to those who could pay cash down for their cars. Then the dealer financed men who desired to own a car, but could not buy on a cash basis. This last plan put off for a time that which we had been hearing about for some time—a saturation point in the auto industry, or a time when every person had a car who could afford one. The demands became too great on the dealer, so he went to the bank. The banks carried him for a while, but ceased, for they found out that the purchaser in a great many cases should be using his money for something else. Then guarantee companies came into the field, who took the title to the newly purchased car and held it until the last payment was made; in the meantime the company held a lien on the car. The company paid the car dealer for the car, and the poor car buyer paid for the privilege of being financed in an excess of at least ten per cent. above the cash selling price of the car, and all the time his car was depreciating in value, which really amounted to about fifteen per cent. This looked good to the car manufacture, and today he has his own guarantee companies and has managed to put the saturation point off for another period.

The Radio.

The radio, which is one of the newest luxuries of life, is a thing which has been greatly advertised under the instalment selling plan. One local dealer says he never sells by the instalment plan unless he has a third down, for he considers it takes at least a third of the price of the set, if it is put back on his hands, to place it in shape again. The batteries are apt to be run down very low, some of the bulbs blown out, and the serial has taken a lot of time setting up and is generally a loss. In fact, he considers the radio a luxury and should only be sold to those who are capable of paying for it. By this plan, he stated, the returnable sets were almost nil. Another dealer stated he was able to sell and carry on with fifteen dollars down and the rest in ten-dollar monthly instalments. He didn't think he would be able to sell any sets in such hard times unless he did, but he stated he had a few sets turned back on his hands.

Opinion differs on the effect of the instalment plan on general merchandising. Most local merchants agree that it is not good; perhaps their business is helped in some degree, but as a whole the people of Peterboro who are buying things on the instalment plan, especially autos, are people who should be putting the amount of the instalment into the bank for a rainy day. For the amount of the instalment is generally the amount of money he has above his living expenses. Even some auto dealers of Peterboro are not in favor of it, thinking that the plan has a tendency towards carelessness with the car, and will not recommend the plan unless one-third is paid down. This last dealer, of course, carries quite a few buyers on his own responsibility. Washing machine and vacuum cleaner sellers are in favor of the plan.

But on a whole the people of Peterboro pay as they go; if a man has the cash to pay for it, he pays for it; not like many of the residents of the New England States where the instalment plan is a curse, they buying things on the instalment plan even if they are able to pay cash for them hoping by some lucky investment to put their money to greater advantage.

The Saturday Night for the week of March 13 said about the United States and the instalment plan:

"It is said that the sales on the instalment plan in the United States will approximate five billions of dollars in 1926. That is to say, something less than five billions of dollars, accepting the above figures to be correct, are to be put on the books, a liability against those wishing to discount the future through the purchase of goods, mainly luxuries, on time."

The old axiom of "Pay as you go" is apparently a long way behind the times, worn out, thread-bare and out of fashion. The present idea is to buy what you desire whether you require it or not, or whether you can afford it or not, and trust to fate to help you out in the financial mess that sooner or later will probably be encountered.

Of course, possessing what one can afford to buy belongs to the Victorian era, along with the hair-cloth sofas and crinolines. We are well on our way towards something else—just what, is not clear—though our economists see in it bankruptcy and misery in plenty.

Of course, the instalment buyer pays for the privilege and pays well, anywhere from eighteen to thirty-odd per cent. more than the given article would cost were it paid for on delivery, the added percentage varing according to the time of the first payment and the last, and the value of the article second-hand, if and when it becomes necessary for the seller to recover owing to non-payment of instalments.

Pressure of competition and the desire to add to output is the loadstone that has brought this instalment buying into such general use, until now it takes in all manner of things, with the possible exception of things which go on the dining table. It merely means that more things are being manufactured than can be comfortably absorbed, so the present method of forced feeding has come into vogue.

Like land booms, immoderate stock speculation and all that sort of thing, instalment buying will run its course, no matter what is said and done. The only thing that will effectualy halt it will be sterr necessity. And that necessity will only arise when a goodly share of the population finds itself hopelessly and helplessly in debt. Then the buyer will back up on the distributor, and the distributor on the manufacturer. Economists freely predict that the next phase will be a general collapse of the industrial fabric.

This is a poor outlook for the future, but if the people of Peterboro wish to gain by the mistakes of ur neighbors to the south of us, they will not go into instalment plans without first sitting down and taking into account what it is going to cost and whether they can afford it.

Male Voice Choir Concert

(By Jeanette).

There was an excellent attendance last evening at the sixth annual concert of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir, presented in the Grand Opera House before an audience that numbered nearly nine hundred people. The programme was fully up to the expectations of those who have watched the steady progress of Peterborough's Male Voice Choir for some years past, and who anticipate every year a pleasing and varied entertainment of a very high type. As the seasons pass, the Choir shows an appreciable increase in interest, both in numbers and in the manner in which the choruses are presented. Under the baton of their conductor, Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., to whose expert musicianship and careful tuition much of the success of this organization is due, the Choir once again demonstrated just what results may be attained by a body of singers who give their earnest attention over a long period of time to perfecting themselves for an annual effort. The choral programme was satisfying from start to finish, more pleasingly varied in type than last year's concert, which suffered from a slight heaviness of choice in the majority of the selections.

The work of the two assisting artists from Toronto was also very pleasing. Both were new to Peterboro audiences, and their vocal and instrumental solos made an enjoyable interlude in the choral programme, which was arranged in artistic fashion, with an eye to the variety which keeps the interest sustained until the last moment.

The Choir opened its programme with a fine rendition of 'O Canada,' followed by a charming opening trio that included "The Song of the Jolly Roger," "Swing Along," a pretty number on the negro spiritual order, with a lot of pleasing soft tone in its lilting measures, and "The Song of the Northmen," a nautical bit that emphasized the pleasing contrast in the triple number.

A humorous group that demonstrated very effectively the Choir's command of nuances of expression and its ability to render difficult soft music with a careful shading and attention to phrasing that is outstanding, commenced with "The Brownies," a whimsical bit in "The Big Brown Bear" and an exacting and very effective "Laughing Song." This last was done in a realistic style that brought repeated applause.

Sung "a capella," the next rendition by the Choir was "London Town" and "The Trumpeter," the last with accompaniment, and an encore in another unaccompanied selection, one of the loveliest brief bits of the choral programme, "I Passed by Your Window," sung with tenor-toned background in splendid fashion.

A notable addition to the accompaniment of a trio of selections by the Choir was the harp music by Miss Downing, who played for a group comprising "Sweet Miss Mary," a dainty lyrical number, a pretty rendition of "I Know of Two Bright Eyes," and the very sweet, expressive music of "The Little Old Garden," which brought a rousing burst of applause.

The final choral numbers, sung with a commanding volume of tone, a swelling burst of forte music that showed as good a command of loud, forceful melody as of the pianissimo effects demonstrated earlier in the evening, were the beautifully-modulated renditions of selections from the compositions of Handel and Wagner, "Let Their Celestial Concerts" and the "Pilgrims' Chorus," with a staccato effect in its voluminous tone. As an encore, with solo in Mr. E. Jones' likeable, clear tenor, was an unaccompanied rendition of "Rock of Ages."

From start to finish, the Male Voice Choir, in its programme for this year, showed remarkable progress in the twelvemonth. Characterized by Mr. David, the assisting vocalist, later in the evening, as the best Male Voice Choir he had heard in Canada, its members sing with a magnificent accord, an ensemble type of well-balanced melody that shows no ragged edges, with a sureness and confidence that seems to increase annually, and a control of voice production that makes their soft work just as effective as their fuller-voiced numbers. Adding, as always, immensely to the fine work of the Choir were the sympathetic accompaniments by Miss Agnes Logan, who, with the harpiste, Miss Mabel Downing, received a lovely bouquet of roses during last evening's entertainment.

IMPROVEMENT IN RETAIL TRADE

Good Demand For All Staple Lines Reported By Winnipeg.

OTHER CENTRES.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 27. — (Canadian Press). — The weekly trade report of the Canadian Creditmen's Trust Association, Limited, reads:

Halifax: Conditions generally show little if any change, since our previous report. However, with the settlement of the miners' strike in Cape Breton, it is generally expected that trade will improve considerably and that the whole province will benefit.

St. John: Wholesale trade considered fairly good and retail trade normal for this time of the year. Collections slow.

Montreal: Conditions generally continue to show improvement, and the outlook is considered encouraging. Collections reported to be fairly good for this time of the year.

Toronto: Improvement is continuing to be noticeable in wholesale and retail trade circles, with collections showing improvement.

Winnipeg: A feeling of confidence is noticeable in wholesale circles, based on current demand for practically all staple lines and the favorable outlook for business generally. Indications point to a considerable increase in building operations and important developments in mining operations in the territory tributary to Winnipeg. Retail business is fairly active and collections show improvement.

Regina: Wholesalers report conditions fair to steady and retail trade fair. Collections showing improvement.

Saskatoon: Both wholesale and retail trade reported fair. Collections very poor.

Calgary: Conditions throughout Southern Alberta continue generally to be most satisfactory. Collections fair to good.

Edmonton: Business conditions considered fair and collections showing improvement.

Vancouver: Wholesalers report dry goods fairly good, showing improvement over last week; groceries fair; boots and shoes showing improvement in the city, but out of town rather quiet; hardware good. Collections generally fair, but dry goods report collections improving. Building is continuing rapidly. Enquiries have started to come in from tourists, and it is anticipated that this year will see a larger number of tourists than previous years.

CONTEST DATE EXTENDED FOR ONE WEEK

'JACK HORNER,' 25 TO 1 SHOT, WON THE BRITISH GRAND NATIONAL

Bought Two Months Ago By C. Schwartz, of United States.

THIRTY STARTERS.

AINTREE, England, March 27.—(Canadian Press). — Jack Horner won the classic English steeplechasing plum—the Grand National—on Friday, covering the famous Aintree course of four and a half miles, with its hazardous hedges, in faultless style. Old Tay Bridge, owned by Mrs. W. H. Dixon, repeated last year's performance, being first over the last fence, but was beaten on the flat toward the finishing point, and came in second. Four lengths behind the winner was Bright's Boy, third.

"Jack Horner could have gone around again. It was like an armchair ride." These were the words of the Scottish jockey, Watkinson, who rode the winner. The time was 9 minutes and 36 seconds. The owner, C. Schwartz, of the United States, whose purchase of Jack Horner for 4,000 guineas a few months ago was considered a foolhardy speculation by many racing enthusiasts, announced: "All the family and all my friends were 'on' the winner." This is presumed to mean that there were big winnings, for Jack Horner was an outsider, with betting 25 to 1.

Favorites Beaten.

As for the thousands of others who ventured their shillings and pounds on the Grant National, most of them contributed to the coffers of the book-makers, for the favorites fell early and often. Silvo, owned by W. H. Midwood, one of the most fancied entries, failed to take the first fence, and Mrs. Partridge's Sprig, the favorite, could not clear the fourth.

The Aintree classic lacked some of its usual thrills of injured horses and riders, who often litter the course in the vicinity of different jumps. One horse, however, broke its neck, and five jockeys had to be taken to the hospital with minor injuries. Less than half of the thirty starters finished the course.

Prince Was Absent.

The disappointments of the day for the huge cosmopolitan crowds gathered here were the usual one of weather, which was dull and rainy, and the unusual one of the absence of the Prince of Wales from the big race. This absence was accounted for by a severe earache and strict orders by the doctor to remain indoors. The Duke of York also stayed in London on the doctor's advice, because he is recuperating from a recent attack of influenza.

Big races in England never fail to develop stories of fortunes made by venturing a few shillings, and last night it is a story of a youth of Llanelly, Wales, who has made a double winning of £2,600 sterling, by staking a pound note on two outsiders—King of Clubs, a 100 to 1 shot, which won the Lincoln handicap on Wednesday, and Jack Horner for Friday.

Owner's Ambition.

It is estimated that 250,000 persons saw the Schwartz horse win the classic on the first occasion of the Schwartz colors appearing on an English race course.

Mr. Schwartz said last night that he bought Jack Horner for 4,000 guineas with a stipulation that he was to pay 2,000 more if the horse won the Grand National.

"It has been the ambition of my life to win the Grand National," he said, "and, naturally, I am delighted at my success. English racing circles will see more of me in the future."

In U. S. Races.

NEW YORK, March 27 (Canadian Press). — Jack Horner, the horse which carried the colors of Charles Schwartz, of New York, to victory in the Grand National steeplechase, probably will be brought to the United States for the important jumping races here, the New York Sun said yesterday.

Mr. Schwartz and his brother, Morton Schwartz, the Sun adds, contemplate building up a formidable racing stable in this country.

Friday's race had another outstanding feature in that no jockies were injured. Always there have been casualties. They are inevitable in a race over such a course as that used for the National at Aintree, with sixteen thorn fences, fourteen of which are jumped twice, brooks, and the wide water jumps. The percentage finishing, 14 out of 30, was quite respectable when compared with previous years. In 1921 only five finished out of 34 starters, and in 1911 the winner was the only entrant to finish without a mishap. Silvo's mischance at the first jump was very unfortunate. He is one of the most experienced fencers on the turf to-day.

No doubt the difference in weights carried by Jack Horner, who was ridden by Watkinson, and by Old Tay Bridge, ridden by the famous Jack Anthony, was greatly responsible for the defeat of the latter on the flat nearing the finish. Jack Horner carried only 145 pounds and Old Tay Bridge 170, five fewer than the ton weight. Bright's Boy carried 162. The winner was trained by H. C. Leader—one of the famous coterie of Leaders who are outstanding at Newmarket turf headquarters.

Instituted in 1839.

The Grand National was instituted in 1839, being converted into a handicap in 1843. It has come to be recognized as the greatest test a thoroughbred can face, and the great number of mishaps every year never fail to arouse criticism from certain quarters. Officials, however, point out that it is intended to be a trial of superiority in the strictest sense, and is not unduly difficult for a really good thoroughbred. Naturally, the big prize attracts many second-rate horses who cannot make the grade.

Of Friday's thirty starters, almost a dozen have had previous experience in the National. Jack Horner was seventh last year, when he was baulked. Sprig was fourth, Silvo fifth and Dwarf of the Forest sixth in the race of 1925. The others were Ardeen, Ben Cruchan, Pencoed, Patsey Fifth, White Surrey and Old Tay Bridge.

Allan Cup Player's Baby Girl To Be Named "Allane"

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Mar. 27 (Canadian Press)—The baby girl, born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pudas, Wednesday, a couple of hours previous to the Allan Cup game with Varsity at Montreal, in which the father played as a member of the winning Port Arthur team, will be named "Allane." A boy would have been named Allan.

CALGARY WINS MEMORIAL CUP

Defeats Kingston 3-2 in Final Game For Junior Championship.

LIGHTNING FAST.

WINNIPEG, March 27.—(Canadian Press.)— Calgary Canadians are junior hockey champions of Canada. The speedy youngsters from the west defeated Kingston 3 to 2 here last night to win the title and the O.H.A. Memorial Cup. Calgary won two out of the three games in the final series, defeating Kingston two straight after the eastern champions had taken the first game.

The game last night was lightning fast. Calgary opened with a burst of speed which netted a goal in the opening session and two in the second and the Canadians completely dominated the play until Kingston put up their characteristic fighting finishing in the last period. Calgary had increased their lead to three in the middle spasm and the Kingston rally only fell short of tying the count by the smallest margins.

Thompson, of Calgary, was again the outstanding player on the ice, being responsible for two of his team's tallies. McFadyen also showed up well for Calgary, passing the puck to Martin for the second goal, and back-checking tirelessly throughout the game.

GIANTS BREAK SPRING CAMP

Tris Speaker Believes They Should Win League This Year.

PIRATES HARD HIT.

NEW YORK, March 27 (Canadian Press).—Developments at the training camps this spring have given the National League pennant race a new aspect highly favorable to the New York Giants

The metropolitan outfit, in sharp contrast to the champion Pittsburgh Pirates, has broken camp at Sarasota, Fla., after a successful campaign of preparation which finds many observers optimistic of their chances. The Pirates, on the other hand, have been hit by one bad "break" after another.

Max Carey, one of the mainsprings in the Pittsburgh offence, may not be able to start the season as a result of illness. Traynor and Moore have also been out of the line-up temporarily, while Grantham has been ill all spring. Glenn Wright recently joined the cripples, completing the infield casualty list.

Manager McGraw has every reason to be optimistic. He pronounces his team one of the strongest New York ever entered in a National League race. Tris Speaker chins in a favorable comment. He declares the club "a wonder that should win."

VARSITY SPIRIT IS GIVEN CREDIT

For Win Over Port Arthur in Second Game For Cup.

NEED OVERTIME.

MONTREAL, March 27 (Canadian Press).—That unknown quantity, of which many have heard and some have seen the effects of, the Varsity spirit, won a great game here last night, when University of Toronto, Eastern Canada's representatives in the Allan Cup series with Port Arthur, last year's champions, and survivors of the Western Canada eliminations, defeated the Ports by 3 goals to 1 and evened up the best two out of the three-game series at one game each, although it was only after ten minutes of overtime play.

The first five minutes of overtime was a great display by the blue and white. Leaving the ice at the end of the regulation sixty minutes, with the count deadlocked at one goal each, both counts having come in the second period, the students appeared to be the more tired of the two teams which showed the result of the gruelling pace, in which close and stiff checking had been prominent features.

Many thought that the collegians would not be able to hold their opponents in the overtime, particularly as on the play of the game during the three preceding periods they deserved to have a margin of several goals.

But it was not so. The students jumped on to the ice with the cry of their supporters, "Fight, Varsity, fight" and before the first "Toronto" which sent the teams on their way was ended, they were one goal up.

It was "Red" Porter who was the hero of the game. The big defence player was a decided star all through the match, but he came through in the final rally in a manner that recalled the feats of "Frank Merriwell" to many of the spectators.

James Cox, farmer, of White Sulphur Springs, N.Y., had a severe coughing spell and coughed up a needle.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Things ain't hardly moved a wheel in local sporting circles since I last wrote you. It's about the time of year when the curlers go home after the long campaign and their children ask mamma whose the strange man, and when the ball bugs is looking forward and the hockey fans backward. Soon the same guys what a short time ago was panning Eddie Wright for the way he handled the Petes will be asking why in the cock-eyed world does Shiner Johnston want to order a sacrifice for when any dumbell knows the best strategy would be to ask the bird at the bat to just naturally slough the ball out of the lot.

And speaking of baseball, he latest dope is that Ottawa may be the 4th team in the Central League. The jump to the capital would be a long one for the Petes and would mean dipping down into the old sock for more expenses than the treasury has usually had to stand for at 1 jolt, but, on the other hand, the Ottawa crew would be a good drawing card that would likely bring out more customers than the somewhat colourless Oshawa gang, and anyway, a 4-teamed league would be better than for Kingston, Belleville and Peterboro to operate by themselves.

LOOK AFTER THE PRESS.

The big excitement right now is over the new artificial ice arena, and before I forget it I just want to tell the promoters that they shouldn't oughta forget to put in a good press box. Some of them new arenas that has been built the last 3, 4 years seems to have been constructed under the idea that the sporting writers could give a better account of the game if they stayed outside. I ain't forgot that London arena yet. How many newspaper men do you think got into the press box there for the Peterboro game? Just 1—the rest of the space was taken up by 4 well-fed telegraph operators—and even 1-eyed Connolly couldn't have crashed in there. As for me, I sat on the lap of Jim Sutherland over in the timers' bench for ½ of the game and on the steps with a peanut butcher for the other ½. So I'm giving the new company ample warning that they better provide for the press, for after all it's the dope that the boys put in the paper that brings out the customers.

THAT KINGSTON WRITER.

I notice where a Kingston guy, writing to The Globe, takes a mean crack at the Petes by saying that they lacked the stamina and the class to go through, and then he points to the record of the Kingston juniors. Well, all I gotta say is that if his outfit had been called on to meet North Bay a week later than they did they'd have stopped right there. In fact, most of us which saw the last North Bay-Kingston game figgers the Ponies was dead lucky to survive. If the Trappers had been handled by anybody with an ounce of hockey brains the Limestoners would never of won out. After that game the Kingston crew was dead to the world, just like the Petes was after the London serious, but they was lucky in going up against a set-up in the next round, the Montrealers being soft picking, and the Ponies got a chance to recuperate. Had the games been reversed and the Kingstoners had to meet North Bay in the condition they was in when they played Montreal, the Northern kids would have win by a wide margin. Our hats is off to Jim Sutherland's youngsters, but we'd just like to point out to this letter-writing bird that if he will imagine how the Ponies in the condition in which they were against Montreal would have played against the Trappers he'll know just what handicap the Petes carried in going up against Varsity.

I am sorry I ain't had time before this to answer some questions what was asked of me. I'll try and do so now.

Mr. Wise Cracker:

Can you tell me how long is Mister Louie Hudson going to attend Varsity?

ANXIOUS.

I dunno. When is the new Union Station in Toronto going to open?

* * * * *

Dear Mr. Wise Cracker:

I am 16 years old and weigh 185 lbs. and stand 5 ft. 4. I'd like to be a hockey player. What position should I try for?

JUVENILE.

Why goal, of course. If they widen the nets like the hockey moguls is suggesting they'll be picking goalies by their beam, and you oughta have a great chance.

* * * * *

Wise Cracker, Old Chap:

Another chap and myself, a good fellow, you know, and all that sort of thing, but between ourselves a bit dumb, lame in the old bean, if you know what I mean, have been having an argument and he claims that baseball is a better game than cricket. What do you think?

PICCADILY.

Sorry, old toper, but I ain't never been able to get 3 days off to see a cricket game, so I ain't no judge.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, by next week I hope to have some baseball news to tell you.

In the meantime I'll ring off.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

FAIR WEATHER FOR BOAT RACE

Weather Man's Promise For Oxford-Cambridge Annual To-day.

CREWS NERVOUS.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, March 26. Canadian Press. — For the seventy-eighth revival of their classic annual eight oared race, the crews of Oxford and Cambridge University will take to the Thames shortly after noon to-day.

Both crews have suffered from the lack of experienced material and been further weakened by sick and by the handicap of bad wea in the training season, but they pear to be so evenly matched an exciting race is promised for thousands who will line the ban course of the river.

Rowing experts explain that this is a fine stimulant and that it will become most effective at the critical stage of the race.

Thousands of old varsity "blues" and sports followers who have never seen a university but enjoy a good race will be unable to see the struggle this year because tide conditions make it necessary to begin the race shortly after 12 o'clock, not giving city workers time to get from their offices to the course.

Oxford has won 40 of the varsity classics and Cambridge 36, the race in 1877 being a dead heat. Cambridge won an easy victory last year when the Oxford shell was swamped in rough water.

MYLES THOMAS ON YANK STAFF

Former Toronto Pitcher Seems Sure of Regular Assignment.

FEW RECRUITS

NEW YORK, March 26 (Canadian Press).—Despite noteworthy performances by aspiring young pitchers, reports from baseball training camps indicate that few new flinging arms will figure in the 1926 major league pennant hunts.

Correspondents at the skirmish fronts assert that this has been an unusual year for early form by veteran twirlers, with the Braves and Giants of the National League leading both circuits in spring pitching effectiveness. As a result the minor leagues, which have already taken back a generous portion of their candidates, will gather in most of the others before the season gets under way.

A few exceptions stand out as almost certain to make the grade. In the American League, Myles Thomas, former Toronto hurler, seems to have clinched a place on the Yankee staff, while Alphone Thomas of Baltimore, is expected to be retained by the White Sox.

Several youngsters are making a gallant fight to stick with the Senators and Braves. Manager Bucky Harris has indicated that he will likely take two of a quartet that has been hurling impressively for Washington: Willard Morrell, Harry Kelley, Clarence Thomas and Jim Lyle. Wertz and Hearn may gain berths on the Boston National staff.

Ed. Braecht, 19-year-old sensation in the camp of the Phillies, virtually has earned his major league spurs, Manager Arthur Fletcher indicates. In the camp of the Cardinals, Lefty Hallahan of Syracuse has impressed Manager Hornsby.

JOCKEY A HERO.

Saves Another Rider When Girth Snapped.

NEW YORK, March 27 (Canadian Press).—Monty Edwards is the hero of the jockeys at the Tia Juana race track. In the sixth yesterday Jockey Prendergrass' saddle girth snapped in the stretch and Edwards, alongside on Gray Rock, pulled up to the hapless rider and threw his arms about his shoulders, the horses crossing the line as one.

Who Is Your Favorite?

Boys! Here's your chance!

Here's a competition you can all get in.

Write two hundred words about your favorite player on the Peterborough Senior Hockey Team, Champions of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The prize winner will be the guest of The Examiner at the banquet to be given to the team in recognition of its splendid work this season.

This is the idea. The Petes have brought to this city the first Senior Championship it has ever had. They deserve all kinds of credit. Every boy on the team did his share. But you have your favorite—maybe you think he plays smarter hockey than the others; or he may skate better; or he may be merely better looking. Whatever your reason, write it out in not more than 200 words, and send it to "The Contest Editor, The Examiner," observing these simple rules:

(1) Open only to boys of 17 or under.
(2) Accuracy, penmanship, composition and neatness count.
(3) Contest closes at midnight, March 27.
(4) Pictures of the players will be run every day, without names. Clip out the picture of your favorite and paste it on a sheet of paper with his name written carefully under it. Pin this to your 200 word story or essay.
(5) A coupon, properly filled in and signed by a parent or guardian, must accompany every entry.

A committee of prominent citizens will be asked to decide the winner, and in case of dispute the Editor's decision will be final.

The date of the banquet will be announced later.

Clip out this Coupon and attach it to your essay.

CAMBRIDGE WIN VERY DECISIVE

Losing Toss, Winners Row Longer Course, But Finish Strong.

LOSERS COLLAPSE.

PUTNEY, England, March 27 (Canadian Press).—At the start of today's race, which Cambridge won by five lengths, there was little to choose between the two eights, although Oxford was slightly the favorite. It was a gruelling race from the beginning at Putney over the four and one-quarter mile coarse to Mortlake, but when Cambridge flashed over the line, hardly a man in her boat seemed in distress, while several of the Oxford crew were in a state of collapse.

Oxford won the toss for position and chose the south side of the river. The Dark Blues led slightly for most of the first two miles, but did not seem to have much in reserve. Then Cambridge, although rowing a somewhat longer course around the big horseshoe bend at Hammersmith, took the lead and maintained it to the end.

NEW YORK, March 27 (Canadian Press)—Young Stribling, Georgia's agile and rugged young fighter, has decided upon a vigorous campaign in both light heavyweight and heavyweight ranks.

So far as a title bout with Berlenbach is concerned, Stribling must wait until Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn. has had another crack at Paul's championship, the state athletic commission decided yesterday.

RENE LACOSTE ILL.

May Be Lost To French Tennis Team.

PARIS, March 27 (Canadian Press).—Rene Lacoste, who conquered William T. Tilden and Vincent Richards in recent indoor tennis matches in New York, may be lost to French tennis for the entire season of 1926. A cold, which settled in his lungs shortly after his brilliant victories in America, is degenerating into chronic bronchitis, and it is feared that Jean Borotra, Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon will have to bear the full brunt of the Davis Cup campaign.

THEATRES

"CRIPPLE FACTORY" SCREEN'S STRANGEST SCENE IN "STREET OF FORGOTTEN MEN."

One industry of New York City which you won't find listed in the census reports of twenty years ago was the making of "cripples." In the early years of this century there were several so-called "cripple factories" known to the police, where day and night shifts of professional beggars were fitted with fake bandages, artificial arms and legs, false high heeled shoes and other trick paraphernalia for the luring of sympathetic coins into battered tin cups.

Herbert Brenon shows one of these 'cripple factories' in operation in his new production, "The Street of Forgotten Men," which opens a three days' run at the Capitol on Monday. Every detail is authentic, for the set was built and furnished under the supervision of John D. Godfrey, who for over twenty years has been Mendicant Officer of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charity and who assisted Mr. Brenon in the technical and research work on this story.

Here are shown beggars being made up under the expert hand of Adolphe, a little Frenchman, who was famous in his day for his artistic transformations. Piles of artificial limbs, canes and crutches give atmosphere to the place, as do the "mugs," or pictures, of famous beggars which adorn the dingy walls. There are signs reading "I Am Blind" and "Please Help a Cripple" which add a note of sardonic humor, especially when these "blind" and "crippled" men are seen stowing away their street clothes in lockers while they don their begging costumes. The "monakers" which are scrawled on these locker doors are interesting in themselves. Bridgeport White-Eye, Easy Money Charlie, London Tip, Ed the Flop, Chicago Stick and others, even including Handsome Harry and Diamond Dick.

"The Street of Forgotten Men" centres around the "king of the beggars," and tells an interesting story of a double personality assumed by him because of a young girl who has been entrusted to his care. Percy Marmont has in this role a character part which suits him better than anything in which he has been seen in some time, and Mary Brian, "The Little French Girl" and the adorable Wendy of "Peter Pan," is the girl. Neil Hamilton completes the trio of players featured in the principal roles of the production, which was adapted for the screen by Paul Schofield from the Liberty Magazine story by George Kibbe Turner.

Others in the cast are John Harrington, Juiet Brenon, Josephine Deffry, A. Bargato, Riley Hatch, Albert Roccardi and Dorothy Walters.

AT THE REGENT

"SATAN'S SISTER"

London Daily Neks.—Satan's Sister should show our cinema goers that a British producer, with a British cast can make a picture full of entertainment, and yet, not in any way copy American traditions. Betty Balfour is a film star of whom England may be proud. She has charm, cleverness, and individuality

From the Daily Chronicle.—Every new Betty Balfour picture lifts the cloud hanging over the British film industry and lets into this solemn business a glimpse of sunshine. "Satan's Sister," beautifully photographed, most expertly directed, having thrills, humor and romance, deftly woven together, is a gay stimulating entertainment, in which Betty Balfour betters any film performance she has even given before.

A new form of steam boiler, the flame of which burns in water, has been developed.

This years marks the seventy-fifth anniversary of the manufacture of ice cream as a commercial industry.

PETERBORO IS WELL REPRESENTED

Bailey Star of "All Stars" Game at Niagara

Irwin Bailey and Frankie Collins of the Petes played for Group No. 1 All Stars in the exhibition game at Niagara Falls last night against the pick of No. 2 group and press despatches say Bailey was the most effective player in the game. Peterborough was well represented, for Micky Murray played goal for the western team. A Niagara despatch says:

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 26.—In one of the finest exhibitions of hockey ever staged at the local arena the all-stars from O. H. A. group No. 2 defeated the pick of Group 1 this evening by 5 to 4. The contest was full of thrills at all stages and both teams exhibited plenty of good team work and much individual hockey. All of the goals were well earned. About 2,000 witnessed the contest. The game was exceptionally clean, and there were no penalties.

Harry Watson, who was slated to play left wing for Group 1, was unable to be present, but Heffernan, who took his place, filled the bill very efficiently.

The teams displayed much of the high-class brand of amateur hockey expected of all-star aggregations. Most of the classy work was done by the respective forward lines, who seemed to have little difficulty in getting in close for shots.

Bailey, at right wing for Group 1, was the hardest worker and most effective performer on the ice. He displayed remarkable staying powers for a post-season game. Lount and Taylor, on the Group 1 defense, used their bodies effectively in stopping attackers.

Jerry Lowrey and Bill Carson stood out for the Group 2 team. The pair figured in many clever individual and combination attacks. "Dad" Ashley and Bill Starkings, on the defense, made some pretty rushes, but were a little below mid-season form.

Gunner Arnott was a dangerous Sniper when in for relief work, while Norm. Himes went good in spots, particularly in the final period.

Group 1 — Goal, Cameron (Osgoode Hall); defense, Taylor (Osgoode Hall) and Lount (Parkdale); centre, Hillier (Kitchener); right wing, Bailey (Peterboro'); left wing, Heffernan (Osgoode Hall); subs, Collins (Peterboro') and Morris (Parkadel); spare goaler, Collett (Parkdale).

Referee—Lou Marsh, Toronto.

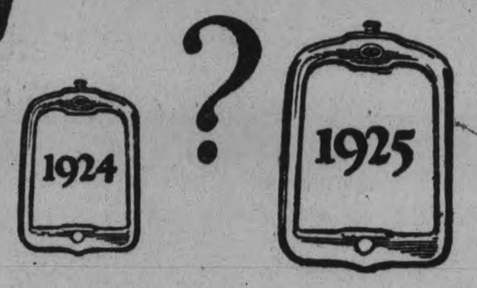
Why have OAKLAND Sales Doubled



All Canada has bestowed upon the Oakland Six the one sure mark of preference—ever-growing demand. Province after province has favored the car so strongly that sales have doubled in the past six months.

The reasons for this unprecedented favor will be readily apparent to anyone who tests Oakland Six abilities.

The car has power for any hill you will encounter—more speed than you will care to use—acceleration that excites envy—smoothness of performance, unmatched in its field—and, better still, a rugged endurance that assures years of service.

Moreover, Oakland's amazing prices—$75 to $500 lower—single out the Oakland Six as the unequalled motor car investment of the year.

General Motors Time Payment Rates (GMAC Plan), heretofore the lowest in the industry, have been made still lower. We can now save you as much as $20 to $35 in your time payment costs.

WANTED NO FAMILY ROWS

MILAN, March 26.—(United Press).—"I leave to my son the pleasure of earning his living. For twenty-five years he has always believed that this pleasure was reserved solely for me. He was wrong."

So began the strang will of an eccentric stock-broker of Milan, which has just been opened and read to the chagrin and dismay of his family and servants.

The ironical document continued as follows:

"I leave to my valet the suits of clothes which he has methodically stolen for several years. I bequeath him also my fur coat, which he wore all last winter when I was away traveling.

"To my chauffeur I leave my automobiles. He has nearly ruined them. I wish to leave him the satisfaction of bringing to an end what he has begun so well.

"I leave to my partner in business the advice to find at once some other intelligent person to take my place if he wants the business to go on."

Before he died, the quaint will-maker had given all his property away to charitable institutions. In his will he declared that he had done so "to avoid any quarrels among the heirs."

WORDS OF WISE MEN.

The meeting closed with singing the Doxology and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

THE HOG AS A SOURCE OF FARM REVENUE

Booklet With Valuable Information Being Distributed By Bank of Montreal.

"When well managed the hog is one of the best sources of farm income. Hogs have paid for many a farm. We can sell hogs at any time of the year and almost at any age and weight."

This is one of the introductory statements in a remarkably interesting and useful booklet entitled "Hogs for Pork and Profit" just issued by the Bank of Montreal, and offered free to farmers at any branch of that institution.

For some time past the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa has being doing commendable work all over Canada in encouraging the production of hogs as a supplementary source of income for farmers, and the booklet will admirably assist this movement by making available to those interested plain and detailed descriptions, illustrated by over 200 photographs and diagrams, of the guiding principles of successful and profitable hog raising. While the booklet is of a general character, covering methods under a wide variety of climatic conditions, particular attention both as regards text and illustrations, has been paid to conditions pertaining to hog raising in Canada, and a special introduction has been contributed by Mr. G. B. Rothwell, B.S.A., Dominion Animal Husbandman at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Mr. Rothwell gives an outline of the principal breeds and types and the accepted methods of feeding in Canada, and offers general advice in regard to the principles described in the booklet.

Every phase of hog raising is pictured in the booklet, both by word and by photograph the subjects dealing with the selection of sires and mothers, the choice of breeds and types, and the care of young pigs from the time they are born until they are ready for the market. Feeding, housing, the prevention of ailments and diseases, and the production of particular types for special markets, are all described; in fact there is no phase of the industry on which the best scientific knowledge is not made available in plain, everyday language.

As the booklet says, the hog will produce more meat from 100 pounds of feed than any animal; it multiplies rapidly, and it will not only provide food for the farmer's family, but is one of the best sources of farm income.

A free copy of the booklet may be obtained at the nearest local branch of the bank.

SPRING? YEP!

The sun falls warm; the southern winds awake;
The air seethes upwards with a steamy shiver
Each dip of the road is now a crystal lake,
And every rut a little dancing river.
—Archibald Lampman.

The old bear came out of his lair six weeks ago and saw his shadow and went back again. Today he can come out and stay for the six weeks of wintry weather are past, the sun has come out warm, and the snow and ice of winter are passing. Rivulets which were small streams a few days ago now have grown into great and rushing torrents. The roosters are beginning their early morning crowing, an occasional robin tells you that a new life has broken forth, and everywhere you go things seem to have taken on life anew.

Out on the streets you no longer see the people all muffled up to keep out the cold, the goloshes have been discarded along with many fur coats and heavy wearing apparel. Soon no overcoats will be seen on the streets and people will have thrown off the dull wrappings of winter.

The pussy-willows are out in blosson, the first blossom to appear in the spring; the sap is running in the trees, and everything is taking on a new appearance. Are not these signs of spring?

Man is his own star, and the soul that can Render an honest and a perfect man,
Commands all light. —Fletcher.

Baldness of memory everyone complains of, but nobody of the want of judgment.

WEDDING BELLS.

BULLOCK—ABBOTT.

LAKEFIELD, March 27.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at five o'clock on Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, Douro, when Henrietta Jane, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Abbott was united in marriage to Mr. Albert Sidney Bullock, son of Mrs. Peter Bullock, Jr., of Smith. The bride entered the parlour with her father to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by her sister, Miss Laura Abbott.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. A. Kemp in the presence of about forty relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride wore a coral georgette crepe gown over white satin, and wore blonde shoes and stockings and carried a shower bouquet of carnations and maiden-hair fern.

After a sumptuous wedding supper the happy couple left for Gore's Landing where they will spend their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a burnt silk crepe gown trimmed with gold lace and blonde crepe hat and wearing a coat of black, trimmed with fox fur, and brown stockings and black shoes.

INTERNATIONAL BIBLE STUDENTS' ASSOCIATION

When Jesus Christ was upon earth He stated that His mission was "to preach the gospel to the poor; to heal the broken hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, recovery of sight to the blind; to set at liberty them that are bruised, and to preach the acceptable year of the Lord."

THIS COMMISSION was also given to His disciples who were sent forth to "preach this gospel unto all nations for a witness." The consummation of this preaching was to be found in the end of earth's night of sin and degradation and the dawn of a new age of blessing, happiness and contentment.

THAT the whole world today is in a condition of unrest and dissatisfaction is admitted by all thinking people. That the plans and schemes of the world's statesmen and politicians for alleviation of the conditions are at best only palliatives and not permanent cures is also admitted. This being so, the surest hope of emancipation lies in the intervention of some beneficient power which cannot be swayed by any corrupt influence, and which is able and willing to adjust all unjust and inequitable conditions to the benefit of all.

CHRISTIANS have prayed for 1900 years for the coming of this kingdom of justice and righteousness; "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth, as in Heaven."

THIS ASPECT of world conditions will be dealt with in the lecture:

BY-ELECTION IN WEST MIDDLESEX CLOSED SATURDAY WITH APPEAL FROM KING AND FIVE OF CABINET

Premier Urged Return of Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Labor.

BALLOTING TO-DAY.

Ontario Should Be Represented in Treasury Benches, He Said.

GLENCOE, Ont., March 29. Canadian Press. — "The government is in office. It has a majority in the House of Commons. Whether Mr. C. Elliott is re-elected or not we are going to carry on. It remains for the electors of this riding to say whether or not they are going to have their member in the Cabinet."

In his by-election speeches in West Middlesex Saturday, Premier Mackenzie King made this announcement at Several meetings. At a dozen Liberal meetings in the constituency on the last day of the campaign, Mr. King and five of his members canvassed the riding afternoon and evening in favor of the candidature of Hon. J. C. Elliott, the newly-appointed Minister of Labor, who resigned his seat in the House recently to ask his constituents to confirm his appointment. The desirability of having Ontario represented on the treasury benches of the House of Commons was one of the first considerations urged upon the electors.

"I want to have this province of Ontario represented in the cabinet, and it is for you to say whether it is in the interests of the province or not," said Premier King. "It is a big responsibility for you. Ontario has already one Cabinet Minister in the Senate. But except in so far as I am privileged to speak for the province I belong to, even if I do not for it, the Ministers who sit in the House do not include in the number one Ontario member. It remains for the people of West Middlesex to speak for all Ontario as to the desirability of this province being represented in the Cabinet Councils, where policy is initiated and measures decided on."

In another place, Mr. King said: "When the next general election is coming none of us can state at present. Some of our Conservative friends say it will be soon. Others think not so soon." So far as he was concerned, added the Prime Minister he intended to carry on until he was defeated in the House.

Overflow at Parkhill

Premier King spoke at Parkhill in the afternoon, where an overflow gathering compelled his making two speeches. At Glencoe, the home town of Hon. J. C. Elliott, the new Minister of Labor and the Premier spoke at length, winding up the former's campaign. Mr. Elliott also addressed a meeting at Newbury this evening.

During the afternoon and evening other cabinet ministers spoke at different points. Hon. Ernest Lapointe at Strathroy and Ailsa Craig; Hon. C. A. Stewart at Wardsville and Adelaide; Hon. W. R. Motherwell at Coldstream and Mount Brydges, and Hon. C. A. Dunning at Melbourne and Delaware supported Mr. J. C. Elliott's candidature. In addition half a dozen Liberal private members of parliament, including several from Western Canada spoke on the same platforms. James Malcolm, M.P. for North Bruce, who is spoken of as the next appointee to the Federal cabinet, spoke at Strathroy and Ailsa Craig.

Premier King reviewed at some length the political situation arising out of the indecisive result of the last general elections. He would have resigned in favor of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, immediately after the last elections, he said, if he had thought for one moment that Mr. Meighen could have secured the support of a majority of the members of the House of Commons. He felt so sure that Mr. Meighen could not do this that he had been impelled to recommend to the governor-general that parliament be called and the opinion of its members be asked as to who should carry on government.

Parliament's Approval

He had not sought a seat for himself until the House of Commons, after weeks of debate on the government's policy as revealed in the Speech from the Throne, gave its support to that policy. He might have followed the example of Mr. Meighen, he added, who in 1921, after the electors had reduced his party to third standing in the House, had not hesitated to render vacant a seat in the House of Commons for himself before resigned office as the result of the general elections made it imperative for him to do.

"Mr. Meighen sat through the last partliament as the embodiment of usurpation of power," said Mr. King. "He used his last lease of power in 1921 to further his personal ends and ambitions."

One of the things accomplished by the government since the last election, said Mr. King, was the economy of reduction in cabinet portfolios. The number of these portfolios had been increased during the war to provide emolument for members of other parties who went into the Union Government and to make Union Government possible. It was strange, added Mr. King, to hear Mr. Meighen condemning the coalition between Liberals and Progressives in the present house. Mr. Meighen had found it possible to carry on for years after his mandate was really finished through the support of a coalition of Liberals and Conservatives. He did not think that a statesman who uttered charges against Progressive and Liberal alike of "log rolling and bribery" was worthy of the confidence of the voter.

To Reduce Taxes

"What is taking place at Ottawa is that members are getting together to secure a legislative programme which will take care of great national problems," said Mr. King. There was not, in the last Speech from the Throne, one single legislative principle which had not been on the Liberal programme for years. The Opposition had accused him of bringing up innovations to "bribe" Progressive members to support him. The Premier touched on the various items of promised legislation and sought to show that they were all in the Liberal programmes of many years past. As for the promised reduction in taxes that was a reflection of better times.

"There is going to be a very considerable reduction in taxation," said Mr. King. "Better times make it possible for the government to remove some of the burden from the shoulders of the people.

NOW, HONESTLY—

No matter how old you really are—how old do you feel?

It all depends on whether you've got a hold on age, or age has a hold on you.

As long as you keep spirit alive, it will have the same effect on you. And the liver you are, the younger.

Youth spreads the spirit that age needs. The young carry on where the old leave off.

Sounds logical then, to figure that a man may mingle with his kids and stave off that age effect just that much longer.

Ever try it out?

NEXT ELECTION IN PROVINCE WHEN GOVERNMENT IS READY

Will State Policies When the Time is Ripe, Says Ferguson.

TO CONSULT PEOPLE.

TORONTO, Mar. 29 (Canadian Press)—That the next provincial election will be "when the going's good for the Tory party" and that the government will state its policies "when it thinks that the time is ripe to do so" were the twin announcements of Premier Ferguson in his address on Saturday night at the West York Conservative Association's annual banquet in Weston.

Responsible government, he declared, was the aim and object of the present government. Provincial affairs were to be administered for the people as a whole, not for the benefit of any particular class.

"If you have faith in your leaders," the Premier continued, "You must give them opportunity to gather together a concensus of the opinion of the province before they take any action. But the man who is loyal to his party principles must be prepared to make a sacrifice of his personal feelings, sometimes. When I have been asked to discuss my attitude on certain questions I have declined to do so. I think it is for this government to decide when there will be an election.

"When we feel that it is time to consult people as to our policies, we will do so, not when Edgar Raney or Bill Sinclair says so."

Houses Aslant In Saxon Town From Earth Sinking

BERLIN, March 29.—Not a single house in the town of Oelsnitz, Saxony, remains perpendicular as a result of the gradual sinking of the earth in this section.

It is believed that new subterranean streams are undermining the entire section and that it is only a matter of time until all buildings must be abandoned. Whole blocks have dropped about ten feet, the cellars immediately filling with water. Other buildings are five feet out of plumb, making them resemble miniature Pisa towers.

Geologists have gone to Oelsnitz to investigate the causes with the view of finding methods of draining the hidden streams should the trouble come from this source.

NATIONAL ARMY IS WITHDRAWING FROM CAPITAL

Commanders Offer To Surrender City For Million Dollars.

CHANG COMES SOUTH.

Beaten Armies Reported To Be Looting in the Villages.

PEKING, March 29 (United Press)—Nationalist Chinese military commanders today gradually withdrew their troops from around Peking. It is understood that the Nationalists have offered to evacuate the city for $1,000,000 and that the coalition forces which are still gathering to attack if necessary, have offered the Nationalists $250,000.

Marshal Chang Tso Lin, whose Manchurian troops comprise a large portion of the coalition army now seeking to gain control of Peking had left Mukden, the capital of Manchuria for Tientsin.

The Nationalists apparently anticipate agreement to result from the peace bargaining which began during the later part of last week. Looting of villages by Nationalist troops is reported by refugees arriving in the capital.

SEATS FOR COMMUNISTS.

Reds Win Two in By-Election in Paris For Deputies.

PARIS, March 29. — (Canadian Press.)— The Communists won two seats in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday on the second balloting in the second district of Paris for the election of successors to two members recently deceased.

In the first balloting on March 14, no absolute majority was obtainable.

Dundalk Men Capture Doe Pursued By Hound

DUNDALK, March 29 (Canadian Press). — Fred Marshall and Michael Connor captured a two-year-old doe alive in a swamp near here Saturday. The deer was being pursued by a hound which would have ended the deer's life had not the men taken up the chase and caught the animal, which was exhausted in the snow, just as the hound was about to seize it.

The authorities in Toronto were notified and the animal is now in captivity, pending instructions as to what to do with it.

SHERIFF'S LONG MEMORY TRAILS ANCIENT THEFT

Doctor of 93 Years Seized For Theft of Horse in 1881.

ESCAPED FROM JAIL.

Doctor a Respectable Citizen Calls It Case Of Mistaken Identity.

ASBURY PARK, N.J., March 29. — Forty-five years ago a prisoner escaped from the Broome County Jail at Binghamton, N.Y. The man, known as "Edwin Turner," had been arrested by S. Foster Black, then Sheriff, for the theft of a $200 horse and buggy. Black never forgot the escape nor forgave the prisoner.

Down through the half-century the Broome County official nursed the hope that he would "get his man." He kept his eyes open when he became Under Sheriff, nor did he let his memory lapse when he was United States Marshal, private detective and Deputy Sheriff, his present office.

Friday night, Deputy Black, 91 years old, stepped off a train here with a warrant. He promptly arrested Dr. Edwin P. Turner Osbaldeston, 93 years old, and charged him with being the "Edwin Turner" who broke jail back in 1881. The physician, resident in Asbury

COMMUNITY WELFARE SOUGHT BY THE EXAMINER, DECLARES MANAGER AT ANNUAL BANQUET

R. M. Glover Sets High Ideal For Staff—Toasted By Employees.

HAPPY OCCASION.

Splendid Programme Presented By Home Talent at Third Shop Gathering.

"Every movement that has as its object the welfare of the community can be assured of the warm support of The Examiner, which is willing to devote its space and money and the energy of its staff to the promotion of all good causes."

"Without the Press, progress would be impossible and the dissemination of knowledge would cease."

"The men engaged in the printing trade today are superior in every way to those who were printers when I started my apprenticeship."

These were some of the significant stateme ts made by speakers at The Examiner Banquet on Saturday night, when more than fifty employees joined in the festivity. This was the third year of the affair, which started as a bowling club banquet but has broadened to take in all the men of the office—mechanical, editorial, job, and bindery departments. The gathering this year was in the newly-opened and well-appointed Paragon Hall.

The programme was outstanding, the numbers being all presented in splendid style by Examiner men. Solos were rendered by Stroyan Leith, Harry Dugan, John Anderson, Al. Whyte, Maurice Dunkley, Bill Roberts and Fred Scates; piano solos by Harry Theobald and James Turnbull; a bagpipe selection by Stroyan Leith and a mouth organ selection by G. Biggs. The accompanists were Leo Chouinard James Turnbull and Harry Theobald.

Mock Trial

One of the most amusing items on the programme was a mock trial put on by the members of the Editorial Staff, in which Fred Craig acted as judge; James Turnbull as policeman; Wilson Craw as defence counsel; Jack Heron as prosecuting counsel; Joe Beauclerc, Ken McDonald, John Wyllie, Roy Taylor and John Anderson as witnesses. Stroyan Leith was accused with creating a disturbance by playing the bagpipes and, though the case merited 15 years' imprisonment, the judge said, he was released with a warning.

A mind-reading exhibition given by James Turnbull proved very interesting, and a marshmellow eating contest in which Fred Scates and Harry Dugan were the principals caused a great deal of amusement.

Roy D. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of The Examiner, proposed the toast to The Manager, telling of the

BRITISH PEOPLE SPENDING LESS ON INTOXICANTS

Per Capita Expenditure During 1925 One Shilling Less Than 1924.

SPEND £7, 4s.

Government Gets About Two-fifths of Total in Taxes.

LONDON, Mar. 29 (Canadian Press)—The people of Great Britain spent £7, 4s per capita on intoxicants last year, compared with £7 5s in 1924, or one shilling less per head last year than in the previous year. The total amount spent on liquor last year is estimated at £315,000,000 of which £134,000,000 was in taxes in connection with the liquor trade.

These figures are contained in the annual report of a big temperance organization, the United Kingdom Alliance, which notes that there has been a considerable increase in the consumption of wine in recent years and attributes it to the wine habit acquired by the soldiers on the continent during the war.

MOVING PICTURE SHOWN AT "Y"

Feature Picture Shows Work of Association in Japan.

OTHER FILMS.

On Wednesday evening of this week at 8 o'clock a moving picture and musical programme will be given at the Y.W.C.A.

The pictures to be shown include a film on China, one on India, the Prince of Wales' visit to Canada, and a two-reel comedy, and the chief attraction, a two-reel film called "Japanese Y.W.C.A." This was taken especially to show in Canadian associations and gives a graphic view of the scope of the "Y" work in Tokio, then the earthquake, and the prompt reconstruction which followed. The Japanese government realizes the value of the Young Women's Christian Association in the country and appreciates the service it has started to such an extent that the Japanese are each year contributing in larger amounts to its support financially and also in training Japanese secretaries. In Kobe the Y.W.C.A. has a very interesting course for young women who are leaving for America. Here they are taught elementary education in the customs, manners and trades of the land to which they are coming.

The work of the Y.W.C.A. in Japan is a missionary work in its character. There are 25 secretaries in Japan now, and classes include sewing, flower arrangement tea ceremony, French, English, cooking, music, physical education, sten-

Big Black Cigar Cause Of Sudden End of Tour

NEW YORK, March 29. United Press. — Their parents are expected to-day from Springfield, Mass., to take home George Jukes, aged 14, and Donald Shea, 16, whose plans for a world tour on poultry farm profits of $47.50, came to grief when George smoked a black cigar.

Patrolman Sasek was approached by Dorald yesterday with the excited remark. "My pal's dying, come and help him."

Sasek found young Jukes in an unhappy condition.

"Leave me alone—I wanna to die!" Nearby was the butt of a half smoked cigar.

HON. MR. LYONS IS EXONERATED BY COMMITTEE

Investigation Clears Him of Any Suspicion of Improper Conduct.

AUDITOR REPORTS.

Committee Now Considering Claims of Road Workmen For Money.

TORONTO, March 29.— (Canadian Press.) — James W. Lyons, former Minister of Lands and Forests, has been completely exonerated of any suspicion of improper conduct as an official of the Crown. At the conclusion of a three weeks' investigation, demanded by him as the result of questions put upon the order paper by Liberal and Progressive members of the Legislature, just before his resignation from office.

Major D. Nash, of Clarkson, Gordonand Dilworth, informed the public accounts committee on Saturday that the audit of the Lyons Fuel and Supply Company and the Soo Coal and Wood Company had failed to disclose anything of a questionable nature, while Hon. W. E. Raney said that his own examination of the statements had convinced him that there was no ground for criticism.

The committee then began an examination of the claims of John Brass and other workmen of the Caledon road, who allege that they did not receive full wages from contractors.

THE WEATHER.

This morning the thermometer was at three degrees above the zero mark, and it did not get above the freezing point yesterday. The memory of most of us is untrustworthy. How many of my readers can remember the conditions prevailing at this time last year. I have heard several entirely different versions, and each one felt certain he was right. This spring is late—later than usual, and much later than last year. Last year the sleighing was poor at the beginning of March, and the winter's snow had gone by the 15th. From that date to the end of the month there were several days when the temperature rose to 55 and 60 degrees. In April snow fell on Easter Sunday and the following day (the 12th and 13th) to 4 inches, and on the 19th, 9 inches of snow fell, and snow plows had to be brought out. At the end of April, the grass was quite green, and some of the soft-wooded trees were partially leafed. In 1924, the first real thaw came on the 22nd of March, and by the end of the month the snow was practically all gone. One farmer told me on Saturday that he had occasion to go into a swamp a few days ago, and that the snow was still over three feet on the level. Another gentleman, whose business takes him into the country, after making a trip to Oak Orchard yesterday, said that while the main road were passable, most of the sidelines were in an indescribable condition.—W. SCISSORS IN WARKWORTH CASE TO TORONTO FOR EXAMINATION

Substance Encrusted on Them To Be Analyzed—On Result May Depend Future Action—Verdict Was Carefully Prepared.

REMNANT OF TORSO TO TORONTO.

(By a Staff Reporter).

WARKWORTH, March 29.—The mysterious scissors that were so carefully guarded at the West inquest held here last Thursday, are likely to play an important part in the investigating that the Crown has every intention of continuing. These scissors, which had been found by Constable Phillips in the debris of the West home and which were turned over to the Provincial police, when shown at the inquest marked as Exhibit 19, were contained in a pasteboard box which was half filled with cotton batting. Even the witnesses who were asked to identify the scissors were not allowed to touch them.

These scissors will be sent to Toronto for the analysis of an encrustation found upon them, and which it is believed human blood. Whatever this substance may prove to be is likely to have a material effect upon the future action that may be taken by the Crown.

The remains that were found in the cellar of the West home, and which have always been regarded as those of the late Mrs. West, are to be taken from the vault and sent to Toronto in order to have experts clear up the question of the sex. Only a small part of the body supposed to be that of the late Mrs. West was recovered, a portion of the trunk hardly more than a foot long.

At the inquest Dr. W. R. W. Haight said that while the remains were those of a human adult to the best of his judgment, he could not tell the sex of the deceased. The object of the analysis appears to be to settle this point.

The verdict returned by the jury at the inquest was carefully worded as the members of the panel when they reached a decision, called in Coroner Loucks and Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr to commit it to paper so that everything might be regular. So far as the investigation into the tragedy is concerned, the affair is practically where it was before the evidence taken at the inquest was heard. Of one thing the public may rest assured, the investigation is to be continued by the Crown as vigorously as ever. It may be carried on in two different directions, and either one of the clues followed may lead to a solution of the mystery.

MONSIGNOR MURRAY OF COBOURG, SIXTY YEARS A PRIEST, IS DEAD

Was Born in 1843 and Ordained in December, 1866, at Kingston.

PARISH PRIEST

COBOURG, March 29 (Canadian Press). — Right Rev. Monsignor Murray, P. A. parish priest at Cobourg for the last 47 years, died here Sunday after an illness extending over a period of two years, the last two months of which he had been confined to bed.

Monsignor Murray was born in Quebec City on March 27, 1843, and was educated at Regiopolis College, Kingston, and Laval University, Quebec. He was ordained in St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, in December, 1866, by the late Bishop Horan, his uncle. After three years of ministry in Kingston he was appointed pastor at Wolfe Island, being later transferred to the pastorate of Kemptville, and in 1879 he was appointed to the parish of Cobourg, where the past 47 years have been spent. In 1883 he purchased the present site of St. Michael's Church, on which was built the Presbytery in 1885, the school in 1883.

In 1895 the cornerstone of the present church was laid, and in March of the following year the handsome edifice, one of the most beautiful inside and outside in the province was opened. In December, 1913, he was elevated to the domestic prelacy and in August, 1920, he received the title of prothonotory apostolic. In 1916 he celebrated the 50th anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood. He is survived by one brother, Right Rev. C. B. Murray, of Brockville. The funeral will be on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

BRATIANO, RUMANIAN PREMIER, RESIGNS RETURN CROWN PRINCE MAY BE RESULT

Expiration of Four Year Mandate — Bratiano Brothers Regarded For Long Time as Virtual Dictators of Rumania.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 29.— Premier Bratiano presented his resignation to King Ferdinand Saturday night and the King accepted it.

This marked the expiration of the four-year mandate of the Government prescribed by the Rumanian Constitution.

In his closing speech, recounting the Parliament's labors during these four years, the Premier laid stress on the amount of work accomplished toward achieving legal, educational and administrative unification, financial consolidation and economic development of new Rumania.

The bankers, industrialists and commercial interests, however, are more disposed to judge the Bratiano Government's achievements by the position of the leu on exchange, and this Saturday dropped to almost one-fiftieth of its gold value, the maximum point of depreciation yet reached.

Presumably an important factor in the present decline of exchange is the uncertainty regarding the political outlook. The King as yet has given no actual indication of who will be asked to form the new Ministry. His decision s expected on Monday.

The non-party press urges the appointment of a concentration Government.

The Bratiano Brothers, Ion I. C. Bratiano, as Premier, and Vintila, as Finance Minister, were regarded for a long time as virtual dictators of Rumania, within parliamentary forms. They conducted their rule through the Liberal Party. The municipal elections last February, however, brought a serious defeat to the Liberals, and with it the prospective downfall of the Bratianos.

Six Instantly Killed In Car At Railway Crossing

CORUNNA, Mich., March 29.— (Canadian Press.) — Six persons, five of them members of one family, were instantly killed on Saturday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a north-bound Grand Trunk passenger train at a level crossing here. J. L. Smith, was the driver of the car.

The tragedy makes Mrs. Smith a widow, the sole surviving member of her family. The party was en route to Owassa for the week end. As they reached the Grand Trunk crossing at Shiawasse street, snow was falling and the curtains on the car were closed. Without slackening speed, Smith drove squarely into the path of the oncoming train. There was a terrific crash as the engine hit the crowded automobile. All were dead when picked up.

DETROIT, March 29.— (Canadian Press.)—Trapped in the rear seat of his father's curtained touring car when it caught fire while being filled at an oil station, eight year old John Frederick Pepper was burned to death before his frantic mother and father had time to get him out.

The parents, Robert and Sarah Pepper, also burned, were taken to the receiving hospital. Neither is in a serious condition.

PROTEST MADE ON UNION BILL

Campbellford and Seymour Circuits Write Member of Legislature.

NO MORE POWER.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 29—Rev. Albert T. Moore of Toronto, secretary of the United Church of Canada, has written the officials of the church here and to those on the Seymour circuit asking them to send to the Provincial government a protest against the proposed reopening of the church union question in the legislature. The communication takes the ground that this question was definitely and finally settled a year ago and that nothing can be gained now by opening it for further discussion by taking up the Lewis Bill in the Legislature next Tuesday.

Officials Take Action

Rev. C. D. Daniel, pastor of the Seymour circuit, on Saturday, after consulting with the officials of his three churches, Stephens, Tabernacle and Zion, sent a letter to Major J. F. B. Belford, member of the Legislature for the riding, protesting against the proposed attempt to reopen the church union question. This communication also protests against the extension of any more power to the Commission that was appointed to deal with the matter of the disposal of church property and against giving to any one authority to dispose of Methodist Church property other than through the authority of the United Church of Canada. A number of letters and telegrams from private individuals, voicing the same objections to the Lewis Bill, have been sent to Major Belford.

After the morning esrvice at St. John's United church yesterday Rev. Wesley Elliott called a meeting of the session when action similar to the above was taken.

These protests are general all over the province.

TOWN LEAGUE SEASON ENDED

Reports Show Season Most Successful—Benefit Game.

FOR INJURED MAN.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 28. — The town league hockey executive held a meeting at the home of the secretary, Rev. Mr. Daniel, on Saturday night to wind up the affairs of the season. The secretary's report showed a very successful season from every standpoint and great credit is due Mr. Daniel and the president, Mr. Bell, for their capable and untiring efforts on behalf of the league.

Hylton Beatty of the Hydro, asked that something be done for Cecil Watt, who was injured in one of the final games, when he crashed into the boards. And it was proposed the Hydro meet an all-star team from the rest of the League. Mr. Covert has given the use of the arena free and the entire proceeds will go to the injured player. The game will be played to-night, starting at 8.15 p.m. and the all-stars will include Stewart in goal; Luckhorn, Flint, Wood and Parsons of the clerks, McArthur, Blue, Brown and Copperthwaite of the Outlaws, and Ingram of the Junior Colts.

At the suggestion of Mr. Bell a sportsman's Night will be held in the Regent Theatre on Sunday April 11, at 8.30 p.m., and all branches of sport in the town will take part. Further particulars of which will be given later. Captain Hyland has kindly given the use of the theatre for the occasion.

A wire rope-making firm of Newcastle, England, has just finished a steel rope over seven miles long in one piece. It weighs fifty-six tons.

Tired of leaven skies, a party of visitors recently chartered a special aeroplane at Croydon, the great air station near London, to take them to "see the sun." They rose to a height of 6,000 feet and paid $150 each for their sun-bath.

SHERIFF'S LONG

Park for thirty years and one of the leading citizens, vainly protested that it was a case of mistaken identity.

Says He Is Earl's Son.

Dr. Osbaldeston said he was a son of the Earl of Onslow, by morganatic marriage, and a great-grandson of Admiral Charles Pye Turner of the British Navy. He said he had been under tutors at 12 Hanover Chambers, Buckingham Street, London, when King Edward VII., then the Prince of Wales, was a student there. Dr. Osbaldeston said he was graduated from the Royal Military Academy at Cheltenham.

And to it all Deputy Sheriff Black returned a dogged insistence that he had "got his man." In fact, he recalled that the man who had got away from him once had ad a decidedly English accent. A photograph of Dr. Osbaldeston, showing him as believed to be the oldest surviving veteran of the Crimea, put Black on the scent, the official disclosed.

The arrest of the physician has stirred the town to a high pitch of indignation, which was not abated by his release in the custory of his counsel. Echoes of indignation from Binghamton were conveyed in a measure from the Mayor, who called the arrest "an outrage."

The Deputy Sheriff had a professional colleague, W. Ray Elwood of Binghampton, with him when he appeared at police headquarters, told his mission and asked Desk Sergeant Elias Longstreet to assign a patrolman to aid in the arrest. Sergeant Longstreet directed Patrolman Theodore Cramer to take the job.

The Brome County official, replying to suggestions that he might be making a mistake, went over his case for the benefit of the local police. He told them that when he was Sheriff of the county, back in 1881, the Grand Jury indicted one Edwin Turner for stealing a horse and buggy as it stood outside a Binghamton store. The horse and buggy were recovered and Turner was caught.

Prisoner Escaped Jail.

While he was in jail awaiting trial he escaped through a second story window by tying bedsheets together and using them as a rope to lower himself to the ground. Sheriff Black went after him vigorously and Turner was soon in the toils again, being captured at Geneva, N.Y. The Sheriff was bringing him back to Binghamton when the prisoner excused himself and entered a washroom on the train. He then jumped through the window and the Sheriff got off at Binghamton minus his man.

Last week Black happened to be glancing over the picture page of a newspaper. In a corner was a large photograph of an elderly man. It was not the picture, however, that interested Deputy Sheriff Black. Rather, it was the caption. It read:

"Dr. E. Turner Osbaldeston, 93, of Asbury Park, N.J., believes himself the oldest living survivor of the Crimean War. He also fought in the Boxer rebellion, Boer War and under Garibaldi. Although he smokes and drinks he has never had a sick day in his life."

Physician Jailed For Night.

Dr. Osbaldeston, protesting against the proceeding, was booked on the warrant and ordered to a cell. The cell mates of the physician were a drunken man and two suspicious characters.

Saturday he was arraigned before City Court Judge Louis L. Tumeo, who questioned Black closely as to the certainty of his identification after so many years. The aged doctor denied all knowledge of the crime Black or Binghamton. He was then paroled in the custody of his attorney, Charles Cook, for thirty days pending extradition proceedings, if there are to be any.

A fight against such a step was began at once by townspeople. J. Lyle, publisher of The Asbury Park Evening News, launched the fight. He sent a telegram to Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, asking that the Governor refuse any application for extradition, contending that Dr. Osbaldeston had been ill for some time and that any prison sentence would be fatal to him.

Residents Criticize Arrest.

Other residents of Asbury Park voiced criticism of the arrest and assailed police officials here for having placed him in a cell overnight. Characterizing the arrest as "an outrage on the part of Black," a telegram from Mayor Clarence J. Cook of Binghamton, received here, added:

"I am absolutely opposed to extradition. This seems to be a personal matter of Black's. He went to District Attorney U. B. Lyons and asked for the papers in the case and Lyons could not refuse. It is a shame the thing has happened."

The physician lives alone. His only known relative, a daughter, is the wife of a clergyman in Los Angeles. Reporters found him Saturday in an easy chair, smoking a pipe, and with a child on his knee. He is a prime favorite with all the children in the neighborhood of his home.

"It is simply a case of mistaken identity," he said, puffing at his pipe and seemingly little the worse for his experience. "I have never been in Binghamton in my life. When this affair took place I was a practicing physician with a suite of rooms at Broadway and Eighty-First Street, Manhattan. I have never heard of this man Black nor have I ever heard of Shaughnessy, whom, I understand, Black says was arrested with me.

"As far as stealing a horse and wagon is concerned, my life has been an honorable one and I have been respected by all who knew me. To think that an honorable life has to be marred in its autumn."

Prior to coming to Asbury Park to make his home, Dr. Osbaldeston was a visitor here for twenty summers.

SPIDER HELPS SURVEY WORK

Web is Used in Telescopes for Intricate Measurements.

FINE BUT STRONG

The lowly spider, as he spins his web to entrap the unwary fly, is exercising a faculty that has been made use of for years in the construction of certain kinds of scientific instruments. Included in this category is the surveyor's transit-theodolite.

If you look through the telescope of such an instrument, a number of fine straight lines will be seen cutting across the field of view. These lines may be arranged in one of several different ways and may be of any number up to a dozen or so. They are used to enable the surveyor to make the intricate measurements necessary in the practice of his profession.

On Canadain topographical surveys, these lines are ordinarily of spider web, and are stretched across an annular ring within the telescope itself. For emergency use, when this spider web becomes accidentally broken some other device carried as a spare part, such as a glass diaphragm on which the lines are etched, is generally substiuted. The spider web, however, is much more satisfactory. The lines must be very fine and black and no artificial product which has yet been tried has the requisite combination of fineness, strength, and elasticity.

Owing to the superiority of the spider web, the surveyor may endeavor to replace a broken web with a new one. This is an extremely delicate operation and one that is very difficult to perform in camp, particularly as the lines require to be accurately spaced. Sometimes they are only about one-sixteenth of an inch apart.

The operation that is so difficult to perform in camp, is quite readily performed in a properly equipped laboratory. Thus, in the Physical Testing Laboratory of the Topographical Survery, Department of the Interior, where instruments used in topographic mapping are regularly inspected and tested and other work in connection therewith is carried on, the spider lines are handled with ease and assurance. New spider lines are inserted at the correct spacing and proper tension. Afterwards the distances between them are accurately measured under the microscope and with special testing apparatus the instrument is again placed in perfect adjustment ready for field use.

The web as produced by the spider is ordinarily a number of strands spun together somewhat in the form of a rope. Single strands separated from the freshly spun web give the best results though some prefer to take the web directly from the spider's cocoon. Grains of dust sometimes collect on the spider lines, which detract from their use when viewed in the telescope. In the Labratory the webs are dusted off and the single strands separated. An idea of the delicacy of touch required may be formed when it is stated that spider webs have a thickness before the strands are separated of only two or three ten-thousandths of an inch. It has been calculated that a pound of web, as used in the telescope diaphragms, would stretch around the earth—some 25,000 miles—and 500,000 tons would reach the nearest fixed star.

FALL OF HORSE CAUSES INJURY

Timothy Fitzpatrick is Not Expected To Recover From His Hurts.

INJURED INTERNALLY.

DOWNEYVILLE, Mar. 29—Timothy Fitzpatrick, who resides just east of the village, was probably fatally hurt on Saturday when a horse fell on him, breaking several ribs and his shoulder and causing internal injuries.

The aged man, who is over seventy, was leading the horse to water about 11.00 o'clock on Saturday morning, when he slipped and fell on an icy spot. The horse also slipped and fell on Mr. Fitzpatrick. No hope is held for his recovery.

Painting, with all its technicalities, difficulties and peculiar ends, is nothing but a noble and expressive language, invaluable as the vehicle of thought, but by itself nothing.

A TAXATION CONFERENCE.

The Dominion taxation conference announced by Premier Ferguson in the Legislature last week to take place during the coming summer is a step toward an unscrambling of the present taxation muddle that will be generally welcome.

According to Ontario's Premier, Federal, Provincial and municipal representatives are to meet, and the whole field of taxation is to be canvassed with a view to allocating to each Government its proper sphere of taxation.

There is so much that could be accomplished by such a conference if it is entered into in the proper spirit by the representatives who will attend that the people are justified in looking forward to the Dominion meeting with some hope that a measure of relief will be obtained.

Many prominent business men and such organizations as the Citizens' Research Institute have long advocated that an earnest effort be made to attain something like uniformity in taxation, and a Dominion conference such as has been announced is, of course, the first item to a programme tending to that end.

The effort should have general support throughout the country, for reform along these lines is long overdue.

LOCAL CHOIR ON THE AIR.

Subscriptions are being asked from the citizens this week for the purpose of paying the expenses in connection with the proposed broadcasting of a concert by the Peterboro Male Voice Choir.

This splendid organization, one of the finest of its kind in the Dominion, scored a brilliant triumph in its annual programme, and there is a feeling that the choir's ability should be shared with the outside world.

Broadcasting furnishes an opportunity to do this very effectively, and as Peterboro is without a broadcasting station arrangements are being made with one of the Toronto stations to send out a programme by the choir by remote control.

It is felt that this would be a splendid advertisement for Peterboro at small cost, inasmuch as $150 will cover the expense involved.

This city has so far secured little publicity over the air, being far behind other centres in this respect, and the opportunity to send the splendid singing of the Male Voice Choir into many thousand homes in Canada and the United States via the radio route will doubtless appeal to many citizens as too good to be missed.

The Examiner will be glad to receive and acknowledge subscriptions to assist in this novel and worthwhile effort.

LIFTING THE BAN.

The Canadian Department of Customs and Excise has removed the ban from the weekly magazine Liberty, published in the United States, which has been shut out from this country for some weeks because of the publication of articles dealing with the British Royal family.

Probably the department merely intended its action to be viewed as a protest against the publishing of stories of such a nature in view of the fact that the magazine has a wide circulation in this country, and the protest may have some success in preventing further articles of the same sort.

However, there has been considerable criticism of the department's attitude from newspapers throughout the country, which feared this to be only a first step in a programme of political censorship by which the people of Canada were to be treated as if they had not brains enough to know what they should or shouldn't read.

If there is anything that this country does not need it is an addition to its long list of prohibitory legislation, and a realization of that fact explains the resentment that was felt over the banning of Liberty.

The lifting of the barrier will be appreciated, therefore, by all those who have viewed with alarm the apparent era of a new censorship.

THE HUMANE SOCIETY.

The citizens of Peterboro are asked to bear in mind the fact that on Saturday the Peterboro branch of the Humane Society will hold a tag day for the purpose of securing funds to assist the organization in its efforts to improve conditions for the dumb animals of this district.

The local branch has had an inspector at work for some time, and has succeeded through his efforts in accomplishing some splendid work that should be appreciated by every citizen with a drop of "the milk of human kindness."

It should be understood that the Humane Society has no source of revenue save from the fees of its members and the assistance it can secure from the public.

It is not a money-making proposition in any sense of the word and exists merely because its members feel that there is a duty to be performed in saving animals from cruelty and neglect.

Every community needs such an organization, and Peterboro is fortunate in the fact that the local branch has attracted to it a number of public-spirited citizens, who are exerting every effort to produce worth-while results.

The Examiner believes that these efforts should be supported by the people of this community, and, therefore, commends Saturday's tag day appeal as one entirely deserving of a generous response.

DIVIDING THE EXPENSE; A FALLACY.

Canada's triple method of government—federal, provincial, municipal—has led to a seductive and deceptive method of dividing the expense of public projects. We are reminded of it by the fact that the Old Age Pension scheme which the Government has introduced into the Dominion Parliament provides that it shall go into force only in such Provinces as agree to supply one-half the necessary funds. It is a seductive provision. Members of the Dominion Parliament who might fight shy of imposing so large a bill of expense on the Federal taxpayer are cajoled into approving of the measure because one-half of the cost is to come out of the Provincial treasuries. Members of the Provincial Legislatures who would probably refuse to saddle their Provinces with so severe a drain on their treasuries will be persuaded to pass enabling bills in order that the Provinces may avail themselves of the money so generously offered by the Federal Parliament.

The Provincial Legislatures have also acquired a similar habit. They embark on expenditures on condition that the expense is borne proportionately between the Province and the municipality. Enormous expenditures on education, hospitals, improved highways—all excellent in their way—have been made in this way. Members of municipal councils and school trustees have approved of projects largely because a considerable proportion of the cost of these projects is to be paid by the Provinces. The Province offers the municipality money and the municipality dislikes very much to turn down the offer. The method is seductive.

But in the last analysis the money that replenishes the treasuries of the Federal, Provincial and municipal Governments comes out of the pockets of the same taxpayer. The practice is therefore also quite deceptive. The Provinces that adopt Old Age Pensions and other projects on a similar basis will pay not only their share of the cost, but the share that is ostensibly paid by the Dominion. The municipalities will pay back to the Province all the money that the Province makes the pretence of giving to the municipalities for educational, charitable and other purposes. For, of course, the people who pay Federal, Provincial and municipal taxes are the same people.

Sometimes The Journal wonders whether this is not a "vicious circle" that has been too readily adopted. It is a species of bribery that has been responsible for large increases in taxation.—Ottawa Journal.

THINK OF IT!

According to Dr. Brittain, head of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada, one day out of every five is devoted by the average Canadian citizen to the maintenance of government. Twenty per cent. of every man's income at the present time goes to the state in direct and indirect taxation. The amount of money spent by the country in one year at present is greater than the total national debt 30 years ago.

These figures are astonishing. There is no reason to doubt them. They come from one who has made a special study of government costs and who may be depended upon to have correct information before making it public. They show, of course, that we in Canada are paying out far too much for government. Government, as we have it in this country—and as many other countries have it—is an expensive luxury. It has long since passed the stage of necessity. A certain amount of government is imperative, but, from the individual's standpoint, too much is almost worse than none.

Why is the cost of governing Canada 20 per cent. of every man's yearly income? One of the big reasons is that our system of government is too large, too clumsy and therefore inefficient. We have enough governmental machinery to care for the needs of anywhere from fifty to a hundred millions of population and there are less than ten million souls in the whole Dominion. We have an expensive, top-heavy administration at Ottawa, nine provincial governments and thousands of municipal councils, most of which are vest pocket models of the Dominion authority so far as size is concerned.

Two hundred and forty-five members and 96 Senators are drawing pay at Ottawa. In addition, are the salaries of Cabinet Ministers and party leaders. One hundred members and not more than fifty Senators would be ample to give adequate representation to all parts of the country.

In the provincial field, and looking particularly at our Province of Ontario, we find a Legislature providing for 112 members, all on salary and with additional amounts for those who happen to be members of the Government. Everyone knows that the public business would be conducted more economically and more efficiently if the provincial House had a membership not exceeding fifty, yet no one seems to have sufficient courage to ake the necessary steps leading toward a reduction.

Look at the three provinces collectively known as the Prairies. They cover a large area, but their combined population is not large. It would be good business, from every standpoint, if Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta were merged into one. Two Legislatures could be dispensed with. Two of three costly parliament buildings could be closed down. Two of the three expensive civil services could be eliminated. Huge sums of money could be saved and, in the end—and quite beyond any financial consideration—much better results could be obtained.

Consider the Maritimes. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island between them have considerably less population than Ontario, yet three provincial administrations, with all that they entail, are being supported. Prince Edward Island's population is less than that of the Border Cities, but it has a Lieutenant-Governor, a Premier and Cabinet, a Legislature and a civil service, in addition, of course, to its municipal governing bodies. Why not make these three provinces one? Why not effect the very saving that could be accomplished by union of the three prairie groups?

Here in the Border Cities, on a smaller scale, the same condition exists. Six or seven municipalities are being sustained where one would be cheaper and better in every way.

Is it any wonder that taxes are high? Is it any wonder that every man in Canada must give one day's pay of every five in order to maintain government?

Canada must start to think about this.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Old Man Winter doesn't seem to know that Easter Monday arrives a week from today.

Our sympathies are with The "Globe" robin and any of its ilk unfortunate enough to have made an early arrival from the South.

Advertising "Save-the-Forest Week," a pamphlet calls it a burning question. Just now, however, the burning question with most people is found in the disappearance of the fuel supply.

The members of the Legislature have been talking so much on the liquor problem that doubtless most of them are dry now.

From the amount of business the Legislature plans to put through this week the speed limit has been suspended in Queen's Park.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

You've got to keep whistling if you want things to keep humming.

People who live in rock houses should not throw glass.

Sometimes a quartet is nothing but four flushers.

It's a wise man who makes up his wife's mind before his own.

People who live in spring suits should not open milk bottles.

Wedding rings are different from circus rings. In wedding rings the performance is continuous.

Breaking a mirror or a law may mean seven years' bad luck.

Only way for the weather to please everyone is by not having any.

The seven wonders of the world in the spring are the seven days in the week.

Wonder if the man who names collars has any children?

The best way to get people to telling you about their children is to start talking about your own.

Son—Say, pop, what makes the world go 'round?

Father—How many times have I told you to keep out of the cellar?

You'd hardly say the telephone girl has either a business or a profession. Just a calling.

The brushing of my hair, said he,
Is, after all, no art.
I do it 'cause I realize
The best of men must part.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

YOUR ARE A DOER BUT WHICH KIND?

In this old world we are all doers or undoers—all operators or opposers. We are all performers, workers stagers—all makers, architects, artists, or forgers.

It can be said of no man that he is not a "doer." If he be an "undoer," he must naturally be a "doer," else he could not, or would not, undo.

The point is, by your doing, do you undo?

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 27 (Canadian Press).—With a decrease of more than 1,000,000 bushels expected Monday in the United States wheat visible supply total, as well as a reduction of the stock of wheat in Chicago, the wheat market rallied sharply today in the last hour, despite earlier setbacks. Closing prices for wheat were irregular at 1 1-2c net decline to 3-8c advance, May (new) $1.60 1-8 to $1.60 3-8, and July $1.37 1-2 to $1.37 5-8. Corn finished 1-8 to 5-8c off; oats 1-8 to 1-4c down to 1-8c up, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents lower.

At first, the wheat market was dominated by profit taking sales and by news of a heavy snowfall improving the crop outlook in the southwest, especially Texas and Oklahoma, so much so that according to one estimate, the southwest will raise 200,000 000 bushels more wheat than last year. In addition, forecasts of widespread further moisture in the west and southwest together with rising temperature, tended to relieve apprehension of crop damage and to weaken values. Besides, export demand today for North American wheat was slow.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, March 28 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:

Sterling demand $4.86 1-8.
Sterling cables $4.86 7-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, March 28 (Canadian Press).—There was a moderate demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday for March-April shipment from Canadian winter ports. The prices bid for Canadian Western barley and oats were 3d to 6d per quarter higher than on the previous day and sales of several odd loads were made, but the volume of business on the whole was small.

The tone of the spot market for oats was again stronger in sympathy with the strength displayed at other centres and prices were marked up another cent per bushel.

The receipts of butter in Montreal on Saturday were 83 packages with the C.N.R. excluded, as against 1,536 packages for the same day last week and 857 packages for the corresponding day a year ago, while the arrivals for the week ending March 27, 1926, were 1,392 packages, as compared with 3 559 packages for the previous week, and 2,607 packages for the same week last year. The total receipts from May 1, 1925 to March 27, 1926, were 585,246 packages, as against 630,868 packages for the same period of 1924-25.

Butter Declines.

Since this day week weakness has characterized the local butter market and prices have scored declines amounting to 2c to 2 1-4c per lb. This was attributed to several factors of which were included the favorable weather pervailing throughout the country for the period of the year, and the near approach of the season for the new make.

Owing to the above, jobbing prices also suffered a reduction of 2c per lb to 45c per lb for solid packages, and 46c per lb for 1 lb blocks.

The receipts of cheese in Montreal on Saturday were 84 boxes with the C.N.R. excluded, as compared with 46 boxes for the same day last week, and 472 boxes for the corresponding day a year ago. The arrivals for the week ending March 27, 1926 were 643 boxes, as against 1.505 boxes for the previous one, and 11,256 boxes for the same week last year. The total receipts from May 1, 1925, to March 27, 1926, were 1,570,561 boxes, as compared with 1,521,880 boxes for the same period a year ago.

The market was quiet throughout the week owing to the fact that business was generally of a local character and the demand confined to small lots to meet actual wants.

Egg Market Stronger.

The receipts of eggs in Montreal on Saturday with the C.N.R. excludede were 2,037 cases, as against 1,117 cases for the same day last week for all lines and 2,888 cases for the corresponding day a year ago, while the arrivals for the week were 10,752 cases, as compared with 7,604 cases for the previous one, and 12,937 cases for the same week last year. The total receipt from May 1, 1925, to March 27, 1926. were 449,288 cases as against 473,430 cases for the same period of 1924-25.

The feature of the local egg situation the past week was the stronger feeling that developed in the market for fresh firsts and seconds and prices closed with a net gain of 1c to 2c per dozen which was attributed to the higher values ruling in Chicago.

There were no further developments in the condition of the market for potatoes on Saturday, but the undertone was very firm at the late prices noted, owing to the fact that supplies on spot have been well cleaned up for shipment to the United States and other points with the result that a very active trade was done and the prospects are that it will continue as United States buyers are still in the market for further supplies which may force prices to a still higher level. Sales of car lots of Quebec white stock were made at $3.30 per bag; Prince Edward Island white at $3.60 per bag, blue at $3 per bag, reds at $2.90 per bag, and Western grades at $2.60 to $3.25 per bag of 90 lbs, ex-track.

Fellowship of Prayer

MONDAY—

Life Eternal.

Read Jn. 17:1-8. Text: 17:3. And this is life eternal, that they should know Thee the only true God and him whom thou didst send, even Jesus Christ.

Meditation—If life is adjustment to environment and death is failure to be so adjusted, the soul of man (the divine in him) can live only as it lives and has its being in God. The good tidings calls us to live in the will of God. It teaches us what God is and what He requires of us by unfolding the life and witness of Jesus to his Father. When we know the Son we know the Father also. Saving faith in God grows out of a knowledge of what Jesus and God are. "There are many twentieth century Philips saying "Show us the Father and it sufficeth us."

Prayer—Lord we are but broken lights of Thee. We are being weighed in the balance. If our fellows find Thee, not in us who bear Thy name, will they not give over the search, thinking Thy claims as ill founded as our discipleship is imperfect. Help us to so live in purity of heart, in friendliness of spirit and in faithfulness of service that men may find in us not self but Thee and having found Thee may know the only true God and live. Amen.

Does your Mortgage contain this Clause?

Does your mortgage contain a clause which guarantees that on your death all unpaid instalments will be cancelled?

Albert Lawson could not find any such clause in his mortgage, and he was worried about the fate of Mrs. Lawson and their children in case he should die before his payments were completed.

He needn't have worried. He could have secured the same protection through a North American Life Mortgage Policy. This special form of Life Insurance was designed by the North American Life Assurance Company to save widows from foreclosures. It is worth your consideration.

PROOF OF INNOCENCE DEMANDED OF LINDSAY MAN HAVING LIQUOR

Ollie Kellet Found Guilty of Having Liquor for Sale.

FOUND IN FURNACE

LINDSAY, March 29.—The council chamber was not large enough to accomodate the throng that assembled Saturday to listen to the evidence in the charge laid against Ollie Kellett, of Oshawa, and formerly of Lindsay, of having liquor in his possession for sale. This charge followed the seizure of three bottles of alcohol in Kellett's home some months ago, followed by the departure of the defendant to Oshawa where he resided until he was placed under arrest and brought to Lindsay. Kellet was represented by Mr. J. A. Swanson, of Oshawa, and was sentenced to a month in jail with a fine of $300 and costs, and in default of payment an additional four months.

Evidence was given by License Inspector Porter and Provincial Officer Storey relative to the visit to Kellet's home and the finding of the bottles of alcohol in the furnace.

Kellet went into the box in his own behalf and told of the purchase of the alcohol from a Jew. It was originally in a can, and he transferred the liquor from the can into three bottles. He contradicted himself on different occasions as to the exact time of the transfer, and he also retracted other statements while undergoing a rigid cross examination by County Crown Attorney Anderson.

Defense Argument.

Mr. Swanson in his argument referred the court to the dictum of Justice Meredith in the Gosselin case to the effect that there was no provision in the Act that renders it improper to conceal liquor in a private residence and which renders such concealment evidence of unlawful conduct. A man was within the law, Mr. Swanson contended, to put liquor where he chose as long as it was in his private dwelling. Unless the Crown produced evidence other than merely having liquor, the denial of the defendant shifts the onus of proving the charge back on the Crown. Mr. Swanson's submission was that the defendant should go no farther than deny he had liquor for sale.

Police Magistrate Bradford pointed out that the statute placed the onus on the defendant to satisfy the court that he had the liquor legally.

Must Prove Innocence.

County Crown Attorney Anderson pointed out that the one word "prove" in Section 88 of the Act was the crux of the case. The defendant must prove that he did not commit the offence. Was the court prepared to give weight to the evidence of the accused? The defendant, he charged, had fought away from the facts in giving evidence, and his general demeanor in the witness box could not help but influence the court.

Police Magistrate Bradford in passing sentence said the defendant had not satisfied the court of his innocence. His evidence had been of a shiftless and inconsistent nature and did not appeal to reason.

Kinmount Case.

A man named Hall, a resident of Kinmount, also faced Police Magistrate Bradford charged with having liquor in his possession. This information was laid following a visit by License Inspector Porter and Provincial Officer Storey to Kinmount on Friday when a quantity of liquor was found in Halls possession. A fine of $100 and costs was imposed.

BARBARA BENNETT, HOLLYWOOD DANCER SOUGHT DEATH, HER LOVE UNREQUITED

Her Maid Severely Burned Snatching a Bottle of Poison Away—Daughter of Richard Bennett, Movie Actor.

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—(A.P.)—Barbara Bennett, 21-year-old Hollywood dancer, said to be a daughter of Richard Bennett, the actor, was brought to the Receiving Hospital here Saturday for treatment as a result of what, the police said, was an attempt at suicide by poison.

The girl repulsed nearly all inquiries as to her identity and the reason for her act, but admitted, the investigators said, that disappointment in love had been her lot.

Marguerite Rossau saw her employer drinking the contents of the poison bottle and snatched the bottle from her.

The maid put in a call for the police, and when two officers arrived they found Miss Bennett moaning on the floor of the apartment.

The maid was severely burned by the liquid splashed from the bottle. She was attempting to relieve the agony of her employer when the officers entered.

Following treatment at the Receiving Hospital, Miss Bennett was questioned by the police closely as to the motive for her act, but she refused to enlarge on her story beyond the intimation that unrequited love had prompted the use of the poison.

Barbara Bennett, who police say attempted suicide in Los Angeles yesterday, has crowded many experiences into her twenty-one years, according to The Associated Press.

Following in the steps of her father, Richard Bennett, and her mother, known on the stage as Adrienne Morrison, she began a professional career in the "Dream Girl," a musical comedy of two years ago, where she remained only for a short while.

Her name came into prominence soon afterward when her father and mother effected the "peaceful separation" that culminated in Mrs. Bennett's divorce.

She then left her father, with whom she had been living, and moved to her mother's apartment, joining her sister, Constance, who has since attained stardom in motion pictures.

Then Maurice Mouvet, cabaret dancer, announced that Barbara would replace Leonora Hughes as his dancing partner when the latter married. Barbara accompanied Maurice to Paris and the Riviera, where they prepared for her premiere.

Returning to New York in the late fall of last year to fulfill an engagement, Barbara suddenly quit just before the debut. She said she left because her salary was only $500 a week. Maurice said it was temperament.

MORE WOMEN IN POLITICAL RING

Seeking Nominations in U. S. Primaries For Legislative Posts.

16 IN ILLINOIS.

CHICAGO, Ills., March 29.—(Canadian Press).—The Spring political primaries this year have attracted an increasing number of women in the Middle West as candidates for various state and national offices, and as the time for filing in many states is not yet closed, the roll doubtless will be increased.

One woman has filed for the Republican nomination for governor in Ohio, and Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota have women candidates for congress, while nearly all the states in the corn belt have a number of women seeking nominations for states legislative posts. There are rumors, also that Ohio may have a woman candidate for United States senator.

There are 16 women in Illinois running for nominations for the lower house of the state legislature, including several for re-election. Iowa has one woman candidate for the state legislature, Nebraska, two, and Indiana six, among the states where the time for filing has not expired. Only Wisconsin and Michigan in the corn belt have no general eelction primaries this Spring.

The Ohio gubernatorial candidate is Mrs. Evelyn Francis Snow. She has been active in political circles for some time, but her only public office was state motion picture censor.

TO STAND TRIAL ON ABDUCTION CHARGE

Girl Said To Be Under Sixteen at St. John.

GUYSBORO, N.S., March 29.—(Canadian Press.) — Fred Davis, who was brought here from Saint John recently to face a charge of abducting Catherine Farrell of Glencoe, near here, was committed to stand trial at the next sitting of the Supreme Court. Accused was not represented by counsel. The charge was that Davis, who had once worked for the girl's father, had returned to the Farrell home after being ordered away and finally gone away with the girl, walking to Moncton, where they took a train for Saint John. The girl, who is said to be under sixteen, lived with Davis in or near Saint John all winter until being apprehended a few weeks ago.

FAMOUS CONTRALTO WILL RESIDE IN CITY

Mme. Farnum Will Be on Programme of Rotary Concert.

The Rotary entertainment on Easter Monday and Tuesday has an especial interest for the music lovers of this city in as much as it will be the first concert appearance in Peterboro of Madame Helen Farnum, dramatic contralto, who is soon to become a resident of the city. Those who had the pleasure of hearing her sing at St. Paul's church two weeks ago last Sunday, will doubly welcome the opportunity to hear her in a recital program, where her rich and exquisitely controlled voice can be heard to full advantage, and her remarkable interpretative abilities find full scope.

At a programme of her own compositions given by Mrs. H. A. Beach, for the Washington Square Musical Association in New York when the singing of Mme. Farnum was a decided triumph, the contralto's rendition of the song "After" won from the famous composer the following inscription, written on the title page: "With loving rememberance of your superb singing. Every little undertone is luscious' Later she wrote the singer as follows: "I am most happy to give you my heartiest endorsement of the great beauty of your voice and the artistic interpretation you give my songs. "After" lingers in my memory as a truly remarkable rendering—dramatic and expressive of each shade of emotion demanded by the text.

Madame Farnum, who has been on the staff of the Hambourg Conservatory of Toronto for the past two years, is shortly taking up her residence in Peterboro, and the Rotary Entertainment affords the citizens an opportunity to extend in a practical way, a real welcome to one who will be a decided acquisition to the musical and social life of the city.

DANISH QUEEN MOTHER BURIED

Body Entombed in Chapel of Roskilde Cathedral.

GREAT GATHERING.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Mar. 29 (Canadian Press).—The Danish people yesterday paid last honors to the late Queen Mother Louise, who was laid to rest in Glucksburg Chapel of the Roskilde Cathedral, ancient burial place of Danish royalties, in the presence of a great gathering of the Scandinavian royal families and representatives of foreign countries.

The funeral cortege escorted by military detachments, left Amalienborg Castle and proceeded to the railway station for the journey to Roskilde, about 31 miles from Copenhagen. Great crowds had gathered, and all the houses were draped with black. Brief religious ceremonies were held just before the start, a more elaborate ceremony for the royal family having been conducted at the castle the previous night, with leading opera singers forming the choir.

The Kings and Crown Princes of Denmark and Norway, with the Crown Prince of Sweden, Prince Arthur of Connaught and other princes followed the hearse afoot, while the royal ladies, including the Queens of Denmark and Norway, were in carriages. Beautiful wreaths surrounded the coffin.

On arrival at Roskilde, the body of the late Dowager Queen was received in a scene of solemn beauty by the whole chapter of the Cathedral in official robes, but, at the King's special request, the Cathedral was not draped.

The funeral sermon by the royal chaplain, Dr. Fenger, gave a touching picture of the late Dowager Queen's solemn joy at having lived to welcome back to Denmark that Danish section of Schlesvig which, by a plebiscite in 1920, elected to come under the Danish flag.

At the conclusion of the impressive service, the body was deposited beside the tomb of Queen Louise's husband, King Frederick VIII. Princess Axel of Denmark swooned in the chapel after the interment.

HANDSOME PRESENT FOR MILLBROOK GIRL

Miss Bonna Robinson Receives Gift Before Departure For Toronto.

MILLBROOK, Mar. 27 — About sixty young people gathered recently at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gray to spend a social evening with Miss Bonna Robinson before her removal to Toronto to reside.

The evening was planned as a surprise for the guest of honor, and a very pleasant time was spent with games, music, and dancing, community singing being a feature of the gathering.

At a pre-arranged time Miss Bonna was called forward and presented with a handsome leather hat box and a Duofold Eversharp pencil, Miss Dorothy Armstrong reading the address, while Miss Marjorie Sayles, on behalf of those present, offered the gifts.

Miss Bonna Robinson,
Millbrook.

Dear Bonna, — We, your friends have gathered here tonight to bid farewell to you. It was with regret we learned of your leaving our midst. You were always a good little sport, and ready to help in any undertaking, and we shall miss you very much.

We hope that you will often find time to visit your old friends, and you may be assured that a warm welcome will always await you.

Will you please accept these gifts as a pleasant memory of the good times we have had together in Millbrook, and wishing you every success in your new home, we are,

Yours friends in Millbrook—Dorothy Armstrong, Marjorie Sayles.

Thanking the donors for their kindly remembrance both by word and gifts, Miss Robinson showed her sincere appreciation of the pleasant surprise which had been prepared for her.

A delicious supper was served and dancing resumed afterward, the gathering not breaking up until long after the midnight hour.

Mrs. Robinson and her daughter left the next day for Toronto where they will remain while Miss Bonna takes a course at business college. Mr. Robinson has sold his restaurant business here to Milton Challice, formerly of Bethany, the latter taking possession last week.

During their residence in Millbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, and family, have been popular citizens, and they will be missed by a large circle of friends. Their son, Mr. D. Robinson, is completing his dental course in Toronto.

ELECTRIC CARS SURPASS BUSES FOR THE PRESENT

Motor Buses Fail to Become a Menace to Street Railway Lines.

RUSH HOUR CROWDS

Checks Growth of Many of the Smaller Railroad Systems.

(By NEA Service.)

MADISON, Wis., March. 29.—The motor bus will not drive electric street railways out of business with the suddenness and completeness which those railways forced the horse car from the city streets, says Professor L. F. Van Hagan of the department of railway engineering of the University of Wisconsin.

Although the motor bus has checked the growth of many electric railway systems and put a few of them out of business in the smaller towns, they have failed to become a real menace to street car business.

In fact, it is estimated that the street railway companies will spend during 1926 nearly $300,000,000 for improvements on their tracks and cars.

"The motor bus," says Professor Van Hagan, "has been operated long enough to demonstrate its ability to meet many of the requirements of urban service. It is about on a par with the street railway in regard to reliability of service, speed, comfort and ability to operate on heavy grades and in the midst of heavy street traffic.

"There is rather unanimous agreement," Professor Van Hagan continues, "among both street railway men and bus men that the bus in its present stage of development is not able to handle rush-hour traffic in a big city. There seems to be insurmountable mechanical difficulties that would prevent its development to a stage where it will be able to do so.

"It is certain that street railway companies that are well managed and fairly treated by the public authorities will continue to give service and make money for many years to come.

"Small companies that have not built up proper reserves for maintenance and rehabilitation are going out of business with loss to the holders of their securities when the time comes to make heavy repairs."

The YELLOW STUB

by Ernest Lynn

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Chicago, where the theater is. The stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he finds Olga. She faints at hearing she is wanted for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder.

Jimmy and Olga, out one night, get a swift glimpse of the man she says got the stub. Later they identify him by his police photo as IKE JENSEN.

Mary Lowell promises to marry Church, but later breaks the engagement.

Jimmy gets a phone call from Olga, saying she has found Ike Jensen. He rushes to her apartment to find her gone. Her disappearance becomes a newspaper sensation.

Later Jimmy accidentally sees KID DIVIS, a known intimate of Jensen, and trails him to a lonely house where Divis and Jensen are holding Olga.

Jimmy sneaks in the house. When Jensen goes upstairs to answer the phone, he hits Divis with a broken andiron and rushes after Jensen.

In the fight that follows he is being overpowered when the stair rail gives way and Jensen crashes through, breaking his neck.

At police headquarters, LIEUTENANT O'DAY shows Jimmy an important telegram, and Jimmy is next shown in Sam Church's house, accusing the latter of the murder of Henry Rand.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER LIII.

The echoes of the shot slowly rolled away, a small puff of blue smoke ascended to the high ceiling, broke and hung there, and on the room flat silence fell once more.

Rand sat in his chair, leaning forward, his face expressionless save for the hard glitter in his eyes. And Church, recoiling from the sudden shock of sound and something far more ominous in Jimmy's words, was limp and haggard and white of face. His hands clenched the arms of his chair desperately, as if seeking support.

"Four minutes, Church." Jimmy's words, though low spoken, seemed explosively loud in that tensely still room.

And Church, with stark fear in his eyes, writhed in his terror. "Rand, you're crazy, I tell you—"

"Don't lie. I might as well tell you that I know beyond a doubt that you did it. I merely want you to tell me why.

"Do you know where I've come from Church? I've just come from a lonely house in the country where Jensen and Kid Divis have been keeping Olga Maynard. That surprises you, doesn't it? And Jensen confessed to me that he killed my father—killed him in that hotel room in Grafton with a blackjack and then turned on the gas to make it look like suicide.

"I've known for some time, Church, that Ike Jensen was the murderer. But not until today did I know that you were the man who hired him to do it."

"Don't!" almost screamed Church. "You lie!"

"Jensen," went on Jimmy imperturbably, "has confessed. He's being held now by police," he lied. "Church, if you don't tell me why you killed Henry Rand, I'll tell you why myself, and then I'll shoot you. I'm giving you a chance. That's more than you gave my father."

The other man's head fell forward on his breast. His knuckles were red spots where they clutched the arms of his chair.

Jimmy continued: "I ought to kill you right now, Church. Right where you sit." He glanced at his watch. "There are just three minutes more. That will give me time to tell you of what I learned from Mexico City and still leave time for you to confess."

At the words "Mexico City" Church raised his head sharply, but Rand went on.

"Church, several years ago a man known as Thomas Rolfe died down in Mexico City. He was wealthy—very wealthy. He had made something more than a million dollars out of a mining venture.

"When he died he made a very strange will. It seemed that he had a son, but he didn't know whether the son was alive or dead, or whether he had any heirs or not. So when he drew up the will he told his lawyers that his name was not really Thomas Rolfe, but Thaddeus Rand.

"Thaddeus Rand, as you know, Church, was my grandfather. And Thaddeus said that years ago a son of his, Henry Rand, had run away from home as the result of cruel treatment. Thaddeus had spent years trying to locate Henry Rand, but had never succeeded. He died a heartbroken man, with the feeling that perhaps his son still lived somewhere, to curse his memory.

"Now, that wasn't like Henry Rand—to curse the memory of his father, but Thaddeus was remorseful. Anyway, when he drew up his will he left all of his estate to Henry. 'But,' his lawyers said, 'suppose we can't find Henry Rand? Who gets the estate then?'

"'Charity,' said Thaddeus, 'some home somewhere for orphan boys,' and left them with that. And then later he came back and said that there were other relatives who ought to be remembered. There was a sister of his who married a widower with a son. He told his lawyers to locate the sister, and they went to work.

"The sister was dead, Church, and so was her husband, but her son was living. His name was Samuel Church and he was a lawyer. They found you, and you went down to Mexico City, to find my grandfather on his deathbed. You explained to him that inasmuch as you were an attorney and a relative—at least by marriage if not by blood—he would be wiser if he made you the administrater of the estate instead of his Mexican lawyers. You pointed out that they were apt to cheat on him, but that you would have his interests more at heart.

"So Thaddeus Rand changed his will, making you the administrator and still leaving the bulk of his estate to Henry Rand, and some of it to you; with the proviso that if Henry Rand or his heirs were not located by a certain time, the estate would be divided equally between you and a boys' home.

"That's about all that I learned from Mexico City, Church. It's enough, I think, especially since Jensen tells me you hired him to commit the murder and Divis confesses that he put that picture in Olga Maynard's apartment under orders from you."

Jimmy glanced again at his watch, then lifted the revolver. "Time's up, Church. Are you going to confess or are you going to die with a lie on your lips?"

"For God's sake, Rand, don't shoot!" Church's eyes were staring; they were glassy, and the prespiration was standing on his forehead in great beads. "Don't shoot. God! I'll confess, Rand. I did it, I did it."

He flung his head down on his arms and his bulky frame quivered as the words poured from his mouth in a torrent. He was like a man gone mad—gibbering, unintelligible.

"You see," said Jimmy, "I knew, Church. Now tell me why. Tell me, and I'll give you a chance. Refuse, and you won't leave this room."

"My God!" Church sobbed. "I don't know why, Rand. . . . I bought this house . . . spent a lot of money and got in debt . . . Knew that if they ever found Henry Rand I'd go to jail . . . Then one day a client of mine showed me a letter from the credit department of Royal Brothers' department store in Grafton . . . It was signed Henry Rand. . . . I investigated, and was sure he was the one we were looking for—"

"You didn't look very far, or very hard, Church. You didn't want to find him."

"And I was afraid he'd find out some way and discover I'd spent a lot of his money. So I got Jensen. . . ."

"How much did you pay Jensen, Church?"

"Five thousand dollars."

"And where does Divis come in?"

"He didn't have anything to do with it. I didn't think he knew anything about it.

Divis was just another o' your hunky men, eh?"

Church hung his head and was silent.

"And why were you so anxious to get me out of town, Church?"

Jimmy waited, but the other did not answer.

"Partly because you thought I was in your way with—with Mary Lowell?" Jimmy hesitated on the name, and Church nodded.

"And later on," Church admitted, because I thought you might find out I was handling the estate."

"You dirty dog!" Jimmy shot at him. "I wish I could think of some punishment that wasn't too good for you. You rat! You know what led to your downfall, Church? A ticket stub—just an insignificant little yellow stub. Some time when you have occasion to reflect on this you can curse the day you delivered yourself into Jensen's hands and Jensen was careless enough to leave the yellow stub behind.

"Did you think your secret would be safe with him? Didn't you have sense enough to realize he would blackmail you for the rest of your days?"

"I had enough on him," said Church dully, staring at his feet.

Jimmy tossed the revolver to the middle of the table, then leisurely found himself a cigaret and lit it.

"I may as well tell you now that I lied to you when I said Divis got that picture from you. And I lied, too, when I told you Jensen had implicated you. Jensen's dead, and he died without mentioning your name. All I knew for sure, Church, was that you were administrator of Thaddeus Rand's estate. That and the fact that someone overheard Divis say Church had given him some money for Jensen."

He shrugged and walked deliberately away from the table. "The only thing you've done, Church, is to make it easier for us with your confession."

He had turned his back on Church, and he did not see the sudden look of cunning light the other man's eyes. Church was slowly drawing himself up in his chair—drawing himself up for a spring.

"You've saved us a lot of trouble—" Jimmy began, but the sentence was never finished. With a quick leap Church had reached the revolver and he now held it in his hand.

"I did, eh?" he snapped, and there were in his voice hate, contempt, new life. "I did? Well, listen, I'm not through yet, see? Do you know how good a confession is, when it's drawn from a man at the point of a gun? Not worth that." He snapped his finger.

"I did it, all right. I'm telling you again, but don't think you're going to have such easy sailing. Jensen's dead, eh? And Divis doesn't know. Well, they'd have a pretty hard time proving it on me, even with what you've got. But I'm taking no chances. I'm going to kill you and then I'm going to clear out!"

With the revolver pointed at Jimmy, he backed slowly to the safe and fumbled in a pigeon hole. He leisurely stuck some papers in his pocket, never once taking his eye off Rand.

"I'm clearing out, Rand—after I finish with you," and he tapped the revolver significantly. "If I'm ever caught, remember you are a housebreaker. They have nothing on me for that."

He laughed, and slowly raised the weapon until it was on a level with his eyes.

"Now, damn you," he said.

CHOOSE SITE OF OBSERVATORY

Town in British S. W. Africa Chosen By Expedition Head.

TO MEASURE HEAT.

WASHINGTON, March 29. — (Canadian Press).—Brukkaros, British South West Africa has been chosen as the site of the observatory to measure the sun's heat. Dr. Charles G. Abbott, head of the Smithsonian Institute expedition, notified the National Geographical Society by cable.

This spot was selected by Abbott after a fourth months' study in Asia and Africa to find a location free from atmospheric disturbances. The observatory will be set up as soon as the instruments can be transported from the sea coast.

This is the 24th year Abbott has spent in measuring the sun's rays in various parts of the earth. He hopes to prove the theory that the sun heat affects the weather and to work out a means of forecasting weather for weeks or months in advance.

Neuritis in musicians and typists is attributed to an accumulation of lime salts between shoulder and arm, due to constant friction.

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN

The usual large evening congregation thronged St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Sunday evening to hear Rev. Wm. Allan, the pastor, who had been absent for nearly three weeks conducting special conference services in Toronto. The sermon last evening was a gripping one based on the text found in Mark 12:34: "Thou Art Not Far from the Kingdom of God."

The week that culminated in the death of Jesus, said Rev. Mr. Allan, did not represent an isolated series of events. Instead, the events of that week traced back in their origin to the beginning of human history and reached forward into the events of the distant future. They represented a startling drama of four scenes.

The first scene takes us back to the Garden of Eden, where man received a chance such as he has never been given since. If there is anything in the theory that heridity and environment ensure stability of character these both had their greatest opportunity to prove their value on that occasion. What the world might have been had Adam preferred to believe Gods word instead of the Devil's lie cannot be known. There would have been no empty graves waiting for caskets and the misery due to sin which the world suffers from would have been avoided. The apostle Paul tells us that the whole creation groaneth and travailleth in pain together until now waiting for its redemption. In spite however, of man's failure God's grace was there. From the date of the fall onward revelation makes clear, through types and symbols, God's purpose to provide redemption for the guilty by means of the sacrifice of the innocent, Jesus Christ being the perfect lamb slain from before the foundation of the world for our redemption. When nearly 2000 years ago crowds flocked out of Jerusalem to hear the message of John the Baptist he pointed them to Christ with the words, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world."

The second scene was laid in old Jerusalem when Jesus was taken before the high priest and was condemned and turned over to the Gentile magistrate because he admitted himself to be Christ, the Son of the living God. When brought before Pilate he answered the question, "Art Thou the King of the Jews' with another affirmative. The Jews condemned themselves rather than Christ on that occasion when they asked that Barabbas, a thief, should be released unto them instead of Christ and cried out for the crucifixion of Christ. The world at large is the same at heart today as it was when it crucified the Saviour. In some cities like Peterboro the Lord's Day is still observed but in large centers on the continent, such as New York, the amusement places are wide open and the world proceeds on its pleasure loving course without regard to the expressed will of God.

The third scene of the drama was laid in St. Paul's Presbyterian church and involved those present on the occasion of this service. If any of those present wanted a text it could be found in the words, Thou art not far from the kingdom of God.". God was very near to every one present. The Bible contained many warnings of the disastrous results which attended those who refused to pay heed to the commands and invitations of God. The newspapers are full of records showing that the way of the transgressor is hard. What is required is that sinners shall recognize that Christ who knew no sin was made sin for us that we might be made the righteousness of God in him. All that was required on the part of any unsaved person was the taking of the one step involved in the surrendering of their will to God and accepting Christ as their personal Saviour.

The fourth scene was laid in the future. It was the judgment bar of Almighty God. People may refuse to accept the offer of free salvation in this life and proceed on their own course but they cannot avoid the judgment bar of God. The tragedy of it is that those who refuse to accept his plan of free salvation will receive a judgment upon their acts, when they are called to stand before him, that will be final. Men and women of forty and fifty years of age begin to realize, when they stop to think, that the days of their opportunity to accept Christ are rapidly becoming shorter. Unless they act before it is too late they will be crowded out. The time to accept God's free pardon for sin through the merits and work of Christ is now.

Wednesday evening there will be a special induction service, conducted by the Presbytery of Peterboro when Rev. Wm. Allan will be formally inducted as pastor of St. Paul's congregation.

To pity distress is but human; to relieve it is godlike.

GOVERNMENT IS OWNER OF CITY'S STREET RAILWAY

Mr. R. R. Hall, K.C., Says Province Should Be Called On For Action.

ADDRESSES ROTARY.

Advocates Peterboro's Becoming Seller Instead of Buyer of Power.

....Send Proof down please .....

Before the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon today Mr. R. R. Hall, K.C., presented a number of most interesting suggestions as to how the local transportation, gas and power problems might be dealt with in the best interests of the citizens generally.

In regard to the street railway question Mr. Hall pointed out the necessity of securing all the information possible. He reminded the Rotarians that the Hydro Electric Commission were merely the managers and that the railway was owned by the Ontario government. It was to the latter that Peterboro should look for redress. The railway had paid under private ownership and the citizens had a right to demand of the Ontario government why the system had been allowed to deteriorate and why losses had occurred.

Mr. Hall declared that the city engineer should look into the franchise and see to what extent the Ontario government in taking over the railway is liable to the city. As an instance the speaker mentioned the uncompleted pavement between the rails at the north end of the city. Then the city engineer should look into the rights of the city in the light of the engineer's report. In addition the city council should get a copy o fall the financial statements of the company since the Government acquired the stock and for several years thereto, with a statement of assets and liabilities receipts and expenditures and profit and loss account.

Armed with this information the city would be in a position to go to the government and demand that its obligations be lived up to. In the event of the government making default Mr. Hall declared his belief that the line should be operated under private ownership. It had been the experience of other cities where the street railway was publicly owned that eevry sction demanded service while the privately owned system operated only where the traffic warranted. As to the buses Mr. Hall pointed out that their use entailed heavy wear and tear on the roads and the citizens would be under heavy expense in this regard.

The Gas Plant

The speaker reefrred to the gas plant declaring that the rate of $2.15 per thousand citizens had to pay for gas for cooking, etc., was very high anl that he was satisfied that an investigation would show that a private company could operate the gas plant and furnish a cheaper rate.

Mr. Hall, discussing the power situation suggested that Peterboro should acquire the Auburn Power plant which would furnish 2000 h.p. and acquire leases of Dams 4 and 5 and of Burleigh Falls at each of which 3000 h.p. could be deevloped. The speaker pointed out that the Dominion Government could be called upon to assist in both projects and that a strong deputation should be organized for that purpose. The total power that could be developed from the three points mentioned was 8000 h.p. and as the city's maximum peak load consumption is now only 5,400 h.p. Peterboro would be a seller instead of a buyer of power. The surplus would be a great magnet for new industries and in the meantimme the excess power could be sold to the Hydro Commission, just as Campbellford and Orillia now sell their surplus.

Mr. Hall was satisfied that an investigation would show that the power mentioned could be produced at a capital cost per h.p. of around $100. The city was paying at the rate of $22.50 per h.p. to which was added $3.85 extra last year, increasing the rate to $26.35, while he was sure that the cost of power from the three developments mentioned would not be more than $13 to $14 per h.p.

By developing power of her own Peterborough would make a saving under existing conditions of around $75,000, and Mr. Hall strongly urged that there should be a demand for a full report on these questions by a competent engineer.

The speaker was given a hearty vote of thanks for his most informative address.

Directors Elected.

On motion of Rotarians Dr. M. A. Morrison and Jack Primeau, the report of the nominating committee naming the following board of directors for the ensuing year was unanimously adopted: G. A. Gillespie, A. Brown, Thos. Barrie, C. H. Rogers, and A. L. Killaly.

President John Seels in a brief valedictory address, thanked the members of the club for what he termed the wonderful support given him during his year's tenure of office. He especially mentioned the directors for their splendid assistance.

At the suggestion of Rotarian Fred L. Roy, the boys who attend the Rotary camp will be enlisted in a ticket selling campaign in connection with the big Rotary concert in the Grand Operat House on April 5 and 6. Suitable prizes will be given.

Hold the Line For Rugby, England. Please. Says Central And Chicago Man Talks By Phone to a Relative

CHICAGO, March 29 (Canadian Press).—When William H. Safford answered his telephone last night, he was startled to hear the operator calmly say: "Hold the line for Rugby, England, please."

A moment later he heard the voice of his son-in-law, Arthur A. Oswald whom he knows to be in England.

For twenty minutes the conversation continued. Mr. Oswald, who designed and built the Rugby radio telephone station for the British postal service, telling his father-in-law of the success of the venture.

The message, broadcast from Rugby, was picked up by an unknown station on the Maine coast and relayed by telephone. It was reported to be the first time telephone conversation had been carried on between Europe and Chicago, although such communications have been established with the cities of the Atlantic coast.

Trading Centres About Consolidated Smelters

TORONTO, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning centred in and around Consolidated Smelters, in which there was a turnover of more than three thousand shares. The rest of the list was quiet and easier. Smelters touched high during the morning of 207, 14 points above last week's close, but closed this morning at 200. Brazilian lost a half point at 88¼ and City Dairy 5-8 at 68 1-8. International Nickel lost a point at 34. C.P.R. was a strong spot, advancing 1½ at 157. In the mines, Dome eased 20 cents at 15.60, and McIntyre lost 25 at 23.75.

General Quietness Marks Session at the Standard

TORONTO, March 29 (Canadian Press).—General easiness marked this morning's session of the Standard Mining Exchange, with trading list and recessions throughout the whole list. McIntyre eased 50 cents at 23.75, Dome 15 at 15.50, and Hollinger 15 at 18.30. Teck Hughes lost at 290, and Kirkland Lake 4 at 96, while Chaput Hughes lost 1¼ at 15. Noranda was one of the few firm spots, advancing 20 at 12.70. Weak silvers included Nipissing, down 15 at 6.20, and Mining Corporation 11 lower at 350.

Selling On Both Sides Weakens To-day's Market

NEW YORK, March 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Acute weakness developed in to-day's stock market when heavy selling for both accounts forced over three score issues, including such popular stocks as United States' steel common, General Motors an' Hudson to new low levels for the year. Declines in active issues ran from 2 to 10 points, with even larger breaks in some of the ordinarily inactive shares, except for calling of about $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 in bank loans, in apparent preparation for heavy month end requirements for funds, and establishment of a new record low for French francs. There was little in the day's news to account for selling movement.

Ideal Weather Conditions Decreases Wheat Values

CHICAGO, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Better weather conditions for the new crop of wheat in the South West led to an early downturn in wheat prices to-day. According to some advices the outlook for wheat in Oklahoma is now ideal. On the other hand, a substantial decrease of amount of wheat on ocean passage failed to have any effect on the values, being offset more or less by something of an increase in shipments from North America.

Chicago opening prices, 5-8c off to 1-8c up, May (new) 159 3-4 to 160¼, and July 137¼ to 137 3-4, were followed by a material set-back all around.

Corn and oats took their cue from bearish action of wheat. Some corn, however, was reported as having been taken for export at 10c better basis than a month ago. After opening at ¼c decline to ¼c advance, May 76 3-4 to 76 7-8, corn market underwent a moderate general decline.

Oats started unchanged to 1-8c higher, May 40 3-8c. Later, all months showed a slight loss.

Provisions reflected grain weakness, notwithstanding an upward trend in the value of hogs.

TO BROADCAST MALE VOICE CHOIR PROGRAMME.

After hearing the splendid programme presented by the Male Voice Choir on Friday night, many citizens have taken up energetically the proposal to have the Choir broadcast by radio.

The musical seelctions given at this year's concert were outstanding, and there are hundreds of people who recognize that they are too good to keep at home. It has therefore been suggested that public subscription be taken up to defray the cost of broadcasting, amounting to about $150.

Not only would the programme be pleasing to listeners-in but it would be a wonderful advertisement for Peterborough throughout the eastern States and all over this section of Canada. The city is well known now as the home of the Senior O. H. A. champions, and the opportunity is also given to put it on the air as the centre of one of Canada's premier musical organizations.

Donations toward this effort will be received at The Examiner office and acknowledged in The Examiner.

Menus for the Family

By Sister Mary.

Breakfast—Grape fruit, cereal, thin cream, crisp toast, French omelet, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—New carrot puree, toasted crackers, fig custard, milk, tea.

Dinner—Roast veal, boiled macaroni, beets in orange sauce, head lettuce with Thousand Island dressing, prune whip, graham bread, milk, coffee.

Macaroni which has been carefully cooked and blanched makes a delicious accompaniment for roast veal. The macaroni should be well seasoned with salt, pepper and butter just as potatoes would be. One or two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese added during the reheating gives a certain richness to the dish.

New Carrot Puree.

Two cups milk, 1-2 cup thin cream 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 teaspoon onion juice, 1 cup grated raw carrot.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and add cream, salt and pepper and onion juice. Bring again to the boiling point and add the grated raw carrot. Cook over hot water for ten minutes and serve.

The carrot must be grated, not finely chopped.

If veal or chicken stock is available it can be used in place of the milk. The stock makes a rather better puree than the milk but is less nourishing.

My Beauty Beliefs

(By Helen Menken, Star of "Seventh Heaven" and "Makropoulos Secret.")

A woman's beauty often resides in her hands even more than in her face. The beauty of hands lies less in their form than in their grace and the vividness of their use. Beautiful hands talk almost as clearly as lips.

Don't consciously use the hands. Forget them. The minute you are conscious of them they become awkward. The hands should unconsciously follow what is in the mind and comes out through the voice. They are purely supplementary.

Beautiful hands are reposeful. They do not make too many gestures.

Beautiful hands should be white hands, soft hands. Glycerine and rose water are the tried and true and almost the only lotion used by most women on the hands. But there are so many whitening agents. Cucumber or lemon juice, the use of almond meal instead of soap, a cleansing with cream nightly just as one cleanses the grimed face.

And, of course, no hand can be truly beautiful without rosy, well-shaped, clean nails always.

A cloth, lighter than thistledown and softer than the finest crepe de chine, has been created in London.

NOVA SCOTIA GIRL SWIMS IN ICY BAY

37 Minutes in Water at 32 Degrees.

BOSTON, Mass., March 29.—(Canadian Press.)— Eva Morrison, native of Pictou, N.S., where her father is chief of police, yesterday swam about the icy waters of Dorchester Bay for 37 minutes to show her imperviousness to cold. The official temperature of the sea water taken at the nearby municipal baths was 32 degrees.

Jimmy Wild, one of the numerous "brownies" who take a daily plunge at the beach throughout the year, was forced out of the water by the cold after fifteen minutes yesterday. Miss Morrison scorned the protection of grease and took no stimulants during the time she was in the water.

She left the water at the order of her manager when the crowd of 300 who had watched the plunge with upturned coat collars on the wind-swept beach, began to break up in search of shelter.

Miss Morrison last spring remained one hour and 22 miutes in water at 41 degrees. She will later attempt to swim to Boston light and return. Last year she swam to the light and a quarter of the way back. Still later in the summer she hopes to swim the English channel.

LITTLE GIRL BURNED.

Dies From Injuries Received While Playing With Matches.

WINDSOR, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Elsie, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Quenell, of Lasalle, died late on Saturday night of burns suffered when her night clothes caught fire while she was playing with matches, it is said.

FIRST OF THE SEASON

By Juanita Hamel

Vain little girl! She always wants to be the very first in everything. First to copy the latest Parish fashions! first to don the clothes of the advance season; first to take up every new fad that comes along. And now that Spring is flying along on feathery wings, she wants to be the first Summer Girl to appear. Even though the winds are chill and the tang of the Departing Winter still hangs over the balminess of the Spring breezes, she dons her very newest bathing costume, and imagines herself already on the golden sands. Oh yes, and she's determined to be the first to introduce the very latest even in bathing suits, so she wears a suit with only one strap, leaving one creamy shoulder exposed to Old Sol's rays. Rushing madly from one season to the other, ever on the search for something new, yet ever she has the satisfaction of being FIRST! Wait until somebody is first in your heart! Then you'll change. And everything else will be forgotten in the thrill of the First Love.

Druggist spouse is hailed into an eastern court by wife who declares that he wouldn't pay enough board! Once she had him trained to drop $20 in the family ginger jar every Saturday night. Then it dwindled to a measly ten! Wife cut down on his board—liver instead of porterhouse. Board dropped to $5! Table fare dropped again! Looked too near the zero mark, so wife dragged friend husband into court!

"People do not live many years in a house unless it corresponds with the temperament of one of them." So comments W. L. George in his love story of Thomas and Jane Carlyle. And said "temperament" is generally that of the woman. Legally, "the husband chooses the domicile" in most of our states. Actually, the wife nearly always, except when cruel economics chooses it for them!

Wonder what Lady Fisher would have thought and felt and said and done if she had been forced because of penury to go without food for 42 days! Lots of people fast on bread crusts and potato skins not only 42 days but 365 out of the year and never get "written up." They don't wear title handles before their names.

THING TO DO!

If you are a girl and if you are dining with a man in a restaurant, you give your order to him rather than to the hovering waiter. The latter will probably hinder your attempts to be "etiquetical." He will probably catch the order as it falls from your ruby lips to your swain. But he, the waiter, should know enough to let your escort pass it on to him. The really helpful escort will wade through the menu, making helpful suggestions, thus giving the girl some idea of what he does and doesn't expect in the way of sum total.

BIRTHDAY OF FASCISM KEPT

Seventh Anniversary is Celebrated With Imposing Ceremonies.

ROME, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Fascism's seventh birthday was enthusiastically celebrated yesterday throughout the nation with imposing ceremonies attended by hundreds of thousands of "Black Shirts".

Premier Mussolini and other members of the cabinet reviewed one of the great parades and heard with approval the pledges of Fascists to continue the task of making Fascism all powerful.

In Rome fifty thousand Black Shirts marched to the strains of the hymn "Youth," and saluted the duce, while as many more, sympathizers cheered enthusiastically. Similar celebrations occurred in every large city.

HER OWN WAY

A GIRL of TODAY

TEMPTATION

"Of course, after the visit to Madame Rosario, I could do nothing but hope and plan, or at least try to plan, some way in which I could get the money to have my voice trained.

"In my innocent way (for I was very innocent then, Julie) I thought much of Madame Rosario's words:

"'Let nothing, nothing, my child, stand in the way of making it possible for you to give that voice to the world.'

"I took her advice literally and after a month or two of sickening despair came to the conclusion that I would be an old woman before I could possibly save the money under the most favorable circumstances to pay for the expensive masters I needed.

"My mother all the time kept worrying about my job. She thought I had been long enough with Madame Seria to get a raise. As a matter of fact I had had two raises but I had not told her as I had determined to save a little money, at least enough to pay for some good teacher's audition of my voice.

"I had, of course, no idea of the cost but by discreet inquiry I found that one of the young ladies who came to our shop was being groomed for grand opera by the famous Tortentio.

"'But she must be very rich,' I said to the girl who told me this. 'She always gets the most expensive things in the shop and I hear that Tortentio's prices are something enormous.'

"'Maybe you don't think that Lolo Lawrence wasn't just as poor as you or I until she caught the ear and afterwards the eye of Buddy Tremaine! Now she not only has the best teachers in voice culture but in French and Italian and German and everything else that her little heart desires.'

"A little while afterwards Miss Lawrence came in and ordered nearly a thousand dollars worth of lingerie in one fell swoop and left saying that she had a lesson with Tortentio that same afternoon.

"Julie, I ask you, was it any wonder that I then and there determined to sell my body and soul to give my voice to the world?

"Only, I said to myself, I'll not take any money for fine clothes. That would be very common. But, I must have money some way—any way—to expend upon my voice."

LINDSAY, March 29. — A Pole named Louis Zabawa, whom the police believe has a record, was arrested at Manilla Friday night, trying to force an entrance into the C.N.R. Station at Manilla. A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A PRACTICAL TENNIS FROCK.

Little Miss Brown came tripping in today, to order a number of frocks for her advance Summer wardrobe.

Madame greeted her affectionately, for Miss Brown is one of her favorite young clients, and Madame loves to design pretty clothes for her to wear.

"You'll laugh when you hear how advanced I am in my plans, Madame," Miss Brown assured her.

"Indeed I won't, my child," Madame replied. "I like my clients to plan far ahead, for then we can execute orders in a more leisurely manner."

"Of course, it's usual that I want a frock on twenty-four hours notice, that's why I think you'll be surprised," Miss Brown added.

Madame smiled, remembering how the young lady is wont to rush in and set us all in a turmoil, trying to finish an outfit before a certain party.

However, it seemed that Miss Brown is planning to become a tennis shark next Summer. As she explained:

"Bob adores tennis, and if I am to hold him, I must play a good game." Madame laughed aloud at this enthusiasm for a new love. It was Peter the last time. However, they set to work planning tennis frocks. "I'm going to sketch an adorable frock I saw at Cannes, and ask you to do it for me in different combinations," Miss Brown explained.

The frock is shown here, in heavy white crepe, with mauve bands at sleeves and pockets, put on with mauve fagotting. The pleated section at the sides allow plenty of freedom, and the back is perfectly straight.

Madame is to make it in white with

THE SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori.

I often mention correct carriage as a distinct contribution to real beauty of appearance.

Give me the woman who walks and sits with her head erect and her shoulders back, and I will be willing to wager she is the woman who makes a good appearance wherever she is.

If you meet her coming down the street toward you, there will be no blurred vision of a sagging person with shoulders drooping forward and head hanging. She will advance toward you with a proudly erect head and a straightforward look that inspires admiration.

When she enters a room, she attracts notice because of her erect simple bearing that marks her as a person who handles herself with ease and poise. The woman who wants to look her best on occasion cannot assume the proper attitude of correct posture at a moment's notice, mind you. If she makes a great effort to hold herself erect, she will appear strained and anything but perfectly at ease.

The charm of correct bearing is that it appears so easy and simple, as indeed it is, once you have mastered the essentials.

Now, the following advice is easy to comply with, and I know it to be of sound value because I have tried it. I used to find that I would stand and sit erect when I was thinking consciously of it, but at other times I would forget and slump.

Then I determined to begin my day by hopping out of bed, putting on a heavy dressing gown if it was cold, and standing before my open window. Once there, I would assume at easy, erect position, and begin by breathing deeply. I kept this up for five minutes every morning. Then I went about my affairs of the day, but I found that the simple exercise had impressed on my mind the necessity of standing easily and straight.

Try this. I feel sure that if you start your day in this way, you will find that you can retain the correct position all through the day with less effort.

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THE THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1926.

FAT

By HEDDA HOYT

(Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, March 29 (United Press)—He motioned to the gayly dressed fat woman who had just entered the room.

"Is that your wife?" he asked his host.

"No, that's the covered wagon!" sighed the host.

If you can laugh at that this article isn't for you. There's nothing funny about fat to the fat person. We are living in an age of fat-fighting when a woman's charms diminish as her pounds increase. Ten additional pounds send a screen vamp into seculsion for six months. The public will have none of her. Ten additional pounds on a housewife puts the household on a diet.

While fighting fat we are inclined to overlook the fact that it's easier to make fat look like it isn't there than it is to remove it. This can be done by proper dressing which means by choosing correct lines and colors. An elephant, for instance, looks his best in his neutral putty-colored covering. Trim him up in colors and long fur and he assumes tremendous proportions.

Black should be the staple color of the fat woman. Dark brown, navy, and other subdued colors follow in preference. Where brighter colors are used they should be in accessories. As to lines, all garments should touch the body without seeming to touch it.

There should be no attempt to inflict waistlines, bustlines or hiplines upon the public. Long, unbroken, lines, skirts long enough to conceal badly-formed ankles, long semi-loose sleeves and V-shaped necklines are indispensable. Panels, or trimming that give the vertical effect to the gown are always good. No trimming should extend horizontally on a stout person.

Jewelry should be used sparingly and when used should conform with one's size. Shoes should look large enough to carry the weight of the body. Many stout women with small feet make the mistake of wearing short-vamped, high-heeled shoes instead of sensible shoes with low or Cuban heels. Light-colored stockings call attention to the size of the ankle and for this reason dark grays, gun metal or black are best.

Personally I find great consolation in my stout friends. Somehow they seem to be the most staple persons in these anemic days of lumpy elbows and bee's knees. Most large persons are large throughout, large hearted, large minded and large living. I can't see the use of falling in a faint when a salesgirl tells you you can't wear a size sixteen. There was a time you know, when we crammed our feet into size 3 shoes because large feet were considered a disgrace. The same thing now applies to clothing. If large, we should accept our size and though we look like covered wagons we should be consoled by the fact that we don't look like one-horse shays.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

FORTUNE TELLER IN THE HICKORY TREE

Mister Rubadub peeped into all his cans and shook all his bottles.

Then he looked into the soap box, and shook his head.

"It's a good thing that nearly everybody is spring-cleaned, Mister Hare," he said. "All the cleaning stuff is about finished. Didn't Marty Mink and Charley Otter look fine when they were finished?"

"I should say so," said the March Hare. "Slick as new brooms."

At that he looked in his big book again where all the names were.

"Dear! Dear!" he muttered. "Here's Reddy Fox's name. He hasn't been done yet. I almost forgot him."

"Oh let's skip him," said Nancy. "He's too mean."

"Can't," said Mister Rubadub. "The Fairy Queen would find it out and she gave strict orders to scrub-up everybody, regardless of disposition or anything else."

"He'll be harder to catch than a greasy pig," said the March Hare. "But if we must, we must. Come on, children."

So away went the three of them again down the little path to the little bush, and then across the meadow to the woods where Reddy Fox lived.

"I don't know what house Reddy has rented this year," the March Hare was saying, when suddenly from the trunk of a large—a very large hickory tree beside them came a voice.

"Fortunes told! Fortunes told! Who wants his fortune told?"

"Who are you? And where are you?" said the March Hare stroking his whiskers and trying to look as if he didn't care any more about having his fortune told than he did about last Christmas' plum pudding.

"I am the fortune-teller who lives in the hickory tree," came the voice. "Come no nearer. Stay where you are, and I shall tell your fortunes."

"That's good," said Nick. "I'd like my fortune told.

"So should I," said honest Nancy.

"Well, I might listen to one myself," said the March Hare, "if it's a good fortune."

"I tell nothing but good fortunes," said the voice. "Each of you make a wish. I can tell you if it will come true."

"Am I going to get a new bicycle on my birthday?" asked Nick.

"Wait until I ask Ooofty Goofty," said the voice. "The Ooofty Goofty says for you to go to the button-ball tree and back. By that time he will know."

So off went Nick toward the button-ball tree.

"Am I going to get a new doll-perambulator on my birthday?" asked Nancy.

"Wait until I ask Ooofty Goofty," came the voice. "Ooofty Goofty says to go to the fence and ask—he'll know by that time."

Away trotted Nancy toward the fence at the edge of the woods.

"Am I going to have carrot pie on Sunday?" asked the March Hare loudly.

"Ooofty Goofty says to go to the briar bush and back," came the answer. "Then he'll know all about it."

Away went the March Hare lippity lop.

Nancy and Nick and the Hare arrived at the hickory tree together.

"What does Ooofty Goofty say now?" called Nick. "How about the bicycle?" But there was no answer.

They began to look about then, and there on the other side of the hickory tree was a big hole. And leading away from it in the opposite direction were footprints.

"Reddy Fox!" gasped the March Hare. "He was the fortune teller and he fooled us."

They never got him and Reddy isn't spring-cleaned yet.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

There appear to be cycles in human experience. You hear of one friend who has water on the knee and then you hear of two or three others suffering the same way. You hear of one case of fractured skull and pretty soon you are told of others.

It is just the same way with the letters I receive. Just now I am getting a flood of letters about vaccination. I suppose this is because I wrote on this subject a short time ago. There is another reason, too. There is more or less small-pox in the country and the local health officials have been doing their duty by insisting on vaccination.

A good many critics of vaccination are not quite fair in their criticisms. For instance, one says: "All the pus organisms are found in vaccine virus." Another says: "In vaccination, animals diseases are injected into the body."

A correspondent has written me lately that Breitbart, the German strong man, did not die from an infection following a pin-prick, but his death was due to vaccination on shipboard.

I was in a taxicab accident three or four months ago, hurt my leg and had water on the knee as a result. My friend would say that the vaccination I had last year is a more likely cause than the wrenched knee joint.

It isn't logical, and, in my opinion, it isn't true that vaccination can be charged with ailments which appear to me to be entirely beyond possible relationship to vaccination.

If you plant wheat you do not find corn springing up from the soil. Beans do not produce peas, nor do pumpkin-seeds grow watermelons.

I can see how a careless, reckless person might carry into the system with the vaccine some pus producing germ or other dangerous organism. But a pinprick or a scratch might be infected in the same way. In short, it is not the vaccine point, but the soiled hands of the vaccinator or the dirty skin of the one vaccinated, which is responsible for the trouble.

When I speak of the importance of vaccination, I am assuming that the little operation will be done properly. When so done, even though there may be considerable temporary reaction, there will be no lasting after-effect.

Our critics may question this and say it is mere assertion, but in this respect we are no worse off than those who find fault with us. All their statements are mere repetitions of stories about things, stories which have been disproved hundreds of times.

With rather exceptional opportunities to observe and study the question of vaccination against small-pox, I have not the slightest doubt that it is a harmless and effective means of protection.

It isn't pleasant to be vaccinated. If the vaccination "works" it is painful. But it is far better to suffer a bit for two or three days, than to take the chance of infection with a loathsome disease, and there is no other adjective to apply to smallpox.

To some of my readers vaccination may be what they call it—"superstition." To me it is a real protection against disease and one of the truths in medical science.

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

E.G.B.: You have a fortunate nature which is uncrossed by conflicting skeins in your destiny. Naturally, you have a kind, peace-loving disposition, one eminently fitted for marriage, with qualities of repose and comfort for those around you. You should have much musical ability. Service to others, the service inspired by love, is your way of life and should be followed to achieve happiness and success. You are quite poised at all times, and usually excel in anything you undertake. You have a discriminating and analytical mind, well adapted for a professional or business career and are particularly well suited to teaching. You are very fond of fine music and of clean, harmonious surroundings. You are a devoted friend but are somewhat inclined to be selfish and to criticise those who do not possess qualities as admirable as your own. You should be very careful of your food at all times. You were born on Thursday. Your colors are grey and heliotrope. The day you enquire about, a Tuesday, is one for quiet self-communion and meditation. Let things take their course on this day and don't worry.

P.W.: You have a sympathetic, emotional nature, very fond of good cheer and all the pleasantries of life. Unless you watch out, however, an element of change and uncertainty can offset to a great extent this natural charm of yours. You are economical provident and industrious at most times and are thoroughly devoted to the interests of your own home and family. The saving of money for a rainy day appeals to you strongly. Do not as you become older become miserly. Your feelings are easily hurt by unkindness and the mental and physical condition of those about you has a great effect upon you. You are changeable in your liking for companions and are apt to be misled and deceived by a show of good fellowship not being blessed with much intuition as to character. You like literature especially novels and history and have quite a talent for music. At times you are inclined to be reserved and dignified.

You were born on Wednesday. Your best shade is black.

Ev: You have a free, friendly nature that is kind and loving, but liable to extremes of emotion and to great rages. You are sensitive, and when offended, are liable to be sulky. You readily adapt yourself to people and circumstances and are a good mimic. Although not studious, you are quite observant, and accomplish things easily, once you put your mind to your task. You were born to be married and will make an excellent homemaker and very devoted wife and mother. There is, however, an element of change and uncertainty in your character at present that must be controlled, if you wish for success and happiness. If you marry the right man, this will disappear. Choose someone born in September, October or December, and only after careful deliberation, because, being emotional, you are liable to make a mistake.

Yes, you were born on Thursday. Your colors are orange and gray. The day you ask about, a Thursday, is one for being interesting and amusing, and for taking advantage of every opportunity.

H.S.: Although you were born with a vacillating quality that tends toward fickleness and changeableness in your nature, your path of destiny points to an entirely different life, one of unusual understanding and sympathy and of achievement, although this latter may not be of the material kind alone. Much is expected of your type, and defections are not easily forgiven or overlooked. Therefore, a control of these wayward impulses and a desire to be steadfast rather than flickering, is what you should strive to cultivate. You are sympathetic towards others, but usually feel that your own interests require the most of your attention. Although you are quite energetic at times, at others you have fits of laziness when you do not wish to do anything at all. When crossed, you have a high temper,

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

BOBBY ENJOYS A REAL BOY'S HOLIDAY

Bobby kicked the sand with his feet and mumbled something under his breath.

Gocomeback, the wee travel elfin, knew something was wrong by the expression on Bobby's face. He sailed down to the steps beside Bobby and touched his arm.

"What's wrong, Bobby?" he asked softly.

"Everything, Gocomeback," replied Bobby with a scowl. "The girls went to the circus and I didn't get to go."

"If that's all, come with me," laughed the elfin, and, taking Bobby's hand, he whisked him from the steps. By the time Bobby caught his breath he was standing in Japan.

"Why bring me to Japan?" Bobby laughed. He knew it by the funny little open houses and the way the people around him were dressed. "My, did you ever see so many queer looking kites?"

"This is boys' day in Japan!"

It seemed every boy who passed Bobby and Gocomeback was flying a kite tied to a stick. Some were in the shape of fish, some were made to look like birds and, the boys were having a wonderful time.

"What's the occasion of all the kites?" Bobby asked a little Japanese boy near him.

"Why, don't you know? This is Boys' Day here," replied the little Jap boy.

"Boys' Day," Bobby laughed. "I never heard of celebrating a Boys' Day."

"No?" queried the little Jap boy. "You don't have a Boys' Day in North America? We do here in Japan, and it certainly is one fine day. Our daddies all give us presents and big kites and flags. You'll have to stay and see our sports." Then he called a crowd of his friends and they all took sides and Bobby saw a real-for-sure sham battle with wooden swords.

After the sham battle they brought out great big kites, some looking like fish and some were shaped like birds.

Each boy held the string of his kite and tried to cross the string of another boy's kite. When his string crossed that of another boy's kite the little Jap boy who had been talking to Bobby ran back and forth until the string on his kite had cut the string on the other boy's kite and the kite fell to the ground.

"But how in the world could one string cut through another one?" Bobby asked when he showed Bobby the captured kite.

"Easily enough," the little Jap boy replied. "You see, on the string, up near the kite, we glue ground glass. When the two strings are sawing across each other one of them will soon be cut through. Then the kite that falls belongs to the other boy. You may have this one." And he handed the captured kite to Bobby.

Gocomeback suggested it was time to go home and Bobby, holding tightly to his kite, sailed home.

When he ran into the house to tell his mamma where he had been he thought for a moment that he would show her the kite, but, of course, he did not have one.

Bobby laughed, but it gave him an idea. By the time his sisters returned Bobby had several pretty kites, which he had made himself, to show them.

s).—A hockey crowd f ten thousand packed Montreal Maroons key League, the East- to meet the Victoria championship of the the Ottawa Senators.

times Stewart went sifting the Senator defence with a ed shot, to look Connell before letting the shot go, three occasions Connell him at the crucial second fans standing up with nal work. Nighbor t Benedict in the sec- struck the Maroon id just barely dropp- e post, while Clancy into Benedict's skates Ottawan had to kick to safety.

In the dying moments it seemed as if the Senators had secured a break. Boucher stick-handled right into the Maroon defence and they crowded him in, thinking that he would drill a shot, as usual on Bendict. Boucher passed to Denneny and it looked like a goal, but as the sniper set himself to trim Benedict, Broadbent came tearing back like a Dervish and just got to Denneny in time to hurry his shot and put it off the net.

Senators Too Anxious

It was a tense nerve-wracking battle from start to finish. With so much depending on the result, there was considerable over-anxiety on the part of the players and to this condition can be attributed, in a small degree, one reason for the Ottawa defeat. In the closing minutes they threw team play and discretion to the winds, banging the rubber at Benedict from all angles, when at times a little combination might have been more fruitful.

On the night's play the better team won. The Montrealers threw their all into the game from the start and their sturdy methods wore down the fire, if not the spirit of the Ottawa attack. As the game progressed this condition became more evident, and when the Maroons settled to a defensive game, their system was so letter-perfect that there was small chance of anything drifting through to the cage.

Phillips Got Chance

The winners used their bodies with telling effects, Spirit ran high throughout and there were many exchanges, the majority of which fortunately resulted in no serious damage to the combatants. Bill Phillips was temporarily out of action in the second period when Finnegan's stick crashed on his head, but is was so apparently unintentional that Referee Marsh did not penalize the Senators. It was the remarkable method of teamplay of the Maroons that got them victory, or rather enabled them to hold their slim lead after they had gone out in front. The silent illness of Dunc Munro forced a shift in the Maroon defence and give Phillips his chance. Greyhound stepped into the game as one of its most valuable men and the move which sent Stewart back to the defence proved to be a master move. The new-up looked to be the strongest combination has had this season. Stewart was used for relief purposes with Phillips, and on these occasions Stewart, comparatively fresh, was able to take his place at centre ice and keep the Montreal steam roller going at a uniform gait.

Denneny Injured

Although a terrific pace was followed throughout the first period there was little to warrant a goal by either team. Siebert featured with his hard shooting while the heavy defensive game employed supplied excitement galore. Stewart made one of his dangerous excursions in this period while an unfortunate accident nearly robbed the Senators of their services. Boucher banged Benedict into the fence to start a mix-up. Broadbent intercepted the puck and attempted to bang it into the net, but it went by the Ottawa captain's foot. Shot went high and the puck glanced into Denneny's face, inflicting a nasty cut on the cheek which required forcing him out of the game for the remaining fifteen minutes of the period.

Clancy Exhausted.

Before that great little piece of stick-ability, "King" Clancy led the Senators. Clancy's display has not been equalled on any ice surface. He played himself into a state of exhaustion and when the bell signalled the finish he had to be helped from the ice. He and Connell were Ottawa's best. Clancy checked and rushed and rushed and checked, dozens of hard drives on the Maroon cage.

Smith was the weak link. Referee Granite drew five penalties and earned a fifteen dollar fine for his trouble to Hewitson.

Referees Marsh and Hewitson handled the game well. They had a difficult evening and the only criticism that can be leveled at them when they called a penalty on the Ottawa goalie.

The final score was: Montreal Maroons 1, Ottawa 0.

HORNSBY LOOKS OVER HIS TEAM

Believe Infield Compares Favorably With Any in Baseball.

LIKES RECRUITS.

SAN ANTONIO, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Additional strength in the pitching box has made the St. Louis Cardinals more formidable National League pennant contenders than a year ago, when they finished fourth, in the opinion of their famous player-manager Rogers Hornsby.

Elaborating on his theme, Hornsby said:

"Three new right handers are with us this spring—Victor Keen, formerly with the Chicago Cubs; Walter Huntzinger, whom were purchased from the Giants, and Sylvester Johnson, once with the Detroit Tigers, whom we drafted from the Vernon Club of the Pacific Coast League. Bill Sherdel who led the National pitchers last season, is in good shape as is Jesse Haines, the big right hander. Allen Sothern, a veteran southpaw, has worked hard and I look for him to win his quota of games. Walter Mails is in far better condition than he was at this time last season.

"I believe our infield with Bottomley at first; Thexenow at short and Lester Bell, third; with myself at second, compares favorably with any in baseball. It is my intention to start the outfield with three right handed hitters, Douthit, Blades and Hafey with Mueller, Smith and Holm in reserve.

"Bob O'Farrell, the best catcher in the National League, will have capable assistance from Ernie Vick and Bill Warwick.

PADDOCK EQUALS RECORD

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Charlie Paddock's speedy cleats burned the cinder track here Saturday and proved that he still is the "fastest human" by equalling his own world's 100-yard record of 9 6-10 seconds. Paddock carried the colors of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, which defeated Stanford University, 67 to 64, in a dual track meet.

LADIES' BASKETBALL.

OTTAWA, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Toronto Lakesides defeated Ottawa Rowing Club on Saturday afternoon by a score of 26 points to 16 in the first game of the Ontario Ladies' Basketball finals. Taller, stronger and better shots, the visitors gave full value for the ten points lead which they will take into the final in Toronto on Saturday next.

OTTAWA HOCKEY FANS BOWED IN SOLEMN TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF GEORGES VEZINA

Greatest Goaler of All Time, the Dead Veteran of "Les Canadiens," Was Favorite With the Capital Throng.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 29.—(Canadian Press).—The second largest crowd that ever saw a hockey match in this city stood to attention for two minutes on Saturday night to pay silent tribute to the memory of one of the greatest goalers of all time—the late Georges Vezina.

After the Ottawa and Montreal teams had concluded their warming up exercises, Referee Lou Marsh called them to the center of the ice and announced to the crowd that the tribute was to be paid. The players lined up on their respective blue lines, and while Marsh and Hewitson stood in the center of the ice with bared heads, the entire crowd did likewise and the band played two verses of "Nearer My God To Thee."

The ceremony was one of the most impressive ever witnessed here and in that vast throng there were many who stood unashamed while tears coursed down their faces. The silent Georges was one of the greatest favorites who ever played for a visiting team in Ottawa. The solemnity and sincerity of the tribute paid his memory Saturday night was mute testimony of the respect in which the former Canadien star was held by the hockey world in general.

CAMBRIDGE MIGHT HAVE BROKEN RECORD WITH SPURT AT FINISH

Oxford Cracked Half Way Down Course and Winners Were Not Pressed.

IDEAL WEATHER

PUTNEY, England, March 29 (Canadian Press). — The Cambridge eight, rowing with a stroke so slow as to appear leisurely, but in perfect unison, passed the finishing line five lengths ahead of the Oxford shell in the seventy-eighth annual boat race between these two ancient rivals on the Thames Saturday.

The easy finish of the Light Blue crew did not indicate the terrific struggle between the rival eights which marked the first half of their progress over the winding four and a quarter-mile course. Up to the half-way mark neither crew was able to break the tie that held them almost neck and neck, in spite of the greatest exertions. This phase of the contest, however, ended at Hammersmith Bridge, where H. R. A. Edwards, the freshman who rowed at number five for Oxford, faltered and allowed Cambridge to swing into the lead. This advantage the victors easily maintained until they had passed the finish line at Mortlake.

Superior Teamwork.

Cambridge's brilliant victory was achieved in spite of a disadvantage of position and the loss of a regular member of the crew through sickness at the last minute. J. C. H. Booth, at number four, was out on account of measles, and R. T. D. Cragges, a substitute, was at his oar. The Light Blue victory was hailed as another example of the superiority of teamwork over the ill-co-ordinated efforts of stronger and heavier men.

The victors' time was 19 minutes 29 seconds, just one minute slower than the record for the course made by Oxford in 1911, but it seemed to the crowds gathered at the finish that Cambridge might have cut off an extra minute by spurting for the last mile.

The surface of the Thames was unrippled during the race, and weather conditions were ideal. A light breeze aided the oarsmen, while sunshine brightened the day for the thousands who lined the river banks to cheer their favorites.

Oxford Won Choice.

Oxford won the toss and chose the sheltered Surrey side of the river.

The crews were away at 12.27. Oxford making a furious start at 38 strokes to the minute, which gained them a slight lead. They soon settled down to 36. The Cambridge stroke was satisfied with a pace of 34 strokes to the minute, with the bodies of the Light Blue crew moving backward and forward with such flawless precision that they kept almost even with their harder working opponents.

For the first mile Oxford stayed ahead for a half length. Then the shells came even, and the spectators along the next mile of the course saw a thrilling struggle, with the boys alternately taking leads of half a length, the crew varying their stroke between 28 and 34 to the minute. At the half-way mark number five in the Oxford shell showed fatigue, and for a while hardly seemed to be rowing at all.

Oxford Fall Behind.

From that point the Oxonians never really got behind their stroke man, and Cambridge, settling down to 28, soon put five lengths of water between their shell and the Oxford boat. The victors were able to keep this easy stroke without changing until the finish.

The Cambridge oarsmen came to rest after the finish, sitting upright and showing little weariness, while only four of their rivals were moving their oars at the end, the others lying listlessly over the seats.

J. A. Brown, the 110-pound Cambridge coxwain, steered his boat to victory for the third successive time. Cambridge now has won seven of the eight contests since the annual classic was resumed after the war, but Oxford still retains the lead with 40 victories to 37 in the long history of this struggle, the 1877 race having been a dead heat.

CUP FINALISTS SAME AS IN 1904

Bolton Wanderers and Manchester City Won Semi-finals Saturday.

FINAL APRIL 24.

LONDON, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Lancashire will monopolize the Wembley Stadium on April 24 next when Bolton Wanderers confront Manchester City in the final round of the English Cup. These teams advanced to the last stage of the tournament Saturday when Bolton extinguished the last hopes of Wales by defeating Swansea Town three goals to nothing on the ground of Tottenham Hotspurs, and Manchester City eliminated Manchester United at Bramall Lane, the ground of Sheffield United, by exactly the same count. Thus the story of 1904 will repeat itself to that extent, for it is twenty-two years since Bolton and Manchester City met in an English Cup final. On that occasion Manchester won by the only goal scored in the game. Whether they will duplicate that performance or not is on the lap of the gods.

Since then, only one of these two teams, Bolton Wanderers, has figured in a Cup final. They met and defeated West Ham United in the opening year of the Wembley Stadium, in 1923, taking the Cup by two goals to nil.

Twenty-five thousand fans saw Swansea go down before Bolton, all of the Lancastrian counters coming in the first period. The Welsh stuck gamely to their task in the second half, but try as they might, they were unable to penetrate the barrier that the Bolton intermediate line held up in front of their forwards.

At Bramall Lane, Manchester City led at the end of the first half by one goal, and in the second added two more to the count. The second period was characterized by some strenuous play that occasionally became rough.

CELTIC DEFEAT A BIG SURPRISE

Aberdeen's Victory Over Rangers Another Feature of Scots League.

SUMMARY OF GAMES

GLASGOW, March 29. —(Canadian Press Cable.)—Two surprises featured Scottish League games Saturday, the defeat of Celtic, the League leaders, at Motherwell and the victory of Aberdeen over the Rangers at Ibrox Park. The Rangers forwards were unable to do anything against the magnificent defense thrown up by the Aberdonians, Hutton being particularly outstanding. Among the ten forwards of both sides, Reid, who scored for Aberdeen, was the most prominent.

At Motherwell, where Celtic ran against a snag, the game went scoreless for the first period, but in the second half Motherwell were put ahead by Little and Tennant. Celtic staged a thrilling and desperate finish, and reduced the lead by one when McInally defeated Motherwell's gaolie.

Rock, with three goals and Rennie and McPhail with one each, were the stars of the Airdrieonians team in their tilt against Hibernians. The Easter Road Club responded with one only, secured through Murray.

Dundee's Victory.

An interesting tourney was decided at Tannadice Park, when Dundee United obtained the points over the other team that accompanied them from the second string last year, Clydebank. The United stacked up a quintet of counters while Clydebank went scoreless. Walker had two, Oswald, Simpson and Campbell secured the rest. Clydebank were completely outplayed in all departments of the game.

Heart of Midlothian were leading Dundee at Tynecastle Park by a couple of goals in the first half, and to all appearances had the points slated away. Dundee staged a strong come-back in the second frame, however, and equalized through Campbell. White and Smith were the goal getters for the Hearts.

Partick and Morton played a draw, dividing six goals between them. Kinloch, Grove and Millar were the stars for the home team, and Buchanan, Dunlop and Graham did the services for Morton.

Other Results.

Queen's Park had hard luck in emerging with only a draw at Hampden Park. On form they should have won for they had by far the better of the game. Russell did the honors for the amateur, while Weir and Cunningham responded for Kilmarnock. Queen's missed a penalty kick which should have put them ahead.

Other scorers were: Ellis for St. Johnstone against Williamson for Hamilton; Goudie (3) and Paterson for Falkirk against Bell for Raith Rovers. Gebbie scored two for Paisley St. Mirren against Wilson's lone tally for Cowdenbeath.

Falkirk and Aberdeen won away from home. There were four drawn games and four home teams won.

The weather throughout Scotland was ideal yesterday for football.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 29 (Canadian Press) — Police details were called to quell a free-for-all fight that developed between players and spectators at the Fall River J. and P. FIRST STANLEY CUP CONTEST TUESDAY

Victoria Cougars Arrived in Montreal on Sunday.

MONTREAL, March 29.—(Canadian Press).—Victoria Cougars, led by Lester Patrick, arrived in Montreal Sunday to start their series in defence of the Stanley Cup against the challenge of the Montreal Maroons, who Saturday won the National Hockey League title and the right to bid for the trophy. The Pacific Coast team was met at the station by Captain Dunc Munro, representing the Montreal team. From 11 o'clock until noon the champions skated at the Forum, and practice there again today in a final workout prior to the start of the big series.

These two champion teams will meet in the first game under Eastern rules at the Forum Tuesday night. Details in connection with the series will be arranged at a meeting today between President Frank Calder, of the N.H.L., and officers of the two clubs. It is likely that two Montreal referees will be appointed for the series.

The series will be for the best three out of five game. The second game will be contested Thursday under Western rules and the third game Saturday under Eastern rules, the Eastern and Western code alternating with each game. If a fourth game is necessary, it will likely be played on Tuesday, April 6.

TIED IN WINNIPEG.

Maroons and Duluth in the Fourth Game To-night.

WINNIPEG, Man., Mar. 29 (Canadian Press)—The Winnipeg Maroons and Duluth Hornets failed to make any headway in their four-game play-off in the Central Hockey League for the right to enter the finals against Minneapolis when they battled to a three-goal overtime tie in the third game here Saturday night. The series hinges, therefore, on tonight's game as each side has won one game and tied one in the games to date.

The Maroons had an edge Saturday night and led most of the way, but the Hornets always managed to come through with the tying tally. The Maroons scored the only goal of the first period, while each side counted once in the middle session. The Hornets outscored the locals two to one in the third period to tie matters. The overtime was scoreless.

Who Is Your Favorite?

Boys! Here's your chance!

Here's a competition you can all get in.

Write two hundred words about your favorite player on the Peterborough Senior Hockey Team, Champions of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The prize winner will be the guest of The Examiner at the banquet to be given to the team in recognition of its splendid work this season.

This is the idea. The Petes have brought to this city the first Senior Championship it has ever had. They deserve all kinds of credit. Every boy on the team did his share. But you have your favorite—maybe you think he plays smarter hockey than the others; or he may skate better; or he may be merely better looking. Whatever your reason, write it out in not more than 200 words, and send it to "The Contest Editor, The Examiner," observing these simple rules:

(1) Open only to boys of 17 or under.

(2) Accuracy, penmanship, composition and neatness count.

(3) Contest closes at midnight, April 3.

(4) Pictures of the players will be run every day, without names. Clip out the picture of your favorite and paste it on a sheet of paper with his name written carefully under it. Pin this to your 200 word story or essay.

(5) A coupon, properly filled in and signed by a parent or guardian, must accompany every entry.

A committee of prominent citizens will be asked to decide the winner, and in case of dispute the Editor's decision will be final.

The date of the banquet is April 15.

Clip out this Coupon and attach it to your essay.

FOUR OF TORONTO LEAF'S RECRUITS

There is no dearth of fine young material at the Leafs' Georgia camp, and not the least promising the quartet shown above. From left to right they are: Hayworth, Knowlton, O'Neill and McIntyre. The first named is the catcher who has been doing so well in teh preliminary of work. He comes from the Blue Ridge League. The others are pitchers, with Knowlton, who starred with Wilkesbarre last year, probably the likeliest one of the lot on the score of experience. McIntyre is the western Ontario amateur who is trying out at his own expense.

CARLARIS WON $7,700 CLASSIC

Wonder Colt Beat Field of Nine Fleet Runners.

AT SAN DIEGO.

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 29. — Canadian Press. — Carlaris, wonder cold, owned by the Chula Vista Stable, returned his owners $7700 here on Sunday. in the running of the seventh renewal of the Coffroth handicap, western racing classic. over a mile and a quarter course, when he beat out a field of nine stellar runners by eight lengths.

Carlaris was piloted to a sensational victory by Jockey Willie Munden, of Montreal, whose riding has been the feature of the track since its opening this season.

Carlaris is a bay coldt, bred in England by Phalaris, out of Carnival and was acquired by W. T. Anderson of Chula Vista, as a two year old for the reported price of $6500.

Carlaris was away well at the lifting of the barrier and Munden brought him to the fore with little delay, rounding the first turn with a length and a half margin and had increased the advantage to four lengths at the quarter pole.

Munden urged the colt to greater efforts and had drawn out to ten lengths over Roycrofter upon entering the stretch. He was then eased up and finished eight lengths to the good.

Dr. Clark was the first to break at the start but was outsprinted by the colt and dropped well back after being passed in the first quarter by Serenader and Kentucky Cardinal. The latter two raced in those positions until the stretch head, but were never able to cut down Carlaris' margin.

Roycrofter, G. F. Croissant's stellar colt, took second money, amounting to $5500. Third money amounting to $3000, went to Baron Long, owner of Cherry Tree. and Kentucky Cardinal, also owned by Croissant, returned his owner $1500. for fourth place. Munden received $2500 from the Tia Juana Jockey Club.

The time breaks the track record of 2.04 4-5 set by Dr. Clark, by 2 1-5 seconds.

A crowd estimated at well over 25,000, saw the race.

Roycrofter finished second. Cherry Tree, four lengths back for 3rd, and and Kentucky Cardinal finished another length behind for fourth.

Time, 2.02 3-5—a new track record.

CALGARY, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Fourteen valuable thoroughbred race horses were burned to death and two others were killed by a Canadian Pacific train after escaping from a burning barn, when fire completely destroyed the barn at Victoria Park on Sunday morning. Twelve of the horses were owned by Robert Emmett of Winnipeg and the rest locally.

The horses burned were valued around $30,000. Jimmy Rags, trainer for the Emmert Stable, was badly burned around the head and arms when he endeavored to save some of the horses.

473,000 FANS AT RICKARD'S RINK

Ottawa Played Before 45,000 in Three Games—17,319 Was Record.

THE "PROS" SEASON.

NEW YORK, March 29 — That the game of hockey enjoyed tremendous success during its first season on a really big scale in this city is shown by the fact that a total of about 473,000 persons witnessed the games in Madison Square Garden during the campaign which closed last week, according to figures compiled here yesterday. About 237,500 persons watched the New York professional sextet in action against the various other teams in the National Hockey League. The other 235,500 persons attended the various college and amateur games.

A total of sixty-two hockey games were played in the Garden during the season. Twenty-one of these were professional games, twenty-four were play by the teams of the Eastern Amateur Hockey League, thirteen were college games, two were schoolboy contests and there were two other games between amateur club teams and college sextets. About 110,000 persons saw the teams of the amateur league in action, while approximately 125,500 were on hand for the games in which the college teams and the schoolboy sextets took part.

The largest crowds of the season, of course, were attracted by the professional teams, and in two or three instances these contests taxed the capacity of the Garden. The largest crowd of the season, which numbered 17,319, according to officials of the New York Hockey Club, attended the first game of the season between the New York six and the league-leading Ottawa Senators, which was played on January 11. This was one of the most sensational games of the entire season, and it resulted in a victory for the Ottawa six by 1 to 0 in an overtime battle.

17,231 Attended Opening

The second largest crowd of the season was that which attended the formal opening of the Garden. This crowd numbered 17,231, and it saw the Canadiens of Montreal triumph over the New York sextet by 3 to 1. In addition to the first game of the season between the New York sextet and the Ottawa team, both of the other contests played in this city with the league leaders were well attended. In the game with the Senators on Jan. 30 12,821 persons attended, while at that on March 4 13,331 were on hand. All three games with the Ottawa team were among the best of the season. Although New York put up a hard fight in each of the three contests with the league leads in this city it was unable to win any of them. In each of the three contests the score was 1-to 0. New York's only victory over the Ottawa club during the past season was gained in Ottawa.

The New York sextet played a total of eighteen games during its regular season and about 213,500 attended these contests. Approximately 24,000 more were on hand for the three games in the post-season series with the Portland Rosebuds, which was played last week. Of the eighteen games played at the Garden by the New Yorkers during the regular season, only four were won by the Americans. Their first victory of the season at home was gained at the expense of the Pittsburgh sextet by a score of 3 to 1. A crowd of 13,649 attended that battle. This victory came after the New Yorkers had lost to the Canadiens in the first home game of the season and then to the Montreal Maroons by 4 to 1.

GIANTS STILL FIND JOHNSON A PUZZLE

Walter Just Coasts Along To 7-3 Victory.

TAMPA, Fla., March 29 — On Saturday in old Tampa the Senators resumed their warfare with the Giants by throwing John J. McGraw's men for a total loss, 7 to 3. This evened the series at one victory apiece, the Giants having spanked the enemy in a recent game at Sarasota.

The Giants lost because of that old baseball rule which says that a game must begin in the first inning and not in the third. After the second round the Giants made two runs and the Senators made exactly none. In the same space of time the Senators got only three hits to the Giants' seven. It was a lovely game after the second and a terrible one before the third.

Virgil Barnes started the game for Mr. McGraw and yielded seven runs and seven hits in the first two innings. Giving Walter Johnson a lead like that was equivalent to spotting Man o' War two furlongs in a mile race. Old Barney merely coasted along and the Senators coasted with him, despite the best efforts of Alex Ferguson, the Yankee cast-off, to get his mates into a jam in the later rounds. The only resemblance between Barnes and Johnson was that both pitched with the right arm. Barnes was wild and ineffective.

18 RACE HORSES BURNED

CALGARY, Alta., March 29 (Canadian Press)—Eighteen race horses were burned to death in a fire which early Sunday morning destroyed one of the barns at the Calgary Exhibition grounds.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

LAKELAND, Fla., March 29.—Cleveland finished sixth in the American League last season.

This year Cleveland will be represented by practically the same lineup, It is hardly possible that any of the veterans will be displaced.

What about the prospects of the Indians?

On the above information, form players would figure the Indians might be sixth but hardly any better.

In the camp of the Indians there is no such a pessimistic feeling. The team as a whole believes it is a better ball club than the aggregation of 1925 and intends to prove it.

When I asked Manager Speaker his opinion he replied:

"It is now, and will continue throughout the season to be, a much better conditioned team than that of 1925.

Much Better Team Spirit.

"There is a much better spirit on the ball club. That should help considerably.

"The team will get greatly improved pitching. On that feature of play I base my strongest hopes for progress in the pennant race.

"Regardless of where Cleveland finishes this year, it is going to be a much better ball club and is going to play far more interesting baseball. That much I can promise the fans."

Expecting a ball club that finished sixth last season and is almost certain to start with the same line-up makes it necessary to get some new angle.

Working along these lines, the physical condition of the Cleveland club as compared to that of last year impressed me most.

I doubt if the entire squad of veterans and rookies is carrying more than 35 pounds of excess weight. Pitcher Joe Shaute alone had that much last year.

The Cleveland club is going to be in good shape for a flying start and Manager Speaker is banking on getting it, if his pitching delivers.

So Goes Ball Club.

Pitching is Speaker's problem, like that of most every other manager. If Joe Shaute and George Uhle come through, then the Indians are 35 per cent more efficient. If they fail, the club goes down with them.

Joe Shaute, who reported weighing about 230 last spring, is around 190. George Uhle, who was better than 200 last year, is around 180.

These two pitchers are physically fit. Last year poor condition handicapped them. This year there will be no such excuse.

In ranking my teams I wouldn't pick Cleveland to win the pennant, but I might add there are less formidable clubs in the American League.

Efficient pitching by Uhle and Shaute would make the club a first-division possibility, and that kind of baseball interests fandom.

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

By Special Arrangement With Colliers' Magazine.

JOHN DUNCAN DUNN—PRACTICE BUNKER SHOTS

Golf architects nowadays realize that they must be considerate of the average golfer, for the great majority of golfers will never be anything else but average. They will not practice enough to become anything else, and I am slowly coming to the opinion that no human agency will ever get the average golfer to practice as much as he should, which, of course, at the last analysis, is what makes him remain an average golfer.

He could be better than that, but he won't be, so why spoil his fun by fixing his golf course in such a difficult way that the average golfer has no chance? Greater leniency in the matter of putting in too difficult hazards is only common sense, for the more difficult golf is, beyond the certain point of making it a good sport, the fewer people will play it enthusiastically, and the more enthusiasts there are the better all around for golf.

But the bunkers are there and the secret of playing out of them can be covered in the advice to always be sure to get out.

DELMAR LUNDGREN

By Nea Service

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 29 —The one recruit pitcher of the Boston Red Sox almost certain to make good, is Delmar Lundgren, a well-built right-hander, who curved 'em for Birmingham in the Southern Association last year.

With a tailend ball club, he had the impressive record of 14 victories against 15 defeats, Because of the poor team he was with, his fine work was generally overlooked. The Pittsburgh club once owned him.

Lundgren has a great fast ball. His curve is only fair but that can be developed.

ography, and Bible study classes.

Of the two million factory workers in Japan, two-thirds are girls. Two hundred thousand, chiefly under 15 years, are recruited yearly from the rural districts and the Y.W.C.A. "House of Friendship," where they may board, is a great help to them in every way. The Canadian Young Women's Christian Association contributes each year to Y.W.C.A. work in China, Japan and India, Japan being the responsibility of the Ontario Associations.

Local "Y" members have contributed voluntarily toward this foreign work, and are arranging this moving picture and musical evening, the proceeds of which they hope will enable Peterboro to send its full share of $150.

The following members and friends are contributing to the musical part of the programme: Mrs. N. Foote, Miss Elizabeth Webber, Miss Alma Blanchard, Miss Winnifred Niddery, Miss Grace Horie, and Miss Mabel McNeeley and Mrs. F. McNeeley, and little Marion Dryland, pupil of Mrs. McNeeley.

Everyone is invited to come and enjoy this programme and thus assist the Y.W.C.A. foreign work.

CRICKETER DEAD; WAS KNOWN HERE

John S. Bowbanks Was Engaged in Sporting Goods Business.

TORONTO, March 29.— Following an illness of nine days, the death occurred yesterday of John S. Bowbanks, 139 Walmer Road, from pneumonia. Deceased was born in England, and came to Canada as a young man, and from the time of his arrival up to the time of his death he was actively engaged in the sporting goods business. As representative of the Starr Company of Halifax, Mr. Bowbanks travelled throughout Canada, and in his younger days was a well known cricketer. He was also a member of the Rosedale Club, and during the past number of years was a coach of the Upper Canada College cricket teams. The deceased was a widower, his wife's death preceding his by three years. One daughter, Doris, of New York City, survives. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, interment in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Mr. Bowbanks played cricket here last summer and was well known to the members of the Peterborough Cricket Club.

PROVINCIAL POLICE OFFICERS ARRESTED

Liquor Found in Their Rooms in Hotel in Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Mar. 29 (Canadian Press)—Wallace Spear and Robert Stanley Russell, provincial officers of Toronto, were arrested here on Saturday in a local hotel when, the local police state, a quantity of liquor was found in their rooms. They were released on bail and will appear in police court today. Neither Inspector Howard Graham, in charge of the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act in the Ottawa district, nor Chief of Police Alexander Ross knew of the presence of the two men in the city.

Out on Bail.

Robert Stanley Russell and Wallace Spears, Provincial Police officers from Toronto, who were arrested here on Saturday night on charges of transporting liquor, and were later allowed out on bail, will probably come up for trial in Police Court here on Wednesday. When their case was called in court this morning Magistrate Hopewell granted remand without calling upon the accused to appear and plead.

COMMUNITY WELFARE

kindly relations always existing between the chief and the members of the staff in all departments.

Mr. Glover, in responding to the toast, paid a warm tribute to the loyalty of every member of The Examiner forces. He remarked that the newspaper game no matter in what branch one was employed, gave frequent opportunities for lost tempers, because of the facilities with which mistakes occurred, but these difficulties disappeared in the face of a willingness on the part of all concerned to make allowances for the other fellow and to feel that he was doing his best always.

Of The Examiner, Mr. Glover declared that it was his ambition to make the paper a real force for good in this city and district. Every movement that had as its object the welfare of the community could be assured of the warm support of The Examiner, which was willing to devote its space and money and the energy of its staff to the promotion of all good causes. He urged The Examiner forces to realize this feature of their work and to interest themselves even more closely than before in this effort to make their paper of greater value to the district it served.

The speaker heartily approved of the annual banquet as a function that developed esprit de corps among The Examiner workers and urged that it be supplemented by a softball league and a summer picnic.

The Craft

The toast to "The Craft" was proposed by John R. Heron, City Editor, who recounted the benefits given the world through the exercise of the printing art, the nurse of all the other professions. "All civilization," he said, "past, present and future, have been and will be built by the direct agency of the written and printed word. Without the press progress would be impossible and the dissemination of knowledge would cease."

In responding Walter Peters, who is one of The Examiner's oldest employees, acknowledged the tributes that had been paid to the Craft, and recalled incidents of the early days of The Examiner. When he commenced his trade, he said, all type was hand set, and it was believed that no machine could ever be invented to set type. Today, with linotype and monotype composing machines, and high-speed rotary presses, the newspaper publishing business is revolutionized. The men engaged in it are of a different class, too, and they and their trade have been elevated.

The Bowlers

A. O. Phillips, prominent in bowling and in organizing the banquet, proposed the toast to "The Bowling League," telling of the benefits obtained from the sport, through drawing the men together in social activity.

Maurice Dunkley Secretary of the Peterborough Local of the International Typographical Union, responded, and D. D. C. Dawe, superintendent, presented the championship cup to Ralph Holyman, Walter Barringer, Roy Taylor and H. Tedford; and prizes to George Taylor and George Cairns.

Among Those Present

The committee in charge of the banquet consisted of Harry Lacheur, chairman; M. Dunkley; J. R. Heron; H. J. McCauley; A. O. Phillips, treasurer; F. C. Scates, secretary; and others present were R. M. Glover, R. D. Taylor, R. A. Holyman, F. D. Craig, T. H. Theobald C. J. Beauclerc, J. K McDonald, W. Craw, J. Turnbull, G. J. Johnson, H. Tedford, R. T. Hounsell, W. Peters, J. Wyllie, W. THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE STREET OF FORGOTTEN MEN" is an Absorbingly Interesting Tale of "Inside" Life of the Old Bowery.

The Bowery of today is a calm and placid place compared to the famous street as it was a quarter of a century ago. Most of the "dives" have been turned into ice cream parlors or carefully stage-managed show places for tourists. The criminals and degenerates who used to make it a by-word among respectable people have given way to shiftless wrecks whose nerve is great enough only for the filching of an unwary pocketbook.

But in one respect things are much the same. In the old days, the denizens of the Bowery, whose lives form the interesting background of "The Street of Forgotten Men," a new Herbert Brenon production for Paramount, used various terms to designate people and things with which they came into most frequent contact. This argot, or slang, was not only picturesque and typical of the crooks and professional panhandlers who used it, but was also of practical value to them, for it was a kind of code which prevented the stranger (who was usually the victim) from understanding the trend of the conversation. The guileless tourist, for instance, who was wont to come to the Bowery in search of a thrill which he could afterwards relate—with embellishments!—to the home folks in Hickville, wasn't likely to suspect that the amusing Bowery tough had anything sinister in mind when he spoke to a confederate about a "souper" or a "leather." Only when it was all over did he realize that they were discussing the watch and wallet which flitted from his pockets soon afterward!

This code of slang phrases has come down to the present day pretty much unchanged. A pickpocket is still a "dip," and a safe-breaker a "peterman." Everyone knows that a "mark" is a sucker and that a banknote is a "wrapper." Now, as in the old days, a precious stone is a "prop," a gold watch chain is a "red slang," a sneak thief is a "heelman."

George Kibbe Turner, in his story on which "The Street of Forgotten Men" is based, has given an absorbing interesting picture of the "inside" life of the Bowery in the old days. Many phases of it, such as the operations of the "cripple factory" and the activities of the professional beggars and panhandlers, will come under the head of "absolutely new" to most people. It will be especially startling to those good folk who have been giving generously to beggars to learn that these mendicants, both of yesterday and today, are fakes who deliberately prey on sympathetic passers-by. John D Godfrey, who has had over twenty years' experience with beggars, and who assisted Herbert Brenon in the production of this picture, says that in all his dealings with mendicants he has yet to find a single deserving case.

Percy Marmont, Neil Hamilton and Mary Brian are featured in the leading roles of the picture, which comes to the Capitol Theatre today.

London Daily Herald: "Satan's Sister" is 100 per cent. British. There are sunlit seas and moonlit sands, and cabin scenes that are miracles of lighting. Mr. Pearson has never allowed the sentiment to kill the humor, he has never forgotten the essential pictorial quality of each scene, and he has never over-emphasized a point, always admitting a little intelligence on the part of the audience. Nervous Strain of Modern Life

LIFE was never lived at such high tension. There is a mania for speed, hurry and excitement. Nerve force is consumed at a tremendous rate and there is little time for recuperation.

But there is a limit to human strength. Sooner or later there comes the nervous breakdown.

There is usually plenty of warning of the approach of nervous exhaustion or collapse. You find you do not rest or sleep well. You are nervous and irritable. Little things annoy and worry you. You may have indigestion and headaches.

To get away from this condition you must have rest. You must help the nerves to get back health and vigor.

The most effective restorative of the nerves is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Many have been restored after months or years of the most serious forms of nervous trouble. But prevention is the wiser course. It is so easy to head off trouble by using this great restorative when the warning symptoms come.

You will feel younger and look younger and your friends will notice this and compliment you. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 60 cts. a box, all dealers or The Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Ltd., Toronto, 2, Canada.

SECRETARY GENERAL INTENDS RESIGNING

One-Time Leader of Extreme Fascists is Quitting Post.

MILAN, Italy, March 29. — Canadian Press. — Roberto Farinacci, the secretary-general of the Fascist party, announced to-day his intention of resigning from that post.

R. Farinacci, a deputy and lawyer, was elected secretary general of the Fascist party on February 13th, 1925. He had been regarded as the leader of that group in the party favoring the carrying of the Fascist program to completion without any regard for constitutional considerations, but after his election he announced that he favored avoiding violence whenever possible.

BRIAND WINS IN FIRST SKIRMISH

Finance Committee Approves Most of Financial Measures.

PARIS, Mar. 29 (United Press). —Premier Briand to-day won the first skirmish of the political-financial battle which may end in his defeat and ninth resignation from the Premiership.

The political situation is serious and the already weak French franc weakened further as the Chamber of Deputies Finance Committee met to consider Finance Minister Peret's projects for balancing the budget and saving the treasury from bankruptcy.

Confronted by unwaivering insistence from Briand and Peret, the commission approved, by a vote of 15 to 10, the proposed increase in the tax on business turnover of wholesalers and semi-wholesalers. This tax would produce 1,200,000,000 francs, approximately $40,000,000.

The commission also approved a majority of the direct and indirect taxes proposed by Peret. The Chamber will begin consideration of the financial project on Tuesday afternoon. The outcome is doubtful. When the question was before the Chamber a little more than three weeks ago, Briand was suddenly voted out of office at dawn after an all-night session.

The death occurred on March 27, at Bitterne Park, Southampton, England, of John Kennett, father of J. Kennett, 15 Hilliard Street, Peterborough, in his 83rd year.

ALBERT H. JONES.

The death occurred suddenly at his residence, 713 Lansdowne Avenue, in Toronto, on Saturday, of Albert H. Jones, in his 53rd year.

The deceased was a former resident of this city, where he was born and raised. He removed to Toronto from here about fifteen years ago. A sister, Mrs. W. Clark, Louis Street, and a brother, William Jones, Romaine Street, live here.

GEORGE T. LEONARD.

The following notice, from the Mail and Empire, refers to the late George T. Leonard, a brother of Mrs. G. H. Giroux of this city:

George T. Leonard died in his home on Concord Avenue on Sunday morning from pneumonia, after a short illness. The late Mr. Leonard was born in Peterborough in 1845. He was educated there, and in 1865, he commenced the study of law in the office of the Hon. Sidney Smith, a former Postmaster-General of Canada. After graduating in 1870, he entered into partnership with Mr. Smith in Peterborough and Cobourg, and practised his profession until he was appointed Deputy Clerk of the Crown and Registrar of the Surrogate Court at Peterborough. He remained in Peterborough until 1899 when he removed to Toronto, where he received an appointment in the office of the Accountant of the Supreme Court of Ontario at Osgoode Hall, which position he held until superannuated in 1923. He was married in 1869 to Bridget Hoban, who predeceased him in 1917. He leaves surviving three daughters, Mrs. Frances Geary, Mrs. David Young and Clara, all residing in Toronto. He was a brother of C. J. Leonard, of the legal firm of Jones and Leonard. His funeral will take place on Tuesday next from the family residence to St. Anthony's Church, and from there to Mount Hope Cemetery.

HENRY COLVIN.

There passed away on Friday evening at Hillcrest, the country residence of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Batten, of Warsaw, one of the oldest residents of the community in the person of Henry Colvin. The deceased was in his seventy-eighth year and had been seriously ill for the past two months.

Mr. Colvin was born in Mount Charles, Ireland, and came to Warsaw when thirteen years of age. He married Elizabeth Bullock and they lived in Leamington, Essex, until the death of Mrs. Colvin twelve years ago. Mr. Colvin then made his home with his daughter, Mrs. R. Batten, in Warsaw, where in his quiet, kindly way he made many friends and was much respected by all who knew him. He was a faithful member of the United church.

He leaves to mourn his loss five daughters, Mrs. H. Drew of Vancouver, Mrs. Richard Batten, of Warsaw, Mrs. J. Dawson, Mrs. C. Hairsine and Mrs. A. Bell, of Leamington. Another daughter, Mrs. L. Fuerey, of Jenner, Alta., predeceased him four years ago.

A funeral service was held at Mr. Batten's house on Saturday morning, which was largely attended by friends and acquaintances. Rev. Mr. Jull, of Lakefield, officiated. The remains were then taken to Leamington, Essex, for burial. Mr. and Mrs. Batten are attending the funeral.

HOWARD L. FORREST.

The remains of the late Howard L. Forrest, whose sudden death at Pine Bluff, Arkansas, on Sunday, March 7th, was reported last week, arrived here on Thursday afternoon and were conveyed to the home of his uncle, Mr. William Smith, East Seymour, from where the funeral took place on Friday afternoon, March 13. A large concourse of relatives, friends and neighbors gathered to pay a tribute to the memory of the deceased.

The remains were conveyed to Tabernacle United Church, English Line, where service was conducted by Rev. Chas. D. Daniel. Members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows attended and the ritual burial service of the Order was conducted. The remains were placed in English Line Cemetery.

Among the floral tributes that adorned the casket were: Wreath, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Smith; broken wheel, wife and sister; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Craighead and Earl; spray, Mr. and Mrs. John Younger; cross, pieces and nephews; wreath, I.O.O.F.; wreath, the Parker family; wreath, employees of Water and Light Commission and Lock 14; sheaf roses, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Connor, Bowmanville.

The pall-bearers were six cousins of the deceased: Messrs. George, Albert and Alfred Parker, Charles Bailey, Earl Craighead and Fred. Smith.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mr. Charles Forrest, a brother of the deceased, of Niagara Falls; Mrs. H. L. Forrest, widow of the deceased, who for the past few months has been with her sister in Buffalo; Mrs. Fields, of Buffalo, N.Y.; Mr. Hugh Connor, a brother-in-law, of Bowmanville; and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Wm. Connor, and daughter, of Peterboro.

Surviving are his widow, who was Miss Mabel Connor, formerly of Toronto; one brother, Charles Forrest, of Niagara Falls, and a sister, Mrs. John Potts, of East Seymour.

Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved relatives in their affliction.

The Pine Bluff (Arkansas) Commercial of Monday, March 8th, gives the following account of the accident which befel the late Mr. Forrest:

"Howard Lee Forrest, aged 31, was killed Sunday afternoon about 2 o'clock, when he came in contact with a line carrying 66,000 volts while he was making repairs on a 6,600 line, from which the current had been cut off. The accident occurred at Fourth and Michigan Streets.

Forrest, who had been in the employ of the Pine Bluff Company since January, was a member of a crew repairing a line leading to the Pine Bluff Cotton Oil Mill. The wires of this line are on separate and smaller poles from those carrying the heavier voltage, and how Forrest came near enough to the high voltage lines to receive the electricity is merely conjecture. He was at the top of the pole, some feet below the high voltage lines. It is presumed he lifted his head too high and effected contact.

Used Pulmotor.

When fellow workers heard the arc of the current they saw Forrest affixed to the pole by his safety belt. Jim Bentley, Clarence Hausauzer, and E. M. Clements brought him down and sought to resuscitate him by the prone pressure method and by use of Holderness pulmotor, and Dr. R. B. Luck also attended him, but efforts were fruitless. Forrest's home is in Campbellford, Ontario.

A coroner's jury empanneled this morning by Coroner H. E. Williams to investigate the accident, returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death by coming in contact with a live wire.

WILILAM ARTHUR WOOD.

One of the originals, William Arthur Wood, who enlisted here with the second battalion and served five years overseas, died on March 20 at the Christie street hospital, Toronto, after seven years of suffering. He is survived by his wife and two small children, his mother, and his two brothers, Harold and Robert, both of whom went overseas with the 93rd battalion.

The deceased was the oldest member of the family, being in his thirty-fifth year at the time of his death. He enlisted as a signaller and was Company Quartermaster-Sergeant when he was discharged. Before the war he and his brothers were members of the 57th regiment, as was their stepfather, E. Brazendale, who also served overseas.

The funeral was held on March 23, with Archdeacon Davidson, chaplain of the 93rd, and Captain Lambert, chaplain of Christie street Hospital, officiating. Interment was made at Prospect cemetery. The last post was sounded at the cemetery by Drum Major Whattam. The pallbearers were returned men, work mates of the deceased at the Canadian General Electric Company's Toronto plant.

MRS. THOMAS SARGINSON.

Word was received in the city this morning of the death of Agnes Sarginson, in Elgin, Manitoba, on March 26.

The late Mrs. Sarginson was for a number of years a resident of this city and formerly of Campbellford. A few years ago she moved to Elgin and took up residence with her son, at whose home she passed away. Her husband, Thomas Sarginson, preceded her 25 years ago. The surviving members of the family are three sons, D. L. Sarginson, Elgin, Man., Thomas Sarginson, of Havelock, and R. L. Sarginson, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, one daughter, Mrs. J. H. Southard, of Elgin. Also one sister, Mrs. Fee, Dalhousie, this city.

The funeral will take place in Elgin from the residence of her son, Mr. D. L. Sarginson.

WEST MIDDLESEX GAVE MAJORITY OF 2,681 TO HON. J. C. ELLIOTT, K.C., NEW FEDERAL MINISTER OF LABOR

Defeated T. A. Elliott, Conservative, Who Says Progressives Assisted Liberals.

VOTE 6,520 TO 3,839

Riding Has Been Liberal Stronghold Since 1903 When Established.

STRATHROY, March 30 (Canadian Press)—Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Labor, in the by-election in the riding of West Middlesex, necessitated by his promotion to a Ministerial position in the Federal Cabinet, defeated T. A. Elliott, his Conservative opponent, Monday, by a majority of 2,681 votes.

The complete returns from the 82 polls in the riding were:

J. C. Elliott (Liberal)—6,520.

T. A. Elliott (Conservative)—3,839

T. A. Elliot, the defeated Conservative candidate, speaking from Parkhill over the long distance telephone, expressed the opinion that the Progressives had cast their votes largely in favor of the new Minister, but he thought that the increase in the number of ballots cast on his behalf augured well for the future of the Conservative party in the riding. He expressed thanks to the workers, who, he said, had worked ably and tirelessly throughout the campaign.

Some of the divisional returns were as follows:

McGillivray (7 polls)—J. C. Elliott 480; T. A. Elliot 339.

Mosa (8 polls)—J. C. Elliott 433; T. A. Elliot 255.

Strathroy (6 polls)—J. C. Elliott 876; T. A. Elliot 617.

East Williams (3 polls) — J. C. Elliott 293; T. A. Elliot 152.

Glencoe (2 polls)—J. C. Elliott 293; T. A. Elliot 183.

Loco Township (5 polls)—J. C. Elliott 650; T. A. Elliot 240.

Adelaide (7 polls)—J. C. Elliott 405; T. A. Elliot 268.

Ailsa Craig (2 polls)—J. C. Elliott 175; T. A. Elliot 97.

Delaware Township (4 polls)—J. C. Elliott 321; T. A. Elliot 217.

Metcalfe (8 polls)—J. C. Elliott 323; T. A. Elliot 243.

Newbury (1 poll) — J. C. Elliott 94; T. A. Elliot 44.

Parkhill (3 polls) — J. C. Elliott 307; T. A. Elliot 273.

Established in 1903, the present riding of West Middlesex has been one of the strongholds of Liberalism, the return of the late J. D. F. Drummond, Progressive, in the general election of 1921, providing the only break in the line of Liberal representation since the formation of the constituency. W. S. Calvert was victorious in the general elections of 1904 and 1908, and, following his resignation, Duncan C. Ross was returned in the by-election of 1909. He held the seat until 1921. In the historic war-time campaign of 1917, Mr. Ross was one of the few Liberals, running with the endorsation of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who emerged successfully in Ontario. Four years later, however, he went down to defeat in a three-cornered contest in which Mr. Drummond, the Frogressive candidate, headed the poll, with a majority of 1,500 votes. Last October the Liberal party regained the seat with Mr. Elliott, the new Minister of Labor, as the candidate.

Voting in West Middlesex at the last three general elections resulted as follows:

1917—Duncan Ross (Laurier Liberal) 3,930; G. A. Elliott (Unionist) 3,531.

1921—J. D. F. Drummond (Progressive) 5,543; Duncan Ross (Liberal) 4,004; G. A. Elliott (Conservative) 2,445.

1925—J. C. Elliott (Liberal) 4,926; A. MacDougall (Progressive) 3,548; T. A. Elliot (Conservative) 2,816.

Fight Was Keen.

In the campaign just closed, the candidates were handicapped by bad roads, higher temperature during the early part of last week melting the deep snow in the country. Despite transportation difficulties, however, the candidates addressed a large number of meetings, and the election fight proved keener than for many years.

Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, M.P. for Fort William, led the forces working for Mr. T. A. Elliot, and the former Conservative Cabinet Minister was responsible for the most interesting development of the campaign, and one which resulted in a lot of platform crossfire throughout the campaign. At the public meeting in Strathroy, following the nominations, Dr. Manion read a telefrom from Mr. W. A. Boys, M.P., chief Conservative whip, purporting to give details of a deal in Saskatchewan, in which Hon. Mr. Elliott had bought land in 1912 near Regina, three months later transferring the property to the Government of the Western province at a profit of approximately $38,000.

Replying, Mr. Elliott admitted the transaction and said that political capital had been made of the matter at the time, but following an investigation, he asserted, the deal had been found to be "regular, correct, honest and square."

In addition to Dr. Manion, the Conservative candidate was assisted by a large number of workers, including John L. Stansell, M.P. for Norfolk-Elgin; Donald Sutherland, M.P. for South Oxford, and Fred. Davis, M.P. for West Calgary.

Hon. Mr. Elliott received a great deal of assistance from Hon. Duncan Marshall, Liberal organizer, and to close the campaign, rallies were held in many towns and villages, Premier King spending Saturday in the riding with Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. C. A. Dunning, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Hon. Charles Stewart and James Malcolm, M.P., North Bruce, and S. G. Tobin, M.P., Wetaskwin, Alberta.

Easiest man in the world to overlook.

Somehow or other most of us take all things he does for granted.

He's expected to be in the best of spirits all the time—we can't understand why he has reason to ever feel otherwise.

Some people call him the head of the family. In most cases that's funny.

Let's see now—whadda we call this fellow?

Oh, yes—Dad!

Wombat Burrow Keeps City Of Melbourne Dry

SYDNEY, Australia, March 30.— (United Press.)— Citizens of Melbourne recently went without water because a burrowing wombat took a notion to burrow near the aqueduct that carries water to the city. A wombat is a small animal but his burrow was enlarged by seeping water until finally a landslide occurred, shifting 2,000 cubic yards of earth and carrying away 50 feet of the aqueduct.

MOTOR TARIFF IS DISCUSSED

All Day Debate on Reduction Motion in House of Commons.

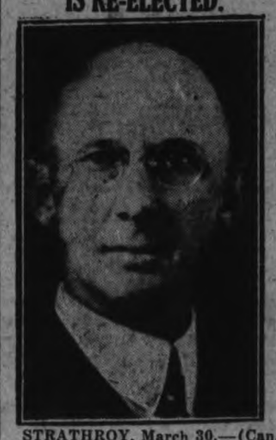
MAY BE RESUMED.

OTTAWA, March 30 (Canadian Press).—An all-day debate in the House of Commons on a resolution advocating "A substantial reduction in the customs tariff on automobiles and motor trucks," concluded shortly before midnight on a private member's motion for adjournment. The resolution did not reach a vote and no member of the Government had spoken when adjournment was agreed to. The resolution was introduced by G. G. Coote (Progressive, MacLeod).

The resolution, having had its place in the discussion on private members' day, automatically goes to the bottom of the Order Paper, which would almost certainly mean that it would not come up again this sessions.

Premier Mackenzie King, however, intimated when adjournment was moved by J. E. Letellier (Liberal member for Compton) that some arrangement might be made whereby the resolution might be given precedence again on the next private members' day.

IS RE-ELECTED.



STRATHROY, March 30.—(Canadian Press.)— The day after his election in West Middlesex, finds Hon. J. C. Elliott, Minister of Labor, a busy man. He will leave for the Capital to-night.

The Minister pleads inability to discuss the probable effect of his election. He would not confirm a report that another Ontario member was to be appointed to the Cabinet.

BRITISH POWER MEASURE DRAWS FIRE IN COMMONS

Laborite Demands Public Ownership Instead of Government's Scheme.

SECOND READING

Denounced by Government Member as "Nationalization of the Worst Kind."

LONDON, March 30 (Canadian Press). — The Government's electricity bill came up in the House of Commons Monday for its second reading. This embodies a plan for the control of electricity throughout Great Britain, and its intention is to provide the country with cheaper and more abundant electrical energy for light and power, utilizing the existing resources and greatly enlarging them through co-ordination and standardization under a single control board.

Colonel Wilfrid Ashley, in moving the second reading of the bill, explained that the total capital required would be £33,500,000, which would be guaranteed by the Government, inviting the Laborites to set party aside and support the bill. Colonel Ashley said it was useless to think of nationalization, because neither the Parliament nor the nation would seriously accept. He admitted that the bill had much in common with Lloyd George's ideas in his brochure "coal and power," but reminded Mr. Lloyd George that imitation was the sincerest form of flattery.

Sharp Opposition.

William Graham moved a Laborite amendment, refusing to accept the bill, on the ground that the only solution was public ownership.

A feature of the debate was the strong attacks on the measure by some of the Government's own supporters. For example, Sir Charles Wilson declared that the bill "outheroded Herod" in its socialism. He wondered that the Labor party did not vote for it with both hands. It was nationalization of the worst kind.

It is believed that from twenty to thirty Government supporters are opposed to the measure, but they may not carry their opposition to the extent of voting against it, and will probably abstain from voting. A division is expected to-day.

DEPUTY ON TRIAL.

Charged With Destroying Ballot Papers and Putting in Wrong Ones.

EDMONTON, March 30 (Canadian Press).—At yesterday afternoon's session of the trial of P. A. Robb, deputy returning officer at Poll 4, Brule Mines, in the Peace River Federal riding during the Dominion election in October last, an additional 82 witnesses were called by the Crown, making a total of 105 who have sworn that they voted for J. A. Collins, the Conservative candidate, though the returns made by Robb indicated that only 17 good votes had been cast for Mr. Collins. Robb was arraigned before Mr. Justice Walsh and a jury of six in the Supreme Court on three charges of fraudulent practices arising out of the Peace River election. He is charged with destroying ballot papers, putting in ballot boxes other than authorized ballot papers and with fraudulently initialing papers purporting to be ballot papers.

There are still approximately 19 witnesses to be called by the crown.

PARIS, March 30 (Canadian Press).—Premier Briand's chances of forcing the Government's financial programme through the chamber and thus preventing immediate collapse of the franc were brighter today.

A majority of the Socialists will vote against the government, a majority of the Radicals probably will support the measure following hard work by Edouard Herriot to line up the Radicals for Briand. If the Radicals combined with the Socialists against the Government, it is not apparent how Briand could escape defeat and resignation from his ninth ministry.

"Under the actual circumstances," said Herriot after conferring with members of the party, "it is impossible for the Radicals to refuse to support the Government. The individual liberties of the deputies is not longer possible. When the invalid is on the operating table the surgeon had no right to hesitate. We must support the Government to avert a cabinet crisis."

New Record Set By German Professional Faster

Herr Jolly Abstains From Solid Food For 44 Days

BERLIN, March 30 (Canadian Press).—When last night Herr Jolly, a professional faster established a record of 44 days for abstaining from food, he was helped out of his glass cage, which was carpeted with cigarette butts and strewn with mineral water bottles, as complete a physical wreck as could be imagined. He had beaten the world's record held by Signor Mulatti of Italy by one day. His weight has been reduced from 130 to 104 pounds. Though unable to walk and speaking in a feeble voice, Jolly's mind seemed very alert. The doctors, on a superficial examination, found the faster's digestive organs entirely dormant and decided to take him to the hospital.

The gross receipts of this exhibition amounted to $45,000, of which the faster receives approximately $20,000.

QUEBEC SUGAR SEASON HALTS

Cold Weather Suspends Flow of Sap in Many Groves.

SOME TREES "DRY"

QUEBEC, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—While "sugaring" has been started in some parts of the province, the sudden severe cold snap of the last few days has somewhat suspended operations in most of the maple groves.

From some of the districts especially in the region of Three Rivers, reports would indicate that the sugar crop is not expected to be as heavy as in past years. For some unknown reason the trees that have been "tapped" are not running freely as usual. Some of the farmers who have started operations claim that the maples in many cases are practically "dry" and some of them have gone as far as to entirely abandon the tapping of the trees.

From other parts of the province, however, reports are more satisfactory and in some places the owners of groves are very well satisfied with the first results of their work.

Some new syrup and "tire" has already been offered for sale, mostly in the Eastern townships, but at a prohibitive price, as high as a dollar a pound for "La Tire" being asked. "La Tire" is the very first flow of boiling syrup poured onto the snow where it partially stiffens and hardens and is sold in the shape of candy.

BIG NICKEL MINE WILL BE OPENED IN NEAR FUTURE

Frood Deposit, Mile and a Half From Sudbury, To Be Worked.

NEEDS 2,500 MEN.

International Nickel Plans To Spend Eight Million in Development.

SUDBURY, March 30 (Canadian Press).—An important announcement respecting the future development of the nickel industry in the Sudbury district was made at the Rotary luncheon yesterday by J. L. Agnew, president of the International Nickel Company.

Outstanding in the programme of this company, which calls for a total expenditure of $8,000,000 is the development of the Frood Mine, situated one and a half miles from Sudbury, where shaft mining, Mr. Agnew said, would commence July 1st next with a force of 250 men which would be gradually increased when peak production for which hoisting equipment is to be provided is reached, to from 1,800 to 2,500 workmen. The speaker said it was not the intention of his company to build a town site at the mine, but rather that it was the wish that they reside in Sudbury, where all facilities in the way of public utilities and educational institutions are already available. It would, however, necessitate a considerable home-building programme and add several thousands to the town's population. The Frood nickel deposits, Mr. Agnew told his hearers, were the largest in the world.

TO BROADCAST MALE VOICE CHOIR PROGRAM.

After hearing the splendid programme presented by the Male Voice Choir on Friday night, many citizens have taken up energetically the proposal to have the Choir broadcast by radio.

The musical selections given at this year's concert were outstanding, and there are hundreds of people who recognize that they are too good to keep at home. It was, therefore, been suggested that public subscription be taken up to defray the cost of broadcasting, amounting to about $150.

Not only would the programme be pleasing to listeners-in but it would be a wonderful advertisement for Peterborough throughout the Eastern States and all over this section of Canada. The city is well known now as the home of the Senior O.H.A. champions, and the opportunity is also given to put it on the air as the centre of one of Canada's premier musical organizations.

Donations toward this effort will be received at The Examiner office and acknowledged in The Examiner.

SUBSTANTIAL CUT IN TARIFF ON AUTOMOBILES AND MOTOR TRUCKS MOVED BY ALBERTA PROGRESSIVE

Customs Duty Adds $305 to Price of Every Car in Canada.

FARMERS DEMAND

G. G. Coate Says Auto Tariff Mulcted Canadians $20,000,000 in 1924.

OTTAWA, March 30 (Canadian Press).—G. G. Coote (Frogressive, MacLeod, Alberta) moved in the House of Commons Monday his resolution that there should be a substantial reduction in the Customs tariff on automobiles and motor trucks.

Mr. Coote submitted that owing to the lack of transportation in Canada, especially in the West, Canadian farmers should be able to buy more motor trucks and automobiles. Canada, he said, really ought to have more auto vehicles per head of population than the United States, whereas the ratio was lower in Canada. There could be only one reason why it was lower, he said. That was the high price of autos.

In the West, the average distance which a farmer had to haul his products was ten miles. Those who had much further than this to take their products before they could be shipped to market, were surely entitled to greater consideration. Mr. Coote estimated that the incidence of the Customs tariff alone added $305 to the price of every car in Canada. Besides this, there was the sales tax. Canadians also paid, on imported cars, United States Excise duty of 5 per cent. All of this taxation, Mr. Coote said, imposed an entirely unfair burden of cost on the people who purchased cars. So far as the farmer was concerned, he said, a car was becoming a necessity and should not be taxed as if it were a luxury.

Almost everywhere one went, there seemed to be a demand for reduction in the tariff on automobiles, Mr. Coote said.

Prices Compared.

Mr. Coote compared the prices of two makes of motor cars to show that the increase in the Canadian price was from 38 to 42 per cent. over the American price. A certain type of runabout cost $290 in Detroit, while it sold for $440 in Ontario. The coupe sold for $500 in Detroit, and $665 at the Canadian factory. The American manufacturer was taking advantage of the tariff. If you bought a car made in Canada, the tariff went to the American manufacturer, Mr. Coote said. "This tariff is imposed on the Canadian people for the American stock holder," he said.

Canadian manufacturers of cars were now able to compete in the foreign market. Canada had exported to 97 different countries in recent years. The financial condition of the industry was good. Surely it was time for material tariff reductions.

Was Canada going to stand for the national policy while industries had grown to the enormous propor-

Costs Too Much To Die Burial Charges Studied

NEW YORK, March 30 (Canadian Press).—A national campaign against some undertakers, who capitalize bereavement by charging the highest prices they can obtain for funerals, is rapidly taking shape under the auspices of a prominent life insurance company, an official said yesterday.

A committee of businessmen, church men, sociologists, and public health workers is now being formed to undertake a survey, including not only the United States but Canada.

Navigation In Quebec Port Opened By 2 Ships Monday

QUEBEC, Que., March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Making a passage for themselves through the ice covered waters of the Louise basin in the local harbor, two steamers, the Gaspesia and the Guide, yesterday passed out into the St. Lawrence to the accompaniment of numerous sirens which signified that the 1926 navigation season and the liberation of some 89 vessels of every description from the port of Quebec had commenced.

Ice conditions below Quebec are said to be such as to cause little fear of difficulty being encountered by the vessels this year. Above Quebec, good progress is being made by the ice breakers Mikula and Lady Gray, they having reached a point half way through Lake St. Peter Monday.

At York House it was announced that the Prince of Wales who had his ear drum lanced on Monday morning had passed a good night and that his progress continued satisfactory.

RIOTS FOLLOW PARIS ELECTION

One Man Killed in Clash With Police and Many Hurt.

REDS ELECTED

PARIS, March 30.— (Canadian Press).—Demonstrations following the election of two Communist deputies in the second electoral district of Paris resulted in the death of one person and the injury of a number, when the demonstrants clashed with police in the grand boulevards, Place de L'Opera, and the grounds enclosing the Elysee Palace, residence of the French president.

The most violent trouble occurred in the grounds enclosing the palace, where the "young patriots" a Catholic moderate organization opposed to the communists staged a parade singing nationalist songs, shouting 'down with Malvy,' 'Minister of the Interior", and otherwise manifesting against the radical left ministry.

Anna, 76, was a spinster. She die almot in poverty in a tiny apartment facing St. Peter's Square in which she had lived for many years with Maria Sarto, now only surviving sister of Pius X.

ACROSS CANADA AND BACK.

Marvelous beyond conception inaptly describes the glories of Canada's Rockies. To be fully appreciated they must be seen. To start out on a trip by one's self into this unfamiliar but far-famed paradise-on-earth, to many appears quite a task. Realizing this, Dean Sinclair Laird of Macdonald College, an experienced Rocky Mountains Traveller, for the third year in succession, has undertaken to conduct a party through this glorious wonderland.

A special train of dining, standard sleeping, and observation compartment cars has been chartered, to leave Toronto on July 19th via the Canadian Pacific Railway. Stops will be made at Port Arthur and Fort William, which together form Canada's greatest grain port; Winnipeg Beach, the popular summer resort for Winnipegers; Winnipeg, Canada's third largest city; Indian Head, the chief tree distributing centre of the Federal Forestry Branch; Regina, the capital of Saskatchewan; Calgary, Alberta's largest city; Banff, the world-famous mountain resort; by automobile for 104 miles over the Banff-Windermere Highway, the most spectacular drive in Canada; through Kootenay Lake to Nelson, the commercial centre of Southern British Columbia; then through the Doukhobor country to Penticton; along lovely Okanagan Lake, and to Vancouver, thence by steamer to Victoria.

Returning, the trip will be by the main line of the Canadian P... through the great canyons of the Fraser and Thompson ... through the Selkirks, and Rockies, affording scenery such as can be found nowhere else on earth; Lake Louise, the Pearl of the Rockies, the most perfect gem of scenery on the world; another day at Banff, Edmonton, the Capital of Alberta; Saskatoon, the city of optimism; Devils Camp, on the Lake of the Woods, near Kenora, thence to Fort William, where one of the fine Canadian Pacific steamers will be used across Lake Superior and Huron to Port McNicoll, then rail to Toronto, where the trip will terminate.

Everything is included in the price of $330.00, from Toronto; transportation, sleeping cars, accommodation in hotels, and bungalow camps, meals in diners, hotels and on steamers, and sight-seeing tours at points visited.

The trip is open to all, and applications for accommodation, are being received.

Fares from other points than Toronto will be named, and descriptive illustrated booklet sent on application to Dean Sinclair Laird, Macdonald College Post Office, Que. t.t.-107.

BRITAIN REGAINING ANY TRADE SHE LOST AS RESULT OF THE WAR

Sir Robert Kindersley Says Return to Normalcy is Slow But Sure.

MONTREAL VISITOR

MONTREAL, Que., March 30.—(Canadian Press).—"Settlement of the coal situation, which it is hoped now may shortly be expected, will be an important factor in helping trade conditions," stated Sir Robert Kindersely, director of the Bank of England, and former Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, who was a visitor in Montreal yesterday.

The return to the gold standard, he said, was a material asset to the financial position of the country, and London would always be a favored centre for world business and would always hold the most important position. The return to normal conditions in England, continued the speaker, would be a slow but steady process. Taking the long view, England was not losing her position, but rather was regaining any ground lost as a result of the war.

Discussing the League of Nations Sir Robert remarked that the recent incident there had been exaggerated, and that the importance attached to it was more or less artificial, caused by high hopes which had been raised by the Locarno treaties and spirit.

Complete settlement of European political problems, and the greater appreciation that now existed in the possibility of empire trade would have a decided effect for the better trade conditions, he said, and the trend of future activities in industry must be toward closer affiliation at home among various industrial enterprises which would serve to hasten affairs into their normal channel.

In conclusion Sir Robert said there was no apprehension in England as to the prospects of European peace being broken and said that, as far as he knew, the British people on the whole did not believe that peace would be seriously disturbed for many years to come.

U.F.O. MEMBERS SOLD INSURANCE SAYS WITNESS

Rev. Edgar Watson, of North Victoria, Handled Government Business.

MADE COMMISSION.

Witness Also Tells of Another Member Selling Insurance to Province.

TORONTO, March 30 (Canadian Press).—It was stated by a witness at the public accounts committee of the Legislature last night members of Parliament during the regime of the Drury Government had done business with the Government.

J. H. Ferguson of the firm of Burns and Ferguson, when being examined about insurance on Government buildings in general, said:

"During the U.F.O. regime I gave Hon. Mr. Biggs a tender for insurance" said Mr. Ferguson. 'It was for a fleet of automobiles. I heard no more until the Rev. Edgar Watson told me he had charge of placing the insurance on autos. I then gave him a higher quotation than I gave Mr. Biggs."

Mr. Finlayson: "That was the member for North Victoria?"

"It was a joke to me that Watson got it at the higher quotation. He received a commission from my office."

"Did you know that would disqualify him as a member of the Legislature?"

"No, I didn't think of that. I had told him he would have to get a license, and he got one."

Mr. Ferguson then went on to say that Jack Ramsden, also a member of Parliament at the same time, had got insurance o nthe balance of the fleet of autos.

The witness said that the Government was carrying $3,488,000 on the main Parliament buildings now and that since he had taken over the insurance he had been able to save the Government $2,000 commission on over a million dollars.

He stated also that he had found and brought to the attention of the Government that certain buildings in Northern Ontario were insured in some cases three times. He had this changed and the Government had got a rebate on the premiums.

The witness said that Rev. Edgar Watson also got some insurance from Hon. Peter Smith's department for insuring cheques against alterations and forgers. He may have made $50 out of that, witness thought. Asked about Jack Ramsden, the witness said that Watson had told him the insurance was split between the two of them.

"He got something over $100, too?"

"I presume so."

OBITUARY.

MRS. JOHN N. TELFORD

After a lingering illness commencing on October 27th last, the death occurred on Friday, March 19, 1926 of Mrs. John N. Telford at her residence, Bridgenorth.

Mrs. Telford was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McEwen, who were numbered with the pioneers of Smith Township, and who lived on the second farm north of Gilmour Memorial Baptist Church on the Chemong Road.

After her marriage to Mr. John N. Telford, they settled on their own farm in Ennismore at the end of the Chemong bridge. Not many but can remember the modest little house on the roadside which served as a home for a few years, and many indeed are there who can testify to the generous hospitality so graciously bestowed to all their numerous guests by Mr. and Mrs. Telford.

Later a new brick house and new modernly-equipped barn and outbuildings were erected which were model buildings worthy of imitation. Here again, Mr. and Mrs. Telford always had an open house, and nothing gave them more pleasure than acting as host and hostess to their ever widening circle of friends.

In the year 1908, Mr. and Mrs. Telford placed their sons on the farms which they then owned and removed to Bridgenorth to enjoy a well-earned rest.

They were identified with the Bridgenorth Methodist Church, in which Mr. Telford held important offices. Also in municipal matters he took an active part and was rated as one of the most faithful members of Court Bridgenorth, No. 315, Canadian Order of Foresters.

The villagers and surrounding community feel that they have sustained in Mrs. Telford's passing the loss of a most generally beloved, bright and happy neighbor and friend.

She has left to mourn her loss two daughters, Miss Leola Telford at home, and Mrs. S. King of Peterboro; also four sons, William J. and Clayton of Bridgenorth, Ernest of Peterboro and Gladstone of Lindsay, all of whom were able to be present during the last days of her illness.

Mrs. G. J. Jopling of Bridgenorth is a sister.

She was buried beside her husband on Monday, March 22nd in the Little Lake Cemetery, Peterboro, Rev. Mr. McNeely of Bridgenorth United Church officiating. The floral expressions of sympathy along with the masses gathered at her funeral attest best to her popularity.

To the family bereft, the deepest and kindest sympathy of the whole community is given.

MOTOR PLUNGE FATAL.

SPARTANBURG, S.C., March 30.—(Canadian Press.)— Injured when the car in which she and her husband were riding plunged from a bridge across Middle Tiger River near here last Friday, Mrs. H. F. Graham, of Hamilton, Ont., died at a local hospital Monday.

The Grahams were returning to Canada from Florida when their car was side-swiped by another and fell 50 feet into the river.

HIS BACK HAS NOT BOTHERED HIM SINCE

Why Mr. Marchbank Knows Dodd's Kidney Pills Are Good.

New Brunswick man is enthusiastic over the remedy that brought him relief.

SUSSEX, N.B., March 29.—(Special).—"My trouble first started from a strain and bothered my back so much. I was laid up most of my time. I saw several doctors but they did me no good. I took about six to ten boxes of your Dodd's Kidney Pills and my back has not bothered me for over two years now. You may publish this if you wish."

This statement was sent to us by Mr. H. J. Marchbank, a well-known resident of this place.

Mr. Marchanbank's lame back was caused by sick kidneys. That is why he got such prompt and permanent relief from Dodd's Kidney Pills. They act directly on the kidneys strengthening them and enabling them to do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood.

Impurities in the blood are the seeds of disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills make good health by removing the seeds of disease.

Duane Wagar, Wanted at Kingston, Arrested at Watertown.

KINGSTON, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Word received in the city stated that Duane Wagar, wanted in this city for breaking jail while awaiting transfer to Portsmouth Penitentiary to serve three years for theft at Harrowsmith and Verona, was arrested by the state police at Watertown, N.Y., and is charged with having been connected with a robbery at Crogan, near there. He will be held for trial for this robbery according to the message received by Sheriff Vair. Wagar got to the American side by crossing ice to Cape Vincent.

SUBSTANTIAL CUT IN TARIFF

tion of some of the automobile companies and still continue to enjoy a 35 per cent. tariff? Mr. Coote claimed that $20,000,000 was the excess price paid to manufacturers of Canadian cars in 1924 because of the tariff. There was an average increase per car of $225 directly due to tariff, while the wages paid for the production of such a car was approximately $92. Yet it was argued that the tariff existed in order to permit the companies to pay a living wage. A reduction in the tariff would mean a reduction in the price. A reduction in price would mean an increase in consumption, and an increase in consumption would mean more employment.

Urges Prompt Action.

Some would argue that the matter should be left to a tariff board. Nothing would suit the manufacturers more than to have the whole matter referred to a tariff board and thus delayed for a year. "Let it be reduced now," declared Mr. Coote, and there was applause from Progressive and Saskatchewan Liberal benches.

"Unfair advantage has been taken of the tariff in the case of automobiles," he said. Mr. Coote could not see "how any protectionist could not support" his proposal. The protection afforded the automobile industry was too high. The Government had reduced the tariff on butter and eggs from Australia in part return for "preferential treatment to automobile manufacturers." Some consideration should now be given to farmers.

"It is an open secret that lobbyists for automobile manufacturers have been around this House for weeks," remarked Mr. Coote. He hoped the members would see it as their duty to vote for his resolution.

George Bouchard (Liberal, Kamouraska), speaking in French, stated that he had voted last year in opposition to a similar resolution. He had done so for the reason that he had been given to understand that the tariff would be modified along the desired lines. This year, however, he intended to give his vote in favor of the proposal. Thirty-five per cent. duty on motor cars entering Canada for sale was excessive. The motor car was a necessity to farmers, and statistics showed that there was one automobile in this country for every 14 people residing here.

Voice From Windsor.

R. Morand (Conservative, East Essex) agreed that the automobile was a necessity and that the automobile industry was a permanent thing in Canada. If it was an important industry it should be protected and not handed over to the United States. He had hoped, said Dr. Morand, that some member of the Government would ask that this matter be referred to the tariff board. Apparently this had not been considered advisable. He noted that "this board has been definitely shackled from its birth" because the speech from the Throne declared against any tariff increases.

Let no guilty man escape if it can be avoided. No personal consideration should stand in the way of performing a public duty. —U. S. Grant.

TOWNSHIP SCHOOL BOARDS.

It is evident that Premier Ferguson's action in withdrawing his township school board bill last year in order that the people of the rural districts might be educated as to its advantages, has been without result.

Opposition to the proposal has in the interim increased, and it is significant that at a meeting of the Waterloo County Rural Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association, held on Saturday, the bill was condemned by the representatives of the twenty-eight school sections of the county attending the convention.

Educationists are almost a unit in favour of the township board plan and school inspectors generally have recommended the adoption of the principle, yet the approval of these experts has not served to change the attitude of the rural school boards and rural school supporters.

The advantages of the change are apparent—yet there is not the slightest sign that the people who will share these advantages are warming up in the least toward Premier Ferguson's bill.

THE ROTARY ENTERTAINMENT.

The Examiner is glad to call the attention of the people of Peterboro to the fact that they will have an opportunity on Monday and Tuesday nights of next week to assist in a community enterprise of great value, the Rotary Boys' Camp.

For the purpose of raising funds to assist in the carrying on of that splendid institution, the Rotary Club has arranged an entertainment of rare merit to be held in the Grand Opera House on April 5 and 6, and it is expected that the splendid programme that has been prepared and the chance to help this most worthy cause will result in a liberal patronage on both nights.

The Rotary Camp is one of the best of its kind in this country, and scores of Peterboro boys, who otherwise would have no opportunity of such an outing, have enjoyed a wonderful vacation at Clear Lake as a result of Rotary's efforts.

That is work that should be encouraged, particularly as it is endeavoured not only to give the boys this holiday, but also to keep in touch with them during the year in order that the youngsters may be given a fair chance to succeed in life's battle.

The coming concerts should be greeted with capacity audiences in view not only of the excellence of the programme but of the impetus that will be given Rotary's Summer Camp activities as a result.

GEORGES VEZINA.

At Ottawa on Saturday night a crowd of over 10,000 hockey fans stood with uncovered heads for two minutes as a tribute to the memory of Georges Vezina, great goalkeeper of the Canadien professional team, who passed away earlier in the day.

The tribute was deserved.

Vezina for eighteen years had guarded the net for his team with a coolness and accuracy of judgment that won admiration from the most hostile fans.

Few players were more popular than the silent French-Canadian, who had the respect and liking of the whole hockey world.

His record is a rebuff to those suspicious individuals who are always scenting crookedness in sport.

Vezina, playing in a position where he could easily, without the least suspicion being created, have caused a loss for his team, stood at his post through many a hard fought series where thousands of dollars hung upon his integrity and honesty, and never was there the slightest suggestion that the man from Chicoutimi had not played the game.

Vezina was straight; a wonderful player who could not be tempted by all the money the gambling fraternity might have to offer.

His memory should be kept green as one of the foremost exponents of that thrilling game Canadians can boast of giving the world.

THE EFFECT UPON THE STREETS.

As providing another angle to the transportation problem the statement made by the owner of the Belleville bus line that the condition of the streets in that city has caused such a heavy repair bill that his enterprise is more suggestive of philantrophy than profit, is not without its interest.

A great factor in the success of the motor bus as a transportation facility is represented by good roads.

If the repair bills of the bus company mount rapidly because of poor streets, its obvious that the repair bills of the municipality in connection with such streets will also climb to staggering proportions.

How long, for example, will some of Peterboro's roads stand up under the daily pounding of the Hydro buses now in commission here?

And what is the answer to it all?

There are some citizens who declare that until permanent road surfaces are provided over the whole route traversed by the buses the results both to the company and to the municipality will be far from pleasant.

Is Peterboro prepared to undertake such a programme of permanent road building.

It is another stand on the transportation question that cannot be disregarded when the whole situation is taken under review.

WHAT DO PEOPLE TALK ABOUT?

Sir Henry Thornton has made no finer contribution to public discussion in this country than when on Wednesday he addressed the Ottawa Council of the Knights of Columbus at the Chateau Laurier. Speaking as one entrusted with the success of one of the greatest experiments that a democratic state has made in economic collectivism, he uttered this warning:

"The great danger to popular and democratic government today is the inarticulate, inactive, middle third of society. By that I mean the great mass of people: professional men, business men, men of every walk of life, who devote their energies, their thought and their time exclusively to their own business and their own affairs. It is this mass that is prone to look upon politics with contempt. It takes no interest in government. And as a result we find democracy at the mercy of the organized and vociferous minority that imposes its will on the nation as a whole. If that condition is not corrected it will go from bad to worse until eventually we shall find ourselves back to despotism or under the rule of the dictator."

* * * *

Somehow or other Canada seems to be following into the footsteps of the United States, where politics has fallen to the lowest ebb, and where political decline in producing the profoundest misgivings. Only recently Mr. Frank R. Kent, one of the ablest of American journalists, returned from a tour of every State in the Union to write that the masses were interested in only two issues—fundamentalism and prohibition. Thus:

"It is hard to see how it can be other than disheartening to thoughtful persons to grasp the fact that these two issues, neither one of which has the slightest business in politics, are the only ones capable of striking a spark from nine-tenths of the people of the country today. It is impossible to doubt this. Any politician in any state will tell you that on the World Court, the tariff, the League of Nations, the railroads, water power, agriculture, or any other item of foreign or domestic policy, there is among the masses of the people not only no real interest but a complete and profound indifference. They don't know about them and they don't care. About the other two—Prohibition and the Bible—they don't know either—but they do care. If that is not a disheartening situation to those who look ahead politically, what would be?"

In the April issue of Harper's, Mr. Duncan Aikman, in an article, "What Babbitt Won't Talk About," deals with the same subject. Declaring that there is a political apathy everywhere that is appalling, and that America is breeding a generation of slackers of democracy, he describes a typical experience:

"At the height of the 1924 presidential campaign, I overheard a rash elderly gentleman—not exactly a Nestor but obviously a voter before 1896—introduce politics into the general conversation of a Pullman smoking compartment on a train between Los Angeles and the East. Even I, who am scarcely venerable, can remember the time when to introduce politics in such a place was the surest known means of vitalizing the conversation indefinitely. And the old-fashioned person began it carefully with a shrewd analytical reference to the merits of the Coolidge-Mellon tax reform proposals.

"Vacationists and prosperous salesmen, the company were all business men with the sole journalistic exception of myself. The problem the elderly person suggested intimately concerned all of them.

"But this was all that happened.

"'Yeah, Coolidge is a good man,' one of the salesmen admitted.

"'Davis is a good man, too,' said a vacationist.

"A long silence. The conversation was plainly ready to die of malnutrition.

"'Yeah, the country'll be safe no matter which is elected,' another salesman yawned with finality. Then, with an air of contributing some extraordinary wisdom, 'Coolidge and Davis are both conservative.'

"Thus the company had paid its polite tribute to the Nestor's incomprehensible interest in these tiresome matters. The talk went back to comparisons of California hotels and golf courses, and the boosting spirit of its various towns. When I left, the Nestor himself was repeating the 'wise cracks' the driver of the sightseeing bus in Los Angeles had made about San Francisco. His audience appeared delighted."

Is it much different in Canada? In the country store, the hotel lobby, the club, the Pullman smoker, the friendly dinner party, one can start almost instantly a fairly lively conversation about the N.H.A., liquor control, bootlegging, the naughtiness of women's dress, the morals of "movie" stars, or the social significance of flappers. Where the air is not too thick with rancor and suspicion, the Church Union controversy, or bilingualism, or Ontario versus Quebec may arouse a little talk that is kept well within wraps. But mention public affairs in any more direct public sense—taxation, the railway question, the tariff—and the ordinary group responds with apathetic platitudes or bored cynicism—and a quick change of subject.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Elliott clan couldn't fail to be represented by a winner in the West Middlesex contest yesterday.

The Legislature will have to cut out its favourite topic of conversation if it is to get through all its business this week.

The broadcasting of the Male Voice Choir concert will provide Peterboro with some unique and desirable advertising.

Professional hockey will soon be so perfect defensively that there will be no goals at all for the spectators to enthuse over. Witness only three counters by both teams in the N.H.L. finals.

Having to listen to 12 political addresses on the last day of the campaign, West Middlesex electors will have a faint conception of what Ottawa has to endure every day.

Influenza

Now, when the germs of Influenza abound, physicians advise keeping the bowels open. Constipation poisons the blood, lowering your resistance to the germs of infectious diseases.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

THE FISHING SEASON

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—I see by an article in The Examiner that certain parties are advocating a change in the fishing laws, giving as their reasons that the fish are not al spawned on the 16th of June.

At first sight this may seem plausible enough, but if they will look a little deeper into the matter they will find that it has its disadvantages which to my way of thinking, will overule any good that would be gained by extending the closed season. Not only are the fish (especially bass) not all spawned at that date, but I and doubtless many others have found unspawned fish both in July and August, but surely that is not sufficient reason why tourists and Canadian sportsmen should be restricted from taking them when they are at their best. Then there is another more vital reason why the season should not be shortened.

We certainly all are, or at least should be interested in the welfare of our country. What effect would such a law have on the tourist trade of Canada? I think that at least one-half of it would go somewhere else, if it were not for the splendid fishing to be gotten here. Think of the enormous amount of maney brought into Canada by tourists. If in place of allowing all this money to go to waste, would it not be better to spend on the proper enforcement of the law as it now stands and in the propogation and stocking of our lakes and rivers. In many of our best fishing districts, protection is simply a name and waste of money. There is one thing that must be said about the law as it now stands and that is, that it is a failure. And why? Because it is not enforced as it ought to be. There are various reasons why this is so. One is that men are entrusted with the job who have no other interest in them than drawing their salary. They are underpaid and cannot afford to give it the time and attention which it requires. This may seem plain speaking; nevertheless, it is a fact. Another reason is that what attention they do give, is given at the wrong time. If more attention was given to the spawning fish and less to the true sportsmen, the results would be more satisfactory.

Yours sincerely
THOS. WIGHT.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, March 29.—Trading was not too keen up till noon. Butchers' cows were moving as free as usual with all the good to choice cows $5.50 to $6 a cwt. Bunches of good handyweight butchers sold at $6.85 and $6.90 a cwt. and one lot of good medium butchers went at $6.50 a cwt. One string of 18 bologna bulls sold at $4.50 a cwt. and a load of 35 western stocker steers averaging 700 lbs. brought $5.40 a cwt. Choice handyweight butchers were $7.50 a cwt. There were not many baby beeves for sale and one of medium quality sold at $8.50 a cwt. The market on the whole was accepted as steady, but business was not too active.

The demand for good calves for Easter made for a strong market and one choice calf sold at 15c and numerous others brought 13c to 14c a lb. One bunch of 35 dairy calves, 110 lbs. each, sold at 8c a pound.

Lambs were just steady. Three loads of western lambs in on Saturday were taken at 13¾c a lb. and one load sold this morning at 14c. Medium quality sheep were 6½c and 7c a lb. A few Dorset spring lambs sold at $14 each.

Hogs are quoted unchanged at $12.75 cwt. f.o.b. bid. Nothing was done up till noon and sellers were trying for a little more money.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Persistent selling that was associated both with unusual weakness of the New York stock market and with ideal weather for United States winter wheat had a decided bearish effect today on the prices of grain. Wheat closed unsettled, 1 5-8 to 2 5-8c net lower, May (new) $1.57 3-4 to $1.58 and July $1.35 5-8 to $1.35 3-4. Corn finished 1-2 to 3-4c off and oats 1-4 to 1-2 to 5-8c down, and provisions at 2c to 30c decline.

Although improved crop conditions, especially snows and rain in the southwest, dominated the wheat market during the early dealings, the violent downturns of securities values attracted by far the greater amount of attention among wheat traders as the day progressed. New low price record for French and Belgian francs gave further impetus to the general downward trend of the wheat market, despite rallies were helped by a decrease of 1,770,000 bushels in the domestic visible supply total. The amount of wheat on ocean passage also decreased as well as the stock on hand in Chicago.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, March 29 (Canadian Press).—Egg prices show very little change today. Receipts at Ontario country points are increasing rapidly.

Toronto—Country shippers paying producers extras 28, firsts 26, seconds 20, and making sales extras 34-35 firsts 30-31, seconds 24-26. Eleven cars of States eggs arrived here during the week and four more are due today, costing about 33c delivered.

Montreal—Twenty cars of States eggs arrived last week. Edmonton is offering extras 35, firsts 32, seconds 28 delivered Montreal. Montreal dealers paying country points delivered, extras 33, firsts 30.

Winnipeg.—The egg market is steady with receipts showing an increase for the week. Country shippers are making sales extras 26, first 24, seconds 18. Prices to retailers extras 35, firsts 32, seconds 27.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, March 29 (Canadian Press).—The demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for Canadian grain on the Montreal market today continued steady, but the volume of business accomplished was small, there being only an odd load of oats sold at an advance of 3d per quarter on Saturday bids for nearby shipment.

In sympathy with the lower prices for oats in the Winnipeg future market, local spot prices for car lots were reduced one cent per bushel but even at this reduction the demand for domestic and export account was limited and the trade was quiet.

A decidedly strong and excited feeling prevailed in the local market for potatoes, and prices scored a further advance of 20c to 40c per bag, which makes a new rise within the past few days of 50c to 85c per bag. This, to some extent, was attributed to the fact that following the short crop in the United States last year a report was issued by the Department of Agriculture at Washington last week that the new crop from the south would be fully three weeks late of normal, which created some excitement in that market and in consequence quite a good demand developed from that source for supplies in Canada, with the result that an active business was done, and sales of car lots of Quebec white stock were made at $3.50 per bag; New Brunswick white at $4 per bag; Prince Edward Island white at $4 per bag, blues at $3.40 per bag, and reds at $3.30 per bag of 90 lbs. ex-track. The opinion of some in the trade here is that prices may possibly reach a much higher level in the near future.

The receipts of butter were 85 packages with the C.N.R. excluded, as compared with 510 for the same day last week, and 43 for the corresponding day a year ago. There were no further developments in the condition of the market, except that probably the undertone was steadier, but the volume of business transacted was small.

Fellowship of Prayer

TUESDAY—

The Purpose of Discipline

Read Jn. 17:12-19. Text: 17:19. For their sakes I sanctify myself.

Meditation—Here is no craven monk creeping from the field of life seeking "safety first" in the cloister. He meets and overcomes the most subtile of temptations to be self-centered when rigorously subduing self. Our prayers fail of answer because they are self-centered. Our good deeds are degraded because they are not prompted by unselfish goodness but seek a more complete satisfaction. Christlike character is the goal, but his passion for the welfare of all must be our dynamic.

"Jesus was not primarily the Deed-Doer or the Word-Sayer, he was the Life-Giver."

Prayer—Gracious Lord and Master, give me grace to make Thy life my pattern and not a lesser one. Grant to me also the liberating and joy-giving love which seek first to serve, thus most surely attaining the character of one who serves. Amen.

BLACKSMITH FELL DEAD AT HIS FORGE

Mark Gurry of Campbellford Suddenly Stricken By Heart Attack.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30.—Mark Gurry fell dead about 11 o'clock Monday morning while at work in his blacksmith shop on Front Street, and Dr. W. F. Loucks, the coroner, who was called in, decided that death was due to heart failure from which the deceased had for a long time been a sufferer, and issued a certificate to that effect.

The late Mr. Gurry had been confined to his home for the past two week, but decided to go down to his shop Monday morning as work was piling up there and some of his customers were getting anxious for his return. He was regarded as one of the most expert horseshoers in this part of Ontario and owners of horses with peculiarly shaped feet came for miles to have Mr. Gurry shoe them. At the time he was stricken he was shoeing a team of horses belonging to Samuel Howe of Seymour, and a number of other horse owners were waiting in the shop at the time. After Coroner Loucks had made his examination, the remains were removed to the undertaking rooms of A. G. Watson and Company and prepared for burial.

The late Mr. Gurry was born on a farm, now occupied by William Bennett in what is known as the Irish setlement about five miles from town, his father being one of the pioneers of Seymour township, and was one of a family of 12 children, 10 of whom are still living. When a youth he learned the blacksmith trade and for some time carried on business on Rear Street. Later he went to Hamilton, where he remained for some time. He spent three years in the South African War as a farrier surgeon, and there gained valuable experience in the treatment of deceased feet of horses, an experience that stood him in good stead when he resumed business in Campbellford. He was for 18 years a tenant of the shop on Front Street in which he died.

The late Mr. Gurry was married in Peterborough about 20 years ago to Margaret Canwell, whom he met while residing in Hamilton. Besides his wife he is survived by one son and two daughters. The son, Gerald, is employed in the mills of the Campbellford Cloth Company. The eldest daughter, Alice, graduated from the High School last year, but was too young to attend the Normal School and is at present in the local telephone exchange, while the second daughter, Helen, is a pupil in the Public school.

The deceased is survived by five sisters and five brothers. The former are: Mrs. William J. Dunstan of town, Mrs. (Dr.) William O'Hara of Rochester, N.Y., Mrs. B. B. Rexford of Buffalo, Mrs. S. Brooks of Attica N.Y., and Mrs. James Keenan of North Java, N.Y. Another sister, Mrs. Margaret Conley, died in Michigan about 35 years ago.

The brothers are: Edward of Hamilotn, John of Pochatullo, Idaho, Joseph H. of Mineapolis, Ambrose of Detroit, and Lewis of Vancouver.

The deceased was a member of St. Mary's Church, where the funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Wednesday, unless it is found necessary to postpone the interment to give some of the relatives at a distance a chance to attend.

DETROIT SPEED BOAT RAMMED IN HAVANA HARBOR

Baby Gar VII With Side Stove In, Plunged in Circles.

CREW THROWN OUT.

New Boat Sank in 600 Feet of Water.

HAVANA, March 30 (Canadian Press)—The speed boat Baby Gar VII, driven by George Wood, of Detroit, sank in 100 fathoms of water off Havana Monday afternoon after she had rammed the motorboat Miss Palm Beach in the open speed boat contest. Wood and his mechanic, Joe Kennedy, were rescued.

Miss Palm Beach was badly damaged and was towed into Havana harbor.

The accident occurred when the two boats, running forty miles an hour closely following Miss Okeechobee, driven by Mrs. W. J. Conners, of Buffalo, reached the buoy at the turn of the second lap, and attempted to round it.

Miss Palm Beach hit the wake of Miss Okeechobee and leaped clear of the water dropping into the hollow. Baby Gar crashed head on into the side of Miss Palm Beach, tearing a large hole in the upper structure.

Mr. Wood and Kenny were thrown clear of their boat when she struck. Kenny unbuttoned his life preserver and swam to the Baby Gar, a rope from which had been caught by the judges' boat.

With the Baby Gar's engine still going full speed and the boat plunging over the waves in a circle, Kenny managed to board her and cut off the engines. Baby Gar sank beneath him, and Kenny swam to the judges' boat again and was pulled aboard.

Mrs. Conners, seeing the accident, turned her speedboat aroud and came rushing back to pick up George Wood, who also was trying to reach the Baby Gar.

Towed Into Harbor

Orrin Johnson, driver of Miss Palm Beach, and his mechanic, stuck to their ship until aid arrived and were towed into the harbor. The boat, badly damaged, was beached.

Baby Gar VIII was a new boat, having taken part in only three races before coming here for the races Sunday and Monday. Several thousand persons lined the sea wall and many more witnessed the collision from yachts and launches along the course.

KING'S SISTER SERIOUSLY ILL

Princess Victoria Suffering From "Influenzal Pneumonia," Bulletin Reports.

THIRD OF FAMILY

LONDON, March 30.—(Canadian Press). — Princess Victoria, King George's sister, is suffering from what is described in a bulletin from Marlborough House as "influenza pneumonia." The bulletin is signed by Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson.

Princess Victoria is the third member of the royal family to suffer from an attack of influenza recently, and her condition causes some anxiety. She has not enjoyed good health for a considerable time and had to go to Italy shortly before the death of her mother, Dowager Queen Alexandra. This bereavement affected her greatly, and she has been engaged in the sad task of arranging for removal from Marlborough House such of her mother's belongings as she desired to place in her new residence at Iver, near Uxbridge.

This task was nearing completion when she fell victim to the influenza, which prevented her from going into occupation of her Iver home and she has been staying at Marlborough House.

WINNIPEG, Man., March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Speeding westward to investigate prospects of placing titled Czecho-Slovakians on farms of the prairie provinces is Count Thun Hohnstein, who with his wife and two sons reached Canada on Saturday.

The Count who is reputed to be one of the wealthiest and most influential noblemen of Czecho-Slovakia, has come to Canada as an emissary of twelve titled families, who proposed to migrate if conditions in the dominion are shown to be favorable.

Count Hohnstein is bound for Alberta where he will purchase a large tract of land.

About 2,500 are expected in Winnipeg during the coming week, for distribution through the western provinces.

I.O.D.E. HOLDS SALE.

Proceeds To Be Used For War Memorial at Campbellford.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 30.—The members of the senior chapter of the I.O.D.E. on Saturday afternoon held a successful sale of home cooking and a tea in the Assembly Room of the Public Library, the net proceeds amounting to $138, which sum will be added to the fund that the society has on hand to pay for the soldiers' memorial which will soon be erected, a tribute to the memory of the young men of Campbellford and Seymour who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War. Like all such memorials the country over, this one has been made possible through the untiring efforts of the I.O.D.E. to raise the requisite funds. The success of the sale on Saturday shows the favor in which the movement is held by the general public. Everything was sold out by six o'clock and the tea tables were well patronized during the afternoon.

Mrs. Harry Towsend was convenor of the home cooking department, Mrs. Harry Lowrey of the plain sewing and Mrs. George Hammond of the tea room.

So many millions have been benefited by the Tanlac treatment, so many thousands have written to testify to that effect that it's sheer folly not to make the test.

Tanlac, you know, is a great natural tonic and builder, a compound, after the famous Tanlac formula, of roots, barks and herbs. It purges the blood stream, revitalizes the digestive organs and enables the sickly body to regain its vanished weight.

You don't need to wait long to get results. Tanlac goes right to the seat of trouble. In a day or so you note a vast difference in your condition. You have more appetite, sleep better at night and the color begins to creep back into your washed-out cheeks.

Don't put off taking Tanlac another precious day. Step into the nearest drug store and get a bottle of this world-famed tonic. That's the first important step back to health and vigor. Every day's delay means unnecessary suffering, for Tanlac starts to clean out and tone up the system right away. And by acting promptly you will avoid further loss of energy and weight due to your present run down condition. Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation.

Mother Thanks Tanlac for Daughter's Health

"Kathleen (17) was nervous and run-down, easily exhausted and had no desire for food or company. The only medicine that helped her was Tanlac. It built her right up, and now she's bubbling over with vigorous health and spirits; enjoys food and company like a child."

VOLUNTARY BOARD IN CHURCH DISPUTE

To Decide Property Rights To Churches and Manses.

EDMONTON, Alta., March 30.—(Canadian Press).— A voluntary board is to be appointed by the Alberta Government for the purpose of receiving and considering complaints about hardships resulting from church union, in respect to local church properties. In several communities throughout the province difficulties have arisen in the way of property rights to church buildings and manses, and non-concurring minorities have complained that they have been deprived by the union vote of places in which to worship. It is now proposed to provide a means for the consideration of such cases.

The board will be set up without legislation and will be commissioned to deal with all complaints involving a division of property. It will be composed of six members, three of whom will be nominated by the United church and three by the non-concurring Presbyterians. The appointment will be made by order-in-council and the board as thus constituted will name its own chairman and secretary.

Highest Heel In History Feature Of Easter Modes

HAVERHILL, Mass., Mar. 30 (Canadian Press) — Milady will wear this Easter step-in pumps or strap slippers of striking color designs and contrasting overlaid trimmings, with the highest heel in history. This announcement has come from Haverhill shoe manufacturers, who have just completed three million pairs of shoes for the Easter trade.

The new heel, called "The Spanish Spike," runs from two to two and one-half inches in height. It originated in the motion-picture colony at Hollywood and, according to the makers, marks the passing of the "flapper heel," the low, flat heel so popular for the past few years.

Styles for summer footwear are expected to follow closely the spring fashions with an increasing demand for white slippers.

This is a reproduction of the Barrymore Rug, a Wilton of standard quality and design, which was used in the demonstration.

150,000 People walked over this BARRYMORE RUG in 13 Days

Beauty is the governing factor in the purchase of a rug. The next consideration is "Will it wear?" . . . The beauty of Barrymore Guaranteed Rugs is instantly apparent to the discerning eye. Read here how their marvelous wearing qualities were proved.

EARLY in the winter a big Canadian departmental store placed a BARRYMORE Guaranteed RUG in their main entrance for the purpose of a public demonstration of its wearing qualities, and stationed a man with a comptometer to count the number of people walking over this rug each day.

For thirteen days this BARRYMORE RUG, a Wilton of standard quality and design, lay in the entrance; dirt, snow, grime and slush were ground into the pile, until the lovely pattern was barely distinguishable.

150,000 people had walked over this rug by the end of the 13th day!

The rug was then taken up and cleaned in the ordinary manner, after which it was displayed side by side with a new rug of identical pattern, fresh from the looms.

So slight was the wear after this terrific test, and the fact that the colors retained their original beauty, that only a rug expert could have selected the rug that had been subjected to this test.

NOW BEING SHOWN

Remember this remarkable proof of their wonderful wearing qualities when next selecting rugs. The consideration "Will it wear?" is eliminated when you choose a BARRYMORE Guaranteed RUG; also there is a most delightful diversity of beautiful designs and colorings in the BARRYMORE Guaranteed RUGS now being shown by leading housefurnishing and departmental stores in every city and town.

The Rug Salesman will show you the Barrymore Guarantee Label affixed to the back of every Genuine Barrymore Guaranteed Rug.

The YELLOW STUB

HCJI Thursday Night 8P.M. ORCHESTRA

by Ernest Lynn

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Chicago, where the theater is. The stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer. Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he finds Olga. She faints at hearing she is wanted for murder, and Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift her into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Out with Jimmy one night, she gets a swift glimpse of the man she described. Later they identify him by his police photo as IKE JENSEN.

Mary Lowell promises to marry Church, but later breaks the engagement. Not long afterward Jimmy gets a phone call from Olga, saying she has found Jensen. He rushes to her apartment to find her gone. Her disappearance becomes a newspaper sensation.

Later Jimmy accidentally sees KID DIVIS, a known intimate of Jensen, boarding a street car. He trails him to a lonely house where Divis and Jensen are holding Olga. He sneaks in and waits for them to separate. When Jensen goes upstairs to the telephone Jimmy hits Divis with a broken andiron and then goes up the stairs.

In the fight that follows, Jensen crashes through the stair rail and breaks his neck. Jimmy is next shown in Sam Church's house, accusing him of having hired Jensen to commit the murder. Church confesses at the point of a revolver, and Jimmy carelessly lays the weapon down on the table. Church leaps for it, points it at Jimmy and tells him he is going to kill him and then leave town.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER LIV.

If ever murder was in a man's eyes, it blazed in Church's. And there was a maddening deliberateness to him, too, as if he found much to enjoy in the situation and was reluctant to have it end so soon.

But for a man threatened with sudden death, Rand was surprisingly cool. He said: "And you still admit it, Church?"

"Sure," the other sneered, "but little good it will do you, you young pup."

"I just wanted to make sure," remarked Jimmy with a shrug and went on calmly smoking his cigaret.

And now bafflement was written on the other man's face. How could this fresh young upstart be so provokingly cool? How could he jest with death in that manner? A sudden sinking fear assailed him that, somehow, something was wrong—that there was something he didn't know. His finger tightened on the trigger.

"Why don't you shoot, Church?" and Jimmy, facing him squarely, took a step toward him. "Go ahead; get it over with."

"Damn you, I will!" His teeth were set. Grimly he pulled the trigger, and instead of the barking shot he heard a mocking click. He pulled it again, and again the hammer snapped on an empty chamber.

Rand's taunting laugh was in his ears. "Empty, Church. Only one bullet in it, and I wasted that on your book case.

"You fool," he said, "do you think I'm crazy? Do you think I'd deliberately walk away from that gun if it was loaded? I thought you'd do that very thing, Church—confess and then repudiate it the moment you knew I wasn't going to kill you. You see, I anticipated you, and you played right into my hands by admitting it over again just a minute ago."

"I can still repudiate it, Rand," said Church, and it was like the last baring of teeth of a cornered rat. He jumped for the table. "And I can still kill you."

But Jimmy was in his way, and before Church could reach the table drawer there was a loud trampling of feet and a sudden influx of bluecoated men. Strong hands held Church, pinned his arms from behind.

"You see, Church," said Jimmy, "you can't very well repudiate it, after all. These men were planted outside the room. They've even got a court stenographer. You got every word, didn't you, Lieutenant?" Jimmy turned to O'Day, who was standing beside him.

"Didn't miss a thing, Rand." O'Day was eyeing Church wrathfully. "You dirty sneakin' dog!" he observed and turned his back.

Jimmy opened the table drawer, pulled out Church's revolver and flung it on the table.

He leaned toward Church, who was still held tightly from behind. "There are two reasons why I didn't kill you, Church," he said. "I guess you know what one of them was—a girl we both know. The other—I gave my word to O'Day."

He had time now to relax, and to think; and the bitterness which had grown to be a part of him since Henry Rand's tragic death was somehow lessened by the thought that the man responsible for it stood before him, beaten, exposed and cornered. That and the thought that Mary Lowell would be waiting for him. . . .

And then the poignant realization that Olga Maynard, who had been helplessly enmeshed in this thing and buffeted about, was lying alone on a hospital bed—friendless, without cheer and comfort. . . . Somehow it dulled the keen edge of the victory he had won; his triumph was hollow.

Blind, hot anger surged over him as he regarded Church, the man responsible not only for his father's murder but for Olga's plight as well.

His face within inches of Church's, his hands tightly clenched to keep himself under control and not strike him, he said: "The really contemptible thing about you is that you would have passed the blame on to an innocent woman. You knew that we had something on you ever since the night Olga and I saw Jensen in that automobile. And then you found out, somehow, that she was suspected.

"So you planned the kidnapping, and had my father's picture planted in her apartment. Church, if I could forgive everything else you have done—which I can't, of course—I could never forgive that."

He turned to O'Day, his face twisting with pity. "Lieutenant, they beat her—that man Jensen—because she would not write a confession. God knows what they'd have done with her after she had"

"Killed her, more than likely," growled O'Day. "Rand, I'm an old fool. I'm sorry for thinkin' what I did about her, an' I'm man enough to apologize when I see her again. But this here bird," and he indicated the cowering Church, "is cooked. There's not only murder against him, but abduction an' a number of other things.

"By the way, Church," he continued, "what was that you stuck in your pocket?" He fumbled with his large hand through Church's coat, fished out a folded paper and spread it on the table.

"It's a will, Rand—the will of Thaddeus Rand. I guess this is yours."

"Take care of it," said Jimmy. "They'll be wanting it as evidence later on. Hold on, though, guess I'll read it over myself. . . .

"Yep," he said later, when he had gone over it, "it's just as Mooney's informant, whoever he was, said. Henry Rand or his heirs. . . . Samuel Church, executor."

He looked at Church again, but he was speaking to O'Day. "I believe that's all, Lieutenant." Once more dull depression settled on him, and the draught of victory was bitter on his lips. There was Mary, the girl he loved, no longer unattainable but waiting to hear from him. And now that he knew she was his and his agonized longing was at an end his triumph was suddenly flat, like that of some seeker who, blind to everything but his goal, finds it, and when it is in his grasp pauses to look behind him and see what has been overlooked in his quest.

There was Olga, broken in spirit, hurt, with nothing to look forward to . . . . And she loved him had told him with her lips, with her eyes, with faithful devotion to him. . . . What a debt he owed her—what a debt. . . .

"And God help me," he agonized, "how can I pay it?" He thought, "Church has licked me, after all. . . ."

Surprisingly, it was Church himself who broke into his reverie. He said, with a forced smile and affected indifference, "Congratulations, Rand. You win. Lots of money now . . . you can marry her, and they lived happily ever after."

"Shut up, you," growled O'Day. He had missed nothing. There was a rare quality of sympathy and understanding beneath his tough hide.

It had not occurred to Jimmy that he was wealthy. He failed to realize it even then. He thought, "Yes, I suppose I can—and trample on that poor girl you dragged into this."

To Church he remarked quietly, "You'll never realize what you've done to me," and turned away to hide his face.

A struggle went on within him. As long as Mary had been out of his reach he had been indifferent to everything else—as indifferent, at any rate, as a sensitive nature would permit.

Then his path had seemed so clear. But now it branched, and one way lay desire and the other way—was it duty? He thought of going to Olga and saying, "You'll be taken care of now. Your troubles are over. I've got influential friends. I'll see that you get your start—your career."

But the words in his mind were mere empty phrases. It would be nothing short of hypocrisy, he thought.

He groaned aloud, "Lord, that's not paying her back. I owe her everything," and was startled when O'Day put a hand on his shoulder.

"Come, lad," O'Day was saying, "let's get out of here. You need to sleep it over. Too much of a strain. You're tired, an' you're hurt, an' your nerves are all in pieces. You need quiet."

He turned toward his men. "Bring him along, boys," and pointed to Church.

When he spoke again to Rand his manner was bluff and hearty. "Did I tell you how Mooney got that dope from Mexico City? No? Well, he called me up first and sent the telegram on as confirmation. I told him I'd want it. Seems he had an old friend who used to be on the force years ago in Grafton and who went down to Mexico, learned the language an' then settled down in some business or other.

"Mooney got in touch with him, an' this fellow did some gumshoe work an' finally found those Mexican lawyers Thaddeus used to deal with. They told him the dope an' he relays it right back to Mooney. Simple as pie, wasn't it—after he got on the right track?"

Jimmy heard him listlessly. As they were leaving the front door, O'Day, with a sweeping glance around him, said, "Fine house you've got here, Rand. Do you realize, my boy, that it's yours? Why, you're a millionaire, lad!" He whispered, "Think of it!"

And then he threw an arm around the other's shoulders. "Aw, buck up, lad, buck up! It has been hard, but you pulled through on top. Imagine that guy spendin' your money all these years. But it's yours now, an' let's hope you put it to better use."

"I hope," said Jimmy thoughtfully, "I hope I'll be generous, that's all."

He watched dully while the officers climbed into the automobile and pulled Church in with them.

He climbed in alongside O'Day and sat silent, his mind a muddy jumble of thoughts as he tried to reach some kind of decision. And then, frowning, he set his teeth. He knew.

"Want me to drop you off at home?" O'Day asked, "or are you coming down with us?"

"I'm going down there later to meet Barry Colvin," said Jimmy. "First of all, though, I've got to see Olga Maynard."

THE LOGIC OF THE TEMPTRESS

"That afternoon I went to the master who was teaching Miss Lawrence. He was supposed to be the best voice teacher in Canada, I learned afterward. I learned from his secretary that he charged two hundred dollars for just listening and telling you whether your voice amounted to anything or not and he was said to be very brutal in his conclusions. He paid not the slightest attention to your feelings in any way.

"From my increased salary I had saved one hundred and fifty dollars, and the next morning I went to Madame Seria who had always been more than kind to me and asked her if she would lend me the other fifty and take it out of my salary for the next month.

"She asked me what I wanted the money for.

"I told her.

"'Sing for me,' she commanded.

"Without any accompaniment or preparation, because I knew she was sympathetic and kind, I sang Tosti's Good-bye.

"When I finished, she wrote me a check for fifty dollars, and said:

"'Wait a day or two and I will put you in a position to get that audition for nothing.

"'This afternoon when Miss Lawrence comes in I want you instead of Lucile to model the dresses she is going to look at. While you are changing outside the curtains—I will arrange that you dress just outside the room—I want you to sing some part of this Good-bye song.

"'Buddy Tremaine will be with Lola Lawrence. He is perfectly crazy about music and he won't disdain a girl that is easy to look at. I heard yesterday that Lola's voice had not come up to standard under the strain. Tortentio has told her it would be no use to give her more lessons. Of course I'm not sure whether it is Lola's voice or whether Tremaine has gotten tired of her but I do know she is going to Europe next week for a rest and Tremaine is not going with her.

"'Although it's very probable that you will hear nothing more of your singing today I am sure that Tremaine will be around here to find out about you.'

"I looked at Madame Seria somewhat in surprise. She seemed very hard. I had not yet learned, Julie, that we women have to be hard as steel to make our way to the top in this world.

"'Madame Seria, I don't want to hurt Miss Lawrence,' I said haltingly. 'If she has found out that something is wrong with her voice she must be broken-hearted and I don't want to add to her grief'."

Flowing, Rippling Lines Prove Alluring

The most successful frocks of the new season are simple problems in fabric mathematics, and a notable case in point is this model in flat crêpe. First there is the V-shaped neck at front; then one observes the graceful jabots and flaring tunic having a deep U at both front and back, fashioned of a pleasing design of printed crêpe. Interesting, too, are the long tailored sleeves ending in flared cuffs. The front and back of this frock are entirely in one-piece and it slips on over the head, closing at the left side of the set-under vestee. The tunic flounce is set onto the dress and left open at the sides. No. 1314 is in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 38 bust requires 4¾ yards 39-inch for dress all of one material; or 3¾ yards 39-inch plain material, and 1¼ yards figured, as illustrated. Price 20 cents.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS
by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

LAND-WHERE-SPRING-HAS COME

Mister Rubadub had enough soap and shampoo and polish and things left to clean up Petey Prairie-Dog before he quit.

But I know that Petey would look as dusty as ever in about a day. For Petey lives under the ground most of the summer as well as the winter. He likes to set on top of his roof, on his hind legs and go, "Quirk! Quirk! Quirk" in his funny wee voice like a toy dog, at the same time jerking his short stubby tail, as though he worked with a string. But Petey has not enough courage to say "Boo" to a goose. He's forever getting scared at some thing or other and popping down into his underground house again. But they got him just the same and took him a long way to Scrub-Up Land.

Then the Twins and the March Hare, rounded up long-legged old Jack Rabbit, and he got spring-cleaned to the Queen's taste.

Next they marched Bunch Badger off to Scrub-Up Land, and if ever an old tramp needed a scouring it was he.

But like Petey Prairie-Dog, it didn't do much good, for Bunch had no more than reached his home on the plain than he started in to dig for gophers again.

Then came Colonel 'Possum from 'long down south!

It was quite a pleasure to fix up the Colonel, and Mister Rubadub said so. He shook a lot of persimmon perfume all over him when he was finished and put prickly-pear perfume on his handkerchief.

"Ah shuh am evah so much obliged, suh!" said Colonel 'Possum when he was ready to leave. "Ah shall recommend youh bahbah shop to all my friends. Good-day to you also Mistah Hain and to you Miss Nancy and to you Mastah Nick." With that he lifted his hat and was gone.

"Good-bye," called the others.

Mister Rubadub turned all his cans and bottles and jars upside down. "Empty—everyone of them!" he declared. "Now we can have a cleaning-up party, then I'll lock the gate of Scrub-Up Land until next year."

Nancy and Nick rolled up their sleeves and they all pitched in.

In no time at all Scrub-Up Land was as spick and span as a new spool.

Mister Rubadub then closed the gate and locked it.

Then all four of them went down the little secret path that led to the Land-Where-Spring-Was-Coming.

When they reached the little bush that marked the place where Scrub-Up Land ended, and Meadow-Wood-Valley Land began, they all stopped in surprise.

The grass was as green as paint, the bushes and trees were covered with tiny green and pink fuzzy buds, the willows were out, violets were peeping up here and there, and on the edge of the woods they could see little blue hepatica flowers, and the white stars of the blood-root. March-marigolds were ready to burst into bloom over by the pond. Everywhere the birds were singing. Soft warm winds were blowing and white clouds were chasing each other across the sky.

"Why, this is the Land-Where-Spring-Is-Coming!" cried Nancy!" "It's the same old place we always knew."

"Yes, but it's part of Fairyland now," said Mister Rubadub. "It's now the Land-Where-Spring-Has-Come!"

CLOCK PRESENTED.

Employees of Quaker Oats Bag Department Honor Friend Who is Leaving.

Yesterday afternoon the employees of the Bag Department of the Quaker Oats Company made a presentation to Miss Daisy Wheeler, whose marriage takes place this week. A mantel clock was presented by Miss Grace Barnes while Miss Sylvia Holmes read the following address:

To Daisy:

The time has come, we greatly fear,
when we must say good-bye,
But don't feel blue, or don't feel sad, and here's the reason why.
We'll always think of happy days,
we spent here together
And just before you leave us now we'd like to know just whether You'll keep this clock upon your shelf or mantel-piece or table.
To tell the time, as good clocks should as well as it is able
We hope from there it will watch you
Spend many happy days
Many months, and many years in many happy ways,
A faithful friend we hope 'twill be
If not please let us know,
Because we hope you'll not forget
Your old friends when you go
To dear knows where; be near or far
Wherever you may roam,
You'll have the 'time' to think of us
When you're at 'home sweet home.'

PENNY'S WORTH

For several years now the gentlemen of the church have exhorted women to cover their epidermis. Some cathedrals even shut their doors and refused mass to women attired in fashion's height. Now the church tries other and cleverer tactics. It is "cashing in" on the well-known human trait of following those in high places. The Church has asked Queen Victoria of Spain to wear long dresses, high collars and long sleeves.

Remember "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" who "never got to having a really good time but what an offspring fell in the rain barrel?" Mrs. Wiggs was born in a book many, many years ago, but every year her publishers must put out another printing. Sophisticates laugh at this penchant for "cheery, Pollyannaish books," but they've smoothed the road for many a human toiler.

THE RIGHT THING!

It's the groom's job to choose his ushers. The bride has no more right saying that "Cousin Tom" shall usher, than has the groom the right to suggest that "Cousin Lizzie" should be maid of honor.

THE BOOK

"Common women," the hundreds of thousands of them the world over, bless 'em, will thrill to "The Adventures of a Homely Woman," by Fay Inchfawn.

"A woman's life is not all hill-top nor all valley," she writes "more often than not she finds herself on some little ridge half-way between.

"There are mornings without frills, and afternoons and evenings devoid of thrills! Just keeping a home together, just making things go right."

LIKE THIS?

"When the hornet hangs in the hollyhock,
And the brown bee drones i' the rose,
And the west is a red-streaked four-o'clock,
And summer is near its close—
It's —oh, for the gate, and the locust lane
And dusk, and dew—and home again."

BUDGET

Here's what one expert thinks should be done with a $150 income. Per month. Rent, $30 that includes taxes and interest, business car fare, and fire insurance. Operating, that includes heat light, water, repairs and service, $22.50. Food, $36. Clothing, $30. Higher life, $31.50. That latter means savings, income tax, insurance, charity, books, magazines and papers, doctor and dentist, entertainment. The "expert" is Della Thompson Lutes, author of "A Home of Your Own."

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE
By Genevieve Kemble

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31.

Although a fairly active day in business is presaged from the predominant solar and lunar directions, yet hostile forces are in strong sway. There may be much danger through rash and impetuous conduct as well as because of ill-governed speech and temper. And this same malefic force may obtain in social, domestic and affectional connections, in which ill-feeling and unjust criticisms may mar pleasant relations. Letters may bring censure.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an active year but one in which rash and impulsive deeds may bring anxiety and inharmony; this in daily affairs as well as in personal relations. Avoid inviting criticism and unkind censure, and fortify against emotional depression or anxiety. A child born on this day may be disposed to be rash and tempestuous. It should be lively and resourceful in business, despite a tendency to be depressed and gloomy in its social contacts. This may mar its pleasant home relations.

It is better to believe that a man does possess good qualities than to assert that he does not. —Davis.

The Junior Girl Wears a Frock of Soft Red Wool Rep.

Red is having wide popularity this spring, both for the grown-up and for the very young girl.

The light weight wool rep, above, in red, makes an ideal daytime frock for the junior girl. It is a simple, one-piece affair with rather low waistline and skirt which exploits group pleating.

Tan rep is used for trimming and to cover the buttons, while the belt is tan suede.

The true purpose of education is to cherish and unfold the seed of immortality already sown within us: to develop, to their fullest extent, the capacities of every kind with which the God who made us has endowed us.—Jameson.

RHEUMATIC PAINS GO SWOLLEN JOINTS VANISH

Thousands of sufferers have freed themselves from the bondage of rheumatism; rid themselves of the torturing pain; reduced the swollen joints; thrown away canes and crutches, and from helpless beings became able to work and be of use to themselves and their families.

They took Rheuma; the modern enemy of rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, arthritis, and chronic neuralgia.

Don't be skeptical about Rheuma. You will know in a few hours after beginning the treatment that the poisonous waste matter is leaving your system through the natural channels. You will feel better in a day; you will know you are going to be helped in less than a week.

There is no guess work about Rheuma bringing you back to health. That's why McDermid & Jury and druggists everywhere sell it with guarantee of money back if it does not give quick relief.

For Deep Chest Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors, for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds you first apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 5 minutes, spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

This double action usually checks the most stubborn cold overnight.

CANADIAN MERCHANT MARINE NOT IN NORTH ATLANTIC CONFERENCE AND NOT CONTROLLED BY COMBINE

Manitoba Conservative Asks Government to Assist the Cattle Industry.

NEEDS LOW RATES

Cost of $20 a Head to Old Country is Excessive.

OTAWA, March 30 (Canadian Press).—On the motion of Col. H. A. Mullins (Conservative, Marquette Manitoba) the House of Commons yesterday adopted a resolution that the Canadian Government Merchant Marine should withdraw at once from the North Atlantic Conference, "and should be operated independently of any association, conference or combine or steamship lines with the sole object of conferring the greatest possible advantage upon the Canadian producer."

Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways, said the Canadian Government Merchant Marine withdrew from the conference in 1925. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen replied that while it had been stated last session that the Government Merchant Marine had withdrawn from the conference, evidence was adduced to show that it still "sat in." It was of importance to know whether rates put into effect by the Government Merchant Marine were those "dictated" by the conference.

Mr. Mullins declared that an excessive rate of $20 per head for carrying cattle to England still prevailed, and Western shippers were beginning to wonder if they would ever see it reduced.

It had been brought out during the parliamentary investigation of ...n freight rates, that the Cana... Government Merchant Marine ... meetings of the North ...nce, just as did the ...id Col. Mul... the he this animal which ... for Canada. The cow was the mother of prosperity."

Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, said that Col. Mullins had not discussed the resolution itself. As a matter of fact, however, the resolution was "one year late." The Canadian Government Merchant Marine withdrew from the conference in February, 1925.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen Conservative leader, inquired if the rates charged by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine were the same as those fixed by the Conference.

Mr. Dunning replied that this question had nothing to do with the resolution. He was not in a position at the present time to give the information, but would be glad to obtain and give to Mr. Meighen.

Mr. Meighen's Doubts.

Mr. Meighen declared that while it had been stated before the Petersen committee of the House last session that the Canadian Government Merchant Marine had withdrawn from the Conference, evidence was adduced to show that the C.G.M.M. still "sat in" at these conferences.

The important point to Canadian people was whether the rates put into effect by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine were those "dictated by the Conference. He wanted to know whether the rates followed by the C.G.M.M. were those "fixed" by the North Atlantic Conference.

Mr. Dunning interjected to state that the C.G.M.M. "does not obey the dictates of any conference."

Continuing, Mr. Meighen stated that he would like to know whether this "so called divorce" of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine from the Conference meant anything insofar as rates were concerned.

Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, said that the Canadian Government Merchant Marine had been left on the doorstep of the present Government when it took office. It was not working in conjunction with the North Atlantic combine, and was under no obligation to the combine.

Robert Forke, Progressive leader, noticed that none of the gentlemen who had spoken last in the debate were able to say what cattle rates were on the Merchant Marine. Mr. Mullins had said he was in love with the cow. "So am I, so long as I can get someone else to milk her," said Mr. Forke. He wished to remind the House that wheat would be the great staple produce of the three Western provinces, and Mr. Mullins should not cast reflection upon the wheat growers. "Wheat is going to pay the public debt don't forget that," said Mr. Forke.

Smooth Out Grievances

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, reviewed the efforts of the Government in the matter of ocean rates. The Government, he said, hoped to be in office long enough to set all the grievance right.

Mr. Mullins, in closing, the debate said, the origins of the Progressive group were among discontented grain growers. He criticized the Government's efforts respecting the cattle trade and said that when Mr. Duncan Marshall had gone to England to receive the first shipment of cattle after the embargo was lifted, he had a red tape put across the gangway. That had been an insult to the British people, said Mr. Mullins.

It had been a mistake also to al... "those wild, long-horned rangy ...s cattle" to go to Wembly for ... purposes. The enemies of the ... trade in England were only ...glad to point to them as Cana... cattle. The cattle range days ... over in Canada.

...r. Mullins urged that Ireland ...ld very much like to keep the ...adian cattle out of Great Britain. ... Government should do some... at once to prevent interested ...es from getting the embargo on ...ada cattle restored. If this ...ernment would only do a little ... the cattle men, instead of so ...ch for the grain men of the West, ... would be satisfied. If the Con...atives were in power, there ...ld be some very prompt action ... the matter—"or else," he added. ...e seat for Marquette would be ...n in five minutes."

...Mr. Speaker put the question and ...re was no opposition. When the ...tion was declared carried, Hon. ...nest Lapointe, added good ...mouredly "Unanimously."

ONTRACTOR MUST CERTIFY PAYMENT

...bor Must Be Paid Before Progress Certificates Are Issued.

ORONTO March 30 (Canadian Press). — Premier Ferguson last night in the Legislature made announcement regarding the security of labor on all future contracts from the Government. The announcement arose out of the disclosures at the public accounts committee when it was brought out that the laborers under a certain road contractor had received no wages. The laborers, under misapprehension, carried on their work without pay for some ten weeks thinking that as it was a Government contract they were sure of their wages.

The Premier said that in future, before any progress certificates were issued to any contractor, that contractor must assure the Government that his labor was fully paid up. "The aggregate of these non-payments is not large," said the Premier, "and the Government is prepared to go a long way to meet the wages of the men. Hereafter, any contractor will be obliged to certify his labor will be paid before he will receive a Government contract.

Invention To Render Printing Obsolete Introduced—Photographic Copies To Be Read Through New Machine

NEW YORK, March 30 (United Press)—An invention by which he expects to render obsolete printing presses and type setting machinery has been brought forward by Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, retired, the New York Herald Tribune said today. The invention is termed the Fiske reading machine and consists of a small spring tongs on which are mounted a lens for one eye, a shield for the other and a rack to hold the printed matter. He believes his device will make eye glasses unnecessary for many now forced to use them while reading.

The printed matter is produced directly from typewritten manuscript by photography in combination with the auquatone process and is microscopic size. Admiral Fiske has prepared, for a sample, the first volume of Mark Twain's "Innocents Abroad" and this volume of 93,000 words has been compressed into 13 pages, three and three quarters by five and three quarters inches.

EASTER SUPPLIES IN CITY STORES

First Strawberries Expected at End of Week—Melons Here.

Along with Easter bonnets and Eastertide suits, along with the end of the Lenten season and the beginning of spring, because spring never really begins until Easter Sunday has come and gone, will come the first strawberres. At least, they are expected in some of the fruit stores along about Easter Sunday. They will be pale imitations of the real, luscious red fruit that causes such an epidemic of strawberry festivals and hives later on, but they will be strawberries anyway, and they will sell, so it is asserted, at 50 cents a pint. Louisiana sends this first shipment northward.

Away from thousands of miles over land and sea come the honeydew melons that sell at $1.25 each. From the Argentine, the land that produces Valentinos and "Wild Bulls" like Louis Angel Firpo, come toothsome, lovely things. California sends rhubarb and artichokes and cucumbers and string beans from the same locality are expected with the Easter strawberries.

Butter is up in price but eggs are really quite reasonable. The cow may be getting upstage and haughty at this time of year, but the hen continues to go her lowly way, content to provide plenty of material for the Easter consumption of the breakfast accompaniment to ham and coffee.

Maple syrup in small amounts made its first appearance in town last Saturday and a larger consignment is anticipated this week, to sell at 70 cents a quart.

In the flower stores are tall Easter lillies, at a quarter apiece, with hydrangeas, pink and green, at $2.50 to $3.00 for the pot, and stocks at two sprays for two bits.

Other Easter attributes are the lovely mauve and green and white cards in the book stores and the novelties everywhere in the form of chocolate bunnies which come in large and very small sizes, along with white, cotton batting creations of the same little rabbits, one attractive small type with pink ears and red bead eyes embracing affectionately a tiny yellow carrot with a green foliage top.

TARIFF BOARD NOT COMPLETE

Hon. Mr. Meighen Presses Government Leader For Information.

STATEMENT SOON.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 30. — (Canadian Press.)— Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Opposition asked in the House of Commons Monday afternoon, "Has the tariff commission, or whatever the government proposes to call it, been appointed yet?"

"If my Rt. Hon. friend is referring to the tariff advisory board, the order-in-council has not yet been passed," replied Premier King.

"Again?" asked Mr. Meighen, but the question was disregared.

Later, Mr. Meighen again secured the floor and asked if the Prime Minister would still say that the matter was under consideration in the light of his statement to the House last Thursday in which he named the personnel of the committee.

Premier King replied that he had stated then that the secretary of the board had yet to be named and that the order-in-council appointing the board had not been passed. Since that time he had also been informed that two other gentlemen had been approached as possible members of the board.

Mr. Meighen asked if the statement recently made by one of the prospective members of the board had anything to do with the fact that the government was still considering the matter.

Mr. King replied that that statement no doubt would be taken into consideration also. He hoped to give the House a copy of the order-in-council before the adjournment on Wednesday for Easter.

DEMANDS MADE BY GREAT BRITAIN

Will Withdraw Recognition if Peking Government Interferes With Customs.

LONDON, March 30. United Press. —The possibility of the withdrawal of Great Britain's diplomatic recognition of the Peking government was admitted here to-day

Officials refused either to confirm or deny the reports from Shanghai, that the British Minister in Peking had threatened to withdraw unless the Chinsese government ceased its alleged interference with the Foreign Inspector General of Customs.

Something in the nature of a threat was likely, the United Press was informed

BOUNTY PAID ON MANY WOLVES IN RECENT MONTHS

Minister of Mines Says More Have Been Killed Since Reduction.

EASIER MARRIAGE.

Col. Currie Says Country Needs Population—Estimates Brought Down.

TORONTO, March 30. — Canadian Press. — Although the Premier announced yesterday afternoon that the Legislature could not finish before Easter he stated last night that morning sittings would be started on Wednesday morning.

Eleven government bills were introduced yesterday and this in itself is taken that the session cannot conclude by next Thursday night.

The committees, with the exception of private bills, are all ahead with their business and at least equal to the house. Last night's session was largely taken up with the estimates.

Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, in discussing an estimate on wolf bounties, stated that more wolves had been killed since the reduction in the wolf bounty than before. During the five months ending March 22. 1926. 2,323 wolves had been taken upon which the bounty was paid. The Minister of Mines added this significant paragraph to his report:

"Reports have been received by the Department of Game and Fisheries, that the Indians in the northeastern part of the province have recently been successful in snaring wolves. Formerly the Indians were unable to secure wire that would be flexible for the purpose and yet strong enough to hold a wolf until it died of strangulation. After numerous trials they have at last produced a wire suitable for the purpose, and considerable success has been achieved by Indian trappers."

While the House was in Committee of the Whole on bills, a discussion arose over the recent restrictions placed upon young couples seeking to get married.

The marriage act amendments were approved, but not until after Col. J. A. Currie (South east Toronto, Conservative) stated his objections to the clause requiring that the marriage ceremony may not be performed until three days after the issue of the license. "Marriage should be made as easy as possible," he said.

"Let our girls of sixteen marry if they like. They did forty years ago and they made good wives, too. This is a young country and we want to get it populated."

The amendment under discussion changes "three clear days" to three days after the issue of the license, thus cutting off one day.

The main estimates were brought down in the House last night. They reach a total of $42.129,000, which is a slight reduction over last year. The main feature is cutting out of the university grants, except the University of Toronto. There is a provision of $4,000,000 for trunk lines of hydro transmission.

Before adjournment at 11.45 p.m., the House voted supply to the extent of $1.900.000

ASHBURY SUPPORTS CRIMEAN VETERAN

Town Assures Dr. Osbaldeston of Its Backing.

ASHBURY PARK, N. J., March 30.—Fellow townsmen of Dr. Edwin Pye Turner Rowe Osbaldeston, Crimean war veteran and Ashbury Park's most noted and popular character, have guaranteed him every aid in fighting the attempt to extradite him for an alleged offense of nearly a half century ago.

"I thank you, gentlemen," Dr. Osbaldeston, with all the dignity that befits his 93 years, tells his callers. "But I have no fear but that justice will triumph and that young upstart from Binghampton will be shown his place."

The "upstart" is F. Foster Black, 91, deputy sheriff of Binghampton, N.Y., who swears that Dr. Osbaldeston, is the same man who stole a horse and wagon in 1880 and later broke jail.

"I do not think Mr. Black intended to do wrong, sir," Dr. Osbaldeston said. "He probably has made an honest mistake, and I do not intend to sue. In fact, this affair is more amusing than otherwise."

PATRIOTIC LEAGUE.

Ashburnham Ladies Are Guests of Mrs. H. Morgan.

A meeting of the Ashburnham Women's Patriotic League was held last evening at the home of Mrs. H. Morgan, Robinson street, with a very good attendance. The president, Mrs. R. H. Parsons, was in the chair. It was decided to make a donation of $25 toward the fund for obtaining books for convalescent soldiers in the Christie Street Hospital in Toronto. It was also arranged to hold sales of home-made cooking on the farmers' market for two Saturdays in April.

At the close of the business session, light refreshments were served by the hostess, and a pleasant social hour spent.

Weather Conditions Gives Wheat An Early Downturn

CHICAGO, Mar. 30 (Canadian Press)—Although widespread snow and rain is highly beneficial for the new crop of domestic winter wheat made July and September deliveries take an early downturn in price today. Commission house buying of May led to a subsequent brisk advance for all months. Opening quotations, 5-8c off to 1-8c up, May (new) 157 3-4 to 158 1-8 and July 135 1-4 to 135 1-2 were followed by decided gains all around. Corn and oats were easier, influenced by the smallness of corn receipts here ninety six cars today. Offerings of future deliveries of corn were scarce. New York messages pointed out that Chicago May corn are now at the same price. After opening at 1-4c decline to 1-8c advance May 72 1-4 to 72 1-2 the corn market here scored moderate general gains.

Oats started unchanged to 1-4c higher, May 40 to 40 1-8 and continued to point up grade. In line with hog values provision market was firm.

Trading Becomes Light Market Generally Firm

TORONTO, March 30.— (Canadian Press.)— This morning's session of the Standard Mining Exchange was featureless, trading being extremely light and the market as a whole firm. McIntyre and Noranda were strong spots, each gaining 35 cents. McIntyre going to 23.95 and Noranda to 12.90. Keeley gained two at 156 and Mining Corporation two at 357. Kirkland Lake gained two at 98 1-2 and Indian one at 12.

Marked Firmness Features Session At Stock Exchange

TORONTO, March 30. — Canadian Press. — General firmness marked this morning's rather ordinary session of the Toronto stock exchange. The features were the strength of Smelters and heavy turnover in International Nickel which held remarkably steady. Nickel fluctuated not more than a point and closed the morning unchanged at 33½; Smelters was 4 3-8 higher at 204 3-8.

Brazilian gained 3-8 at 88 3-8 and steamships preferred 3-4 at 59 1-2.

British Columbia Fishing firmed 5-8 at 64¼.

McIntyre was the strongest mine stock, advancing 40c at 23.90, while Dome gained four at 15.30.

Terrfic Selling Market Breaks Short Lived Rally

NEW YORK, March 30. Canadian Press. — After a short lived rally today gave way before another onslaught of selling which was directed with terrific intensity against leading railroad shares. Scores of new low levels for the year were established on declines of 2 to 8 points, with losses of 10 and 15 points registered by some of the inactive issues. Reports that powerful banking interests had rushed their support to the market were circulated following an early rise in United States Steel, General electric, Dupont and other market leaders, but under cover of this move liquidation gradually began to play havoc in the railroad group resulting in a wide open break as the calling of bank loans was resumed on a large scale.

SEEK ARREST OF PASSAIC CHIEF

Strikers Also Ask Warrants Against 12 Police Officers.

IN TENTH WEEK.

PASSAIC, N. J., March 30.—The end of the ninth week of the strike of 15,000 textile mill workers in this city, Clifton, Garfield and Lodi was marked Saturday by the announcement of the American Civil Liberties Union through Roger Baldwin, its executive director, that today four complaints of atrocious assault and battery would be lodged by strikers against Chief of Police Richard O. Zober. Twelve complaints on similar charges will be lodged against as many officers of the Passaic Police Department also, Mr. Baldwin added.

The strikers, with Mr. Baldwin, visited the office of Police Court Clerk George H. Rice to swear out the complaints. It was decided to wait until Monday afternoon. Civil suits will also be instituted. The statement by Mr. Baldwin follows:

"The action of the American Civil Liberties Union in having warrants sworn out against police officers of Passaic and in instituting civil suits against them follows a thorough investigation covering a period of over two weeks in the field. Our representative, Attorney Charles M. Joseph of New York, has learned of not less than a hundred cases of unlawful police violence, amounting in most instances to 'atrocious assault.'

"Sixteen such cases, supported by affidavits of victims and witnesses, form the basis of our first move to check the police in their warfare n civil rights. We find that the laws of New Jersey are as specific as those of other States in protection of peaceful persons against police outrages.

Will Push All Complaints.

"When a man like Chief Zober, whose duty it to preserve public order, allows his department under his leadership to violate the laws, it is time to bring these laws into service against him and his officers. In other words, we insist on observance of the law by those who are supposed to enforce the law. The American Civil Liberties Union is ready to do its utmost on the principle to push every case where the facts are clear."

Saturday was the quietest day since the strike began. Small picket lines were at several of the mills, but no order of any kind was reported. The usual meetings were held this afternoon with Organizer Albert Weisbord of the United Front Committee, which is conducting the strike, Mr. Baldwin and others telling the workers that victory was in sight and that heavy picket lines would be sent to all mills on Monday. It was intimated, too, that a drive on the Paterson Dye Mills would be started if the Associated Silk Workers of Paterson took no action or refused to aid in organizing there.

FARMER KILLED.

Accidental Explosion of Blasting Material Blamed For Fatality.

MATHESON, March 30 (Canadian Press). — David Anderson a farmer of this district and former keeper of the Abitibi dam at Watabeg Lake, came to his death through the accidental explosion of some blasting material with which he was working in his shack is the conclusion that has been reached by the police following Provincial Constable Delve's investigation of the death, which occurred here on Friday morning last.

Besides killing Anderson the explosion also set fire to the building. A neighbor living on the outskirts of Matheson, 2 miles away, reports having seen the flames about three o'clock in the morning.

PROVINCE NEEDS LESS MONEY FOR ENSUING YEAR

Reduction of Nearly Two Millions Made in Estimates.

LESS FOR HYDRO.

Withdrawal of Grants To Queen's and Western Saves Money.

TORONTO, March 30 (Canadian Press).—An estimated reduced expenditure of $1,690,000 for the fiscal year 1927 is shown in the main estimates, tabled in the Legislature by Provincial Treasurer Price last night. The total of the estimates is $42,129,499, as compared with $43,822,302 last year.

The largest reductions are due to anticipated decreased expenditures on Hydro on the new administration building and to the inception of the new policy which cuts off the grants to Western and Queen's Universities.

There is an estimate of $3,000,000 for an Eastern Ontario transmission line and new development at Port Severn and Musquash in the Muskoka system is included at $200,000. An item of a million dollars is included for a 110,000 volt line in the St. Thomas district.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind is included for $50,000 and the Soldiers' Aid Commission gets $77,550. There is an increase in game and fisheries estimates due to the proposal to institute an experimental fur farm and the intention to take over the fish hatcheries from the Dominion Government.

Health estimates show an increase due to the intention of holding health weeks in various communities. It is also proposed to institute health services in Red Lake and other new districts if the communities there are to be permanent.

CONSULT A LAWYER.

Judge Says That Real Estate Agents Don't Always Know Law.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 27. (By Canadian Press).—In a recent case, where the wife of a teamster sought a declaration from the Court that she owned certain furniture seized by the defendants, (a man and his wife.) Judge Grant said: "Money is saved and trouble avoided by consulting a lawyer instead of a real estate agent. Why do people persist in keeping away from the legal fraternity and going to real estate men who are ignorant of the law altogether to draw up legal documents," said his honor. "The plaintiff will be out ten times as much as if they had the good sense to have gone to men who were trained in this matter. Real estate men are not trained, not responsible in damages if they make mistakes. Lawyers are. If a man is fool enough—and I use this expression advisedly—to go to a person not trained in the law to prepare legal documents, he takes the results."

Pain is no longer pain when it is past. —Preston.

Corns ache like teeth

but the remedy is much simpler

There is no need to endure the pain of an obstinate corn for even one day more. Even a corn or callous of 20 years' obstinacy has to yield to Radox Bath Salts. When you put your foot into a foot bath containing Radox Bath Salts, the dead skin combines with the Radox Salts to form a protein salt of the actual corn itself. This dissolves in water, and so loosens the corn that it may be lifted out bodily. Radox Bath Salts does not affect the living skin. It is only the corn which it dissolves. An enthusiastic use of Radox says:—

"Wish herewith to thank you for "benefits received from the use of "Radox Bath Salts. It has com-"pletely removed a callous I have "had for the past 20 years, after "three foot baths."

FOOTBALL CLUBS OF CITY AND DISTRICT PREPARE FOR SEASON

Omemee Team Will be New Entry in Senior Teams — Sportsmanship Appeal by President Wm. Anderson —Uphold Best Traditions of the Game.

With the approach of Spring the soccer player and fan are busy making arrangements in the formation of their respective team executives so as to be ready for the ensuing season with an eleven that will uphold their past history in local soccer.

"Let All be Sports."

President William Anderson, in a brief address after his unanimous election as President, thanked his associates for the honor conferred upon him. "One aim of my office will be to have an executive board who are not in anyway connected with a club which will act independently and as an example to foster soccer in the city and district. I should like to see every football enthusiast and follower resolving to be a sportsman—not merely a supporter of any particular club, or even of the game in general, but a real sportsman," he finally concluded.

The Eight Points.

A little brochure issued recently by one of the Associations connected with H. M. Forces, gives an excellent description of what might be considered a "sportsman," and given under eight heads, viz.:

(1) Play the game for the game's sake.

(2) Plays for his side and not for himself.

(3) Is a good winner and a good loser, i.e., modest in victory, and generous in defeat.

(4) Accepts all decisions in a proper spirit.

(5) Is chivalrous towards a defeated opponent.

(6) Is unselfish and always ready to help others to become proficient.

(7) As a spectator applauds good play on both sides.

(8) Never interferes with referees or judges no matter what the decision.

Be Keen—But Fair.

Such then are the true tenets of the ideal sportsman. It must be admitted that the author of these eight points has shown an intimate knowledge of the failings of players and spectators in many sports. A player can give of the best that is in him in a clean and proper manner, without stooping to shady tactics which inevitably bring punishment and disgrace on both players and clubs. That is the meaning of the initial clause, and it is not beyond compliance in any match.

Let the Referee Rule.

In seasons gone past, the question of Referees has always been the cause of many lively debates in local circles, but the senior association has always been very fortunate in having first class referees to control the game. There is an important matter which deserves consideration from both players and spectators. In the early part of the season last year the questioning of the referees' decisions caused the "knights of the whistle" much trouble until the association cautioned the action of such players. In the coming season let all players and spectators accept all decisions of the referee; they would make that official's task much lighter, and gain more respect for themselves.

And it is likewise with the spectators.

What a howl is set up if a referee gives a decision which they cannot understand! They forget that the referee is in close contact with the play, and is therefore in a position to see many things which are not obvious to the spectators—disappointed followers have even made it a personal grouch, which did not get them anywhere or anything. Again, adopt the slogan: "Be a sport!"

Who Won the Junior League?

This qutstion has been asked many a time since the talk of soccer has again come forth this year. The junior league was not finished last season, owing to the peculiar action that Dummer and Warsaw took in not fulfilling the remaining fixtures.

There is no need in renumerating the cause of such trouble but it left the Junior executive in an unfortunate position that they could not declare an official winner of the 1924-1925 season. It was not the officials' fault, but an unforseen calamity, which did not do the game any good. Since the inauguration of the junior board, they have accomplished many good works and deserve credit for what they have done in local soccer.

Omemee has Started Training.

From official sources comes the news that Omemee has started training already and intend giving the local teams a good game of soccer when the league opens. They have entered the P. and D. F. A. in the Senior league, with a very capable executive that will put a clever eleven on the field of play

Quaker Oats Enter a Team.

At a very enthusiastic meeting held recently by the Quaker Oats soccer team, the question of entering an eleven in the Senior league was definitely decided in spite of the news to the contrary that was broadcasted a few weeks ago.

Local and International Law.

No player is entitled to play for two teams in any cup tie; once a cup tie player always attached to that team:

(a) Local law reads: The laws of the game shall be those adopted by the International Board each year.

Referee's Fee Rmains the Same.

Considerable discussion took place in regard to the fee that shall be paid the "Kings of the Whistle" for their services in each game, and it was decided that the salary remain the same: $2.00.

Ticklish Predicament.

Shall a defaulting team's record be obliterated if they do not complete the League schedule?" was the ticklish predicament of the many local fans who attended the meeting last evening. The only solution to the situation came from Johnny Ward who suggested "that if a team defaults before the first half of the schedule is finished that the remaining clubs shall receive the full points.

Just before the final vote, Mr. Campbell moved, seconded by George Lowe "that the complete records of the defaulting teams' games be struck out," was carried by 5 to 4 when put to the executive. Johnny Ward lost his very good suggestion.

Two Copies to Each Team.

The executive decided that two copies of the rules and regulations be given to the respective clubs so that every member may know the laws of the game.

Thistle Executive.

The Thistle F. C. elected the following office bearers for the season 1926:

Hon. Pres., Rt. Hon. G. N. Gordon, Hon. Vice. Pres., R. French; President, R Gilmour; Vice-President, D. Dick, Sec.-Treas., G. Nimmons; Executive, W. Barrie and A. Anderson.

Quakers' Executive.

The Quaker Oats elected the following gentlemen for the ensuing year:

Ron. Pres. G. A. McDonald; Hon. 1st Vice-Pres, George Edwards; President. W Hepburn; manager. Donald Gilmour; Sec.-Treas. Frank Burton.

Juvenile League Meeting.

The general meeting of the Juvenile League will be held in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms on Monday evening, April 12th. 1926, at 7 p.m. All juvenile players are requested to attend.

REAL BASEBALL DUE THIS YEAR

New Ball is "Deader" Than "Jack Rabbit" of Recent Year.

USE OLD METHOD.

NEW YORK, March 30 (Canadian Press) — Critics at the major league training camps forecast one radical change in the game this year as a result of defensvie measures to curb the long hopes of the "jack rabbit" ball.

From their observations of comparative performances, they have found no indications that the resin ball has increased the effectiveness of National League pitchers over hurlers in the American League, which voted against the return of the "foreign substance."

They do assert, however, that the epidemic of long hitting unquestionably has been checked by deadening of the ball. Emphasis on old methods of attack — hitting behind the runner, use of the sacrifice, and base stealing—is predicted on the basis of offensive measures already used in training camp contests.

"We have been using scientific methods more than in the last five or six years," says John McGraw, veteran pilot of the New York Giants. "The new baseball is acting deader than the league baseball of the last seven years. This means that we will introduce a lot of the old stuff — more place hitting and bunting and hitting through the gaps.

"The ball we have been using does not shoot through the infield any more. The old jack rabbit is gone. Now we will see some real baseball."

TUNNEY SIGNED FOR 1926 FIGHT

Agrees To Fight Any Opponent Rickard Selects.

MAY BE DEMPSEY.

NEW YORK, Mar. 30 (Canadian Press)—Promoter Tex Rickard yesterday announced he had signed Gene Tunney to a blanket contract under which the former American light heavyweight champion agrees to fight any opponent Rickard may select for him during the 1926 outdoor season.

Although Rickard made no explanatory comment, observers accepted his action as the first official move in his announced intention of bringing Tunney and Jack Dempsey together this summer in a championship battle. Yankee stadium in New York City is expected to be the scene of the proposed match as a result of the failure of the New Jersey state legislature to pass a bill increasing the top price of admission for boxing contests to $50.00.

The New York promoter now is expected to make an immediate attempt to close with Dempsey. If he fails to complete this match, critics here look for a bout between Tunney and Harry Wills, Dempsey's negro challenger, who has been accepted by the New York state athletic commission as outstanding contender for the heavyweight crown.

Rickard said that he would enter into no contract with Dempsey until after August 3, when the champion's contract with his manager, Jack Kearns, expires.

THREE COUGARS HAVE INJURIES

Lester Patrick, Leader of Cup Holders, Unable Play.

GAME TO-NIGHT.

MONTREAL, Que., March 30—Three members of the world's champion Victoria Cougars, here to defend the Stanley Cup, are on the injured list, and one of them may not be able to play in the opening game of the Stanley Cup series tonight at the Forum, Lester Patrick, the leader of the squad, said last night.

Lester himself is one of the injured ones. He has a broken hand which he got sometime ago, and that means that he will not be in uniform, as so many of his old friends in Montreal had hoped. Ernie "Jock" Anderson, defence man of the Cougars, is also suffering from a broken hand. His injury is not quite as serious as that of Lester Patrick, however. The latter's fracture is in the grip. It is possible that Anderson may play during the series, but the leader of the crew said it was unlikely he would be in the first game. Efforts are being made to tape up the hand so that he will be ready later on.

The third member of the casualty list of the Victoria team is Captain Clem Loughlin, who is suffering from an injury to his shoulder, received in the last game against Edmonton for the Western championship.

The remainder of the team, which includes big Frank Frederickson, the veteran Frankie Foyston, goaler "Hoppy" Holmes, another veteran, Jack Walker, Harold "Dizzy" Hart, Harry Meeking, Gordon Frazer, Harold "Slim" Halderson, with Frederickson, former Olympic star, and Russ Oatman, are reported in good condition, although somewhat tired after their long trip across the continent.

Manager and owner Les. Patrick did not care to make any predictions as to the outcome of the Stanley Cup series. He was hopeful that his team would retain the coveted trophy, but felt that the westerners were up against tough opposition, and with injured men, the long journey, and the changed climatic conditions, the odds to start with were certainly not in his favor.

The Cougars practised at the Forum at noon Monday, and they got a good limbering up.

The Maroons only skated around the ice. They are fine just now and have been playing so many games lately that they do not need workouts.

Everyone of them reported in good condition. Bill Phillips, who was laid out for a time at Ottawa, said he felt all right, although his jaw was still a little sore.

THRILLING FINISH OF SENIOR GAME

Ports Score Three Goals To Even Up Game With Varsity.

REPLAY WEDNESDAY.

TORONTO, March 30.—(Canadian Press.)—Although the University of Toronto scored the first three goals of the game against Port Arthur last night, in what was expected to be the final contest to determine the winners of this season's Canadian championship, they were held to a three all tie by the Ports, the two teams ending the regulation sixty minutes on even terms and battling through thirty minutes of overtime without either one securing a counter. It was a thrilling finish, as both teams were on the verge of exhaustion, and a goal meant the game, the series and the championship, along with the possession of the Allan cup, as the team that was scored against could hardly respond with another counter.

The Students evened up the series in Montreal on Friday night by the display of a great fighting finish, but last night the Ports displayed a spirit that is seldom exhibited by a team outside of a college or school, and their game battle which gradually reduced the Collegians' three goal lead until it was finally wiped out, brought them many friends, and in the overtime the support of the record crowd was evenly divided. The visitors had just as many pulling for them as had the students.

At a special meeting of members of the executive of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, held last night, it was decided to play the fourth game of the Allan Cup series between Varsity and Port Arthur here to-morrow night, with the same officials, M. J. Rodden and R. W. Hewitson in charge.

Who Is Your Favorite?

Boys! Here's your chance!

Here's a competition you can all get in.

Write two hundred words about your favorite player on the Peterborough Senior Hockey Team, Champions of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The prize winner will be the guest of The Examiner at the banquet to be given to the team in recognition of its splendid work this season.

This is the idea. The Petes have brought to this city the first Senior Championship it has ever had. They deserve all kinds of credit. Every boy on the team did his share. But you have your favorite—maybe you think he plays smarter hockey than the others; or he may skate better; or he may be merely better looking. Whatever your reason, write it out in not more than 200 words, and send it to "The Contest Editor, The Examiner," observing these simple rules:

(1) Open only to boys of 17 or under.

(2) Accuracy, penmanship, composition and neatness count.

(3) Contest closes at midnight, April 3.

(4) Pictures of the players will be run every day, without names. Clip out the picture of your favorite and paste it on a sheet of paper with his name written carefully under it. Pin this to your 200 word story or essay.

(5) A coupon, properly filled in and signed by a parent or guardian, must accompany every entry.

A committee of prominent citizens will be asked to decide the winner, and in case of dispute the Editor's decision will be final.

The date of the banquet is April 15.

Clip out this Coupon and attach it to your essay.

CECIL LEITCH—GREATEST FAULT IN PUTTING.

In the event there are any players who, like myself, experience times on the green when they are hitting the ball here, there and everywhere, I must point out what I have in my own case found to be the cause. This temporary paralysis is caused by the tightening of the muscles of the wrists and forearms, with the result that the ball is stabbed by means of a stiff jerk of the arms. The wrists must be allowed freedom and the club must not be gripped too firmly for putting, but those who are suffering from an attack of putting paralysis should exaggerate the looseness of the grip and wrists.

There is one other common fault in putting to which I must refer, and that is the tendency to turn the right hand over at the moment of impact. This action is to be avoided at all costs on the green, as it applies a slight pull to the ball at the end of its journey.

When suffering from disappointing results of this nature it is well to see what position the head of the putter is in at the end of the stroke. The toe of the club will generally be found to be pointing in the direction of the hole instead of being at right angles to it.

SONG RECITAL.

(By Jeanette)

The Song Recital given in the hall of the Conservatory of Music last evening by Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, soprano assisted by Maurice H. Park, tenor, with Miss Mary Agnes Logan as accompanist, was extremely interesting and was presented in the artistic manner that habitually characterizes Mrs. Park's programmes. There was an excellent attendance, the big hall being comfortably filled, and a great deal of appreciation was accorded the brief, pleasing recital.

The programme of songs rendered by both vocalists was varied in its character and demonstrated in both instances a very wide range. Mrs. Park's selections were particularly noticeable in their variety of theme and construction, their scope including little bright morceaux such as "The Blacksmith" and "In the Boat," an operatic selection sung in Italian, and the sombre vivid things that were impressive and thrilling, "Death and the Peasant," "Hopak," and "The Cry of Rachael."

Mrs. Park's quality of dramatic presentation and interpretation of her songs, with the clear, ringing cadences of her voice manifested most strongly in music of a forceful type, was demonstrated admirably in the group of songs by Russian composers. "Pauline's Romance" was the opening number of this suite, followed by the "Song of the Shepherd Lehl" from Rimsky-Korsakov's opera, "The Snow Maiden," a dainty thing with madrigal-like inflections. The two final songs of Russian import were probably the best sung of the entire programme, their swift, staccato measures and the amount of interpretive ability afforded by their peculiar settings blending admirably with Mrs. Park's brilliant dramatic soprano. Both compositions were by Moussorgsky. "Death and the Peasant" was a mordant, allegorical tale of a drunken peasant, sinking to death in the storm. Back of the swift voice, simulating the call of the wind and the sudden lull, when the sodden victim rests in the arms of cold, numbing death, in the sombre, menacing voice of the storm, carried out in the accompaniment with dramatic emphasis. This song depicts admirably the cruelty of the elements and the peace which Nature finally gives to her helpless victims. It was followed by the stirring "Hopak" song, memorable and exceedingly well done, the staccato, powerful "spoken" sentences of the dissolute Russian woman, with its dramatic, forceful lines. This group was received with enthusiastic applause.

The opening numbers by Mrs. Park was a graceful operatic aria "O mio Fernando," from "La Favorita," and the first group of songs were pleasing light things by Greig, Brahms, Haydn, and Schubert; two charming bits in "In the Boat" and "The Blacksmith," the latter simulating the song of the anvil and hammer, the soft, charming type of music of "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," and a return to the tragic type of music in which this artist excels, in "The Erl King," the song of the frightened child.

The four selections in the final group contrasted strongly. "Sheep and Lambs" was an odd, vivid bit of word-picturing, a descriptive soft-voiced, lilting affair, sung beautifully, the singer's clear diction very marked, and was followed by the tender cadences of the love song, "I Heard You Singing," with its final, tremulous, long-sustained note. "The Cry of Rachael," another of those dramatic songs eminently suited to Mrs. Park's type, was the high, strong-voiced cry of the bereft mother, "weeping for her children and would not be comforted" and "Love Went a-Riding," another graceful lyric, was followed by much applause, which brought a new type of song in a cunning little "kiddie" number, the tuneful protest of the little girl left alone in the dark. This had a rippling accompaniment which added immensely to its attractiveness and was sung with charming effect.

Mr. Maurice H. Park, the assisting artist of the evening, had chosen some exacting numbers as his contributions to the programme. They were sung in excellent voice and received applause in every instance. The opening number was an arrangement of excerpts from the Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam, in Liza Lehmann's "Ah! Moon of My Delight." Three songs illustrative of the love of a monk for a fair maiden, his denunciation by the abbot, and final renunciation of his lady, were sung with splendid interpretive ability: "Secret Greetings" "Anathema" and "Resignation." Mr. Park's final selection was the difficult "Narration" from "Lohengrin," and was exceptionally well done, suiting his tenor voice probably better than the majority of his programme. It was followed by a brief, pleasing encore number.

Miss Mary Agnes Logan, at the piano, provided her usual very satisfying accompaniment to the vocal work, making a perfect complement for the two fine voices. Several beautiful floral tributes were presented to Mrs. Park and Miss Logan.

EXTRA $5,000,000 FOR NORTHERN ONTARIO DEVELOPMENT APPROVED

Mr. Tooms' Services as Luxury Tax Collector Dispensed With.

IN LEGISLATURE

TORONTO, March 30 — Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Public Works and Highways, introduced on Monday a bill to invest certain lands now held by the University of Toronto in the ownership of the goverment. Mr. Henry also introduced a bill to amend the redistribution act passed at the last session. It is to correct minor errors and will not change any of the ridings decided upon at the last session. A special committee of the House will consider it.

Hon. W. F. Nickle introduced a series of bills among the more important being one to protect adopted children and another to amend the hospital and charitable institutions act regarding the care of indigent patients. By the bill to qualify as a resident of a municipality the patient must have resided there three months out of the five before admission to hospital. Another clause would have the county make a payment towards the keep of the indigent with power to pass half the cost on to the municipality. Mr. Nickle explained that the legislation was to relieve Muskoka which had been hard hit because of the sanitoriums there. Another bill introduced by Mr. Nickle changes the Workmen's Compensation Act, bringing a disease peculiar to miners under the act for compensation. It is a disease caused by dust in the mines. F. C. McBrien introduced a bill to authorize the city of Toronto to take over certain radial railways.

Replies to Members

The following information was received in the replies by the government to questions asked by members: that the goverment's motion picture plant at Trenton was bought for $30,000; that $5,540 was spent on the upkeep of highways in Oxford county last year; that Thos. Tooms, former member of the Legislature for Peterboro had been employed as a luxury tax collector but that his services had been dispensed with others when the tax was dropped.

Premier Ferguson spoke briefly in moving a motion for an extra $5,000,000 for Northern Ontario development. He reviewed the success of the government-established creameries in the north stating that they had been of tremendous importance to the new settlers. One million dollars had been spent in settlers roads along the transcontinental railway. He declared that Northern Ontario needed a more systematic settlement and soon steps would have to be taken to make settlers take out township organizations when there were a sufficient number. They were avoiding it now because they thought they would be burdening themselves. The government would be obliged to continue generous treatment of settlers of Ontario were to keep up in the competition with the prairie provinces for new settlers.

Liberal Comment

Harold Fisher (Liberal, West Ottawa) said he had no objection to the amount of money being voted but he had objection to the manner in which it was being voted. He contended that the money should not be voted in a lump sum by resolution but should come through the estimates in the usual way.

Z. Mageau (Liberal, Sturgeon Falls) said the government should move some of the settlers now settled on inferior or barren land in southern and eastern Ontario to the more fertil lands of the north. He supported the Premier in the declaration of the latter that settlements in Northern Ontario must be made to organize into townships for their own sakes. He thought colonization roads might well be in the estimates instead of the money for them being voted in lump sum.

Mr. Sinclair, Liberal leader, said the Liberals were not opposing the vote but they did think the government should take the House into its confidence and explain in detail where this huge sum of money was to be spent. J. A. Sangster (Liberal, Glengarry) thought the northern expenditure might be better controlled.

North Wants Share

Jas. Lyons (Con., Sault Ste. Marie) former Minister of Lands and Forests, said that the expenditure was always under a well organized department. C. H. Fullerton, a capable man had recently been appointed Deputy Minister of Northern Development. "The north wont stand much longer for the expenditure of 80 or 90 millions on roads in southern Ontario while they are not getting a proportionate expenditure" said Mr. Lyons. "We in the north are as much entitled to expenditure as the old part of the province."

Dr. Wallis, (Liberal, Algoma) said he was in favor of the vote but thought their should be more information available to the House. He criticized the extension of the trunk road west of Sault Ste. Marie.

The bill, proposed by W. G. Wilson (Con., Niagara Falls) to give municipalities the right to tax Hydro electric property was declared out of order by the Speaker. Mr. Wilson, however, was given opportunity to speak on it. He declared himself a supporter of Hydro but declared that public utilities should operate on the same basis as private corporations and should be given no advantage in taxation. The principle of favoring public utilities he said was vicious and would prevent people from investment in private companies. He pointed out that private electric companies and gas companies were heavy tax payers in Ontario while the Hydro paid nothing, although they were protected by municipal police and fire departments.

PROSPECTOR TELLS OF AIRPLANE CRASH

Jack Pitt Decides To Mush In To Red Lake.

TORONTO, March 30.—(Canadian Press).—Jack Pitt, Toronto prospector who was seriously injured, as was Pilot Howard Watts, when the aeroplane the two were in crashed north of Hudson, Ont., on Friday, lay in hospital today slowly recovering. He had been rushed over the week end from Sioux Lookout, Ont., to the hospital here. He declared that next time he would "mush" back to Red Lake, after telling of thousand foot fall they experienced when the aeroplane went into the nose dive. He thought his escape from death was miraculous as petrol flowed over the two as they lay senseless after the crash. "I had a box of matches in my pocket, and they caught fire in the crash, but somehow or other they didn't fire the petrol," he said.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

PERCY MARMONT IN "THE STREET OF FORGOTTEN MEN."

With an absorbing feature picture in "The Street of Forgotten Men," and a group of exceptionally good musical artists in "The London Trio," as an addition to the regular programme, the Capitol Theatre has one of the best entertainments of its season for the first half of this week.

"The London Trio" made a very favorable impression on their audiences when they paid their initial visit to Peterboro last season, and they appear to be just as good as ever this time. They are three clever musicians, offering solos in vocal, pianoforte and violin selections, duets and trios. They have a manner of playing that is very attractive; their selections are chosen with an eye to popular fancy that gets them plenty of applause, and all three are real artists in the quality of their musicianship. The piano and violin solos are daintily executed by the two young lady members of the trio, gowned very effectively in pure white panniered frocks, ornamented with huge butterflies of American Beauty velvet and diamante trimming.

The voice of the third member of the trio, possessor of a florid bass-baritone, that is outstanding in its robust, sonorous tone and trumpet-like quality, was received with enthusiastic applause at both performances yesterday. Two of his numbers were splendid renditions of "Until" and "Remember," the latter with violin obligato.

"The Street of Forgotten Men" is one of those productions that will linger in the mind long after the memory of other more brilliantly screened pictures had faded into obscurity. It is not a happy picture and yet not really a sad one, and it owes its notability to the acting of Percy Marmont, the man who made famous the picturization of "If Winter Comes." This man is a real actor. He has the art of taking his audience into his work with him, probably more so than any other screen celebrity, with the exception of Lillian Gish. The people who watch him know that "Easy Money Charley" is a panhandler and a fake, swindling honest individuals out of money by pretending to be a cripple, but they love him just the same.

"The Street of Forgotten Men" is the Bowery, and the opening scenes show the famous section as it was 20 years ago, with horse drawn cars, ladies with plumed hats and leg o' mutton sleeves, to short, tight jackets and real, honest to goodness saloons equipped with brass rails and a bead three inches high to the beermugs.

Here, in this Bowery of pre-prohibition days, is the "cripple" factory that turns out beggars and cripples to prey on the generous impulses of humanity. And "Easy Money Charley" (Percy Marmont) is the kingpin of them all. With his weak face and his one arm, the other strapped securely beneath the false stump, he gathers in plenty of money and returns to the "Dead House" of Diamond Mike at night, to arose the envy of his companions and particularly of the venemous "Whitey," the man who pretends to blindness, even among his faking companions, and who preys on the other fakirs as well as on the public. "Fancy," a girl of the streets, dies here, and leaves her child to Charley, and he takes the girl to "Rose Lawn," a beautiful suburb of the city, and brings her up in ignorance of his real calling. Mary (Mary Brain) falls in love with her guardian, but he realizes that the girl is not for him, and the way in which he renounces her and gives her to a younger man, Philip Peyton (Neil Hamilton) brings out all the real artistry of this superb portrayer of difficult roles. Percy Marmont does not use the regular tricks of the trade in getting his effects. He is simply wonderfully natural. Anyone who misses seeing him in this latest demonstration of his skill, will miss some thing very worthwhile.

—Jeanette.

OBITUARY.

THOMAS O. ANDERSON

TORONTO, March 30 (Canadian Press). — Thomas O. Anderson, a former member of the Toronto Stock Exchange, and one of Toronto's prominent business men, died last night. The late Mr. Anderson was born in Scotland in 1849.

THOMAS McQUILLAN.

The death occurred in St. Joseph's Hospital this morning of Thomas McQuillan, 215 Simcoe street.

Deceased was one of Peterborough's most highly respected business men and the news of his death will come as a great shock to his many friends, as he had been ill for only a short time.

He was born in Brantford fifty-seven years ago and had been engaged in the broom manufacturing business in Peterborough for the past twenty years.

He was a member of the Ancient Order of Hiberians and an officer in the Knights of Columbus.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, Sarah Nevin, and three sisters, Mrs. Catherine Jamieson, Detroit; Mrs. Margaret Day, Chatham, and Mrs. Edward Connors, Oakland, Calif., also two brothers, Peter of Hartford, Conn., and James of Dallas, Texas.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 215 Simcoe street, on Thursday morning at 10.30 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery.

IN POLICE COURT.

A local man, proprietor of a pool room, appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning, on a charge of having assaulted a young man as a result of a dispute over the price of a game of pool.

V. J. McElderry appeared for the accused and J. F. Strickland for the prosecution.

The accused through his counsel pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Langley in giving judgment stated that he would give the accused the benefit of a fine of $20.00 and costs or one month, but he wanted people to understand that this business of taking the law into their own hands had to cease. He stated that there had been too many of these cases coming before the court and that next time a heavier penalty would be inflicted.

TROUBLE CAUSED BY MODERN WIVES

Refusal To Take Husbands' Names Bring Difficulties.

LONDON, March 27.— Modern wives who refuse to take their husbands' names have set social secretaries by the ears. Engravers have profited, however, and passports bureaus are large winners.

It is not safe now to send an invitation to Mr. and Mrs. James Battle Royal without looking into the social register. Mrs. James Battle Royal may not be Mrs. James Battle Royal at all. She may be Miss G. Alone. And that is a tragedy where engraved invitations have been carefully counted on the old-fashioned theory that married couples are really married in good old Victorian style.

Wives who are willing to travel on a family passport issued in the name of the head of the family are rapidly going out of fashion. Even if they do wear their husband's names they want a separate passport, and that means extra fees for visas.

3.75 BEER IN STATES.

No Limit Only Need of Customers For Better Health.

WASHINGTON, March 30 (Canadian Press).—Two large breweries have been granted permits by the prohibition enforcement department to make accessible to drug stores, medicinal beer, comparable in alcoholic content to the pre-prohibition beverage. No prescriptions will be required of consumers who feel the need of more and better health.

The only restrictions on the sale of the malt tonic will be the number of cases the drug stores may handle. An alcoholic content of 3.75 by volume will be allowed.

HOTEL DESTROYED.

Three Storied Frame Structure Entirely Consumed By Fire.

THETFORD MINES, Quebec., March 30. Canadian Press. — Central Hotel, a three storied frame structure in the heart of the business district, is a mass of ruins. The fire was first noticed at ten o'clock this morning, and so rapidly did it spread, that many of the guests were forced to make hasty exits, dropping out of the windows, some scantily clothed. It is understood that one man in attempting to drop to the ground, fell on some ice and broke one of his legs. One or two small children were slightly burned, but not seriously, and two firemen were overcome by the smoke.

Spring Deserts States Blizzards Through West

CHICAGO, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Spring has turned traitor to a large area of the United States. March, refuting the old weather adage came in like a lion, and is destined to depart in the same manner.

Storms of blizzard proportions, which have raged through the plateau area, middle west and southwest, have blanketed large territories with snow and brought a return to winter conditions, with no immediate break in prospect.

GIRL MURDERED.

Maid's Body Found By Buffalo Woman.

BUFFALO, March 31.—The body of Pauline Sakoloska, 15 year old maid, employed in the home of Mrs. Jeane Burke at 276 Sterling avenue, was found by Mrs. Burke when she returned home shortly before 6 o'clock Monday night. The girl had been criminally assaulted and then murdered by her assailant. She was shot in the abdomen.

Police are seeking a book agent, who, neighbours said, visited several homes nearby between 2.30 and 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Stella Knoxfel, who lives next door to the Burke home told police that she saw Pauline in her room working at a sewing machine shortly before 3 o'clock. She said her attention was not attracted to the window again. Several other neighbors told of the book agent calling at their home about the same time.

Out Like a Lion!

March went out like a lion, and the blizzard which marked its departure cut off Peterborough from all telegraphic and telephone communication with the western part of the province. Every telegraph and telephone line between Peterborough and Toronto was down before eleven o'clock this forenoon. This was caused by the sudden change in temperature and by the sleet which accumulated on the wires.

The Bell Telephone Company had eleven poles broken at Newtonville and many blown down along Yonge Street. An emergency cable is now being strung. East of Peterborough no damage has yet been reported, communication with Ottawa and other points being still possible.

Wires and poles on the C.P.R. telegraphic system are down for a stretch about two miles long near Locust Hill and a repair gang is working on them.

On the C.N.R. system a long stretch of poles, about fifty, was pulled down near Pickering by the weight of the sleet.

In explanation of the damage west of here, it is said that near Toronto the fall was rain, while here it was snow. The rain froze on the wires and the weight was to heavy.

SMALL BOY DROWNED IN A CREEK NEAR HIS GRANDFATHER'S HOME WHERE HE HAD BEEN VISITING

Raymond Manchester, Aged Five, Loses Life at Queensboro.

BODY NOT FOUND.

Ice of Creek is Being Cut in Search—His Sleigh Recovered.

MADOC, March 31 — Raymond Manchester, aged 5, was drowned yesterday in Black creek, near Queensboro, where, with his mother, he was visiting his grandfather, James Cassidy. The accident occurred about noon and the body has not yet been recovered.

The child had gone out to play and his mother went to the post office to mail a letter. On her return she missed him and gave the alarm. The boy's footsteps and the tracks of his sleigh were traced to the creek. All the people of the neighborhood turned out to help in the search and began cutting the ice. The sleigh was recovered about three o'clock.

Mrs. Manchester, a widow, was school teacher at Remington, but due to an outbreak of scarlet fever the school had been closed and she was spending the time with her father, James Cassidy. The Cassidy home is about three rods from Black creek.

Sale Of New Malt Tonic Cause Of Talk In U.S.A.

WASHINGTON, March 31. — Canadian Press. — Whether the new malt tonic, with its 3.75 per cent. of alcohol and its resemblance to the outlawed beer, will be saleable throughout the United States, remains to be seen. Some think it will and some think it will not, while others are waiting to be shown just how pleasant it is to take in beverage quantities.

BALLOT BOXES NOT DELIVERED

Deputy Returning Officer Refused To Give Them To Police.

EDMONTON TRIAL.

EDMONTON, Alta., March 31. — (Canadian Press).—Police had been compelled to take action before the ballot box of poll four, in the Peace River Federal riding, could be recovered, according to the evidence given by Contable R. S. Barnes, Alberta Provincial police, in the Criminal Court yesterday at the third session of the trial of P. A. Robb, deputy returning officer at poll four at the last general election, who is being tried before Mr. Justice Walsh and a jury on three charges of fraudulent practices under the Dominion Elections Act.

Barnes swore that he had received instructions from Inspector Pipe to proceed to Edson on November 7 last, and get the ballot boxes for poll four from Robb, as it had not been sent to the returning officer at Grand Prairie and that officials were becoming anxious.

He had with him, testified the officer, a telegram authorizing him to take possession of the box, but Robb refused to deliver the box to him. He later met Robb in the evening, and was taken to the house of I. H. Griggs, who is facing a charge of having destroyed the box from poll four. Here a box, said to be the one from poll four, had been surrendered to him, and the officer had taken it to Edmonton. It transpired later that this box was in reality the box belonging to poll 167 for the Peace River riding.

On November 9, Constable Barnes called at the office of Parlee and Howson and the box was delivered to him there by someone in the office. He then took the box to Grand Prairie, personally. Asked by Mr. Howson, defence counsel, how he knew this was Parlee and Howon's office, the witness replied that he had been told so. He did not know Mr. Howson either, he admitted.

"Well, you are talking to Mr. Howson now," said the lawyer.

MEN MISSING ON LAKE ST. CLAIR

Five Last Seen Leaving Canadian Shore in Small Rowboat.

GOING TO DETROIT.

WINDSOR, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Five men who left the Canadian side of lower Lake St. Clair early Monday night in a row boat for Detroit are missing, and it is now believed they have been drowned. A small boat was observed just at dusk leaving the Canadian shore by members of the Detroit horbor master's squad who with powerful glasses, discerned five men in the boat, two at the oars, one at the bow, and two others seated in the stern of the litle craft.

If some people loved their neighbors as themselves [illegible] neighbors would be killed with affection.

Women Of Athens Obey Order Banning Short Skirt

ATHENS, March 31 United News).—Because all the women of Athens have returned to long skirts, due to police insistence, the ban on knee-length garments is no longer necessary. A police communique states that the order against short skirts is being so carefully observed that there is no reason to continue it. Many of the women of Athen have complained against the police rule, says the communique, but all have observed it.

MAN LEAPS OFF NIAGARA BRIDGE

Is Swept Over Falls To Death —Watched Another Body Recovered.

MURDERED MAN.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., March 31.—(Canadian Press.)—A man believed to be Austin F. Ryan, of Buffalo, leaped into the river from Goat Island bridge late yesterday afternoon and was swept over the United States' fall to his death.

Ryan is said to have taken the fatal leap after he witnessed men pull from the river a short distance above the Falls the body of another man which is now at the morgue awaiting identification. There was a bullet wound in the left temple and another in the heart and police believe this man was murdered.

The body was that of a man under 35 years old, weighing about 150 pounds, five feet seven inches tall, with light complexion, brown hair and gray eyes.

TO BROADCAST MALE VOICE CHOIR PROGRAM.

After hearing the splendid programme presented by the Male Voice Choir on Friday night, many citizens have taken up energetically the proposal to have the Choir broadcast by radio.

The musical selections given at this year's concert were outstanding, and there are hundreds of people who recognize that they are too good to keep at home. It has, therefore, been suggested that public subscription be taken up to defray the cost of broadcasting, amounting to about $150.

Not only would the programme be pleasing to listeners-in but it would be a wonderful advertisement for Peterborough throughout the Eastern States and all over this section of Canada. The city is well known now as the home of the Senior O.H.A. champions, and the opportunity is also given to put it on the air as the centre of one of Canada's premier musical organizations.

Donations toward this effort will be received at The Examiner office and acknowledged in The Examiner.

Laborer Crushed to Death by Huge Stone At Young's Point Dam

Guido de Massimo Died Few Minutes After Heavy Boulder Pinned His Head To Ground — Was Working on New Lock in Canal.

WAS STOOPING OVER WHEN STRUCK.

Rock May Have Been Loosened By Recent Effects of the Warm Sun—Dead Man Had Formerly Lived in Toronto.

(By a Staff Reporter)

YOUNG'S POINT, March 31 — Guido de Massimo, an Italian workman engaged in the construction of the new lock at Young's Point was fatally injured last night when a rock fell on his head. He died within a few minutes.

Coroner Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield was called by telephone, but before he could obtain a conveyance a second message informed him the man was dead.

It is probable that an inquest will be held, although the Coroner is assured that the death was accidental.

One side of the lock had been completed, and the workmen were laying the braces on the other side when the tragedy occurred. The deceased was working at the end of the canal, and was stooping over when the rock fell on his head, pinning him to the ground.

The stone, which measured about two and a half feet by one and a half feet, formed part of the old wall, and it is believed its fall was caused by the loosening effect of the day's sun on the earth in which it was imbedded.

De Massimo was unmarried, and formerly made his home in Toronto. He was well known in Young's Point, since he had worked on the building of the dam. His parents reside in Italy.

Provincial Constable N. F. Maker of Peterborough came to Lakefield last night over an almost impassable road, and to Young's Point this morning. The body is in charge of the Coroner at Lakefield.

No One Saw Accident

The members of the shift on which the deceased was working were: Freeman Bailey, foreman; Roy McGee, Richard Boyle, T. McCarthy, Robert Harrison and Fred Young. T. A. Brown, the contractor in charge of the job said that although all the men were working in one shift, not one of them had actually seen the accident happen. The foreman had just turned away, he said, when the rock fell, pinning the man to the ground. When he looked around the deceased was sitting on another boulder in a doubled up position with his head buried beneath the rock that fell. The men extricated him in a few minutes and carried him into the office where he died inside 15 minutes.

According to a passport which the deceased had in his possession he was born in Montecompatie, Rome, on February 26, 1890. He came to Canada on January 31, 1901.

Rosario Daia, another Italian with whom the deceased worked for five years is leaving for Toronto today in an attempt to locate a brother of the deceased whom he believes is a resident of the United States, and the only relative on this side of the Atlantic.

The inquest will be held in the Council chamber of the Memorial hall, Lakefield, tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock.

CONSTABLE DID NOT HEAR FATAL SHOT HE FIRED

Dazed By Blow From Jack Nolan in Police Station.

AT DRUMHELLER.

Drew Revolver to Frighten Prisoner—Says Shooting an Accident.

CALGARY, Alta., March 31 (Canadian Press). — Constable Albert McKean, on the witness stand on Tuesday in his own defence against the charge of manslaughter in shooting Jack Nolan, in the town police station at Drumheller on February 20 last, gave an emphatic denial to the statement of Percy Wheeler, that he had threatened to fill Nolan full of holes if he did not keep quiet. In speaking of the shooting he swore that, realizing that he did not have his billy on his hip, that he drew his revolver, believing that when Nolan saw it he would not strike him. As to what happened after he received the blow, which knocked him back against the filing cabinet, he said that he was dazed, did not hear the report of his revolver and did not realize what had happened when he saw Nolan falling. He asked Wheeler what was wrong, and the latter replied, "Jack is shot."

He swore that his billy was in his overcoat, hanging on the wall, and that it was there when he was searched at the Provincial Barracks by Constable Burton.

He further stated that the shooting was entirely accidental and that he did not tell John Macdonald that it was in self-defence. He declared that Macdonald had not said this in his evidence, and, on demand of Mr. Meyer, the court reporter's notes were referred to, and it was found that the Justice of the Peace had told him that he need not worry if he did it in self-defence.

CHEAPER POSTAGE.

Suggested on British Periodicals to Canada.

LONDON, March 31.—(Canadian Press).—Sir Harry Brittain, Conservative member for Acton, suggested in the House of Commons yesterday that, in view of the importance of cheaper inter-communication between the different parts of the Empire, the postage paid on British magazines and papers addressed to other parts of the Empire should be reduced to the same rate as that prevailing between Canada and Great Britain.

Sir William Thomson, Postmaster-General, replied that the question had been reviewed recently, but in view of the heavy financial loss incurred in the operation of the service to Canada and Newfoundland, there was no prospect of the reduction suggested.

REVALUATION OF SOLDIER FARMS OFFERS POLITICAL OPPORTUNITY TO GOVERNMENT MR. MEIGHEN SAYS

Millions of Dollars to Distribute Among 17,000 Settlers and Families.

SCHEME DEBATED.

Meighen and Dunning Clash —Difficulties of Problem Emphasized.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 31 (by Canadian Press)—A resolution preceding a bill to amend the Soldiers' Settlement Act by providing for the revaluation of soldier settlement lands and for the appointment of district arbitration committee to determine the amount of revaluation, was introduced in the House of Commons Tuesday afternoon by Hon. Chas. Stewart, acting Minister of Immigration.

H. M. Hanneson (Conservative, Selkirk) defended the original settlement scheme against criticisms made when the resolution was being debated a few days ago. The scheme had increased land values and added materially to the wealth of Canada. It had brought much virgin soil into production, and even if a loss was taken by the department in the process of revaluation, it would mean better value than money invested in immigration, and spent outside the country.

Mr. Hanneson believed that the Board itself should perform the work of revaluation. This would serve to handle applications from settlers in a more expeditious manner.

He was also of the opinion that appeals should be heard by county court judges "so as to remove all suspicion of unfairness and partisanship." The complete file of the board in the case should be placed before such county court judge hearing the appeal.

Mr. Hanneson urged that everything possible should be done to keep on the land the soldier settlers already established there. These men had put in from five to seven years on their farms in the confidence that the government would assist them to get established. With their experience they were much more likely to make a success than new settlers on the same land.

Problem Aggravated

Grote Stirling (Conservative, Yale) said that the problem of the soldier settlers in Canada had been aggravated by the fact that the British government had lately instituted its system of assisted passages for new soldier settlers in Canada. Mr. Stirling felt that the advertisements employed in securing such empire soldiers settlers for Canadian lands, were misleading. They did not convey any idea of the difficulties facing the soldier settler in Canada.

He could imagine nothing which would be more likely to anger the soldier settlers who had been pleading for a revaluation of their lands than the knowledge that immigrants were going to receive the valuation which the soldier settler could not obtain.

Soldier settlers in the Okanagan were asking for legislation which would reduce the value of solider settlers' lands to 50 per cent of the original valuation. Officials of the board had realized for some time that a revaluation was absolutely necessary.

A Baffling Question

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Opposition leader, referred to the matter as "one of the very baffling questions before the house." The whole principle of revaluation admitted of application very seldom. While not contending for a moment that there were not cases in which soldiers had paid too high for their land, he pointed out that the purchase of the land in the first place had been surrounded by the greatest safeguard. The soldiers settling on the land had been given training in farming if they were not already possessed of experience as farmers.

The entire enterprise had run into a difficulty—the depreciation of farm land values which began shortly after the purchases had been made. Not much case could be made against re-valuation. The manner in which revaluation was to take place was the problem. It was utterly impossible to do justice to all.

The scheme introduced by the Minister of Immigration was immature and vulnerable. It should be renamed "an act to coerce soldier settlers into voting for the government." The minister would appoint committees here, there, and everywhere and by the legislation he would be handed thirty or forty million dolalrs to distribute to his party's advantage among 17,000 settlers, their wives, and undoubtedly, many children. Mr. Meighen observed that the final tribunal in the matter of revaluation was a district committee of three, one represenative of the Soldiers' Settlement Board, one from the veteran's organization, and one to be appointed by the minister. These latter two would overrule the Soldiers' Settlement Board representative who would be trying to keep down the revaluation to moderate terms.

Mr. Stewart interrupted to assure Mr. Meighen that he would be very glad to be deprived of having the privilege of making any appointments.

17,000 Farms Affected

Approximately 17,000 farms were subject to revaluation, stated Mr. Meighen. He did not think that that there was any serious question but that the average depreciation was about 40 per cent. An amount of $38,000,000 was owing on these lands, and it might be well to provide that no depreciation should be allowed in any case greater than the balance due.

Mr. Meighen considered that county court judges should be utilized for reviewing these cases. Undoubtedly they had the time to devote to the task. Their training in the weighing of evidence admirably suited them to adjudicate and review such cases. The proceedings should be simple, however, so as not to necessitate the employment of lawyers for the settlers.

Mr. Robert Forke said he doubted the wisdom of leaving the revaluation to the district superintendent, in the first instance. Would it not be better to appoint some sort of board of arbitration to valuate the land. From the decision of this board there might be an appeal to a county court judge. The great thing was to get a bill which would result in justice being done to soldier settlers. On his own farm, during one year, he had gone $2,000 behind and that without owing a cent on his land. How then could the soldier settler with a big load of debt, hope to succeed.

Effect of Tariff

Donald Sutherland (Conservative, South Oxford) thought it was generally admitted today that conditions on farms in Canada were unsatisfactory. It had been the tendency of the government to belittle the interests of those engaged in farming. The result was that measures to assist the farmers were now necessary. He had always taken the stand that a protective tariff for the Canadian farmer was a necessity, especially since the United States had built up its tariff wall.

A. W. Neill (Independent, Conox-Alberni) rose to point of order. "What has this got to do with the resolution before the house?" he asked.

Mr. Sutherland continued his speech but Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, pressed the point.

Chairman Duff ruled that Mr. Sutherland was entitled to continue, and the latter remarked that he though some point of order was going to be raised. Since, however, there was no point of order, he would proceed. He had proposed to consider whether or not the end which the government proposed to accomplish in the resolution might be achieved by other means. Men on the land were seriously handicapped by the foreign treaties of this government. "The blighting influence of the government has been observable ever since it came into power," he said.

Protection Interjected

Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Railways, said there appeared to be a tendency to introduce protection into any argument no matter how irrevelant it was. Mr. Meighen had painted a picture of the serious political manipulating which the present amendment to the Soldiers' Settlement Act would be subject to under the hands of the Minister of Immigration.

.. MORE ..MORE 6MORE .....

"It would be a lot more serious if it was under yours," interrupted Mr. Meighen.

Mr. Dunning believed that Mr. Meighen's motives had been of the very best in originating the scheme, and the Government had a right to expect courteous consideration to the endeavors to clear up the mess which had been left on its doorstep by a Conservative administration. The settlement board now was the same board which Mr. Meighen had appointed, and it was unfair to charge that organization with political manipulations.

Did not Mr. Meighen see the similarity between the machinery contemplated under the proposed legislation and that which Mr. Meighen had himself set up under the Act whi'e in power? If, stated Mr. Dunning, it were proper then to have local boards of appraisement with regard to the purchase of property, why was it not now also proper to have local boards of appraisement with respect to the question of depreciation? Mr. Dunning stated he was not enamoured with the suggestion that appeals should be referred to county court judges.

There was no idea in the mind of the Government to obtain under the proposed legislation any "party advantage." He felt that the Minister of the Interior would be quite willing to give consideration to all constructive suggestions advanced.

"Dunning Methods."

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen stated that evidently Mr. Dunning had decided to "import into this assembly" the "methods" which he had been accustomed previously to adopt. He would advise Mr. Dunning that reason was more effective than vociferations. He did not believe in handing over the "use of a machinery" to the Minister of Railways and Canals or the Solicitor-General which could be used under the proposed measure.

"I never used a telegram in cipher during any election," interjected Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicitor-General.

"Nor did I," replied Mr. Meighen. "Nor did I ever suggest it against another when I had not any evidence in support of it, and I throw back to the Solicitor-General the insinuation."

Mr. Meighen declared that the original act did not lend itself to "political maninulation." If, however, this legislation became effective, the Minister to the Board would have a power "which no government should ask."

"Rot," said Mr. Dunning.

Mr. Meighen retorted that the language of Mr. Dunning was "reminiscent of the Legislature from which he comes."

Dunning Angry.

Mr. Dunning jumped to his feet and stated that the leader of the Opposition had not the right to reflect upon another assembly.

Deputy Speaker Duff ruled that the discussion should be directed to the subject of the resolution.

Mr. Meighen was continuing his remarks when he stopped to interject, "Does the Minister think he is doing himself credit by a foolish laugh?"

"Don't get angry," was Mr. Dunning's retort.

"Act like a gentleman," replied Mr. Meighen.

Deputy Speaker Duff asked that the discussion proceed without indulging in personalities.

Mr. Meighen reiterated that, if the legislation went through in its present form, the Government had power through the Board to reduce the price of a parcel of land from $5,000 to $5. He was making no reflection on anyone, but he thought that Parliament should not give such wide powers to any Government. It was wrong to ask Parliament to confer such powers on the Government.

Appeal to Judge.

A. W. Neill (Independent, Comox-Alberni) supported the idea that there should be an apneal to a county court judge. He thought, however, that there should be some one familiar with agriculture associated with the arbitrating judge.

Mr. Stewart said that if the resolution was allowed to pass, he would see that the bill when introduced was amended to substitute a county court judge for the Minister's appointee on the arbitration committee.

John Evans (Progressive, Rosetown) spoke of the soldiers who had been forced off their land on account of their present debt. Many of these would be glad to go back, and the country's obligation to them was was ended.

Mr. Meighen spoke of the utter impossibility of meeting all classes of cases, but advised the Minister in his amendments to the bill to "keep as close to the judiciary as possible," Mr. Meighen suggested that the Minister reconsider having a judge associated with an officer of the Department. It would not be natural. The responsibility should be centred upon the judge.

Mr. Stewart declared he was willing to confer with all concerned within the next few days in respect to any suggested amendments to the bill.

Hon. R. B. Bennett (Conservative, Calgary West) said that he was more impressed now than ever that appeals should be heard by county court judges. After all, the human element entered into such matters, and it was necessary that the settlers should feel that they were being given even-handed justice. The adoption of his suggestion would serve a two-fold purpose. Firstly, justice to the settler, and secondly, justice to the State.

Political Purposes.

Those especially who had lived in Western Canada had reason to have suspicion that the machinery to be established might be used for political purposes. Only two days ago two officials who had participated in the general election were sentenced to penitentiary in Alberta for illegal acts. Recently also the public press had reported that although 112 people swore that they had voted in the election, 17 of these ballots only were recorded.

Mr. Bennett stated that he and others had been victims of the machine. "I know, Mr. Chairman," he said, "there are men who think it is nothing to thwart the will of the people." There were those who "smirk and smile" at such successful efforts, even Cabinet Ministers, but he hope, none in this House.

"No insinuations," interjected Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals.

OBITUARY.

LINDSAY, March 31.—Word has been received by friends in Lindsay district of the death at Souris, Manitoba, on March 25th, of William Henry Brown, brother of Edward Brown, of Peterboro, and Alfred, John and Joseph Brown, of Millbrook. The deceased, who was one of the early settlers of the Souris section, was a mail carrier, homesteader and a most successful farmer, died from the effects of a stroke of apoplexy.

The late Mr. Brown was born at Millbrook, and before settling at Souris resided in Manitoba. For a number of years he drove the mail from Winnipeg to Prince Albert, six weeks being consumed on one round trip. He retired from farming about three years ago, and has since resided in the town of Souris. He was a Presbyterian, joined the Orange Order in Millbrook, and all his life was a staunch Conservative.

ARTHUR WINKWORTH LANE

HAVELOCK, March 31.— After an illness extending over a period of about six months, the death occurred on Friday, March 26th, of Arthur Winkworth Lane. Cancer was the cause of death.

Deceased, who was 41 years of age was born in Cambridgeshire, England, coming to Canada about 13 years ago. He was connected with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and for the first year and a half was employed in the West Toronto office. He was then transferred to Havelock, where he has resided with the exception of the time he was overseas.

Mr. Lane was a member of St. John's Anglican Church, was a regular attendant at all the services and took a deep interest in all its activities.

There are left to mourn his loss, his father and one brother, William, in London, England, and one sister, Mrs. K. Fletcher of Cartier, Ont.

The funeral on Monday, under the auspices of the Masonic Order, and the many beautiful floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held in the community. The impressive service at St. John's Church was conducted by the Rector, Rev. T. H. Stanley. Interment took place in Maple Grove Cemetery.

The pallbearers were: Messrs. H. W. Roche, F. Watson, P. Pincombe, H. Falkner, J. R. Anderson, John Barlow.

MARMORA, March 31.—Mr. Patrick Marvin, another of the town's aged and well-respected residents, entered into rest on Sunday evening. His end came as a surprise to the townsfolk, as only that same morning he was seen at mass at the Sacred Heart church, of which he was a devout member. The funeral, which through the epidemic, had to be of a private character, took place on Tuesday morning, interment being in the R. C. cemetery.

CURTIS JOHNSON.

MARMORA, March 31. — Mr. Curtis Johnson passed away on Saturday at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Frank Rogers. Death was due to a stroke suffered the previous day. The funeral service, which was to have been taken at the United church on Monday afternoon, was, instead, taken at the residence of Mr. Rogers, owing to the smallpox epidemic. Rev. F. J. Horwood conducted the funeral rites.

CONVICT DOPE PEDDLER.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 31.—(Canadian Press).—Charles Marino, convicted of having opium in his possession, was sentenced by Magistrate H. O. Shaw in Police Court yesterday morning to three years in the penitentiary and fined $500.

CAMPBELLFORD MAN FOUND DRY LAW EFFECTIVE IN U. S. JOURNEY

Neither Did J. A. Burke See Anything of Chicago's Gangsters.

SIX WEEKS' TRIP.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 31.—J. A. Burke, former member of the town council, has just returned from a six weeks' trip to the United States, during which he visited cities in five different states of the union. His first place of call was Chicago which he found was by no means the lawless city that he had expected to find. The bandit industry in Chicago has been quiet ever since a large number of foreigners, who were the main offenders, have been deported. Almost every day while he was in the big city, Mr. Burke heard newsboys as they plied their trade shouting, "All about the murder," but this cry is so familiar in Chicago that very little interest is taken in it. There was more business activity in Chicago than in any city visited by Mr. Burke, but a cousin of his who is located there says that things have not yet resumed normal conditions. The city has been overbuilt and now contains any number of vacant houses.

From Chicago Mr. Burke went to Omaha, Neb.; Denver, Col.; Winslow, Arizona, and Alberque New Mexico. In Arizona the climate was delightful, the temperature being steady at about 72 degrees during the week he spent there. Arizona is one of the leading cattle states, but even there the business is not without risks, as nothing can be made at it in a dry season. One of the leading cattlemen told Mr. Burke that he made no profit in the past 6 years, but that when he has a good year he makes up for his losses. Raising cattle in Arizona is much like growing wheat in the Canadian West, the man engaged in it is at the mercy of a capricious climate.

While he was in Arizona, Mr. Burke saw a large meteor that had fallen about two weeks before his arrival. These meteors, which are nothing unusual in that state, are a molten mass when they reach the earth, but they soon solidify and become harder than steel. In their descent they make a loud noise and give out light enough to illuminate the country for miles around. The one which Mr. Burke saw was of irregular shape and weighed 2,600 pounds. It fell near the habitation of an Indian and sank about three feet into the earth.

Mr. Burke has a brother A. A., in Rocky Ford, Col., and another brother, W. J., is an Indian trader in Houck, Arizona. Both of the brothers complained of dull times and Mr. Burke returns to Campbellford convinced that so far as business is concerned the Americans, in spite of their high tariff, have nothing on the Canadian. In Denver, six banks have failed since Christmas. At the time of his visit the farmers in Colorada were engaged in seeding.

So far as he could see, Mr. Burke says that prohibition is working well across the border, as there was no evidence of drinking in any of the cities which he visited. Even in New Mexico and Arizona, which are close to the boundary of old Mexico where plenty of liquor is to be had, he saw no drunken men. The boundary is carefully guarded by Federal officers to prevent importations of wet goods.

The old fashioned cowboy of the movies and modern fiction whose toilet is not complete unless he wears a revolver, is still met with, but in Arizona everybody goes armed, each citizen relying on his pocket artillery, rather than on the rather slow processes of the law, to defend his person and property.

Why He Succeeded

From hard work on a farm to the study of medicine in Cincinnati, where he was graduated, was the course which Doctor R. V. Pierce took.

In his younger days he practiced medicine over a large district. It was then the new oil fields near Titusville, Pa. Finally he determined to put up some of his prescriptions in ready-to-use form in order to reach a larger number of families.

He thus early moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and established the World's Dispensary, where he put up Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the blood as well as the Favorite Prescription for women, carefully preparing them from roots, barks and herbs and placed them with druggists everywhere.

During the last sixty years Dr. Pierce's Discovery, for the blood, has been sold in larger quantities by druggists than any other medicine. It is a tonic in its effects on the stomach and digestive apparatus; an alterative in its action on the blood, liver and skin. It increases the appetite, stimulates the digestion, enriches the blood, and makes both men and women feel as they did when they were young and care free.

Ask your druggist for Dr. Pierce's Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10c for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory, in Bridgeburg, Ont.

MAN IS MISSING AFTER BLAZE IN OIL WAREHOUSE

No Trace Found of Brandon Man—Explosion Causes Fire.

GREAT DAMAGE.

Blazing Oil Thrown For Half Block—Nearby House Burned.

BRANDON, March 31 (Canadian Press).—One man is missing and damage estimated at more than $75,000 was caused by an explosion and fire which gutted the warehouse of the Independent Oil Company here last night and destroyed an adjoining dwelling. The fire followed a spectacular explosion which threw burning oil for a distance of half a block and smashed windows within a radius of five blocks. Large oil tanks and buildings in the vicinity of the warehouse were threatened for a time. The fire was still burning at an early hour this morning. The occupants of the residence had a miraculous escape, as the explosion deluged the house with flaming oil and it was ablaze in an instant. First reports were that three men were missing.

The missing man is Bert Smith, 615 Sixth Street. His hat and coat were found outside the building, but the police have been unable to find any trace of him.

He is believed to have been in the building when the explosion occurred.

Jack McArthur, an employee of the company, was blown a considerable distance by the explosion and badly injured.

He was unconscious in the hospital this morning.

No explanation as to the cause of the explosion was available.

Rumors were current that others were missing as a result of the explosion but these could not be verified.

ALLEGE GRAIN ACT VIOLATED

Charge Against the Vancouver Harbor Board—False Returns.

LETTER TO OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Ont., March 31.—(Canadian Press.)—Charging that the Vancouver Harbor Board and certain business interests in Vancouver are violating the Canada Grain Act. W. H. Morrison, of Vancouver, sent an affidavit to the Federal Government and the Provincial Government of British Columbia last October. Copies of his correspondence with Ottawa were filed in the House of Commons Tuesday.

Mr. Morrison charges the Vancouver Board of Harbor Commissioners and "Fergus McDonald and Associates" with infraction of the Canada Grain Act, the criminal code, the Railway Act and the marine laws by one or more of the following:

Padding time sheets.

Misappropriation of grain or funds and of information or material for personal or private gain;

Committing perjury in returns made to the Dominion Government;

Uttering false returns;

Compounding criminal offences under the criminal code;

Inducing the railways and the merchant marine unwittingly to assist in frauds and theft;

Making false returns of grain, dockage or weight of grain.

Mr. Morrison asks that the persons he has named be prosecuted and undertakes to prove his charges if he is given counsel, paid for by the government and chosen by himself, if he is given the right to cross-examine witnesses and defendants himself and if his expenses are paid for during the period of the prosecution.

The last letter on the file is a letter from Hon. T. A. Low, then Minister of Trade and Commerce, dated Nov. 6 last, stating that the matter had been referred to the proper authorities for consideration.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 31, 1926.

QUALIFIED AT LEAST.

Evidence as to the work of returning officers in some of the Western constituencies being given in trials arising out of the general election suggest that all parties in politics might well consider the question of the appointment of election officials.

This, of course, is looked upon as a legitimate piece of patronage for the party which happens to be in power, and as a rule the appointments go to men whose loyalty to the party is unquestioned.

There is not much fault to be found with that when care is taken to see that the officials selected are qualified to do the responsible work for which they are chosen.

When, however, a returning officer who cannot even read or write is selected, the system is not hitting on all its cylinders, and public confidence is shaken.

Even making allowance for the old tradition that party workers must be catered to it should at least be possible to choose efficient, qualified officials for public work of this very responsible nature.

THE BOYS' CAMP.

Is it a good thing for sixty Peterboro boys, who under ordinary circumstances would be deprived of any such opportunity, to have a summer outing at Clear Lake, where every effort is made to permanently affect the future of the youngsters?

If you think that this question should be answered in the affirmative you should do your part by attending the Rotary entertainment on Monday or Tuesday nights of next week, the proceeds from which will be devoted towards helping to finance the Rotary Boys' Camp.

The Rotary Camp is an established institution with a wonderful plant where the boys are housed under the most comfortable conditions, and where the camp training and instruction cannot fail to have a helpful effect upon every boy who is fortunate enough to attend.

The Examiner believes that the youngsters come back after their outing benefitted not only in health and physique, but helped materially in other ways that will show results in future years.

The camp deserves support, and the entertainment arranged for next week affords a splendid chance for Peterboro to show its interest in this fine work.

ANOTHER RUMOUR CROP.

Peterboro is again being flooded with rumours of disasters among the city's merchants, the latest crop of reports including the names of some of the best known firms on George street.

Just where these yarns originate is not clear, but the Examiner wonders if those who are responsible for putting them into circulation have ever stopped to consider the consequences to themselves should their identity be discovered.

It is a very serious matter to damage the financial reputation of any individual or firm by false reports, and those guilty of the practice in Peterboro can rest assured that if they are found out action in the courts against them will follow immediately and will be pushed with the utmost vigor.

The damage that is done to the firms mentioned in the stories is great, and the effect upon the city as a whole is almost equally serious.

Unfortunately the reports are not merely circulated in our own community where a knowledge of the true situation discounts them to some extent at least—they quickly spread to other cities where they are readily believed, and the reputation of Peterboro suffers accordingly.

Citizens should be very slow to believe and even more reluctant to circulate rumours injurious to the reputation of Peterboro's merchants.

COLORS IN STYLE.

According to the dictators of fashion—and most women are prepared to sacrifice their individuality at the altar of those who decree styles—gay colors are to be passe next. Even the numberless red hats may go soon and crude gay yellows, greens and sky blues will be succeeded by what fashion writers may call harmonious subtlety. The gorgeous riot and the garments of many colors have practically gone with "those in the swim" in European capitals. Women like to copy foreign styles. The new note is to be aesthetic and subdued. The mysterious experts have chosen the colors which will prevail now. Their ten commandments are as follows:

1.—Chartreuse: Not as healthy as lettuce and paler than almond.

2.—Palm green is the other green, and is the old Myrtle renamed.

3.—Sahara is the desert sand with the sun shining on it.

4.—Biskra will be called "bois de rose" by people who have known it all the autumn under that description.

5.—Cloud: A very grey cloud, almost aluminum, but pleasant because grey has been out of favor for so long.

6.—Air force is the grey-blue uniform of that adventurious service, and is a good color for evening wear.

7.—Rose Marie: Red with a splash of wine in it.

8.—Foxglove is more pink than most foxgloves, and the sort of bluish pink that few people can wear.

9.—Dawn suggests the "shepherd's warning" type of sunrise. It is the after-glow of a rosy dawn.

10.—Oak apple is a pretty pale brown for fair women rather than brunettes.

HOW ABOUT THIS?

There are more queer twists to the Ontario Temperance Act than in the case of any other piece of legislation this Province has experienced.

The Examiner has heard that there are people in Ontario who manufacture home-brew beer for their own use.

There may be some in Peterboro.

And if by any chance, gentle reader, you may happen to be one who does, by all means be careful about the bottles you put it in, or at least be careful about the labels.

There is a section of the O.T.A., 40 (a), which enacts that "Every person who uses or permits to be used any sign or label upon any bottle, cask or other vessel in which liquor is kept which does not correctly and truly state the nature of the contents of such bottle, cask or other vessel .... shall be guilty of an offence against this Act, and shall upon conviction be subject to the penalties provided in sub-section 1 of section 58 hereof."

Under this section a Hope township farmer was fined $200 and costs by the Port Hope magistrate on Saturday.

The evidence showed that the accused had made home-brew, which was put into bottles labelled "John Labatt, Extra Stock Ale." He swore the beer was for his own use, and the magistrate accepted his word for that.

The point was, however, the home-brew on being tested was over-strength and therefore liquor and was contained in bottles labelled John Labatt's ale.

"I have to go by the wording of the Act," declared the magistrate. "I have no right or business to say the Legislature didn't mean such and such. I have to take what their words indicate."

So if there are any Peterboro people who are keeping home-brew beer in bottles with the original beer labels they are violating the Ontario Temperance Act, according to this Port Hope decision.

OUR OWN MOVIES.

Mr. Russell Nesbitt's proposal, discussed by the Provincial Legislature a few days ago, that a graduated scale of restrictions be applied to moving picture films made in the United States and that the development of the industry in Canada be encouraged by the Government is not without warrant, but whether it would work out in practice as well as in theory is debatable. The film companies of the United States have millions of dollars invested in the industry and a running start on their competitors in other lands. They have the equipment, the experience and the backing to make the best photoplays and that they sometimes use these things to make the worst is beside the point. Some noteworthy British productions have been box-office successes in Canada, but they may be counted on the fingers of one hand. Just why nine-tenths of the British-made films that circulate in Canada are "flops" is not altogether clear. British stage technique is traditional and some of the most gifted actors and actresses the world has ever acclaimed were British-born and trained. Legitimate stage productions, with the British trade mark, are received with open arms in Canada—and in the United States. Announcement that a forthcoming play will be presented by an all-British company ensures a run on the box-office. Announcement that such-and-such a film is a British production is invariably received, except by English born, in painful silence. American-made films are popular with the movie-going public in Canada because they provide the kind of entertainment the average movie-fan desires. Logic is sacrificed to box-office values and sensationalism is paraded as art. To follow out Mr. Nesbitt's suggestion and diminish the percentage of United States made films year by year until not more than 25 per cent. of the pictures exhibited in any one year shall be pictures produced elsewhere than in the British Empire, it would be necessary to educate the film-makers in the Empire to change their style or to educate the public to like a brand of entertainment that is not popular. Mr. Nesbitt's idea is splendid on paper—but will it work?—Hamilton Spectator.

USING AND ABUSING CREDIT.

If the present slump in the Wall Street market indicates an easing off in business in the United States in the coming months—and the ticker is usually a pretty reliable forecaster of developments—the credit situation will be studied with more than usual interest. The recent boom in the stock market has been encouraged by easy money. And credit strain which usually brings a break in prices has been lacking in the recent collapse. There is no money shortage in evidence.

For some months bankers and other close students of economic conditions have been directing attention to the new form of credit, developed to the extent of billions of dollars, through the instalment selling plan. This has not been reflected in the bank statements because of the new financing facilities provided and the industrial companies have handled their business with small expansion of bank loans because they have been able to finance to a large extent on the credit of the consumers whose paper has been handled by the discounting companies.

In Canada the instalment selling idea has not been so generally adopted as in the United States and the Canadian banking system has permitted of closer control of this form of credit. At the same time developments in the United States will be closely watched. American business having taken the lead in the wider application of customer credit Canadian business may be able to profit by its experience. Canadian bankers have for some time been advising caution in regard to the part-payment plan. A Western Canadian bank official recently wrote:

"This credit business in its present extreme phase is fostered undoubtedly by the easy money conditions and general prosperity prevailing in the United States, which is only moderately reflected in Canada and will crumple up badly during the inevitable reactionary period whenever that comes.

"In the meantime, many of the unfortunate victims who find nothing left of their monthly wages when pay-day comes round, will have learned their own lesson and put a brake on the wheels. I was always brought up with the idea that one had to work first and be paid afterwards, but we seem to be reversing a number of old-fashioned notions now, and are, as far as I can see, chasing our own tails."

The part-payment plan in the sale of automobiles and other articles in which there is a substantial asset for security will no doubt continue to be generally employed—as it has been for years in the piano business. But in adopting a new idea the public very often goes to extremes. The problem is to differentiate between the use and abuse of credit in merchandising.—Financial Post.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

There is little liklihood of there being a recount in West Middlesex.

Peterboro should be glad of a chance to show the listeners-in on this Continent that she possesses a great musical organization in the Male Voice Choir.

That $5,000,000 grant to Northern Ontario will bear rich interest for the Province. The development of that great treasure trove has only begun.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

HUMANE METHODS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—What would you think of a man who killed his wife and family in order to eat them? Would you call that man a "humane society" man? Yet that's what every member of the humane society does with his eatable dumb animal friends. He also kills rats, mice, foxes, etc., etc., without compunction and blows about it. What's the matter? The matter is that his "kindness" is limited by his necessities. When he pleads "necessity" the dumb animals must take what's coming to them. The only "kindness" that is feasible is seeing that there is no torture prolonged, unnecessary torture. A "humane society" man can do that, but cannot do more. His wife strips the feathers off birds and is cruel to the last degree towards the osprey. But then we know women are as hard-hearted as a piece of flint when it comes to their own appearance.

So long as we rob and torture birds and hunt foxes over ditches and fences and generally lie about our wonderful kindness, let us not blame others for being wicked and let us stop this flow of cant.

The Rochester Commercial Travellers will come to Cobourg on July 3.

The Rochester Leiderkrong Club is to come here on July 24.

A number of other excursions from Rochester are expected.

HISSES GREETED SOCIALISTS IN PARIS CHAMBER

Two Communist Deputies Elected Sunday Welcomed By Hymn of Reds.

CONFLICT AVOIDED.

"Cat Calls" From Spectators in Gallery Interrupted the Session.

PARIS, March 31. — (Canadian Press).—The Chamber of Deputies opened its debate on measures for the financial restoration of the country Tuesday to the accents of the Socialist hymn, the "International," and got little further than that.

The entrance of two Communist deputies elected in the second district of Paris on Sunday provoked a demonstration which threatened for a moment to turn to violent conflict. The Communists began by cheering their new colleagues, and as they warmed up they rose and started singing the "International," to which cat calls and hisses replied from the other side of the House.

Edouard Herriot, President of the Chamber, hurriedly left his chair and declared the session suspended. After a short recess he announced that it had been learned that the cat calls and hisses came from the public galleries. He warned the spectators that if any such manifestations were repeated, the galleries would be closed.

Finance Minister Peret then was able to present his bills to the House, after which there came a flood of amendments.

BOBBED NURSES APPEAL IN VAIN

Re-instatement Refused By Superintendent of Calgary Hospital.

LONDON SMILES.

CALGARY, Alta., March 31 (Canadian Press).—While London chuckled over Calgary's latest bobbed hair ban, a close-up view of the Holy Cross Hospital edict and its effects, presented more woe than merriment.

Although official information was not forthcoming, it was stated on Tuesday that the majority of 'nurses in training' who resigned from the Holy Cross Hospital following the wholesale "bobbing" had presented themselves and their sheared locks and asked for reinstatment. The authorities said that reinstatement had been refused.

The Holy Cross superintendent of nurses refused to make a statement. "I will give nothing to the papers," she said, "it is internal matter and I have nothing to say."

London Editorial.

LONDON, March 31.—The drastic action of the hospital authorities at Calgary in "confining to barracks" nurses with bobbed hair, has aroused much amusement here and the Daily Telegraph devotes one of its editorials to the problem, in which it says: "The governors of the hospital being in a position from which it was possible for them to emerge with dignity, took the wrong course. Though it is a grievous offence for a nurse to have her hair short, if she keeps it short for three months she is presumably purged of her sin.

"We do not believe either in Calgary or elsewhere it is worth while to make hair-dressing a matter of morals. The Puritans insisted that no man who wore lovelacks could be saved, with the result that periwigs were introduced. We hope they will be careful in Calgary."

LLOYD GEORGE SUPPORTS BALDWIN BILL TO SUPPLY BRITAIN WITH CHEAP POWER

Second Reading Passed After Defeat of Labor Amendment By 325 To 127—No Defections Froc Government's Ranks.

LONDON, March 31 — Canadian Press. — The House of Commons passed the second reading of the Government's electricity bill Tuesday after defeating an amendment offered by William Graham, Laborite, by vote of 325 to 127.

The size of the government's total showed that the revolt in the Conservative ranks against the bill on the ground of its alleged unjustifiable interference with private and municipal enterprise has not affected the voting.

The most interesting feature of yesterday's debate was the blessing bestowed on the bill by former Premier Lloyd George, who declared that the measure represented such real progress in the right direction that although he would like to see it go still further he fe bound to vote for it.

More Socialism

He twitted the Conservatives on being afraid of nationalization in connection with this bill many of the government's followers having complained on Monday against what they termed its Socialistic character

Mr Lloyd George said that the government by accepting recommendations of its coal commission, was going to get drenched with nationalization.

"After this huge camel, which the Conservatives have been obliged to swallow," Mr. Lloyd George said, referring to the coal report, it would be useless to strain at "this little Easter lamb."

The electricity bill embodies a plan for the control of electricity throughout Great Britain, its purpose being to provide the country with cheaper and more abundant electrical energy for light and power through co-ordinating existing resources and enlarging them under a single control board.

CITY HAS NO FACTORIES

One city in the country that prides itself on having no factories is Fort Thomas, Ky. It is located on a bluff overlooking the Ohio river. It prides itself on its homes and it has only a few stores. The community discourages business and yet its civic operations are large. Fort Thomas has just compelted a $600,000 sewer system, has new paved streets costing $250,000 and has no bonded debt except a small item of $7000 still due on the city building. This town is the home of Samuel Woodfill, the army sergeans, whom General Pershing proclaimed as the greatest hero of the world war.

STARTLED BY FIRE EARLY IN MORNING

Overheated Stovepipes Causes Fire in Walls of His Residence.

WARSAW, March 31.—Rev. H. B. and Mrs. Herrington had a fright on Sunday morning from fire which Mr. Herrington discovered in the wall. He had to chop a hole in the attic to climb up. Mrs. Herrington phoned for neighbors and Ollie McIlwena brought his chemical fire extinguisher and the flames were put out.

Mr. Herrington was far from well. He was unable anyway to take the services that day, as he had just returned home on Friday.

Mr. Currie took Mr. Herrington's work on Sunday. His subject at Warsaw was "Ambition", a right and a wrong use of it, based on Mark 10-37: "Grant unto us that we may sit, the one on they right hand, and the other on thy left, when thou comest into thy glory."

Rev. Walter Cox did not get to Warsaw on Sunday, but there will be special Easter service in the Anglican church on Easter Sunday afternoon.

The bazaar and entertainment held by the Anglican Ladies Guild on Friday afternoon and evening was a splendid success.

The booths extended the whole length of the hall and were well filled with all sorts of fancy and useful articles, home made cooking and candies. Miss Elsie Cooper won the bedspread. The bazaar was well patronized, nearly everything being sold out.

Mr. Theodore Douglas presided at the tea table most of the time. Mrs. Choate and Mrs. MacIntosh relieving her. The table was very prettily decorated.

The playlets in the evening were: "Through the Breakers', and "A Slight Misunderstanding," both of which were splendidly done by those taking part.

The music was especially good, being furnished by the Warsaw Orchestra and Dr. Munro's orchestra. They combined together. Henry Batten sang exceptionally well. Eileen Miles and eJan Munro sang a duet. Harold and Kenyon Choate played. Misses Lily and Olive Russel sang a duet. Dorothy Hawthorne gave a reading. Dorcas Lloyd in costume, sang an ,Indian song. Hal Choate's chorus sang with motions "On our way to Dublin Bay."

Trapper Killed By Grizzly Bear; Body Found By Partner

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C., March 31 (Canadian Press).—Tom Meany, a trapper on the north fork of the McGregor River, 75 miles north-west of here, was killed by a grizzly bear within a mile of his camp last Wednesday, according to information brought here by Jack Yarzeau, the dead man's partner.

Yarzeau told the Provincial police that Meany left camp last Wednesday to go over some traps and cut up the carcass of a moose previously killed. When he did not return Wednesday night, Yarzeau started to look for him. Within half an hour the body of Meany was found a short distance from the moose carcass. The face and top of the head being torn off. All around were tracks of a grizzly bear. Meany had been dead some time, but his hand still had a firm grip upon his axe.

WILL HOLD SALE.

Life-long Resident of This Vicinity To Move To Oshawa.

ORLAND, March 31.—Mr. Thos. Gilbride, who has resided in this vicinity all his life, is having a sale on the 5th of April and will be moving to Oshawa where he will reside. Mr. Gilbride and family will be missed much by all who knew him.

The first robin paid this village a visit on Thursday of last week, but has seen some pretty severe weather as the thermometer sank to nearly zero on Saturday night last.

The recent severe weather will be bad for alsike and red clover, as well as fall wheat.

A number of trappers from the vicinity of the bay have passed through here to the popular muskrat habitations around The Boom and Bradley Bay. They report small catches on account of the cold weather.

Potatoes are bringing around $2.75, creamery butter 50c, dairy 40c, eggs from 25c to 29c according to grade, and beans are retailing at 4 lbs. for 25c.

Chattels and implements went at a very high figure at Harry McQuilkin's sale, and many would-be buyers returned home disappointed at the high level set by those who bought.

Cheesemakers are looking up who is who, and also who will be the lucky ones to secure the contracts to haul milk and cheese.

Miss May Gilbride, who has had full charge of the Orland telephone switchboard for about ten years, together with her sister, Anna, who has been her assistant for 5 years, are about to resign and will go to Oshawa with their parents. They will be very much missed by the subscribers of the system, as well as all who had calls over the Orland board.

M. J. O'Halloran, who lives two miles north of here, is very low and had a turn for the worse. Another doctor will be called as his case is critical.

The King's Daughters held an "at home" in the hall here Friday evening.

What Could He Do About It?

It Wasn't a Sani-Bilt

I'VE come to complain about my Chesterfield suite I got here about two years ago."

"Why, what is the trouble?"

"The moths got into it while we were away. You can put your hand down the crack at the back through the covering into the stuffings—right into regular nests of moth grubs, and moths have spread all through the house!"

"I'm awfully sorry," said the Dealer.

"Well, being sorry doesn't satisfy me. I expect you to take that suite back and give me a new one."

"Is it a Sani-Bilt?"

"No, it's not a Sani-Bilt."

"Oh, well," said the Dealer. "That makes all the difference! Snyder's Sani-Bilt suites are the only Chesterfields guaranteed absolutely and permanently moth-proof. I may have said that the coverings on the suite you bought had been treated with some moth-proofing spray or solution, but I would never in the world guarantee such suites as absolutely and permanently moth-proof. If moths once get into the stuffings, the covering material just serves to hide the damage going on underneath."

"That's just what happened."

"I'm really very sorry," repeated the Dealer, "but I don't see what I can do."

"Well, that's very poor satisfaction. All I can say is that if I have to buy another suite, rest assured it'll be a Sani-Bilt. Then I'll know the guarantee means something."

"I wouldn't quarrel with that decision, Madam."

"No, but I'll tell you one thing more, Mr. Dealer," added the angry customer, "when I do get a Sani-Bilt, it won't be at this store. Good morning."

* * * * * * *

Sani-Bilt is always more lastingly satisfactory, both to the customer and to the dealer. It saves disappointment and vexation. It makes lasting friends for dealers. It is worth any slight difference in price, because Sani-Bilt is guaranteed absolutely moth-proof and permanently moth-proof. Furthermore, it is guaranteed against flaws in construction or unsanitary stuffing materials, and it is distinguished by its beautiful designs. Read the guarantee that goes with every suite. Look for the name "Sani-Bilt" under the cushions. Be sure.

INTERFERING WITH NATURE IS OLD WORN OUT ARGUMENT

Study of Birds Brings One Closer to God and Man.

SAYS JACK MINER.

Breeding Game Birds For Profit is a Lovable Game.

In glancing over the many articles written on the crow in our Canadian papers, I notice several writers fall back to this old worn out argument, "interfering with the balance of Nature." Now, dear readers, I would like a full explanation of the meaning. Does it really mean that no person should attempt to assist Nature? If that is what you are trying to tell me, let me kindly say you are wrong, for I have tested it out and know if man will take God at His promise and work in harmony with Him that man can even change the migrating route of the fowls of the air.

Now remember, I only have an A.B.C. Sunday School education, but there are a few of His lovable promises I have been privileged to test out and I know they are true. For illustration, I ask you to read Genesis 1:21-26 and 28 when He said let man have dominion over all. Could anything be written plainer? Last summer our Nettie raised sixty bred-to-lay Plymouth Rocks. We killed and ate twenty-two of the twenty-five roosters. The pullets started laying in October. Now, if we had left the twenty-five cockrels with the thirty-five pullets, would we have had eggs all winter? Don't forget the fowls of the air are all ours and they will come to us for our assistance and protection.

Forty-eight years ago this spring our family moved here on the farm that was then all woods, but on our arrival we were terrorized by the rattlesnake stories we heard and really I was expecting to see snakes as large as clothes props that would strike you at a distance of ten or fifteen feet away and then all was over except a brief report in the weekly town paper—"Those who knew him best, loved him most," and so forth. Well, in a few months I got well acquainted with these rattlers, but, believe me, they were only a little larger than our largest garter-snakes and could strike about a foot or eighteen inches. I have killed as high as six on one Sunday. In fact I would hunt for hours to find a rattler just to tease him and get him striking a stick. But in a few short years the danger was all over, for, where the snakes were, grew the fields of waving wheat and corn, but, mind you, in order to do this we had to "interfere with Nature." Which was for the best for humanity—a rattlesnake jungle or a productive grain field?

My esteemed friend, Mr. Thos. Baty of London, Ontario, kindly says: "If Jack Miner ever had a pet crow, he would never kill it." Really this makes me laugh. Say, I wonder if there is a man in America who has gathered up more pets from the woods than I have. Crows, crows, why bless your life, I have had them by the dozens and I will admit they are just as cute as they are black. I once had one that would say "Look out!" so plain and sharp that he would cause you to flinch, but I never kept but one to be over a year old. Then he, like all the rest, died guilty of murder in the first degree.

In 1881 I enclosed four acres with a wire fence seven feet high. There I raised English and ringneck pheasants for profit. This pheasantry was right alongside my brick and drain tile manufacturing plant. I could watch my machinery and overlooking the pheasantry all from the same spot. In this way I made my hobby more than self-sustaining and gathered stores of knowledge about the enemies of our birds and let me say to any young man, breeding game birds for profit is a lovable occupation and there is good money in it. The seven-foot fence is not necessary. All that is required is a dog proof fence, but remember, unless you educate yourself how to destroy their many enemies, you had better give up the job about two weeks before you start, for this little innocent looking weasel that is no larger than a Northern Ontario chipmunk will kill from twenty to thirty of your baby pheasants in one night and crawl through one inch mesh wire netting to do it, but remember, you are "interfering with the balance of Nature" if you kill him.

I believe the indoor naturalist calls him the Mouse Weasel because the majority of his food is mice. Crows must be checked or they will steal every egg laid unless your brood pens are under netting. But, after the young pheasants are hatched, I found the hawks and weasels their worst enemy. Fifty rods due north of this engine room door is an elm tree and morning after morning I have seen a crow perched in the top watching my neighbor's turkey hen come through the line fence just ninety rods east of the tree. Mr. Crow would sit and watch; the very minute the turkey came out of the fence row and started back home, he would fly straight over and get the egg she laid. This could all be seen with my field glasses. Smart? I should say so. They are the shrewdest thieves of the bird family but you say to kill one you are "interfering with the balance of Nature" for God put them there. Yes, I say, God also put the bed bug here, but He gave man dominion over them and the present generation wouldn't hardly know one if they saw it. Crows! God did not put them here to control our poultry, nor our song, insectiverous and game birds. He did not even allow them the privilege of controlling themselves. He left all of this for man to do. Please think that over and look up what He says regarding this point. And, as for the grasshoppers the crows eat, this turkey hen family would tense all them into a Thanksgiving dinner or into twenty five to fifty cents a pound, just as you choose.

Now, I'm not contradicting a word which has been said about the crows eating a few wire worms and grubs and so forth, but here is what I them, he will rob at least one hundred of our most desirable birds' nests in order to raise his family of four or five, while, if any one of these murdered song and insectiverous birds were let to mature, would do twice as much good than a crow ever did.

Now, if a man wants to make money, that man must study money. The prospector is more apt to find earthly gold than the astronomer. In other words, if a man concentrates on one line he is more apt to catch something on that one hook.

Mr friend, Mr. Baty, says if I had a pet crow to study their habits I would know more about them. Let me reply to my friend and kindly say, when he has studied them enough to catch them by the thousands he will know more about them. Personally I have studied birds more than I have my financial obligations and I am glad of it. They have brought me closer to God and man. If my life's study hasn't taught me something about the habits of the crow, how did I catch five hundred and ten of those organized murderers at one catch? Will you please think that over? I do wish there was nothing but good in the ways of all birds for I don't want to kill any of them, but how can I be humane and protect a baby murderer?

In the spring of 1914 I drove to Point Pelee, a distance of about fifteen miles where my intimate friend, Mr. Foest H. Conover, and I pulled three hundred and sixty little red cedar seedlings out of the sand. There were none of them over a foot in height. I brought them home and planted them in the clay on May 15, 1914. I cultivated them for five years and today fully ninety-five per cent. of them are over twelve feet high and have been bearing fruit for the last three or four years. Now isn't that "interfering with Nature?" This is where the five robins that wintered here got their food and, oh say, this winter we have had a Cardinal added to the songsters and there hasn't been a day but what he has sung for us and he has fairly set me Cardinal crazy or wise and is going to be the cause of more of my "interfering with Nature," for I am going to import some of these winter and summer singers. I am going to put a pair in each cage. Then, in March, I will let the male bird out, and will feed him on the outside of the cage. Here he will stay, just flittering and singing among the trees, but will not go far from his mate who is still in captivity. Then, after he has got well acquainted with the whole outside proposition, I will let her out and in this way I expect to have the whole place Cardinal with song.

Dear readers, don't let me try it first. Jump in ahead of me. It can be done. Yes, if you are privileged to live in the country, you can make your home into a little earthly heaven by "interfering with the balance of Nature," as you call it, but as I term it, "assisting Nature," for you can get seedling trees from our government forestry departments, free of charge. If you will plant five hundred of them in the proper place and formation around your home, by cultivating them the same as you would hills of corn for the first five summers, which will not take you over one day a year, in ten years' time these trees will be from twelve to fifteen feet high and will break the wind off your home and, on a cold wintry day, will reduce your fuel bill and, if you can be big enough to ignore the criticism of men and take God's promise as a guide, your assistance will double and treble the quantity and quality of the birds at your home every year.

Scotch pines I planted on a sticky clay field in the spring of 1914 have now grown into a lovely little forest, but the lower limbs are bent by the weight of from three to five thousand mourning doves that have roosted there during August, September and October for the last few summers.

This beautiful frosty morning that father used to call "the 17th of Ireland," I awoke before the stars had closed their eyes and how could I go to sleep again and miss such a musical feast, for that Cardinal I had mentioned apparently had his voice focussed right on my open window, saying in distinct tones: "Good cheer! Good cheer! Good cheer!" This is mingled with the low notes of the song sparrows and even the robins are trying to join in the chorus. The lovable mourning doves, one of God chief's mourners, in low voices, are saying: "Khoo-coo-coo!"

In spite of all this, I will admit I was about to doze into dreamland again when, all at once, the honking of at least a thousand wild geese seemed to echo from every spot on the premises saying "Home again!" Really, my thoughts drifted nearly one-half century back to the morning we left Ohio when a dear old Yankee by the name of Calvin Pease said to me: "Good-bye Jackie.' Then, as he gripped father's hand, which I believe was for the last time, he said: "John do you think you can make a living over in Canada for your big family?" Father apparently gripped his hand tighter and he looked him square in the face and replied: "Calvin, we are going to make more than a living—we are going to make a life," but never did the interpretation of this statement ring louder in my living room than it did this morning, March 17, 1926.

LONG FORSAKEN DIESEL ENGINE IS SUCCESSFUL

Gives Promise of Use for Airplane and Heavy Duty.

TESTED FOR NAVY

Replaces Passenger Car Motor in Three Thousand-Mile Test.

(By Israel Klein, Science Editor, NEA Service.)

The Diesel engine, so long forsaken as impossible by automotive engineers, is here at last.

It has been used on a 3,000 mile test in a passenger car at Montreal and found to fill the requirements of flexible passenger automobile use.

It is being tested at the Philadelphia navy yard for use in United States naval aircraft.

And it shows promise of being adapted not only for passenger car use, but for airplanes, trucks, tractors, busses, rail cars, tugs and pleasure cars.

The man responsible for the introduction of this type of engine, which is much cheaper and more economical than the gasoline engine in use today, is Andre C. Attendu, a Montreal engineer. He described his product recently to members of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Eliminates Old Objection.

From Attendu's description, here's a small, light-weight, heavy-oil burning engine based on the Diesel, high-pressure injection principle and still flexible enough for every-day passenger car use. Lack of flexibility used to be the big objection to the original Diesel.

But when Attendu tells his fellow engineers that his engine can idle down to 120 revolutions a minute and from that resume a top speed of 1400 to 1600 revolutions a minute, that it starts readily from dead cold after three to five revolutions with a six-volt starter, that it develops 56-brake horsepower at 1400 revolutions, and that it shows a consumption of heavy crude oil at the rate of about 20 miles to a gallon, the flexibility argument can't be repeated.

Five Years on Trial.

Attendu sees the advantage of this sort of engine at present mostly for airplane and heavy duty use. But he also foresees its use ultimately as a passenger car engine, with greater advantages than the present type.

The first engine of this type was built in 1921 and proved a failure. It was operated on the straight Diesel principle. The second engine was based on the principle of solid fuel injection rather than air injection, with several other important changes, and proved so effective that the new principle has been adopted in the Attendu engine.

The entire engine weighs only 3.6 pounds for each brake horsepower and has been run up to a speed of 2210 revolutions a minute.

"Tests made with this engine," says Attendu, "definitely establish the fact that light metal can be used in the construction of heavy-oil, high-speed engines, and also that this type of engine is no more difficult to build than the present gasoline engine."

KIWANIS CLUBS MAKE A RECORD

Twenty Thousand Accomplishments Listed By International For Year.

100,000 MEMBERS.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 31.—Some twenty thousand accomplishments, dealing with seventy-nine generalized activities, some of which are—the underprivileged child; the development of better town and rural relations; educational, municipal and industrial improvement; the financing of playgrounds and equipment; the building of new roads and national highways, for which was expended $500,000; the carrying on of naturalization work; and active results both in the United States and Canada with the problem of reforestation—was the record made during the past year by Kiwanis International with its 1,470 clubs and 100,000 membership on the North American Continent.

The completion today of a tabulation of all monthly club reports sent into the International headquarters of the organization in this city, brought to light the amazing estimate of results of the many Kiwanis clubs that have been in active work during the convention year.

"The new achieved record in our activities was expected," said Fred. C. W. Parker, International's Executive Secretary, who explained the great increase on interest in hundreds of towns where clubs are engaged in furthering the activity work. "By the time of our annual convention in Montreal, June 7-10, we will have another four thousand tabulation here showing the continuous trend of all the clubs' enterprising accomplishments and social activities," he remarked.

All clubs will receive printed copies of the recorded activities, and the pamphlet will be known as the Kiwanis' "Activities Booklet." This year's publication will be volume four, and from an examination of the former issues it is easily noticed that with each year Kiwanis work has made advancing increases over the preceding one.

MILLBROOK COUPLE HELD ANNIVERSARY

Twenty Years Married Celebrated By Happy Gathering at Burnbrae.

MILLBROOK, March 31.—A jolly house party gathered recently at "Burnbrae," when fifty or more of the neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. O. Williamson met to join with them in the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of their wedding day.

Unfavorable weather and roads hindered a number who had some distance to drive from attending, but the warm welcome extended, the bright lights and comfortable atmosphere of the hospitable home more than made up for any unpleasantness experienced by those who were able to be present.

Dancing and social intercourse provided agreeable entertainment until about ten o'clock, when Mr. I. W. Larmer, acting as chairman, called all together, and in a few well chosen words tendered the "bride and groom" hearty congratulations on their anniversary occasion.

After a recitation, with encore, by Miss Ruby Cunningham of Frazerville, Mr. Jas. Roddy read the following address, Mrs. Harry Dawson, on behalf of those present and, a number of other friends who would have been at the gathering had it been at all possible, presented Mr. and Mrs. Williamson with a handsome Byzannia china tea set:

"To Mr. and Mrs. Offa Williamson:

"Dear Friends,—We, your neighbors and friends, have gathered here tonight, on this your anniversary occasion, to express our congratulations.

"You have lived amongst us for eighteen years, and we have ever found you good neighbors, willing to help in every way possible in times either of sorrow or of gladness. The door-mat of your home always has the "Welcome" side uppermost, and the happiest of good times is assured to all who come within its walls.

"We hope you will both be spared to spend many more years in our community and to celebrate other joyous anniversary occasions.

"This is not the first time we have enjoyed a social gathering in your home, but this being your twentieth wedding anniversary, we would like to show our esteem and affection in some tangible form, and we ask you to accept this Byzannia tea set, accompanied by our sincere best wishes for many happy returns of the day.

"Signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends—I. W. Larmer, Jas. Roddy, Mrs. Harry Dawson."

Mr. Williamson, on behalf of his wife and himself, made a brief but suitable reply, thanking the donors for their kindly words and lovely gift.

Miss Bessie Dawson recited "Neighbors' Wives," and was heartily encored, following which Messrs. W. J. Hunter, E. Carveth, A. Wood, B. Cunningham, Jas. Nelson, H. Dawson and W. Elson spoke briefly.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Edwin Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Larmer, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Roddy, one of its pleasing features being a handsome wedding cake, the gift of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Jas. McCurdy of Peterboro. Earlier in the evening the "groom" had presented his gift to the "bride"—a beautiful sheaf of flowers.

After supper dancing was resumed, and it was long past the midnight hour before the guests finally said good-night, and the sleighload left for home.

LINDSAY FAVORS JOINT ACTION WITH PETERBORO ON ROAD PLEA

Petition Minister of Highways To Adopt the Lindsay-Peterboro Road.

NEEDS REPAIRS.

LINDSAY, March 31.—Victoria County officials were interviewed yesterday regarding the action taken by the Peterboro Motor League in memorializing the Provincial Government to include the Peterborough-Lindsay road in the Provincial highway scheme. It was pointed out that some time ago an official of the Provincial Highways Department assured the members of Victoria County Council that the Government had decided to take over this highway, and that certain work would be undertaken this summer. Following this announcement came the recent statement of the Minister of Highways to the effect that the Government would not assume any additional stretches of highways until those at present in the system were completed.

It was suggested Tuesday that the city of Peterborough, Peterborough and Victoria Counties should take joint action and again urge upon the Government the necessity of taking this important road over into the Provincial highway system. The road is one of the most important arteries in the district, but is in bad shape at present. The increase in motor traffic, it was pointed out, renders construction work imperative as the road is narrow at many points, and accidents have been frequent.

The section from Lindsay to the Peterborough County boundary is in bad shape at present, and the belief is expressed here that the county will have to spend some money on it this summer in case the Government refuses to act.

WEDDING SHOWER.

Miscellaneous Shower Held in Basement of Gilmour Memorial Church.

BRIDGENORTH, March 31. — Members of the Gilmour Memorial Church assembled in the church basement on Monday night, when a miscellaneous shower was given to Miss Beatrice Edgar, whose wedding takes place early next month.

To the strains of the Bridal March from Lohengrin, played by Miss Mabel Paul, two little ladies, Lilian McGregor and Phyllis Moore, drew in a prettily decorated wagon bearing many useful and beautiful gifts, each of which were appropriately versed. The bride-to-be unwrapped the parcels and read out the names of the donors. Miss Edgar briefly thanked the gathering for their gifts and good wishes.

Refreshments were served, after which the company indulged in a programme of games and contests, arranged by Misses Jean Scott and Leila Sanderson. "Auld Lang Syne" ended an enjoyable gathering.

ADDRESS ON BIBLE GIVEN FOR A.Y.P.A.

Rev. Walter Cox Tells Young People About Origin and History.

LAKEFIELD, Mar. 31.—At the regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. held on Monday evening last, Rev. Walter Cox gave a splendid address on the origin of the Bible, from the earliest days to the present time. The Bible, he said, is the sacred book of the Christian world and yet its history is not generally known. Ancient books were written on bricks or clay or on the Bybhus or papyrus reed. The Old Testament, which gives an account of the origin and development of the Hebrew people, was written in Hebrew, with the exception of a few late chapters which were in Aramaic, the language of Syria. The New Testament was written in Greek, the literary language of Egypt, Palestine and Asia Minor in the first century of the Christian era. The material on which it was written was so perishable that all the first MS.S. have been lost. What they were is known only through such copies or late successors as have survived to the present day. Although the Old Testament was written in Hebrew and was finished in the second century before Christ, the oldest known M.S.S. dates from 916 A.D., more than 1000 years later. The New Testament, written in Greek, was probably finished in the 1st century, but the oldest known M.S.S. dates from the 4th century only. These are the oldest M.S.S. of the Bible, and are the nearest to the original copies. We must remember that the only way the ancients had of multiplying M.S.S. was by copying by hand, and this remained the only method until the invention of printing in the 15th century. The Jews carried their different rolls or scrolls into the different countries to which they migrated, and in 332 B.C., when Alexander the Great laid out Alexandria in Egypt, it became, although a Greek City, the residence of a large Jewish colony. To make the Bible accessible to them in their adopted tongue the entire Old Testament was translated into Greek between the years 285 and 130 B.C. This version was called the Septuagint and was the Bible of the Greek-speaking Jews for three or four hundred years. It was the Bible used by Christ and His Apostles, is quoted by St. Paul and from it other translations were made. It is the Bible of the Greek Catholic Church and is recognized as of more value than any other version.

When Roman authority became predominant, it gradually sowed the seeds of its civilization and culture, the most efficient agent being the Latin language, which quietly but gradually displaced the Greek until it became the language not only of authority but of culture and refinement. This led, naturally, to the translation of the Bible into Latin, which culminated in the translation by Jerome in 384-404 A.D., of the whole Bible from the Greek and Hebrew into a beautiful Latin which is today called the vulgate, and which was adopted at the Council of Trent in 1546, after it had been in use more than 1000 years, as the Bible of the Roman Catholic Church.

In the second century A.D., a group of Syrian Christians, living in Western Asia, translated the Bible from its original languages into Syriac, a tongue similar to the Hebrew.

In addition to these versions there were several others, all offshoots of the texts already described.

When the Septuagint translation was produced there were embodied in it several books not found in the Hebrew Bible. These are called the Apochryfal Books and with some others were included in the Latin Bible officially canonized by the Roman Church, although Jerome did not include them in his Latin translation. The Anglican Church accepts them, although not with the same authority as the rest of the books and no Bible is really complete without them, although they are not part of the authorized or revised version.

Christianity came to Britain in the 2nd century, but did not make much progress till the coming of St. Augustine in 597 A.D. The poet-herdsman, Caldman, in 670 took the monks' translations of the Latin Bible and put them into poetic paraphrase and a little later the Psalms were translated into Anglo-Saxon English. The Venerable Bede, who died in 735 translated the gospel of St. John into the vernacular but every scrap of it has been lost. The Psalter of King Alfred and the Lindisfarne gospels and other partial translations were made of which only, a few fragments remain to-day.

John Wycliffe (1320-1384) was really the father of the English Bible. He was a thoroughly trained scholar and in his clash with the Church of Rome, saw that the Bible, in the hands and language of the people would be his most powerful weapon, so he and his helpers translated the Vulgate into English and 170 of these M.S.S. copies are in existence at present. This was a translation of translation and was therefore two steps away from the original. The century following the death of Wycliffe was full of stirring events and the invention of the printing press brought forth a flood of Books and a revival of classical and Biblical learning was sweeping over Europe, William Tyndale, born in 1484, a hundred years after Wycliffe's death, was educated at Oxford and Cambridge, and was a vigorous advocate of a live and working Church, and in 1524, as an exile in Hamburg he carried on his work, going also to Cologne, from whence he had to flee in 1525 to Worms, where he issued and sent in bales of merchandise to England more than 3,000 copies of his translation, which were eagerly sought by the common people. Between 1525 and 1528 there were 18,000 copies distributed in England and Scotland, of which only two servive to the present, one only being complete. The ecclesiastical authorities of the day did their best to destroy it and were deeply incensed at Tyndale, who took up residence at Antwerp to be closer in touch with England and the merchants, who were his best friends. He was treacherously betrayed in 1535 into the hands of Charles V., and on October 6th, 1536, he won the martyr's crown, suffering death at the stake. His work had been so successful, however, that Coverdale, at the request of the Convocation in 1534 issued the first complete Bible in English (1535), printed on the continent dedicated to Henry VIII. This opened the floodgates and edition followed edition in quick succession, the "Great Bible" of Coverdale, aided by the best Greek and Hebrew scholars being the most popular. The accession of Queen Mary Tudor saw the English Bible again taboo, and many copies were destroyed, but a group of exiled scholars, who gathered at Geneva prepared and issued several partial translations.

But their great work was the issuing in 1560 of the Geneva Bible, dedicated to Queen Elizabeth, which gradually displaced the once authorized Great Bible. The "Bishops' Bible" was also issued and these two editions were fully circulated with royal assent.

Roman Catholics, who fled from England on the accession of Queen Elizabeth published in 1582 the Rheims New Testament, an English translation, and in 1609-1610 they issued the Douay Version, the whole Bible, translated for the use of Roman Catholics.

King James I, on his accession, appointed 54 men, learned in Biblical lore for the translation of the Bible into English, using as texts, extant translations and Greek, Latin and Hebrew versions. These men were divided into six groups, two at Westminster, two at Cambridge and two at Bedford, and from 1604 to 1610 these men worked individually and in their groups, spending the last nine months in a final revision in London. This appeared in 1611, a folio volume in block letter type without notes and was called the King James' or authorized version of the Bible. Several editions appeared, and in 1638 the so-called final revision appeared and remained for almost three centuries the Bible of the English world, its simple, clear and elegant English and its reverential and spiritual tone making it the dearest treasure of the Church.

But, since 1611, marvellous additions have been made to the knowledge of languages and three valuable Biblical manuscripts and scores of others of lesser value have been found and with so much new light on the subject, scholars began making new translations and in 1870 the Council of Canterbury appointed 84 men to make a revision of the Bible, and 1881 the revised New Testament was published, followed in 1885 by the revised edition of the whole Bible, which although cordially received, has only gradually won its place by dint of its superiority of the authorized version, the Bible remains our most glorious heritage.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Cox for his interesting address.

THANK OFFERING OF LAKEFIELD W.M.S.

Good Sum Offered By United Church Ladies—Lakefield News.

LAKEFIELD, March 31.—The W.M.S. of the United (Presbyterian) Church held an Easter Thank Offering meeting on Tuesday afternoon and in spite of the inclement weather and the bad walking there was a large attendance testifying to the interest of the women in the cause. The amount of the Thank Offering totalled more than $80, which exceeded their expectations, Mrs. F. J. Burgess procured a life membership as a thank offering and Mrs. W. W. Yale presented her little son, Donald, with a junior life membership as a thank offering.

Miss Mary and Master Roger Davis sang a duet appropriate to the occasion, Miss Dorothy Sutton acting as accompanist.

The president, Mrs. P. L. Jull, presided at the meeting and spoke of her gratification at the generous response to this special appeal. Miss Northcott who has been for years a medical missionary in China gave a most interesting talk on present day conditions in that great country. She spoke of the unrest and its causes which was most interesting as the political situation in China is very much in the public eye at the present time. The old custom of foot-binding is gradually disappearing and many other of the old customs are changing and are bound to change. These reforms are largely due to Christian influence and coming gradually as they are, will probably be permanent. Miss Northcott touched but briefly on her personal experiences and her work.

A vote of thanks was tendered Miss Northcott for her comprehensive and illuminating address.

On Tuesday evening about forty friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Sutton gave them a surprise party to celebrate their twentieth wedding anniversary. The evening was spent playing progressive euchre and was very pleasant, all present thoroughly enjoying themselves. The prizes were won by Mrs. J. H. Sherin and Dr. J. C. Smith and the consolation trophies by Mrs. W. W. Leonard and Mr. J. A. Porter. Mr. W. H. Casement presented the prizes and conveyed to Mr. and Mrs. Sutton the good wishes of the company for many more years of wedded happiness.

Among those present were—Mrs. A. B. Burrows, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Burgess, Mr. E. W. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. T. Crawford, Mr. W. H. Casement, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Charlton, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Charlton, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Charlton, Miss Graham, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Leonard, Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Moore, Mrs. Osborne, Miss Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. CHAPTER LV.

Olga was tired. Too tired for the sleep the nurse told her she needed. And though she ached in every nerve and muscle, still there was luxury in the clean, cool sheets, in the fragrance of cut flowers that were on the table.

She lay there thinking. And occasionally the thought of some one of the many experiences that had been hers the last few days would cause a shudder.

"I wonder how it came out?" she said. And then, "If only I could be out of here—and know. . . . Sam Church. . . . It seems impossible, and yet . . . oh, I wouldn't put it past him. . . . I hope he gets his."

She tossed restlessly. "And with him out of the way, it means that Jim and the girl—oh, Jim, no! . . . And yet, why shouldn't he? Who am I? What right have I to expect—she's his kind, and I'm not, I guess. . . . I guess anyone can see that."

Tears coursed down her face and dampened the pillow. "I'd never do, I guess." And then, with a catchy sob in her voice, she cried, "Oh, Jim, I tried so hard—tried so hard to change." She lay there a long time, in the dark . . .

And Jimmy Rand downstairs was breaking all the rules of the hospital.

"Really," insisted the night superintendent, "it's against regulations. It's after visiting hours, and besides, Miss Maynard is not to be disturbed under any condition."

"I don't care," he answered. "I'm going to see her—now. I've got to see her."

"But can't you wait till morning?"

"Now. I brought her here! I could have brought her to another hospital if I'd wanted. I'm paying the bill, and I won't have you put me off."

"Really, Mr. Rand, it isn't a question of who pays the bill. Rules are rules, you know."

"Then in this case there'll have to be an exception. I tell you she can't rest until she hears from me. It's important she has to know. She'll be just a bundle of nerves until she hears from me that everything has come out all right."

"Well, if you're really going to insist, I suppose—"

"Thank you. I knew you'd understand."

Which was not so at all, for she didn't.

He walked up the hall and up the stairs, in the wake of a young nurse. His head was thrown back and his lips formed soundless words.

The nurse stepped into a room, and he heard low voices, saw a light. Then she was out in the hall again.

"You may go in now."

He had thought to enter on a cheery note of laughter, but the sight of her lying there, pitifully white, was unnerving, and his hand was trembling violently as he laid it on hers.

"Olga, are you all right?"

"Yes, Jim. I'll be out again in a week. Rest is all I need."

She smiled bravely. "Now tell me, Jim."

"Oh, it was Church, all right. He's confessed. Jensen's dead, and I'm not sorry." He stopped and regarded her gravely. What he was about to say was not going to be easy. He said to himself, "Mustn't back down now."

"Olga," and he squeezed her hand hard, to steady his own, "I—"

But her eyes were searching his face and, somehow, he couldn't go on with her looking at him like that. What they read there he did not know, but they seemed to be reaching to his very thoughts.

"Jim, you're hurting my hand." She drew it away and placed it on his. "Don't talk, Jim. Just sit there."

Long minutes passed, and a cheery little clock on the bedside table ticked loudly. . . . Her hand still lay on his. . . .

"I'm awful glad," she was saying presently, "that everything turned out all right for you. For your sake Jim, and for mine."

"Olga," he protested, "you know very well I never doubted—"

But she silenced him by placing her finger against his lips.

"I know you didn't, Jim. It's wonderful to know that you believed in me all through." Then she said, "Have you told Mary yet?"

"No."

"Why haven't you?"

"Because I came here first, Olga, to tell you I—"

"Don't say it, Jim. I know what it is—it was written all over your face the minute you came in the door." She sighed. "You'd make a rotten actor. Call her up, Jim—to-night. Gee, she'll be thrilled!"

He was protesting once more, but she silenced him again with her finger.

"Shut up, old dear. It's wonderful to know you care that much, but you're not fooling me—not for a minute. I can see right through you. You know you're crazy in love with her, Jim."

"You mean to tell me you know what I came here for?"

"Sure. When I lose my voice I'm going in for mind reading."

It was altogether the most astonishing situation he had ever found himself in. Suddenly he was on his knees beside her bed, fighting against the catch in his voice, unburdening his troubled mind.

"Jim," she said when he had finished, "You're so white I just can't believe you're true. Come here and let me kiss you."

She did.

"Olga," he said, "they tell me I'm a millionaire. You'll never have to worry about work."

"But that's just what I'm going to do. I still think I can sing."

"And I'll see that you get what you're after if I have to buy a show for you."

"Great, Jim. You're going to be my angel, huh? The heavy sugar daddy behind the scenes. You old sport, you. Let me kiss you again."

When he had gone she rang for the nurse.

"Put out the light, nursie, old dear. And tell me, how much longer do I have to stay in this damn bed?"

When it was dark she lay with her face to the wall, and cried.

Jimmy did call Mary Lowell's house, but she was not there. Her mother told him that a young man named Barry Colvin had been there and had taken her off with him to the police station.

Outside the hospital he hailed the first automobile that came along, and something about his manner led the man behind the wheel to think it was a matter of life and death to get him to headquarters.

He had thought Mary and he would be alone when he saw her, and had mentally rehearsed the scene between them. But when he walked in O'Day's office he found her with Barry Colvin on one side of her and the old war horse O'Day on the other.

He saw Barry jump to greet him, and O'Day rurn his head. But he ignored Barry's tush and stood helpless, without speech, his eyes on Mary, who sat still and pale and just looked. . . .

The torrent of words he wanted to utter was dammed at his teeth. He was oblivious of the two men. . . .

Slowly he raised his hands and let them fall.

And then, as in a dream, he saw Mary moving toward him, shining wetness in her eyes. She paused a few feet from him, and he thrilled as she said, without taking her eyes from his, "I couldn't do without you, Jim."

He was able to utter in a choked voice, "Mary!"

And then she walked straight into his arms for his kiss, and they were suddenly alone in a world of their own, on some high, far-flung plain lit by the silent stars. . . .

"You heard?" he asked, still clinging to her.

She nodded. "They told me all, Jim."

He turned to look about him, coming back to earth once more. Barry was gazing out of the window. His hands were clasped behind his back, and he was rocking back and forth on heels and toes.

As for O'Day, that worthy still sat at his desk with his back politely turned, but Jimmy was amazed to find him shattering all the "rules and regulations" by smoking a fat black cigar.

"O'Day," he cried sharply, keeping a straight face only with the utmost difficulty, "do you want to be reduced? Lord, man, you're smoking!"

O'Day, his expression suggesting that he was as much surprised as Jimmy to find himself smoking, jerked the cigar from his mouth and regarded it ruefully, as if he were reluctantly about to throw it away. Suddenly, though, he clamped it back between his teeth. "The divil with regulations," he growled. "I'm celebratin'."

Mary laughed. "I'm a jealous woman, Jim," she said. "I want you alone. Take me home."

And then they were alone in the taxicab, and they were not a part of the world that rushed past the windows.

* * *

The next night a train carried Jimmy Rand and Barry Colvin back to Grafton.

"Home again, Jim. It'll be good to get back."

Jimmy looked out of the window at twinkling lights in a black night. "And better," he said softly, "when I bring Mary back next week." He laughed. "And you, you old fathead, how about you and Janet?"

"She's going to marry me right away, Jim. If she doesn't—well, I'm taking a club along. Stubbornness runs in the Rand family, and the only way to reason with it is with something hard and heavy."

* * *

At that moment Martha Rand and Janet were getting ready for bed, and for the first time in many dreary weeks people had descended on them.

. . . And in Chicago a man with heavy hair which was gray at the tem-

Mrs. J. A. Morgan was hostess at a delightful tea, attended by nearly one hundred and fifty of her friends, yesterday afternoon, at her home on the corner of George and Murray streets. Mrs. Morgan received her guests in the attractive living room, which was arranged with spring flowers, in colors of rose, yellow and white. Mrs. E. L. Goodwill and Mrs. E. H. Wood ushered the ladies into the tea room, where a color scheme of mauve, white and yellow was carried out, the table, with its Cluny lace cloth, being centred with a large silver basket of hyacinths, stocks, daffodils and tulips, the handle tied with white tulle. Lighted candles of mauve were in tall silver holders and tiny bonbons in rainbow tints matched the general charming color effect. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. D. Scott and Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, assisted by Mrs. B. B. Gillespie, Mrs. G. Ray Scott, Miss Laura Belleghem and Miss Jean Eastwood.

Menus for the Family

(By Sister Mary.)

Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, bread crumb pancakes, maple syrup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Vegetable omelet, lettuce sandwiches, canned strawberries, fifteen minute sponge cake, milk, tea.

Dinner — Casserole of beef with raisins, mashed potatoes, tomato fritters, radishes and onions, apple amber, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

This vegetable omelet is well worth considering. It is a savory dish quite out of the ordinary. Left-over mashed potatoes are used up most appetizingly without the addition of expensive ingredients with a nourishing and satisfying result.

Vegetable Omelet.

Two cups mashed potatoes, 2 tablespoons minced chives, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 2 tablespoons minced sweet green pepper, 1-3 to 1-2 cup brown gravy, 3 tablespoons grated cheese.

Combine potatoes, minced vegetables and gravy. The gravy is another left-over and can be stretched by the addition of water or milk if necessary to make the required amount. Beat the mixture with a fork until well blended. Melt 1 tablespoon butter or bacon fat in a hot spider. Spread potato mixture evenly over bottom of pan. Cover closely and cook over a low fire for 20 or 30 minutes, until a nice brown crust is formed on the underside of the omelet. Remove cover, sprinkle with grated cheese and put into a very hot oven or under a gas broiler to melt the cheese. Fold like an omelet and serve on a hot platter. Garnish with crisp water cress.

"Women Love Trouble" Declares Man-About-Town; And He May Thereby Have Caused Himself Some

TORONTO, March 31.—Harry Morton, man-about-town and leading business executive, has created a furore by declaring in an after-dinner speech "Women Love Trouble."

Morton had dined with several of his friends, and the conversation turned on his experiences with the fair sex. "Women love trouble," he said. "If they haven't any, they go out and make some for themselves."

The question of temperament involved may be taken up by women's clubs, who will endeavor to show that the charge is unfounded in fact.

ECLIPSE FASHIONS

Exclusive Patterns by Heidi Bayer

1053

The One-piece Frock With Flared Silhouette

Somewhat reverting to the Moyen-Age, long-waisted line is the silhouette pictured in this frock with its circular skirt and long full sleeves of plain flat crêpe, and its upper portion in a lovely flowered crêpe. This model is cut with kimono-shoulders and opens far enough down the front to slip on over the head easily. The collar is convertible and can be worn high or low. The diagram pictures the simple design of No. 1053, which is in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 bust requires 4⅛ yards 39-inch for dress all of one material; or 2⅛ yards 39-inch figured, and 2 yards plain material as illustrated. Price 20 cents.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

HER OWN WAY by A GIRL of TODAY

TEMPTATION WINS

"'Don't you worry over Lola Lawrence,' said Madame Seria, when I explained I didn't want to add anything to her troubles if she had found out that there was something the matter with her voice, 'Lola's musical talent is just about right for light opera. It was never big enough for anything else.'

"I began to thank Madame Seria effusively, but she stopped me immediately.

"'Go ahead, child. Make these rich wasters pay for your voice if possible, but take my adivce, don't be too easy. It's a game with most of these men—a game they love to play—and the girl who gives them the most for their money is the girl who will lose out every time. I sometimes think they enjoy being circumvented by some smart gold-digger. Buddy Tremaine is a charming man and he is music-mad. But, having always had money, he thinks it will buy anything he wants.

"'One can hardly blame him for this, for up to date to the outsider, it seems to do the trick.

"'You're young, my dear. Much younger than Lola Lawrence, and in the clothes you will wear this afternoon, you will be beautiful—more beautiful than she. You have a freshness and a seeming innocence that Mr. Tremaine will find refreshing. It will delight him beyond measure. One seldom finds such girls as models nowadays.

"'I think you can put the whole thing over, Mamie, without giving up too much. A kiss or two doesn't mean anything, you know.

"'Above all else, keep your head. Don't fall in love with Buddy Tremaine. He can be kindness itself and he will be. He is comparatively young, very handsome and probably has the most fascinating personality in all the city. Every girl who is out for a sweetheart in town, has been after him.

"'Remember what I've told you, my dear. If you let your heart go, you're lost. I'm only saying this to you because I believe you care more for music than anything else in the world. If I thought you were vain or frivolous I wouldn't take this trouble with you. But, my dear, I feel a great interest in you. With my help, and I will freely give it, I think you can make Buddy Tremaine do a good deed and even think of someone beside himself.'

"Julie, we carried that plot through.

"Madame Serie herself saw that my frocks were on in just the right manner. She dressed my hair herself and left my face devoid of anything but a little powder. She said I did not need any make-up.

"I did my little stunt of singing as I was changing my gown and oh, how I welcomed the look of admiration in Buddy Tremaine's eyes as I came back in a different frock, the last cadence of the song just dying on my breath."

TOMORROW: The Verdict.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

We are five flappers waiting for right men to come along, but if they are all going to get the idea we flappers are "giddy-headed"—well, I guess we will be out of luck. We flappers have a terrible time trying to please. If we are sedate we are called "dumbells" and if we go to a party or any place in public and are the life of the crowd or even talk and laugh on the street, some one is bound to remark it. What are we to do? Oh yes! if we wear our dresses long they are ashamed to take us anywhere because we are a "flop" as those shieks say, and if we wear our clothes short we are bold and have no morality. I ask again what are we to do? Do we understand right when they say flappers could never cook—well, they are all wrong again, as anyone of this bunch can put up one of the best dinners you can find anywhere. So we are never ashamed of our homes as they are always clean, but in public we never make this fact known as "most men" seem to prefer that butterfly type the kind that will let every Tom, Dick and Harry manhandle them. Well, we aren't that kind yet—we can not seem to hold a guy as I am afraid the men seem to be losing all respect for the non-petter, believe me we always keep a supply of finger nails and a mighty hard upper lip. Excuse my language as this doesn't sound very ladylike. We never use slang in public and are often misjudged, but I just wish some of those slick-haired-shieks who stand at every corner would try and get smart with a girl like any of us and see how far he would get.

We poor flappers have to stand for a lot of misunderstanding and gossiping from fellows that don't know what they are talking about.

At this time shieks seem to think a girl isn't worth bothering with unless she hangs around a dance hall all night or wouldn't refuse a cigarette, or the k n that don't think an evening is e ded up right without a kiss.

Now, do not think we are too bold, but some of those fellows around here want to find a better topic for their conversation than running down non-petter flappers.

FIVE FLAPPERS.

FIVE FLAPPERS: If you do not wish to be considered as "flappers," with all the assorted inflections attached to that word, why be "flappers?" There are other models for girls to follow, even in these days. Street corner loafers will be attracted to you if you are the type that street corner loafers like to look at. Get the idea? You have evidently a grievance against some young men, and it may be quite justified, but the ladylike type of girl never is able to cultivate a grievance of this sort, because she rarely gets the attention of the sheik. In this world, you usually get what you are looking for. If you want the attention of a better type of man, make yourselves worthy of it. Don't blame the men for something that is mainly your own fault. You want to act like a flapper and dress like one. You want to be daring and smart and strictly up to date, and with it all, you demand the respect and consideration that is due a real lady. Give these men credit for some commonsense. They are not granting respect to women who are not worth it.

Companions -:- By Juanita Hamel.

"Two heads are better than one" every time, and now that Miss Daintiness is in love, she's afraid to rely on her own judgment, so she has turned to Dan Cupid, the companion of lovers since Time began.

Wise little lady! She knows now that she'll make the right decision, and that whatever the verdict may be, it will be the right one. For Dan Cupid never makes a mistake. So see that you seek him as a companion; listen to his advice, heed his counsel, for he is as old as Time itself, yet's he's ever young and ever up-to-date.

His wisdom is of age-old experience with lovers and love. So make him your confidant in your love-quest and you'll be assured that he will lead you into the Joy and Happiness of Love.

A Fashion Model's Diary

By Grace Thorncliffe

SHE DESCRIBES A MODISH KASHA FROCK FOR SPRING.

Of course, we manikins have the liberty of copying any frock Madame is showing.

This is quite a concession, because her fashions are carefully guarded from outside convists. But Madame wants her manikins to be dressed in the height of fashion when they are off duty as well as on, so she allows us to copy her smart designs.

Notice that I say copy instead of purchase, for Madame's frocks are really so expensive that a manikin simply can't afford to buy them with her salary.

Then, too, we manikins are all so interested in clothes and so eager to sew and do some designing for ourselves that we consider spending money for ready-made clothes rather an unnecessary expense, as we are in that particular line of business ourselves.

Of course, it pays rich women and women who are too busy in some other following, like the stage or society, to procure the best clothes they can have made for themselves at the least amount of trouble possible.

So much for the way we manage to be so smartly dressed.

Now, I saw a dress today that I'm simply crazy about and I'm making a drawing of it here in my diary. I'm also planning to make it.

This Rose Kasha Frock Is Trimmed With Ecru and Brown Lace.

Somehow, with so much Spring in the air, I couldn't even settle to dark blue for a dress, which is the color I had in mind. Instead I settled on rose pink kasha.

It came about in this way:

Gaby came swaggering in in the cunningest little rose-colored kasha I've ever seen. I gave her a quick once over and said:

"Where in the world did you get it?"

"Oh, you flatter me," Gaby replied. "It isn't mine. It's he Madame's newest design. You haven't seen it before because it has been literally made on me, and tha since yesterday."

The dress had wide box pleats in the skirt, which gives the fullness I like so much. And, best of all, Madame had used lovely ecru baiste embroidered in brown for the vestee and trimming bands.

I'm copying the dress just as it is, and I'm getting a little rose felt to wear with it.

GARNISH AND SERVE.

Now it's Mother and Daughter Week! Date set by different cities. Early in April in most of them. As a daughter, I arise to remark that I wager this brilliant idea has watched by a mother and not a daughter. It's the very thing that modern daughters loathe and scorn and despise—this crystalization of sentiment into conventional organized patterns. Mothers will probably get up and prattle at these mother-daughter luncheons about "keeping our daughter's confidence," and all the usual bunk, and the very prattle and the very meeting will push mothers and daughters so far apart that a ten-foot pole can't reach from one party to the other.

"SOMETHING DIFFERENT"

Mayhap your good man gets tired of the eternal beefsteak and onions or pork chops. Ever try "ham supreme"? Two-pound piece of ham, cut thick, is scalded and placed flat on buttered baking pan. Place slices of canned pineapple around ham so that slices touch each other and are about one-half inch over edge of ham. Sprinkle all with brown sugar, add 2-3 cup of pineapple juice, bake 35 minutes, serve as cooked.

WORTH KNOWING.

Blackened ivory handles may be whitened by rubbing with lemon dipped in salt. Then washed in cold water. Ink can be removed from linen by dipping spotted part in melted tallow. Wash. Very cold eggs beat well. A pinch of salt helps, too.

"EDDYKET"

When a woman calls on another she does not leave her card. The card is left only if the hostess is not at home. If one cannot, at the last moment, attend a tea or reception, a card should be sent with the word "regrets" written upon it. The card should be received before the affair takes place, even if it must be sent by messenger.

THE HOUSE.

"A house of our own" is most everybody's dream. And "a small house that won't cost too much" is also most everyone's dream, due to cruel necessity. For such, we tell of "The Small House Primre"b y Edwin Bonta. It costs $2.50 but may help you save $2500.

THE SECRETS OF CHARM

By Lucrezia Bori.

Do you realize the important part that water, soap and a clean towel play in winning beauty?

The effects are far-reaching, for the diseases that are often contracted through want of cleanliness can undermine health and beauty in a most alarming way.

Now, I stress the need for good cold cream and nourishing skin food for women's faces to keep them clean and youthful and well fed. But this does not mean that I have any intention of slighting the necessity for soap and water at all times. I myself use water on my face only in the morning. I give it a rinse in warm water, followed by repeated rinses in very cold water. The effect of this is very stimulating. I also take a warm shower, followed yard cold shower, in the morning.

As for the rest, I advise washing your hands many times a day. In our modern cities we really must do this to keep them in the fastidiously clean condition which we wish for them at all times. It is a good idea to have a nail brush always handy, for without one we can hardly hope to remove all the particles of dirt and dust which lodge in the crevices of our nails and fingers. It is best to remove all the dirt possible with your nail brush, then to follow this by the use of an orange stick for the stubborn bits of dirt that are more difficult to remove.

If you apply a soothing hand lotion you have little to fear from the effects of chapped hands. Rub the lotion into your hands and they will stay smooth and white.

Another good precaution is to be very careful to put your gloves all the way on before you go out into the wind. Don't begin pulling them on as you leave the house, but have them on before you go out the door. Sudden contact with the elements makes hands rough and chapped, and you must take every small precaution to preserve their smooth beauty

HEDDA HOYT TALKS ABOUT THE THINGS THAT INTEREST THE BUSY WOMAN OF 1926.

FIFTH AVENUE.

(By Hedda Hoyt. Written for the United Press.)

NEW YORK March 31 (United Press).—Aside from blustering March winds and straw bonnets one would think that Spring was far distant. On chilly days we have seen girls in galoshes and straw hats and others in Winter hats and Spring coats. One doesn't know what to wear these days it would seem.

Most of the straw hats one sees at present are either black tan or brown straw in the same familiar shapes as were Winter felts. Many of them are velvet or satin faced particularly where the up-turned brim is used. There is a tendency at present toward the up-turned brim usually the brim is but an inch or an inch and a half wide. No flower-trimmed hats have appeared as yet since trimmings so far run to ribbons rhinestone ornaments and small feather fancies.

Occasionally we see someone braving the weather in a spring coat worn with a fox fur piece as an added warmth. One such model was made of navy blue woolen in double-breasted coat effect with a cape lined in plaid flannel. A black fox fur was worn about the throat. Women for the most part however are still wearing fur coats black footgear nude hosiery and Winter hats.

At tea hour in the hotels one sees frocks worn beneath coats which were designed for Spring wear. One young matron at the Vanderbilt wore a charming little grass green crepe frock with pleated panels in a darker green forming a front apron effect. The back of the gown was entirely plain the high collar closed at the side with tiny silver buttons which extended on the shoulder seam. A small green bankok hat with narrow up-turned cuff brim of green velvet had a cluster of green feather flowers drooping over the left ear.

Accompanying this matron was an elderly woman gowned in black georgette trimmed in black lace. The lace formed a double jabot at the V-shaped neck formed the lower portion of the flaring bell-shaped sleeves and was repeated in godets to give flare to the hemline.

An interesting young Miss who is always wearing something a bit unusual appeared at the Rit> the other afternoon dressed in a flame red velvet jacket which just reached her hips. It extended in points in back and in front and was bordered in black monkey fur.

GOOD NIGHT STORIES

By Blanche Silver

DOTTY MEETS A GOLDEN CROWNED KNIGHT

"Zee, Zee, Zee," sounded faintly near Dotty's window. She jumped out of bed and flung the window open.

There on the edge of the porch roof sat a wee little birdie. He was a little smaller than Mr. Sparrow, wearing a grayish-green top coat and a soiled white vest. The very center of his crown was a bright orange color bordered by yellow that was enclosed by a black line. His cheeks were gray with a white line under each eye.

"My goodness! little fellow," cried Dotty. "I'll bet you are just about frozen. I expect you are like a few others. You thought Spring was here. Come on in out of the cold wind. I'll not harm you."

"Oh, he's not afraid. Are you Golden-crowned Kinglet?" laughed a tiny voice and Dotty turned around to find Squeedee, the wee elfin from Joyland standing on the window sill at her side.

"Squeedee, you dear!" Dotty exclaimed when she saw him. "Go coax him in before he freezes his feet."

The little bird chirped merrily and hopped around on the window sill.

"Guess Dotty don't know who I am," he laughed. "We don't mind the cold weather do we, Squeedee?"

"I'll say we don't," replied the elfin. "Dotty, this is Golden-crowned Kinglet. He and his wife enjoy this kind of weather. Are you about ready for your trip?"

"Come In Out of the Wind."

"My goodness," Dotty cried. "I thought you had just arrived. Where can you be going?"

"You see my wife and I like cold weather better than we do hot weather," chirped Golden-crowned Kinglet. "We have been around here for the last few months. We are really birds of the north. Just as soon as the warm Spring days come, we fly farther north. There's one thing we can't stand; that is hot weather. We are ready for our trip to Canada now, Squeedee."

"The folks up North will be glad to welcome your cheery songs. They have had a long cold season," mused the elfin.

"If our songs cheer them, then it's worth the hardships of the trip," chirped Golden-crowned Kinglet. "You won't miss us, for you'll soon have the robins, bluebirds and all the Summer birds back. Well, here's the wife now. All ready my dear? This is Dotty and Squeedee."

Mrs. Golden-crowned Kinglet looked a great deal like her mate only the spot on her head was lemon-yellow instead of bright orange like her husbands'.

"All ready my dear," Mrs. Golden-crowned Kinglet chirped and bidding Dotty and Squeedee good-by, they sailed away on their trip to Canada.

Dotty turned around to speak to Squeedee and found he too had disappeared. She laughed merrily and closed the window. She admired the little birds who braved the cold winds to give joy to others.

Two bills are now before the Manitoba legislature to give charters to the Manitoba Central Railway Co. and the Winnipeg River Railroad Co. to build railway lines to the Bulldog lake gold district. JOHN INSLEY BLAIR—OF RAILROAD FAME.

Contemporaneous with Commodore Vanderbilt, Russell Sage and the first Astor—and as keen as any of them—was John Insley Blair, born in 1802, on a farm near Belvidere, New Jersey.

Like sage, he began as a clerk in a country store. Later, he opened a general merchandise store of his own and contributed so much to the upbuilding of the town that it became known as Blairstown (New Jersey).

In the late '40's he acquired an iron foundry at Oxford Furnace, New Jersey. But at the outset he ran against a snag—the lack of facilities for transporting the metal to the seaboard. With a group of associates, in 1850, he organized the Lackawanna Coal & Iron Co., out of which has grown the great railway system, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.

Out of this operation, in subsidies and in one form and another, Blair made his first millions, and his career took on a wider range and scope.

Following his initial adventure in railroading, his name was connected either as a builder or director in no less than twenty-five railroad lines.

He was one of the original directors of the Union Pacific, a road with land grants reaching almost 5,000,000 acres, and subsidies in various forms, no less than $50,000,000. In all of these operations Blair was a dominant figure. One of the least of his roads was the Sioux City and Pacific, for which his company—mainly himself and his sons—secured a land grant of 100 sections and $16,000 in Government bonds for each mile of road. It is said that he made $5,000,000 out of it and then sold it to the Chicago and Northwestern.

He Calculated Every Step.

It is a matter of official record that one-eighth of the entire State of Iowa was granted to railroads, most of which Blair owned or controlled.

He had realized his ambition, and with his millions he became known as a philanthropist, founding over one hundred churches and giving $150,000 to establish a Presbyterian Academy.

When he died at Blairstown in 1899 his personal fortune was estimated anywhere from $70,000,000 to $100,000,000. For a quarter of a century he was considered one of the richest men in the United States.

ADVENTURES of the TWINS

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

NUMBER ONE—THE FAIRY RENT COLLECTOR

Nobody was working the radio. Nobody was even thinking of it. The Twins were looking for their kites to fly.

But suddenly the radio went, "Whoo! Whee! Whoo! Whee-eee!"

"The idea!" said Nick. "What in the world's wrong with the crazy thing?"

"I wonder!" said Nancy staring at it.

But they were soon to know, for in a minute they heard a voice say faintly. "It's me! It's me! Mister Tingaling! Look for the magic shoes. They're right beside you. Look and see! I'm Mister Tingaling, the fairy landlord. And I have to collect rents. And I want you to go along. Put on the magic shoes and meet me betwee the lilac bush and the snowball bush at half past one."

The radio went, "Whoo! Whee!" again and that was all.

"Yes, sir! Here are the shoes," cried Nick excitedly. "It's another adventure, sure as anything! Hurry up, Nan, the clock says half past one now and those two bushes are away down by the gate."

Off came their everyday shoes and on went the fairy shoes!

And instantly the Twins were being carried along without the trouble of even taking a step, right through the house and down the steps and down the path to the gate where the two tall bushes stood.

Underneath the bushes it was quiet and dark and green—a sort of bower, you know. Exactly the place you would expect to find a fairy!

And pushing the leaves aside and stepping into the mysterious dark space, that's exactly what the Twins did find.

Not a beautiful gauzy fairy, like Silver Wings, but a fat jolly little fairyman, as round as a barrel and with a face like the moon. He wore an ice cream saucer hat with a feather in it, and he carried a very large pocketbook and a very large pencil and book.

"Howdy, folks," said he amiably. "I'm Tingaling, Mister Tingaling. I got that name from ringing doorbells. But you remember me, don't you?" he asked anxiously.

"Sure we do," said the Twins together. Who, indeed, could forget the dear fat jolly little fellow if they had once seen him! "We helped you one time before. It was loads of fun," they added.

"Fun! Is that what you call it," almost shrieked Mister Tingaling. "Trying to get the meadow people and wood people and all the other people of Out-of-Door Land to pay me money when they don't WANT to."

But all the time one could see that he was secretly delighted at being remembered. That is one thing about fairies, children. They do hate to be forgotten, even fat fairies.

Another thing that pleased him was to know that the Twins had had a good time.

"We had a perfectly splendid time," said Nancy. "And I don't think people dislike paying their rents. It's just that the Out-of-Door people, the squirrels and rabbits and woodchucks and all the others like to think that they are smarter than fairies, that's all."

"Oh, do you really think so?" beamed Mister Tingaling. "I certainly hope that's it, for I dislike being disliked. I always collect my rents on the thirty-second day of the month and this is the thirty-second day of the month in Fairyland."

"Fairyland!" cried Nick. "Are we going to Fairyland?"

"Tush!" said Mister Tingaling. "Of course we are. Isn't the meadow, and the garden and the whole world Fairyland in the spring?"

Montreal Bond Broker Accused of Fraud.

QUEBEC, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Felix A. Sylvestre, bond broker of Montreal, is not yet through with the courts of this province, despite the fact that Monday he was sentenced to twelve months in jail on each of two charges of false pretences. Yesterday he was on his way to Montmagny to answer further charges of false pretences connected with the sale of the bonds.

In addition to this charge, another complaint has been laid against Sylvestre by a local citizen who claims he was swindled out of $8,500 by Sylvestre, who, it is alleged, induced him to exchange good bonds for bad.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

POWDER AND YEAST DOUGHS

Everybody loves hot breads. Hot corn bread always goes well with sausage and apple sauce, hot rolls with a chicken dinner, and raised dumplings raise potpie dinner to a delectable treat. Try some of the following and rejoice in the praises of your grateful family.

Of course, a steady diet which includes hot breads is not the best thing in the world for digestion, but an occasional serving of these eclectable breads will not do any harm. However it will be best to bear in mind that children should never be given such heavy foods, for their digestive organs are more delicate than that of grown-ups. As a rare treat, they may be given hot biscuits or hot cakes and syrup but even then, see to it that they do not gorge themselves into an attack of indigestion. And it might be well to remember that the same rule may also be applied profitably to the grown-ups.

Pot Pie Dumplings.

Take from the regular bread dough, when it is ready to put in the pans for the last raising, enough dough to make ten dumplings. Roll each dumpling in floured hands and tuck a small piece of butter in the centre of each. Place them on a floured board and set in a cool place until an hour or so before dinner. Bring to the warmth and let raise for a full half hour. Drop dumplings on the top of the boiling stew, cover very closely and cook for twenty minutes without uncovering. Lift to a hot dish with a skimmer. Lift the stew, thicken the gravy slightly and serve. The dumplings may be put around the stew if desired, but they are usually so large and fluffy they are better served on a dish by themselves.

three cupfuls of cornmeal with cupful of wheat flour. Add a teaspoonful of salt and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Pour in a quart of rich milk and a cupful of warm molasses. Mix well, then pour into a well-buttered mold and steam for four hours. Fill the mold three-quarters full only, as room must be allowed for its swelling.

Sponge Corn Bread.

Bring one quart of milk to boiling point and pour it into a pint of yellow cornmeal. Add a generous lump of butter, a teaspoonful of salt and a teaspoonful of sugar and set the mixture away over night. In the morning beat light, add two beaten eggs and pour into well-buttered deep pottery plates and bake a half hour.

Boston Brown Bread.

Mix together the dry ingredients. One cupful each of rye meal, graham flour and yellow cornmeal. Add a small cupful of molasses, two cupfuls of sweet milk, two small cupfuls of sour milk, with three-quarters of a tablespoonful of baking soda and a teaspoonful of salt. Mix well, then turn into a buttered mold, filling three-quarters full, then cover it tightly and tie down the cover. Place the mold in a kettle of hot water, allowing the water to come up a little more than half way, and keep it boiling for three and a half hours, adding water as it boils out. Sometimes this bread is unmolded and placed in the oven for a few minutes to dry off and brown slightly, but do not leave it long in the oven.

YOUR HEALTH

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

I was greatly pleased to get a letter from an old-time friend. She hurt my feelings a little by suggesting I might not recall her, because I do remember her very well.

A sister has just died of "hardening of the spinal cord" and an article on this subject is desired. While there are several diseases which have hardening of parts of the cord, I assume my friend refers to what the doctors call "primary combined sclerosis."

This is not a common disease, fortunately, but it is another of the things women have to bear. Rarely does it attack men. One series I have read about consisted of fifty cases, more than sixty per cent. of whom were women. All but five of the victims were more than thirty years of age.

Another form of sclerosis—or hardening—of the spinal cord is found in males of middle life. But this ailment is different.

It is an interesting fact that almost all cases of primary combined sclerosis are associated with anemia. It may be difficult to prove which comes first, the anemia or the hardening of the spinal cord, but there is no doubt that the conditions are associated.

You cannot expect vegetables or fruits to be normal and juicy without an abundance of moisture. Neither can you expect the tissues of the spinal cord to be soft, elastic and responsive to every call made upon it unless the structure is nourished and cleansed by an unfailing supply of rich, red blood.

The spinal cord is an extension downward from the brain itself. It is protected by the backbone, through which it runs in a bony canal made for this purpose. Between the sections of the backbone the blood vessels reach the spinal cord. In this manner an abundance of blood reaches the delicate structure.

Of course there must be a failure of nourishment and an increasing loss of elasticity and softness if the blood supply is lessened. This is the reason why anemia will cause hardening of the tissues of the spinal cord.

Anything, then, which produces anemia must be a factor in this disease. The persons who develop sclerosis are undernourished and lacking in vigor. They are pale-lipped, white-faced, and usually very frail little persons.

Often they do not know how and what to eat. Their digestive functions are below par. They have backache and constipation. Their systems are poisoned from uncleansed and insufficient blood.

All the signs of undernourishment are noted before the spinal symptoms develop. Pretty soon we have complaints about numbness in the hands and feet.

The muscular power declines steadily. The handclasp is less vigorous and the ability to work is lessened. The legs are more involved than the arms, usually.

Increasing loss in weight is observed. Ultimately great emaciation is present. Toward the end there are signs of mental disturbance.

Prevention means everything. Nobody can afford to neglect symptoms which indicate lowered vitality. It is your duty to be well and to keep well. I don't say these things to frighten you. Indeed, there are very, very, few ailments which cannot be overcome by early treatment. On this account I urge you to give heed to your bodily needs if you are not vigorous in health. You must have good digestion to have good blood, and good blood to have a normal brain and nervous system.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

A. D. Q.—Why do the eyes tear in cold weather?

A.—Some condition of the tear ducts is probably responsible or the eyes may be weak. Have them examined.

• • •

MRS. J. T. W. Q.—A few months ago I had some diseased teeth extracted. Before their removal I had shooting pains all through the body. I am still weak and nervous. Will this disappear? Were the teeth the cause of my trouble?

A.—Diseased teeth are frequently a source of infection and would be very apt to cause symptoms such as you describe. It may take a little while for the infection to be cleared out of your system.

A READER. Q.—What do you advise for darkness under the eyes?

A.—This condition may be due to a number of causes—lack of sleep, constipation, intestinal disturbances, kidney trouble, may all be responsible. Find the cause and proper treatment will suggest itself.

J. D. Q—What do you advise for rough and open skin on the knuckles?

A.—This may be due to the use of a soap which is too harsh or to improper drying of the hands. It may also be due to eczema. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it cannot be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will, when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Address ALL INQUIRIES to Dr. Royal S. Copeland, in care of this office.

M.B.S.—There is really nothing that you can do to increase your height. You state that you are only fifteen years of age—you will grow until twenty-one. However, you may try exercising such as: tennis, swimming, hiking, etc. You might try joining a gymnasium.

E. S. T.—The cause of your face burning after being in the cold and upon entering some place of warmth is probably due to a hypersensitive skin. This is extremely common but I cannot recommend a cure.

Not being familiar with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I am unable to enlighten you regarding this particular preparation.

A.M.—Pains in the small of the back may be due to cold, strain or lumbago. Massaging and application of heat should give relief, if not strapping the back is often effective.

If the trouble is due to lumbago, there is probably some infection present. Be sure that your teeth, tonsils, sinus, intestines and kidneys are not at fault, since they are all possible sources of infection.

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Lowes and family:

"We are gathered here this evening to spend a last pleasant evening in your old home with you, before your departure to your new home in Saskatchewan.

"We greatly regret that we are losing a life-long resident of East Emily, and one who was always willing to assist his neighbours whenever needed.

"We did not wish to allow this opportunity to pass without showing in some small way our esteem for you.

"So, we ask you to accept this purse not for its intrinsic value alone, but as a slight token of our regard for you and our appreciation of your neighbourly acts so cheerfully carried out amongst us.

"We wish you every success in your new home and field of labour and trust that we may be remembered by you in future years.

"Signed on behalf of your neighbours,— Ross Boate,

BAPTIST SCHOOL HOLDS CONCERT

Annual Entertainment at Campbellford Big Success.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 31—The annual entertainment of the Baptist Sunday School was held Tuesday evening in the school room and proved a very successful affair, financially and otherwise. The room was filled to capacity and members of other denominations in town not only attended in force but several of the best local entertainers who are associated with other churches, assisted with the programme.

The feature number of the evening was a dialogue given by the lady teachers of the school, Mrs. E. D. Ford and Misses Lily Wston, A. Dunk, J. Weston, M. Hall, V. Shore and E. Weston. The piece which consisted of five scenes compressed into one act, was a clever illustration of the way in which feminine gossip runs riot in a community where anything out of the ordinary rarely happens and daily events simply transpire. A vacant house in a village received a new tenant who moved in while the neighbors slept. The lady next door, burning with curiosity to ascertain the social status of the strangers, went over to offer assistance but her kindly offices were politely declined. Her curiosity gave way to suspicions and these she imparted, under the seal of confidence, to one of her friends. From house to house the story was carried, each feminine tongue investing it with new features until in its travels it gathered dimensions and momentum like a landslide descending the perpendicular side of a mountain. The climax of the gossip was that a gang of outlaws had taken possession of the house, that they were kidnapping women and children and that the lady who had offered to help the strangers to settle had been foully murdered. There was a reign of terror in the village and it was useless to appeal to the law for with such fear-inspiring rumors afloat, no policeman with a family and without heavy life insurance could have been censured for refusing to risk his life by venturing near such a place of danger.

But by the natural course of events the sensation was punctured and flattened out like a toy balloon that has served its purpose. The new tenant was the minister who had recently been appointed to that place, and he had arrived alone, his family to follow later.

The picture of a rural community was of course exaggerated but it contained sufficient truth to make it life like. Every part in it was cleverly acted and the play was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

David Mason, superintendent of the Sunday School, presided and in a brief opening address welcomed the audience. The following programme was then rendered, each number being greeted with a hearty encore:

Piano duet — Misses Lilly and Evelyn Weston.

Solo—Ivan Groh, accompanied by Arthur Collison.

Reading—Miss Lillian Hay.

Solo—Miss V. Shore.

Cornet Solo—Walter J. Lowe.

Solo—Miss Emma Meiklejohn.

Reading—Miss Myrtle Hall.

Solo—Miss Hazel Atkinson, accompanied by Mrs. John Storie.

Reading—Miss Lillian Hay.

Piano duet—Misses Grace and Marion Labrash.

On motion of R. C. Weston, a vote of thanks was tendered those who took part in the programme.

Rev. Edmund D. Ford, pastor of the church was not at the entertainment as he was holding special services in Warkworth last evening.

At the close of the formal programme refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour was spent.

Services Postponed

On account of the illness of the rector, Rev. G. C. Clarke, there will be no Easter week services in Christ church until Good Friday.

Houses In Demand

There is still a good demand for improved residences in Campbellford. A house on Sebastopol street, belonging to William Runnels, recently became vacant and when it was known that the tenant was leaving the owner had five applications for it in two days. Mr. Runnels is one man who has not lost faith in the future of his town and he will carry on his business of erecting more houses as soon as the building season opens.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, March 31.— On Friday night last the members of the Ladies Skating Club numbering about twenty, held a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Payne, who are leaving for Warsaw early in April. Mrs. J. H. Payne presented Mrs. Roland Payne with a hand painted salad dish as a memento of the happy hours the club has spent together this winter and also as a token of affection from her friends. Mrs. Payne was very much surprised but made a fitting reply assuring the ladies of her appreciation of their gift and of the pleasant memories she would always cherish of their friendship. The evening was spent in games and music and wound up with a taffy pull. The little daughters of the house, May and Emily, sang very sweetly, "What will you take for me, papa" and the ladies united in singing "For they are jolly good fellows" and at about 1 o'clock the party dispersed after having spent a pleasant evening which seemed a fitting ending to their season's fun.

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty wedding took place at 5 o'clock on Wednesday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Abbott, Douro, when their second daughter, Henrietta Jane, was united in marriage to Albert Sidney Bullock, Jr., of Smith. Miss Laura Abbott played the wedding march from Lohengrin as the bride and her father entered the living room.

The bride wore coral georgette over white satin with blonde shoes and stockings and carried a sheaf of carnations and maidenhair fern. After the bounteous wedding supper the happy couple left for Gore's Landing, where they will spend their honeymoon. On their return they will reside in Smith.

The rink was not officially open but the ice appeared in good condition.

MISSIONARY PLAY BY BIBLE CLASS

St. Paul's Artists Well Trained By Mrs. W. Allan.

A charming missionary play in four acts, "The Pill Bottle," was very effectively staged last evening in the Sunday school rooms of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, under the auspices of the Amos Bible Class. The players, who were very good in their several roles, were carefully trained by Mrs. Wm. Allan, who is taking the place of the class' teacher, Mrs. James Dutton, during the latter's absence.

The play, for which Andrew Allen acted as announcer, deals with the story of Barbara Lane, a young girl who has decided to become an interior decorator, then goes to visit her parents in India and feels the call of missionary work. She studies medicine, so that she can doctor the women converts, and the last act shows her with a group of patients and the Outcaste woman, whose idea of Christianity is connected with the "pill bottle" from which the play derives its name.

Those taking part were as follows: Barbara Lane (Sadie Lockie); Jane, (Daisy Jones; Helen (Jean Routly); Frank (Jean Moore); Mrs. Lane (Isabelle Taylor); Dr. Lane (Thomas Dutton); the Patients, Ida Yong, Doris James, Grace Green, Ellen Madden, Hazel McWilliams, Geraldine Vincent, Jennie Clark, Eric Townsley, Ethel Puttick, Ella Fisher, Martha Gibson, Daisy Jones, Effie Calder; the Bible Woman, Mary Green; Men, Horace Doe, Dion Snelgrove and Arnold Allen; the Outcaste Woman, Miss Evelyn Gillies.

The play was received with much enthusiastic interest by a good-sized audience and those taking part have been asked to repeat their performance at an early date. During the evening the Sunday school orchestra played several times, and Miss Kathleen Edgar contributed some well-received vocal solos.

HUGE GRANTS FOR OTTAWA HYDRO AND THREE UNIVERSITIES PASSED

Premier Ferguson Suggests That Universities Look After Themselves—Sinclair Doubts Success of University Work in High Schools.

POWER PROJECT TO COST $7,000,000.

TORONTO, March 31 (Canadian Press).—The house in committee of supply passed large items for Hydro-Electric purposes. One of these for $500,000 the Premier explained was for transmission line from Chats Falls on the Ottawa River. It will through Eastern Ontario. Voted for preliminary development work Chats Falls were passed last year.

The Prime Minister stated that the Ontario Government was receiving whole-hearted co-operation from the Province of Quebec in finding a basis of equitable development of power at Alexander Falls on the Nipigon River. The Premier explained that the 50,000 horse-power developed at Cameron Falls was all in use and that there was urgent demand for more power in the district. The total cost of the new development will be about $7,000,000. The Premier said he was doubtful if even this new development would be sufficient to supply the rapidly growing needs of the district at the head of the lakes.

.... Grants to Universities ....

Items of grants to three provincial universities developed a lively discussion between the Premier and Mr. Sinclair. The Premier said he could not convince himself that the province should bear the financial burden of three universities.

"Both Queen's and the Western must make a special effort to look after themselves," he said. "Queen's has started and surely in Western University. The province will help until they get on their feet. I have not said that the grants will be cut off, but I am giving notice to these universities that they must look after themselves. I hope by another year that they will have outlined a scheme that will relieve the provincial treasury."

Mr. Sinclair said that from an academic viewpoint he was opposed to the proposal of teaching the first two years university work in high schools. He saw, however, that it would have advantages to pupils and parents in those places far removed from university centres. He did not think that a two-year university course would give a very high standing of degree. He thought the universities should retain their present courses and the high schools allowed to teach the first two years if they so desired. He doubted if university instruction in high schools would reduce educational costs, as the Premier thought it would.

"Is it the intention of the government to do away with the present first year work in the universities of Toronto?" he asked.

"It is the intention to do away with the first year work," replied the Premier, "And also the second year if found practicable."

"You may call the high schools teaching these two years' university work, junior colleges if you like. We want the University of Toronto to become an advanced scientific institution."

Qualification of Teachers

Mr. Sinclair asked when it was proposed to start the new plan, but the Premier said he did not know yet, at it was a matter of negotiation. He also wanted to know who were to be the teachers to teach the extra courses in the high schools and it was said that the present teachers would do it. Mr. Sinclair was doubtful, stating that university professors were generally higher grade instructors than high school teachers. The Liberal leader also asked about Queen's and the Western Universities and what jurisdiction the Minister of Education had over them to compel them to drop the first two years of university work. The Premier replied that the Legislature could do anything, and that neither Queen's nor the Western had ever refused to comply with the wishes of the Department of Education.

Grants Passed.

Mr. Sinclair said the whole scheme looked to him like an advertising scheme for the government. No money would be saved, because the money saved at the universities would come on the high schools and thus on the ratepayers. He thought also it would lower the standard of education. The grants passed the committee as follows: University of Toronto $987,945; Queen's $380,000; Western $250 000.

Red Lake Development Rivals Older Gold Camps

Not since the early Porcupine and Kirkland Lake days has any gold mining district come ahead as fast as has Red Lake, which is situated north of the National Trancontinental line near the Ontario--Manitoba boundary. The original discovery was made here only a short time ago, since when prospectors have been flocking in and a staking bee has resulted in the taking up of ground for several lines around.

Red Lake is now hailed as the next big goal camp in Ontario and preparations are being made for a further "rush" after the break-up which is expected to rival the stampede to the Yukon of many years ago.

A feature of Red Lake is that a great number of the big Ontario and Quebec mining companies are intensely interested, having already in most cases secured large acreage and are planning to carry on extensive exploration and development this summer. Among the big companies in Red Lake are Dome Mines, McIntyre, Noranda, Coniagas, Victoria Syndicate, Huronian Belt, Nipissing, etc. The camp has attracted international attention.

Among the most promising of the various holdings is that of the Dunlop Red Lake Syndicate Limited. This property, consisting of 1,200 acres, lies astride the main break and was personally staked by Major Dunlop, who for a number of years was in charge of field work for Coniagas Mines. Major Dunlop is an expert in this line of work and will be in charge of the development of the Dunlop Red Lake Syndicate property. Arrangements are being made to begin work as soon as navigation is opened and supplies and equipment can be taken in. These claims are considered to have a good chance of becoming a mine upon development.

MONTH'S LOSSES IN STOCKS NEAR 10 BILLION MARK

Wall Street Mystified By Continuation of Heavy Selling.

RENEWED TUESDAY.

Not Regarded as Forecast of Sustained Business Depression.

NEW YORK, March 31 (Canadian Press).—The stock market, staggering under the hammering of three successive weeks of liquidation which has carried scores of issues 20 to 100 points below their high levels of the year, was dealt another crushing blow Tuesday when a renewed outbreak of selling swept 258 issues to new low levels for the year and sent 70 others to their previous minimum quotations. Trading was in enormous volume, the day's sales aggregating 3,317,700 shares, as compared with 3,785,700 in the record-breaking session on March 3.

At the close of the market last night, the average of 20 leading industrial issues were nearly 23 points below the year's high established on February 11, while the average of 20 leading railroad issues was down 12 points. It is estimated that the reaction this month has wiped out between 85,000,000,000 and $10,000,000,000 in the quoted value of the securities listed on the exchange.

The rank and file of Wall Street is plainly mystified as to what is behind the selling movement.

All sorts of rumors, some of them questioning the financial stability of various individuals and firms, were in circulation, but these always appear after every drastic re-action in prices, and, lacking confirmation, little attention was paid to them in responsible banking quarters.

While speculation for the rise unquestionably had been overdone in the wild orgy of buying last fall and winter, there is a growing impression in Wall Street that the decline represents something more than a correction of a weakened speculative position, but no one appears to be able or willing, to tell what it is. While bankers generally decline to be quoted on the day-to-day movements in the market, most of them privately express the opinion that buiness conditions are fundamentally sound, and that the re-action in stocks is not a forecast of any sustained period of business depression.

NARROW ESCAPE FOR CONSTABLE

Provincial Officer Maker Nearly Goes Over High Embankment.

RIDING IN SCOOTER.

A tragedy was narrowly averted when Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker was leaving Young's Point for Lakefield this morning.

He with the driver of a "scooter" had just left the dam at Young's Point and were approaching the bridge when the "scooter" left the road and headed straight down the 50 foot embankment. Luckily for the occupants of the "scooter" a rugged fence post interfered with the downward progress of the machine and held them suspended about one-quarter of the way down the bank.

In order to release the machine a part of the fence had to be removed.

MRS. M'NEELY IS ARRESTED

Charged With Aiding Harold Gilbert in Blackmail.

TAKEN TO COBOURG.

Mrs. Edith McNeely was arrested yesterday afternoon by Provincial Constable Norman F. Maker on two charges of aiding and abetting Harold Gilbert in blackmail. She was taken by Provincial Constable T. W. Cousans on the 9.10 Canadian National train to Cobourg where she will stand trial for the alleged offence.

Gilbert was tried in Cobourg on March 15 on three charges of blackmail and was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment.

He was convicted of extorting money from three Millbrook residents under threats of Ku Klux Klan exposure, being an ex-organizer in this district.

IN POLICE COURT.

The proceedings of the police court this morning were especially noted in the number of remands for a week or less.

The police department has been making a raid on loiterers on the streets late at night and several of these were up this morning and remanded for a week on bail.

One young man appeared before the court charged with being a nuisance on the street. He took the matter as a joke and as the crown was not able to go on with the case, he was remanded for a week.

A drug addict appeared and was let go on suspended sentence.

A local man was up for keeping a common gaming house in Victoria Hall and was remanded for a week.

Another man was up for writing a forged and fake letter to a lady in this city, and as his lawyer was unable to go on with the case he was also remanded for a week.

NURSING CLASS FINAL EXERCISES

Certificates Presented To Those Who Took Course.

ADDRESSES GIVEN.

There was a good attendance last evening in the auditorium of the Public Library, for the closing exercies of the classes in Red Cross Home Nursing Work, which have been conducted here during the winter months. An interesting lecture, illustrated by colored charts and lantern slides, on "The Care of the Teeth," was given by Dr. S J. Graham under the auspices of the Peterborough Dental Society, and Mr. Harry Beal also gave some pointers on resuscitation work, with a demonstration later of proper methods, for which Dr. A. W. McPherson, who acted as chairman, consented to be the subject.

Nine classes in Home Nursing work, with ninety-nine members enrolled, have been conducted in the city during the winter, by Miss M. G. Colborne of Toronto. Several of the class members, in white uniforms, acted as ushers last evening. Presentation of certificates was the first item on the programme.

Dr. Graham's address was interesting and informative and presented in clear, concise fashion. He spoke of the research work which had proven conclusively that dental disease was the cause of much systemic disturbance, and of the evils, including neuralgia neuritis, arthritis, rheumatism, indigestion, tuberculosis and even cancer, that result from neglected and decayed teeth.

An outline of the general uses of the teeth was given, also a description of the various diseases which attack them, including caries, or decay, the hard plaque which forms and preserves the destroying bacteria beneath, "pulpitis" or toothache, dental abscesses and pyorrhea.

Some of the causes leading up to dental troubles were listed as a lack of balanced acclusion, or a wrong fitting of the teeth together in upper and lower jaws, bad habits of mastication, such as bolting the food and chewing only on one side, a faulty use of the toothpick allows ance of hard, limy deposits collecting about the necks of the teeth, poor food and lack of exercise. Abscesses at the roots pour poison into the blood-stream and irritation of the tongue from old roots often leads to cancer. Affections of the eyes, antrim and ear are often the direct result of diseased teeth. Regular inspections are necessary to discover small cavities and correction of such faults in children as breathing through the mouth, thumb sucking, improper mastication and chewing on one side only. A well-balanced diet is necessary, with small amounts of sugars and carbo-hydrates.

"The best toothbrush in the world is the thorough mastication of hard food," said the speaker, who went on to give a description of the best method of brushing the teeth, using a small brush with uneven bristles. "But exercise and play, fresh air and sunshine are very necessary, because good health makes for good teeth, and good teeth in turn make for good health. And don't forget to smile."

Slides from the Department of Health were then shown, depicting tooth affections of different types and showing just what vitamines are to be obtained from proper foods.

CHARGE HE TRIED TO DROWN CHILD

Detroit Man and Wife Held By Police.

DETROIT, Mich., March 31.—Following the charge by seven-year-old Mary Rose Gaile that he attempted to drown her by throwing her into the Detroit river, Fred B. Cody, aged 50, is being held by the police. His wife, also 50 years of age, is detained as a witness. The child, who is in hospital suffering from shock and exposure, told a police sergeant after being picked up on Belle Isle that she had been driven with Cody and his wife in a motor car to Belle Isle last night. She charged that Cody, without warning, picked her up and carried her into the water, to throw her in. She found she could touch bottom and waded ashore, the girl said.

Mrs. Cody, who left the motor while her husband was carrying Mary, said her husband was intoxicated at the time. The girl has boarded with the couple for two years.

Properties

Thirty 40-acre claims, 1200 acres approximately in one compact block, comprise the properties acquired by DUNLOP RED LAKE SYNDICATE, LIMITED. It is to the best of our knowledge the largest single group located on the main "break." These claims were carefully selected by Major C. J. A. Cunningham-Dunlop after a personal inspection of the area.

Major Dunlop, until having resigned recently to personally take charge of the Dunlop Red Lake Syndicate work, has been employed in responsible capacity by the Coniagas Mines of Cobalt for twenty-one years. For several years he has been in charge of field work for this company. Major Dunlop stands high in his profession for integrity, ability and unusually keen insight into the possibilities of mines in a raw state.

Major Dunlop's Statement

"These claims were all staked by myself following the easterly strike of the discovery (Howey), after carefully exploring the section of the country in which they are located. Rock exposures are frequent over the entire area. The presence of quartz-porphyry intrusions in the prevailing Keewatin (greenstones), together with masses of sediments, make an ideal condition for exploring for gold.

"While time did not permit of any systematic prospecting, nevertheless outcroppings of mineralized schist carrying quartz veins were encountered in a number of places.

"I am of the opinion that exploration of these claims is amply justified by the nature of the Howey Red Lake discovery, together with geological conditions prevailing upon them, and confidently believe that efficient effort will be crowned with success."

Major Dunlop and his associates, original owners of the Dunlop Red Lake Syndicate properties, show their faith in the venture by having entered into an agreement to transfer their properties to the Dunlop Red Lake Syndicate, Limited, in exchange for shares in this company.

The purchase of these shares DOES NOT INVOLVE PERSONAL LIABILITY to the purchaser or holder.

Purpose of Issue

The present offering of shares in Dunlop Red Lake Syndicate, Limited, is for the purpose of securing working capital to commence vigorous exploring of the claims as soon as practicable after the break-up, and to develop discoveries made. The completion of this offering will provide the company with adequate funds for this purpose.

Major Dunlop will be personally in charge of the work to be done on the properties. The calibre of the men at the head of this undertaking guarantees honest, business-like handling of the syndicate's affairs.

From the selecting of the claims right through the incorporation of the Dunlop Red Lake Syndicate (to avoid the objectionable personal liability phase), extreme care has been exercised in every particular to eliminate all avoidable hazards, every risk not inseparably associated with all mining ventures. In this company we believe the hazards involved have been reduced to the minimum.

The properties acquired by the DUNLOP RED LAKE SYNDICATE, LIMITED, are large, are favorably located on the strike of the ore zone, have correct geology, and were carefully chosen by an expert. The company's management is high class, its financing assured. The shares are non-assessable, do not carry personal liability and represent a speculation of unusual merit and money-making possibilities.

We offer the unsold portion of our allotment of shares in the Dunlop Red Lake Syndicate, Limited, for a limited time at $30 each, no par value.

Copy of the Statutory prospectus as filed with the Provincial Secretary may be inspected at our office and will be sent forward to each applicant for shares.

Finished in tie for fourth with Blankenship of White Sox in earned runs per game last season. Won 16, lost 11.

He copped 21 games and lost 13 in 1923, being one of the few pitchers to get into the "double-decade" class.

The most victories he ever won in a single season was 23 in 1915. He lost 13 that year.

In 1924 permitted but 40 bases on balls in the same number of games, one to the fracas.

Pitched four-hit game against Yankees last season. Only two shut-outs were turned in by Detroit hurlers in 1925. Dauss got one.

RUTH STILL GREAT BALL ATTRACTION

Barnstorming Trips Proved Popularity of Bimbo.

NEW YORK, March 31 (Canadian Press).—The decline in Babe Ruth's hitting last year, a slump from which he has only partially recovered this spring despite rigorous winter training, has not apparently impaired the Yankee star's standing as baseball's greatest drawing card.

Barnstorming trips of the New York American in the south have indicated that interest of fandom runs as high in the erstwhile champion as in the days when he was shattering extra base hit records.

Te big question of the training belt has been: "Will Ruth regain his home run laurels, or has he passed the peak of his greatness?

Now thirty-two years old, the Babe has entered into his comeback drive with an enthusiasm which has had an inspiring effect on the whole team. But home run drives have caromed of his mighty willow with less frequency than in former years, and his batting average has not expanded—probably, says President Ruppert, because he is trying too hard.

BERLENBACH IS REFUSED FIGHT

Must Meet Jack Delaney Before Return With Risko.

NEW YORK, March 31 (Canadian Press) — The state athletic commission yesterday refused permission to Paul Berlenbach, world's light heavyweight champion, to fight Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavy weight, in a return match. In defending its edict, the commission said it would follow its policy to force champions to fight in their own class, and pointed to Jack Delaney, the Canadian, as a logical opponent, "if Berlenbach is looking for action."

Risko recently scored a decisive point victory over Berlenbach.

Jess McMahon, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, said that attempts will be made to sign Risko for a match with George Carpentier, the French light heavyweight, who is in this country looking for matches. In the event Carpentier is unwilling to meet Risko, McMahon said Jack Delaney or Paul Berlenbach will be offered as opponents.

Scotty Monteith, one of the managers of Louis (Kid) Kaplan, world's featherweight champion, was reinstated by the commission when he appeared to answer charges filed by the Montreal commission that Kaplan had refused to carry out a contract to meet Kid Roy, the Canadian featherweight champion, November 14, 1925. Monteith was suspended last week when he failed to answer a summons. He told the commission that a new contract for a future match has been signed and the board elected to drop the affair.

Rickard's Plans

Despite the arbitrary edict of the state athletic commission that Harry Wills, negro challenger, must be given consideration in any heavyweight program involving the world's title, Tex Rickard yesterday continued to lay plans for a championship match between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.

The veil of mystery surrounding these plans, temporarily lifted Monday when Rickard signed Tunney to a blanket contract to fight any opponent, fell over the situation again yesterday when it was reported that the promoter had received a communication from Dempsey, presumably about the Tunney match.

Questioned by the state athletic commission about the contract signed by Tunney Monday, Jess McMahon, Rickard's matchmaker, admitted that Tunney signed a blank contract, but added that "it didn't mean anything."

Meanwhile Rickard was closeted with Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankee stadium in an effort to lease the boxing rights to the stadium for the summer season.

SOCCER SMUGGLING PLAN IS ALLEGED

Scheme Report To Send Stars To U. S. Clubs.

ST. ALBANS, Vt., March 31 (Canadian Press).—An alleged plan of a Montreal citizen to smuggle foreign soccer stars over the international border and bring them to New York to play for a professional team he operates in the latter city, was revealed by the immigration authorities here yesterday. At the United States immigration offices, it was announced that Maurice Van De Weghe, who lives at 327 Legauchetiere Street West, Montreal, and operates the New York Giant soccer club, was taken from a Montreal-Washington express train at this city several days ago and placed under arrest.

The authorities were reticent in discussion of De Weghe's case and would not divulge the workings of the alleged conspiracy. The Montreal man was taken into custody on a charge of smuggling foreigners into the United States and last Saturday was arraigned before Commissioner C. D. Watson. De Weghe was released on $2,500 bail and must appear in the United States district court for the Northern New York area. The date for the re-hearing could not be learned.

The New York Giant team is one of the leading soccer elevens in the eastern states.

HYDRO TEAM WIN FROM COMBINES

Campbellford Champions Defeated Picked Team of Clerks and Outlaws.

SCORE WAS 7-6.

CAMPBELLFORD, March 31.—The champion Hydro team assisted by the two Junior stars, Ingram and Reynolds, won an exhibition game from a combination of Clerks and Outlaws, 7 to 6, at Covert's Arena Monday night. The entire proceeds went to players who were injured during the regular schedule.

It was a smart exhibition of hockey by two clever teams, and the fans were delighted with the gingery affair. Despite the number of goals that were scored on them both Saunders and Stewart performed in sensational style in the nets for their respective teams. Both defences were sparing with the heavy stuff, and opposing forwards repeatedly got in close for shots, only to be outguessed by Saunders and Stewart.

The Combines' original front line, of Parsons, Wood and Blue, went big all night, and whenever the three were out there together, the Combines had the better of the argument. Johnston was the big noise for the Hydro and scored two goals on clever individual efforts. Cowell was right on in his shooting and got three of the Hydro tallies, but was inclined to loaf and let the other fellow do the checking. Ingram and Reynolds added strength to the Hydro machine and each scored a goal. Ingram's coming after a ring length rush. Parsons and Blue each got a pair for the Combines, and Wood and McArthur one each.

Nothing but a pennant will satisfy Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics this year.

The tall leader of the Athletics doesn't take to heart the manner in which the Athletics exploded last year when all the experts had picked them to win.

"I feared such a happening," said Mack recently in discussing the failure of his club last year after a great showing up to the home stretch.

"The team simply didn't believe strongly enough in itself. Finishing in the cellar for so many years had a psychological influence that handicapped the club severly when the crisis came. It will profit as a result of that sad experience.

"I don't think we can be stopped in 1926."

OPEN MEETING OF LAKEFIELD W.M.S.

Regent Street United Ladies Heard Address on

LAKEFIELD, Mar. 30.—The W.M.S. of the Regent street church held an open meeting in the church basement on Thursday afternoon with the President, Mrs. S. A. Kemp, in the Chair, conducting the opening exercises which consisted of hymns, Scripture reading and prayers. Mrs. P. L. Jull and Mrs. S. Hunter led in prayer. Mrs. Wagar presided at the piano. A ladies' quartette, composed of Mrs. F. H. Richardson, Mrs. McMillen, Mrs. H. Girven and Mrs. W. Hamblin gave a selection which was excellently rendered and much appreciated. Mrs. H. E. Moore was the accompanist.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Coone, of Peterboro', who, with her late husband, and family occupied the parsonage about twelve years ago for the term of Mr. Coone's pastorate.

Mrs. Coone was warmly welcomed back by many old friends and expressed pleasure at seeing so many loved ones again. Mrs. Coone gave an interesting talk on mission work in China, where her daughter, Miss Marion Coone, is a missionary. Mrs. Coone spoke of the first meeting of the kind she attended, when in 1890, as a young bride, she attended a gathering to say farewell to Dr. and Mrs. Kilbourne, who were about to leave for China as missionaries of the Methodist Church. Dr. Hart was already there working and together they engaged in the task which was rendered more difficult because it was very hard to gain access to the homes so they appealed to the W.M.S. and other lady missionaries were sent, and the work grew apace till it reached its present splendid proportions.

Shanghai was the port at which the missionaries landed and then they journeyed by steamer up the Yangtse river. This trip is beautiful, the scenery being similar to the Rocky mountains, but even grander. When the first missionaries made the trip it was very hard as only small boats were used, but now there are comfortable steamers. There are many dangerous rapids on the way to Chung King, where Miss Coone is in charge of a girls' school. Chung Tcheu and Chung King were the headquarters of the first Methodist missions and now when the Methodist Church has gone into the United Church, the South China Missions and other posts are united with the work in the province of SiChuan and a larger field has resulted for which the United Church is responsible.

Chung King is known as the city of steps, and swear words. It is called the Liverpool of China, and is a busy commercial city where many foreign merchants have establishments, but there is no modern water system and only the crudest sanitary arrangements. The Margaret Brooks School is built in the highest part of the city, away from the dust and the smells, and consists of four floors with balconies across the front, and accommodates one hundred girls. This school has been erected since Miss Coone went to China. The girls take an active interest in the Forward Movement work in China and each week try to put away something towards it. Since the war the cost of living has increased greatly in China and has made things much more difficult in that vast country of 400 millions. The province of SiChuan is about the size of Ontario and has the same population as the United States. The land is very fertile and agriculture profitable which enables the people to live. Many of the farms are only a quarter of an acre in extent, but at least two crops can be taken in a year and sometimes even four. There are rich deposits of salt and oil, also in the province. For the past fourteen years China has been seething with unrest and the strife between North and South has kept things stirred up. There has been no stable government and the country is over-run with prowling bandits.

The foreign merchants in Chung King are not all of the best type, and have done a great deal to offset the work of the missionaries.

In this country of incredibly low wages there is a great deal of child labor used as there is now a great number of factories. These factories work fifteen hours a day and the best workers get no more than 15 cents a month.

Girls in the mission schools are trained in all kinds of needlework and in household science. Civilization has gone into China faster than Christianity, and if China does not soon become a Christian nation it will be in the position of Japan.

There is a great dislike of foreigners in China but not for missionaries, who are always respected. Miss Coone last summer had a remarkable adventure on her return from the mountains where she spent the summer vacation, at Chung King, with several other missionaries she had a very adventurous journey, but they received invariable kindness from the soldiers and when, after a long delay, she returned to the Margaret Brookes School, it had not been molested, although an army had invaded and occupied the city and had pillaged the property of many citizens.

Mr. Googan, of Montreal, gave a very illuminating address last year at the Conference at Belleville, pointing out that the yellow peril is a real danger if Christians do not seize their opportunities to make Christians of these people. Overcrowded as they are, they are turning longing eyes to America. The Mission Board has provided an excellent system of schools from Kindergarten to Normal schools and colleges.

Miss Coone is now on her way home on furlough and before she left the girls of the school gave an entertainment in her honor, composing the songs and also a little play. She leaves there with regret but will be glad to get back to Canada again with its clean streets.

Misses May and Emily Payne sang a duet—"What will you take for me, papa," singing very sweetly.

Mrs. W. W. Leonard moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Coone for her interesting and instructive address, and Mrs. J. H. Sherin seconded it. The thankoffering amounted to $60.55, which will be augmented by the offerings of a number of the ladies who were unable to be present at the meeting.

A cup of tea was served, and the ladies spent a social hour with the members of the other missionary societies, who were their guests.

VAN ALLEN HAS SOLD PROPERTY

Stirling Man Moving To Allan Farm Near Warkworth.

STIRLING NEWS.

STIRLING, March 31—Another change in real estate has taken place. Thomas Branston has purchased the property of Charles Van Allen at the east end of the village and intends going into chicken raising on an extensive scale, as he has had some experience in this business no doubt he will make a success of it. Mr. VanAllen has purchased a large farm, "The Allan Farm," about a mile from Warkworth on the road towards Hastings, and will go into general farming. Each will take possession of his property in a few days.

The water in Rawdon creek assumed the proportions of a raging river last week but is subsiding some the past few days.

James Ryan who had been a resident of the seventh concession of Sidney near Holloway, for a number of years passed away on Tuesday of last week. Mr. Ryan was injured while working in the woods early in the winter pneumonia developed and caused his death. He was born in Rawdon township seventy years ago. The funeral was held in St. James' Catholic Church with a large attendance of neighbors and friends.

Several of those who make maple syrup have tapped their bushes but the run of sap has not been very extensive yet, on account of the snow in the woods and too cold weather.

Rebuilding House

Mr. Samuel Bedshaw whose house was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago has begun to rebuild. W. Wannamaker is the carpenter in charge of the work.

The taxes of Stirling have not been collected quite as well as those of Warkworth but there is only a little over $100.00 of the $20,000.00 on the roll left to be collected of the Stirling taxes.

The sale of homemade cooking under the auspices of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Mission Band in the Agricultural Rooms on Friday last realized over $30.00.

Personals

Mrs. Lena Mosher and daughter Annie returned to town last week after spending the winter with relatives in Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lagrow were in Buffalo last week on account of the illness of Mrs. Lagrow's mother, who has since passed away.

Bertha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cranston, was taken to Belleville on Monday afternoon to be operated on for appendicitis.

Miss Elsie Hume of Burnbrae was a week-end guest of her aunt, Miss Hume.

Miss Ida Marshall of MacDonald College, Guelph, is spending her holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Marshall.

Mr. Thomas Montgomery, Sr., visited his sister, Mrs. Elliott, in Toronto last week.

Mrs. Clayton Tucker has gone to Belleville General Hospital for treatment.

Reeve C. B. McGuire, ex-warden Thomas Montgomery and Lindsay Meiklejohn of Stirling accompanied a deputation of the members of the Hastings County Advisory Agricultural Council, and others, to Toronto last week, to interview the Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, at the parliament buildings regarding the establishing of an agricultural school in Hastings county. They are well satisfied with the Minister answer as there is a probability the erection of such a school in this county.

ALL FOOLDAY JOKE READY

One of Biggest Hoaxes Was in 1860 Planted in England

HERE TOMORROW.

April Fool Day chronicle the usual number of hoaxes in Peterboro and vicinity, elsewhere in many quarters of the globe. It is usually the boys who indulge in this pastime, although many grown-ups have enough of the spirit of youth to take advantage of the occasion at the expense of others.

It is generally considered that the custom originated in France and it is certain that England did not adopt it until a later period. However, even that is a long time ago, for Swift in his Journal enters under date of March 31st, 1713, the announcement that Mr. Arbuthnot and Lady Masham had been amusing themselves that morning by contriving "a lie for the morrow."

One of the biggest hoaxes ever pulled off in the land on April 1, 1860, was the sending to a multitude of people an invitation, headed, "Tower of London," and containing this notice:

"Admit the bearer and friend to view the annual ceremony of washing the white lions Sunday, April 1. Admitted at the white gate. It is particularly requested that no gratuities be given to the warders or their assistants."

The trick proved highly successful and cabs were rattling about Tower Hill all the Sunday morning, vainly endeavoring to discover the white gate, while many pedestrians were also free on a similar mission.

In Scotland the custom has been known as "Hunting the Gowk" (cuckoo) and the lines were written:

"This is the first day of April,
Hunt the Gowk another mile."

Whatever the origin the fact remains that April Fool Day is a well established custom, likely to continue indefinitely. It is inexpensive, except as to feelings, and acts as a vent to spring time exuberance.

VOICE OF TE PEOPLE.

To Sporting Editor of Evening Examiner:

Dear Sir: Re Fowler Cup, which has not been heard of yet, allow me to ask has the Bawn Cup also taken its departure, as it seems it has not been handed over to the winners—the DeLaval Hkey Club? What a shame to have trophies disappear so suddenly. Let the person who is holding them be sport enough to hand them over. They don't belong to any individual. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space.

JOH CREIGHTON.

Who Is Your Favorite?

Boys! Here's your chance!

Here's a competition you can all get in.

Write two hundred words about your favorite player on the Peterborough Senior Hockey Team, Champions of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The prize winner will be the guest of The Examiner at the banquet to be given to the team in recognition of its splendid work this season.

This is the idea. The Petes have brought to this city the first Senior Championship it has ever had. They deserve all kinds of credit. Every boy on the team did his share. But you have your favorite—maybe you think he plays smarter hockey than the others; or he may skate better; or he may be merely good looking. Whatever your reason, write it out in not more than 200 words, and send it to "The Contest Editor, The Examiner" observing these simple rules:

(1) Open only to boys of 17 or under.

(2) Accuracy, penmanship, composition and neatness count.

(3) Contest closes at midnight, April 3.

(4) Pictures of the players will be run every day, without names. Clip out the picture of your favorite and paste it on a sheet of paper with his name written carefully under it. Pin this to your 200 word story or essay.

(5) A coupon, properly filled in and signed by a parent or guardian, must accompany every entry.

A committee of prominent citizens will be asked to decide the winner, and in case of dispute the Editor's decision will be final.

The date of the banquet is April 15.

Clip out this Coupon and attach it to your essay.

LIPTON TO ISSUE NEW CHALLENGE

Will Try Again Next Year To Capture American Trophy.

SAILS FOR NEW YORK.

SOUTHAMPTON, March 31. — (Canadian Press.) — Sir Thomas Lipton will issue a challenge for a race for the America cup to be held next year. Sir Thomas, who sailed for New York on the Leviathan, announced that it was his intention to try again for the world famous yachting trophy.

HOPPE LEADING

NEW YORK, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Willie Hoppe, defending his title as 18.1 balkline billiard champion, regained the lead in his 3,600 point title match with Jake Schaefer of Chicago, by winning the third block yesterday, 356 to 215. The spurt gave Hoppe an advantage of 85 points, 900 to 815.

Entering the block at a disadvantage of 56 caroms, Hoppe proceeded to wipe out the margin in his first turn at the table, when he posted a high run of 120. From that point on he was not headed by the challenger, whose best string was 66 in the fourth inning.

HELPFUL HINTS BY GOLFING STARS

By Special Arrangement With Colliers' Magazine.

WALTER HAGEN—USELESS PRACTICE SWING

Many amateurs make a practice swing before hitting the ball, but few, if any, of the pros do it.

The practice swing is, of course, made in the way of preparation. One has certain things that he intends to do and to rehearse the swing beforehand. It is not a bad idea for the beginner, but I don't think it helps the star player a great deal.

Then there is the daisy clipper. Hitting at a daisy and knocking its head off is an ancient custom, probably invented at the same time or shortly after the golf club, if, indeed, there were any daisies at that time to grace the golf course.

Many a golfer before leaving the first tee can step nearby to a daisy patch and everlastingly knock the heads off every one he aims at with neatness and precision, exhibiting a loose and relaxed swing and a perfect follow-through then he can go back to the tee, stiffen up in his back swing, make an awkward lunge at the ball and half miss it.

Wonderful what a great change the effect of the little white ball has on us, compared to the daisy, or any other mark that we practice on.

HOLD OUT SIGNS

PHILADELPHIA, March 31 (Canadian Press).—The signed contract of George Harper, slugging outfielder of the Philadelphia National League team, was received at the club's offices yesterday. He will join the Phillies in the south. This leaves Catcher "Butch" Henline as the only holdout of the club.

WELLS PRODIGIOUS WRITER

H. G. Wells, the famous British writer, is a hard worker. On some days he will write 10,000 words, which amounts to more than nine columns of ordinary newspaper type. On the other hand Sir James Barrie considers he has done a day's work if he write 500 words. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle is reputed to have heard a story one evening at dinner and the next day at breakfast to have produced a "Sherlock Holmes" tale with the incident as the chief plot. He had written the complete story that night.

Easter Greetings to Our Patrons and Friends

The ORACLE

This day we fashion Destiny, our web of Fate we spin. —Whittier.

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute. —Milton.

B. H. Mc.: Although you have quite a feminine nature, peace-loving and affectionate, there are times when you are somewhat cruel to those who cannot keep pace with you. You have your own individual way of doing things and cannot comprehend the mentality of those who do not see eye to eye with you in these methods. You are impulsive and were born busy, liking to keep busy under all circumstances. You have a strong leaning toward commercial life, and should make a success in it, providing you do not allow details of daily routine to clutter up your mind and retard your advancement. You are of the type that is liable to consider the dotting of your i's as of much more moment than the getting out of a balance sheet on time, and little bits of minor matters will confuse your days in business, if you do not strive to keep your mind free from worry. Take up the study of music as a sideline and once your day's work is done, forget it absolutely. Rushing matters will bring on nervous prostration in time, if not controlled. Study yourself well, strive for calmness and repose, and cultivate the faculty of not seeing little things that annoy. Forget worry, anger and jealousy. Self-control will do much for you, but a lack of it will mar your life in time, and you will wake up at thirty to find a number of wasted, bitter years behind you. You have a strong individuality. Make it serve you well. Marry a man born in April, August or November. You were born on Tuesday. The day you ask about is past. Your colors are gold and white.

M. J. F.: You are of the type which has a double nature, and must constantly watch that the higher elements are in power, in order to achieve success. You were born with a peace-loving, gentle disposition, but you are always rather nervous and dissatisfied, constantly wishing to have done the thing that you have not done, and to be away somewhere, you do not know just where. The green fields that look so fresh to you are not any more verdant in reality than the grass in your own door-yard, do not forget that as you go through life, for you can mar many things for yourself by this propensity to unrest and dissatisfaction. The destiny mapped out for you is one in which you bring joy to yourself by bringing happiness to the lives of others. To do this, you must conquer this restlessness and must fight every minute against an inborn tendency to nag, whine and scold, these traits being particularly noticeable when you are ill. You must always take great care of your health, because you are extremely unlikeable when sick. Cultivate trust, and confidence in your associates and moderation in your own actions and work. Learn silence and its values and patience, try to keep your hands and feet still and try always to finish one task before beginning another. Do not criticize and be more careful of money. You were born on Friday. Your colors are orange and grey.

L. V. H.: Although you were born under a star that indicates much real hard work and a good deal of physical strength in carrying this out, your manifest destiny is a cheerful one, demanding that you achieve joy and happiness for yourself by always being joyful and happy where others are concerned. The more cheer you bring into life for those about you, the more you will gain for yourself. Do not work too hard. You have an interesting personality, and a good deal of aptitude in judging human nature. You are a good mixer and like attending public ceremonies of all types. In conversation, you have a habit of entering absolutely into the views of those you are with and they consequently look upon you as a person of much discernment and common sense. Learn to be self-reliant and study how to concentrate. You may suffer in learning one lesson from life, but, once learned, you will never forget it, and that is, that perfect honesty and truthfulness are necessary to the characters of great men and women. Marry a man born in October, January or June. You were born on Tuesday. Your colors are cream and silver.

Ramoni: You have already been given a reading, and will understand that there are many who are waiting patiently for an answer, so more than one reading to each person cannot be given. You ask about a career. You are not naturally studious, but learn readily by observation and have the faculty of mastering and accomplishing almost anything you put your mind to. A habit of giving way to emotion and impulse is indicated in your reading. As you are inclined to do things in your own way, and are fond of planning for others, but do not like detail work, you will not be especially adapted for certain positions where you would be under the authority of others. Although you have respect for law and authority, you do not like to be commanded. You would make an ideal home-maker. As you are adapted for a position of trust and responsibility in any kind of retail business, I think you had better stay right where you are, for the present at least. You will find it easier having a hand in matters as you do now than working under anyone else in a different position. Look about you in your present work and seize upon every opportunity for improving conditions. You can do much in your present position, if you try. Do not find fault with others. There never was but one perfect Person in the world. If you must find fault, go and look in the mirror.

A. V. C. M.: You have a strong, highly developed nature, well equipped to understanding and sympathy. You are of the type of whom much is expected and whose failure to live up to expectations is not easily forgiven. You are economical, industrious and provident, and make a model husband, being thoroughly devoted to the interests of your home and family. You are ests of your home and family. You are saving in your disposition and this will lead you to being penurious in later life, if you do not watch out. You are easily hurt by unkindness and are sensitive to the mental and physical condition of others about you. You have strong likes and dislikes in the choice of companions, being rather changeable in this respect. You are very steadfast and devoted to intimate friends, however. You are determined in your opinions, and are not easily forced out of a conclusion which you have arrived at. You are fond of reading novels and historical works. You are not much of a talker, being rather reserved and dignified, and the questions of those about you sometimes bore you. You regard them as unnecessary. You were born on Tuesday. The day you ask about, a Saturday, is one for quiet meditation. Do not force your hand on this day and let things take their course. Don't worry. Your colors are red and brown.

By JOE WILLIAMS.

The old ring adage, that "they don't come back," was never more ruthlessly applied than to the case of old Jim Jeffries when he tried to bring the heavyweight title back to the white race at Reno, Nev., July 4, 1910.

Jeff had been out of the ring since he voluntarily relinquished his title to Marvin Hart seven years before. Friends persuaded him to come back when Jack Johnson brought the negro race its only heavyweight title by knocking out Tommy Burns, who had previously taken the title from Hart.

Boxing men really believed big Jeff could put the negro battler down. The halo of the white man's great ring career during which he had won 22 championship fights without once [illegible] to his knees, still [illegible] him [illegible] strength was prodigious. Few fighters had been able to resist his wrestling tactics and his great left hand pushed out like a battering ram.

But it didn't take many rounds for ring experts to see Jeff was only a shell of the fighter of seven years before. He used none of his short, bull-like rushes; none of his trip-hammer blows to the body.

Johnson entered the ring entertaining a wholesome fear of Jeffries' famed left. He had worked out his own system of defense for it. He laid his right glove on Jeff's left forearm and kept it there virtually throughout the fight.

As early as the sixth round the crowd sensed the passing of Jeffries. The negro's persistent left, [illegible] Jeff's face ashen, [illegible] and closed his right eye.

Johnson's confidence increased as Jeffries grew weaker. He accompanied his blows with sneers.

"Old man, it's all over but the shoutin'," he told Jeffries.

That came in the fifteenth round, but it was almost as tumultuous for the game white man, standing up under a merciless beating, as for the victorious champion.

Jeffries went into a clinch. He looked terribly tired. His right eye was closed to a slit, his left swollen, his nose split and his lips bloody. Johnson broke from the clinch as Jeff backed toward the ropes, and, at the same instant, drove his right to Jeff's body and his left to the chin.

Jeff's hands dropped to his sides; he slowly collapsed to a sitting position. He tried to rise and fell over backward, half in and half out of the ring.

The arena was in an uproar. Jim Corbett, his face ashen, sat speechless in Jeffries' corner. John L. Sullivan jumped to his feet on the opposite side of the rink. These old fighters have "taken it" themselves. They could see the end.

Jeffries was pushed back into the ring. Johnson stepped in deliberately and smashed him on the jaw with a right and left. Jeff went down again.

The crowd began to yell to Referee Tex Rickard: "Stop it! Stop it!" Tex himself was yelling, but Johnson was too engrossed in the business before him to pay attention. He waited for Jeff to lumber to his feet, then began mauling him across the ring. Corbett came running beside the ring with outstretched arms, shouting, "Go back! Don't hit him! Don't put the old fellow out!"

Johnson never hesitated. He beat down Jeffries' pitiful defense and planted a right smash and two left hooks to the jaw. Jeff went down for the third time. He was trying to get up when Tex raised Johnson's arm, stopping the fight.

MAROON TAKE FIRST CUP GAME

Defeated Victoria Cougars 3-0 Playing Under Eastern Rules.

ANDERSON HURT.

MONTREAL, March 31 Canadian Press. — Montreal Maroons, champions of the National Hockey League, drew first blood in the battle for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world's professional hockey championship, here last night, when they defeated the Victoria Cougars by the score of 3 to 0 in the first game of the five game series.

The game was played under eastern rules and this to some extent handicapped the Cougars. Western rules will prevail in the next encounter on Thursday night, and so on until the series ends.

A serious injury to Anderson which may put him out of the game for good was suffered in secnd frame when he collided with Siebert and fractured his hip.

Montreal acquired two of the goals in the first frame and the third in the final session.

EUGENIE USED CANAL FIRST

The Empress Eugenie of France was of the first passengers taken through the Suez canal when it was officially opened to traffic in 1869. She was aboard the first vessel passed through. Disraeli's purchase of the shares in the Suez canal which had been held by the Khedive of Egypt, on November 25, 1875, was considered his boldest and timeliest stroke. By this move Great Britain's position in Egypt and the Near East was greatly strengthened. Not only was France curbed but the British nation received an investment that has more than quadrupled in capital value during the fifty years that have elapsed.

He encourages the attentions of rich Dr. Franklin (Nigel Barrie) which flatter Patsy and madden poor Lefty. The lovers quarrel on account of Patsy's new interests and the girl goes to spend a week-end with Franklin. He manages to lose her father, who had also been invited, and kidnaps Patsy. TOM MIX AS FIGHTING "COP" BRINGS GRIEF TO GANGSTERS AND JOY TO TINY SUFFERER

Gerald Beaumont's Famous Story, "The Gallant Guardsman," Is Adapted as "My Own Pal," and Gives Big Western Ace Rare Chance to Prove He Knows What to Do With Patrolman's Mace

To Mix, Fox Films Western star, is supported by an exceptional cast in "My Own Pal," his latest production which opens at the Capitol theatre tomorrow.

Mr. Mix is cast as Tom O'Hara in this picture—an Irishman who deserts the ranch to become a member of the mounted police force while searching for adventure in a big city. He finds plenty of adventure going, coming, and even while simply resting in town.

Vivacious Olive Borden, who created such a sensation by her work opposite Mr. Mix in "The Yankee Senor," plays the role of Alice Deering, niece of the chief of police. She is a lively and thoroughly modern young woman who causes her uncle no end of worry.

Tom Santschi, veteran of the screen, is her "Uncle August," who gives Tom his chance on the police force because that gallant has saved his niece's life in a runaway. And for once Mr. Santschi is required only to look dignified and show his ability as an actor through motions and expressions instead of fighting—although the picture has more than one thrilling battle.

Little Virginia Marshall has an unusually strong part. She is Jill, the little circus waif whom Tom first rescues and then adopts. She is quaint in her part and her mimicry of Tom's favorite poses and most noticeable traits are laughable.

Bardson Bard, the villain is a newcomer to the screen. He is well known in vaudeville through his successful tours of the Orpheum circuit and has made a real part of his first role in the motion pictures.

Others in the cast are Tom McGuire, the stern old police captain, Helen Lynch, the vamp of the piece, and Jacques Rollens, who gives a very clear characterization.

The picture was adapted from an original story "The Gallant Guardsman," by Gerald Beaumont, and directed for Fox Films by J. G. Blystone.

GRIPPING SITUATIONS IN MIX POLICE STORY

Some of the most gripping situations ever incorporated in a Western thriller were photographed by J. G. Blystone for "My Own Pal," Fox Film version of Gerald Beaumont's stirring tale of police life in a big city. This film opens a three day's engagement at the Capitol tomorrow.

Tom Mix is cast as a fighting member of the mounted— and he battles to save a tiny child—thus winning the love of beautiful Olive Borden. The cast includes Tom Santschi, Jay Hunt, Virginia Marshall, Bardson Bard and others.

HUMANE SOCIETY EXECUTIVE MEETS

Committees Named To Look After Work on Tag Day.

The regular executive meeting of the Peterborough Humane Society was held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce, with the president, Col. C. H. Ackerman, presiding. Inspector R. C. Smith read a lengthy and very interesting report of his activities during the past month.

A letter was read from L. J. Rogers, chemistry and mining building, Toronto, regarding the analysis of a cow's stomach which was sent to him. He reported that no poison was found but pieces of iron, which were enclosed in the letter, were found, which might cause poisoning.

The treasurer's report was read and showed a balance of $242.48 in the bank.

A fee of 50c. each for humane killing of cats and dogs, and $1.00 for a horse, will be charge by the society until further notice, and the same to be paid to the inspector at time of the disposal of such animal. The society feels a remuneration such as this should be forthcoming and will aid in carrying on the work. It was further decided that no horse should be brought from the country to the city incinerator to be destroyed, but that the Inspector would do this on property of owner, as the country has a scavenger system of its own.

The remaining portion of the meeting was devoted to Tag Day being held on Easter Saturday, April 3rd. The headquarters are to be at 440 George St. and will be open Thursday evening at seven o'clock; also all day Saturday. Interesting literature will be given out to those interested. A committee was formed to carry out suitable decorating for windows and also to deliver violet rosettes, which have been made for horses to wear on that day. A committee was also formed to make full arrangements regarding three Newfoundland dog taggers.

Peterborough Humane Society report for the month of March:

Horses examined, 26; Horses, humanely destroyed, 2; Dogs brought to shelter, 2; Dogs humanely destroyed, 3; Dogs placed in homes, 1; Cats humanely destroyed, 6; Complaints investigated, 14; Warnings issued, 13; Stables inspected, 6. R. C. Smith, inspector.

FERGUSON WILL SUBMIT TO THE PEOPLE ANY AMENDMENT TO O.T.A. AND ABIDE BY THEIR DECISION

Adjourned Debate on J. A. Pinard's 10 Per Cent. Beer Bill.

PREMIER'S POLICY.

Will Make Any Liquor Law Change An Election Issue.

TORONTO, April 1 (Canadian Press).—The Legislature yesterday had a rapid discussion on the two bills introduced by private members which would wipe out the prohibition features of the Ontario Temperance Act. One of these was the bill introduced by J. A. Pinard (Liberal, East Ottawa), who proposed to increase the strength of beer sold legally in Ontario from 4.4 per cent. to 10 per cent. The Premier moved the adjournment of the debate on this measure, promising to bring it on again to-day if there was time. The other was the Government control and sale of liquor bill proposed by Col. J. A. Currie (Conservative, South-East Toronto). After discussion this bill was declared out of order by the Speaker, who ruled that it was a Government measure and could not be introduced by a private member.

On the latter bill the Premier spoke briefly, repeating his previous statements.

"I will make up my mind, take full responsibility for the policy and then submit it to the people at an election and accept the result as final," he said, in a statement which is regarded as an announcement.

"As long as any law is on the statute books the Government will see that it is observed. If we feel that the general and social welfare demands it, even apart from economic considerations, we will change the Act. The Government will not hesitate to act. We believe in trusting public opinion and not in suppression or coercion. We believe that it is better to lead the public than to drive it. We are prepared to consider this whole question from that view. After due consideration, if we reach a conclusion that the present Act is to stay on the books we will not hesitate to say so, and if we think it should be changed we will not hesitate to say so and then go to the people."

Pinard's Argument.

J. A. Pinard, supporting his bill to increase the strength of beer from 4.4 per cent. to 10, said he felt that the Government would be appealing to the people in June on a Government control policy. He argued that 10 per cent. beer would not be the failure that the 4.4 had been and that it would be a great source of revenue to the Government.

Z. Mageau (Liberal, Sturgeon Falls) said such a measure was required for liberty and revenue. K. K. Homuth (Labor, South Waterloo) said good beer would reduce illicit traffic. R. L. Brackin (Liberal, West Kent) supported Mr. Brackin, declaring that the so-called "wets" were really the "drys," and that those who wanted things to stay as they are were the real wets.

M. M. MacBride (Conservative, Brantford) hoped the Government would consider such a bill as it was a step in the right direction. F. W. Wilson (Conservative, Windsor) approved the bill, but stated that it did not meet all the requirements as the hard liquor question remained to be settled also. The Premier moved the adjournment of the debate on the bill. Asked if he could assure the House that it would be called again, he said that he would call it to-day if the work of the House was sufficiently advanced to allow him to do so.

Currie Bill Out.

Col. J. A. Currie then followed with his Government control and sale of liquor bill. He said the bill did not propose to bring back the bad. He also declared that if Ontario did not get relief from the Ontario Temperance Act within the next few years that it would revert to the bar as it had done after the Dunkin Act. Quebec, he said, was satisfied with its system except a few fanatics.

"We must have a bill like this if we hope to balance our budget, because there are no forms of new taxation left," said Col. Currie, who criticized the present Board of License Commissioners, stating that they were setting themselves up as another cabinet.

Key Evolved To Decipher Chinese Hieroglyphics

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Apr. 1.—A key that will enable the Occidental to decipher and understand the hieroglyphics of the Chinese language is claimed as the forty-year achievement of J. Endicott Gardner, interpreter and translator for the Customs and Immigration Department here.

The key is a book of 150 pages. In it are classified the 3,227 root words from which the Chinese language of 44,449 words and characters is formed. Gardner classified the words both by the sound of their ending, phonetically, and by the number of marks in the character.

FIFTEEN KILLED BY 'MARCH LION'

Eight Dead in Chicago District From Belated Blizzard.

ROADS BLOCKED.

CHICAGO, April 1 (Canadian Press).—Most of the interior of the country and particularly the Middle West continued yesterday its struggle with a driving blizzard which added heavily to a winter's record snowfall.

Trains were late. Wire communication was hampered. Roads were nearly impassable over a range from the Texas Panhandle to Lake Erie.

Fifteen persons were known to be dead, eight in Chicago and vicinity.

One storm centering over Fort Wayne, Ind., drove north-eastward across the lower lakes and St. Lawrence Valley yesterday. Another raced in from the north-west.

The snowfall was heaviest between the lakes and in west central district, but the efforts of the storm were felt virtually throughout the country except the Pacific Coast. The temperature was down to freezing almost as far south as the Gulf Coast.

U.S. MUST JOIN GENEVA PARLEY

Otherwise Conference On U. S. Reservations To Court Will Be Abandoned.

LETTER TO KELLOG.

GENEVA, April 1.—The proposed conference at Geneva to consider the United States Senate's reservations to American adherence to the world court probably will be abandoned unless the United States participates.

Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League, yesterday announced that he had written to Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg advising him that all signatories to the world court protocol had been invited to confer in Geneva September; with the United States to draft an annex to the protocol which would embody the American reservations.

The letter requests Kellogg to notify the League whether the United States will participate in the conference as the project probably would be abandoned unless the United States accepts the invitation.

NOW, HONESTLY—

Never saw such a dirty little kid.

His hair was uncombed. His shoe laces were dragging. One stocking was hanging down, and the other had a hole at the knee.

Mother eyed him from the front porch—and sighed.

"Look at his face, dad," said she. "I simply can't make him keep clean. What are we to do with a boy like that?"

And dad laughed. "Do?" sez dad. "Why, nothing at all. Let him be a boy while he can. He's just a dirty little honest kid. What more do you want?"

Father was right!

BILL TO REDUCE ONTARIO HOUSE IS WITHDRAWN

Province Would Save $300,000 a Year Progressive Contends.

FROM 111 TO 81.

Premier Ferguson Opposed the Motion—Nothing New In It.

TORONTO, April 1. —"Many people in Ontario believe there are too many members in the present legislature and that if there was a reduction it would tend to efficiency and economy," said D. J. Taylor, Progressive, Grey North ,when speaking in the Legislature yesterday to his motion, calling for a reduction in the number of representatives to 81, to correspond with the number of Ontario repreesntatives in the Dominion House.

Mr. Taylor estimated that the adoption of his motion would effect a saving of indemnities and other expenditures of $300,000 besides a large saving to the province at election times. He also declared that his proposal would tend to more expedition in the despatch of business through the elimination of a certain amount of time now wasted in debate.

"Sooner or later a halt must be called," he said, pointing out that it had been the practice at various periods to increase the number of members with the increase in population.

E. Proulx, Liberal, Prescott, supported the motion and hoped a bill would be presented in the next session, and also another re-distribution bill to remedy the defects of the last one.

Premier Opposes Motion.

Premier Ferguson opposed the motion declaring there was nothing new in the suggestion. "The problems dealt with in this legislature are so different to those dealt with at Ottawa," he said, emphasizing that under the B.N.A. local domestic problems were delegated to the provinces.

The premier declared that one of the last things he would agree to would be an undue reduction in rural representation.

Criticizing that part of Mr. Taylor's motion which asked that Ontario ridings for provincial purposes be made co-terminous with Ontario ridings for dominion purposes.

Mr. Ferguson objected that such a course would give the Dominion entire power in the matter of fixing boundaries and hand over re-distribution to the Ottawa Government.

The motion was subsequently withdrawn.

THE WEATHER.

Highest temperature yesterday 35 degrees; lowest last night, 25 degrees. The storm which began yesterday and continued over to-day, had its origin in the State of Texas Tuesday morning, and has advanced in a north-easterly direction, with widening influence and increasing intensity, until it has taken rank with the worst storm of the winter. Its influence has extended from Chicago on the west to Boston on the east. Literally millions of tons of heavy wet snow has been deposited over the Northern States and parts of Canada while in the South it has been in the shape of rain.—W. P.

KIWANIS CLUB PROGRAMME BY THEIR MEMBERS

Educational Committee Furnishes Speeches on Subject of Leadership.

GREAT LEADERS.

Natural Call of the World Today is For Better Leadership.

The members of the Kiwanis held their weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel this aftrnoon.

Dr. Frank C. Neal, a new member of the club was introduced to the members by Kiwanian J. Wells Fraser.

The programme was supplied by the members of the Educational Committee, Kiwanians Art. Reynolds, Carl Browne and Isaac P. McNabb giving talks on the subject of leadership.

Art Reynolds

The necessity of leadership in all affairs of the world is so obvious that it almost seems a waste of time to deal with it, said Art Reynolds. It is the natural call of the world for betterment, for progress, and in all forms of society leadership automatically develops whether in the home, in the church, in the state.

Every body must have a head and in the human body the head is the ruling member. Likewise, any organization of persons to be successful must have a head or, in other words, must have a leader. A leader is essentially necessary if unity is to be achieved because, of course the leader gives the cue to the united actions of the body. We are all aware of the axiom that "United we stand and divided we fall" and history teems with instances of the lost efforts through the lack of leadership. It has meant more in the world's history than weight of numbers, wealth or any other well known factor in the cause of success.

One of the most famous applications of this fact occurs to, me in connection with the Battle of the Boyne. The Irish led by King James were unquestionably brave and courageous soldiers and were about qual in number to the Dutch and English led by King William, yet they were defeated, owing to the more capable leadership of King William as opposed to that of the weak King James who deserted his troops in the middle of the fight and left them leaderless to extricate themselvs as best they could from the blunders into which he had led them. Some of the victorious Orange troops were exulting in their victory before some of the defeated Irish prisoners. One fiery young Irish officer shouted to his captors, "Change leaders and we will fight you over again."

The quality of leadership belongs to few naturally and can be cultivated by many but it must be remembered that, besides the honour it brings, it also carries heavy responsibility and of necessity must expect criticism. There is one thought however regarding leadership I wish to impress upon everyone who aspires to that distinction—"No man securely governs save he that has first learned to live in subjection—No man securely commands save he that has first learned to obey."

The main necessity of good leadership is the example it sets and the confidence it inspires, because as someone has said, "Better to improve men than all the use of word is the force of a noble life," Cast back your memoris to what has done us most good in our lives. Is it those who have preached to us? Is it what we have read? No—but it is the good example of someone we regarded as a leader, a friend, a teacher, wife, mother or father, and the necessity of some leadership of that sort is an essential in the life of us all.

Calf S. Browne.

Every member of this club, said Carl Browne, has some of the characteristics of great leaders, and while we individually may not have the vision of Napoleon, we may be able to foresee things that he could not. Most of realize the advantage of being good mixers but few of us realize the advantage of silence. Lord Kit-

Friends Buy Return Ticket For Countess Vera Cathcart

NEW YORK, April 1.—(Canadian Press).—Countess Vera Cathcart, whose brief visit to America was filled with a great variety of episodes, sailed for England yesterday, on a ticket purchased by friends but "not a bit discouraged."

She announced that, although her play "Ashes of Love" had flopped in both Washington and New York, "because the critics passed judgment before it was given a chance" and in "flopping" had cost her $20,000. She intended to write a new play on her way to England, and return here with it in five weeks.

SIX FOUND DEAD IN DUBLIN FIRE; TWO MURDERED?

Two Brothers, Two Sisters and Two Servants in Dublin Mansion.

COLLOCK SUBURB.

Skulls of Men Broken — Blood-stained Poker Found By Police.

DUBLIN, April 1 (Canadian Press).—A tragedy involving six deaths of which at least two, the police believe, were cases of murder, occurred yesterday in the Dublin suburb of Collock, in the burning of a mansion known as La Macha.

In the ruins of the mansion were found six bodies, those of Joseph and Peter McDonnell, brothers, their two sisters, a working man named Clarke and a maid servant. Police believe at least two were killed before the fire broke out, as they found a blood-stained poker, while the skulls of one of the brothers and Clarke were broken.

When the flames broke out early Wednesday, would-be rescuers found the mansion locked.

INCREASE SHOWN CUSTOMS RECEIPTS

Past Year Has Been More Favorable For Port of Peterboro.

For the month of March the customs department of this district reports $95,315.70 as against $56,816.79 for the same month last year, being an increase of $38,498.91.

As the customs year closes on the 31st of March the receipts for this past year are much ahead for the year 1924. Receipts for 1924 were $961,570.45 while for 1925 they were $997,937.67, an increase of $36,367.22.

LARGE INCREASE.

Customs Collections Have Increase of $1,000,000 Over Past Month.

TORONTO, April 1. — Customs and excise collections through the Port of Toronto, during March, 1926, amounted to $5,279,884, according to the statement issued last night by Collector J. H. Bertram, which covered the Federal government fiscal year from March, 1925, to March, 1926. On Tuesday Mr. Bertram estimated the collection for the final month of the year as $5,200,000.

The collections for the past month are more than $1,000,000 greater than the amount obtained by the government from the Port of Toronto during March, 1925, and aided greatly in the presentation of a statement showing an increase of more than $6,000,000 in revenue during 1925-26, over that secured in 1924-25. The collections for the two years were:

1924-25, $48,112,858.
1925-26, $54,327,616.

The year terminated with a record-breaking day, the revenue for March 31, being 429,711.

Greater demand for household lines in this country has caused happiness in Ireland, where many linen mills are being reopened to care for the increased trade.

Peterborough Entirely Cut Of From Communication With Wes And Nearly Isolated On Eas

Ontario Storm-bound, With Telegraph and Telepho Wires Crippled and Trees Shattered — Loss to Bell Telephone Co. Nearly $700,000 — Poles Snapped By Weight Of Ice.

STRONG GALES WITH HAIL AND RAIN LEAVE TRAIL OF HAVOC AROUND CI

Greatest Prostration of Communication Services in Ma Years—Trains Handled Carefully and Crews Clear Tracks of Trees and Poles Blown Down— Snow Drifted.

As if the March Lion were giving his tail one final derisi lash, the month of winds came to a conclusion yesterday in o of the worst storms in the history of Ontario. All over t Province, but more especially between Toronto and Peterborou the gale made its appearance, and left in its wake towns, villag and cities deprived, wholly or in part, of their various forms communication with the rest of the world.

Damage to the Bell Telephone system alone was plac at between $500,000 and $750,000, so that the total damage all over the Province is estimated in the millions. Neither of the two telegraph companies would give an estimate of the damage done its plant, but from reports received thousands of poles will have to be replaced or reset. Hundreds of men will be sent out today and tomorrow to begin the reparation of the damage, which will not be finally cleared away for weeks.

Peterborough was cut off from telegraphic and telephone communication at 10.30 yesterday morning, and this has not yet been restored although a few short messages have been put through. Up until this afternoon the C.P.R. wires in the city were inactive and the C.N.R. had communication spasmodically with Montreal.

Heavy Loss in Orchards.

Communication with Eastern Ontario was entirely cut off for the greater part of the day. Meagre reports coming through told a tale of tangled wires, shattered trees, and power service demoralized. It is believed the loss to the apple orchards will be heavy.

Though telegraph service was gone operation of trains was well maintained. There were no cancellations and few were more than half an hour late. In some cases there were slight hold ups while fallen poles were cleared from the tracks, and the engineers had to proceed cautiously.

The Niagara fruit belt escaped the full force of the storm, and damage in the peach district will be practically negligible. There was rain at Grimsby, St. Catharines and Niagara Falls, but no sleet, and not violent.

Western Ontario Shut Off.

The storm centre in Western Ontario was Guelph, and for this reason the C.P.R. Telegraph System could not reach Hamilton, as its wires are routed via Guelph Junction. Urgent messages were telephoned from Toronto to Hamilton.

During the day only five Western Ontario points—Kitchener, Waterloo, Guelph, Elora and Fergus—could be reached from Toronto, while the east and north were absolutely cut off.

Owing to limited communication facilities, particulars of the storm could not be secured from many places. In many towns and villages breakdown of the Hydro wires left the streets in utter darkness last night while householders were forced to get along on candles.

Street Cars Halted

Toronto and Hamilton were practically on a par as far as inconvenience and damage were concerned. In Toronto the transportation system was partially disabled for part of the day on Gerrard Street in the East End and on Weston Road, in the western section of the city. As a result the Carlton cars will be operated on a changed route east of Coxwell Avenue during the next 48 hours. The Weston Road line, operated by the T.T.C. for York Township and Weston, was tied up a day, but resumed service in the ev ing. Both breaks were caused falling poles.

Throughout Toronto 160 t were completely blown down, limbs torn from hundreds more.

The temperature in Toronto ran from a minimum of 30 degrees a maximum of 36. The prevailin wind reached its greatest velocity noon, when it was travelling at rate of 36 miles an hour. The sto was accompanied by thunder a lightning.

The disturbance came from Southwest States according to formation vouchsafed by weather bureau last night.

"But did all this slush and s and ice come from the Sum South.

The Weatherman patiently plained that the atmospheric distu ance came up from the land of t ton, but it dragged in with it a u of weather conditions from North, East and West. Th "come-on" elements were all and snowy and cold.

About the precipitation. Well, a late hour last night the weat bureau had not apportioned the c tributions of the rain and the sn Melted down, rain and snow toge er, the precipitation measured inch. But snow measures a gr deal more when it is snow than w it has been melted. And the quest of just how much snow and h much rain there were yesterday an arithmetical problem that have to be solved today. At 8 a yesterday, however, the Weatherm said, the snowfall had been inches and the rainfall .59 inch.

The tendency for today, he sa was colder temperature.

Huge Telephone Damage

The storm would cost the Bell Telephone Company between $500,000 and $750,000, Toronto offic estimated last night. Poles w down by the hundreds, and se instances of trouble in the u ground cable lines were reported addition, hundreds of subscrib were cut off through breaks in "drop" lines that extend from street line to the houses. A o'clock last night, Frank Kenne the Toronto Division Manager, out the following report:

In the western section of the that is, the Kenwood, Junct Lakeside and the Lombard excha es, there were approximately "drop" lines down. An undergrou cable, through which 400 subscr ers were served, was grounded water some place in the neigh hood of Queen Street and T Avenue, and the company had m out last night pumping the m holes in that area.

Condition at Night

Only 16 outside points could reached by long distance last nig These were: New Toronto, Credit, Oakville, Bronte, Burlingt Hamilton, Dundas, Grimsby, N ara Falls (Ontaria), Niagara Fa (New York), Port Colborne, Catharines, Welland, Weston, Buf

Knocked Off Engine Pilot St. Thomas Brakeman Dead

ST. THOMAS, Ont., April 1. —C. W. Harris, a Michigan Central Railway brakesman, residing at 16 Woodward Avenue, died yesterday evening at the Memorial Hospital as a result of a fractured skull. Harris was a member of a crew bringing in a double-header from the West. As the train neared the bridge over Kettle Creek one of the locomotives was detached, and while making the change he was knocked off the pilot, where he was standing by the jar, his head striking the rails.

Deceased is survived by a wife and several children.

POISON PUMPED INTO DEAD BODY

Statement of Doctors Probing "Suicide" of Albama Prisoner.

CRUELTY ALLEGED.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 1. — Tales of alleged cruelty to convicts are promised to be unfolded before a grand jury which convenes here on April 6, to fix any criminal responsibility for the death of James Knox, a young check passer.

Prison officials in charge at the Flat Top mines, where Knox died last August, declared he had committed suicide.

Relatives and friends, however, demanded an investigation. The body was exhumed at the order of Attorney-General Harwell G. Davis and d octors declared Knox had died of heart trouble and that poison had been pumped into his body after death.

A subsequent investigation disclosed that Knox died in a laundry vat, where he had been placed as punishment for alleged infraction of a minor rule of the prison camp. The shock brought about by threats of prison guards that he would be permitted to drown, resulted in the heart attack that caused his death, the doctors said.

MR. AND MRS. MATTHEW WILSON CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Omemee People Married Fifty Years Ago in South Ops.

HALE AND HEARTY

Friends and Relatives Gather to Honor Their Anniversary.

OMEMEE, April 1—Golden wedding bells rang out merrily on Monday, March 29, in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Wilson, who on March 28, 1876, were united in marriage by the late Rev. Ansulin Schuster, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hall, South Ops. The happy young couple of fifty years ago, made their first home on the fourteenth concession of Emily where they lived for five years, later moving to a farm just west of the village where they resided until five years ago when they moved to the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, both hale and hearty, were "at home" to their many friends who called to congratulate them on Monday. The groom of fifty years ago, who wore on his coat lapel a golden tulip, was an interesting conversationalist as he related interesting events of the life of half a century ago when it was a common thing to go to church in a lumber wagon. He also recalled the maple sugar making and remarked that at that time the maple sugar which is now such a luxury was used entirely for sweetning.

Mrs. Wilson, gowned in black silk, welcomed her many callers and with her husband recounted many tales of bygone days.

Misses Florence and Jean Laidley the dainty little granddaughters of the happy couple admitted the guests while Errol Wilson, a grandson, was in charge of the register, which was a gift from a niece in California and in which were registered sixty-eight names.

The home was beautifully decorated for the unique event, tulips, daffodils, carnations and roses adorning the rooms in profusion. A bride's cake around which glowed the soft light of golden candles was the central attraction of the tea-room where Mrs. Spiers of Midland poured tea. The guests were served by Mrs. H. Laidley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. George Wilson, a daughter-in-law.

On a nearby table, which was draped in gold, were the numerous gifts received by the bride and groom, noticeable among which was a purse of gold from the family which contained also a five dollar gold piece, the voluntary contribution from Albert, the little grandson in Chicago who with his parents was unable to attend but who were present at the festivities in heart and mind. Gifts of gold from Mr. and Mrs. Langton Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Fee, Mr. and Mrs. Spiers of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Leith Laidley, also gold lined cream and sugar from Mr. and Mrs. Melville Irvine, gold salt and pepper set from Mr. and Mrs. S. Hall, Peterborough, flowers from the W.M.S. of Trinity United church, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lamb, Mrs. M. Thurston of Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Sandy and the grandchildren of the bridal couple. Telegrams of congratulations were received from Berkeley, Caliofrnia, Saskatoon, Chicago and Midland.

Following the reception twenty-seven friends and relatives sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner, after which Rev. E. W. Rowland pastor of Trinity United Church, made a suitable address.

Just at this juncture little Miss Jean Laidley presented, on behalf of the family, a purse of gold to her grandparents, while Miss Florence Laidley and Master Erroll Wilson brought as their tribute a beautiful bouquet.

Mrs. Rowland then read the following poem composed in Chicago by a friend of the absent member of the family "Bert."

This poem dedicated to Father and Mother Wilson on the anniversary of their golden honeymoon, 1926.

May the golden threads of life weave peace and joy to you both is the wish of the writer, Mrs. George Dunlop, Chicago, Ill.

Your Golden Wedding Anniversary

You know when days are happy ones
They quickly pass away
But as they go, they leave behind
Fond memories that will stay.
These happy days have blossomed
In to fifty years of gold
We pray the coming ones bring joy
Each time as they unfold.
A day of gold has come to you
And fifty years gone by
Each one of which brought happiness in bountiful supply.
The fifty golden happy years
You've journeyed on together
Tho' sometimes life brought storm and tears
Your hearts have known fair weather.

Though your heads are touched with silver
Your hearts are purest gold,
And round you shines a radiance that never shall grow old.
The fond years of comradeship
Seems to you as a day.
If you were to be young again
You'd live the self same way.
Your joy must come to both your hearts,
The greatest of all joys
To have yet living one fine girl
And two such splendid boys.
This is the ideal family
As Roosevelt did declare.
You've given them the utmost
Of both your love and care.
Your eldest son I know quite well
We think a lot of Bert;
In all his business dealings
He is honest and alert.

Son George, I hear lives near you, Dad,
And Stella in same town,
Your children what a blessing they
With joy your life doth crown.
I hear Dad's name is Matthew
Which "gift of Jehovah" means.
It is a splendid ancestry
Set down in Bible scenes.
And mother, her name's Sarah,
We love that name indeed.
A "Princess" is the meaning,
What splendid stock and seed.
You've tilled the soil these many years,
With mother by your side,
Though you are ten years older
She's been to you safe guide.
Her arms have toiled, her brave heart beat,
And tired has been her arm;
But faithful she has ever been
To duties on the farm.
The sacrificing spirit—she
Through all the years has shown;
Has yielded golden fruit in love
Received from children grown.

Fine reputation as a cook
You have in your home town,
And as for making butter
Your skill has brought renown.
Good bread I also must include,
Son Bert says "You've the art."
He told me — kind that mother makes
Would win at once my heart.

P'raps sometime in the summer
When you some cookies make
A sample you might send me
I'll judge then how you bake.
Bert says you're strong on temperance
Good mothers always are.
In U.S. we have bootleg
Though now—no more—the bar.

This poem is somewhat lengthy
I it must bring to close
And in my closing wishes
Before the mail it goes
Say—
I wish you both many happy years together is the years to come and much joy on your anniversary date and may the joys of the past so fill your hearts today that the hope of the future shall shine with golden happiness.

Mr. Wilson when called upon to respond said he was no speechmaker and would prefer to respond in song. Needless to say, this was a happy departure from the usual speech making and Mr. Wilson sang in good voice "We may and we may never all meet again." In response to the hearty applause of the guests Mr. Wilson again sang, "When You and I Were Young Maggie," thus bringing to a close a day of happy memories which will linger long in the minds of those privileged to be present.

SUCCESSFUL BOYS WORK AT WOOLER

Taylor Statton Addressed Father and Son Banquet.

WOOLER, April 1.—Two splendid groups of Tuxis and Trail Rangers of the United Church have had a very successful year. Besides the mid-week sessions the boys of each group have given a concert and a mock trial. Both the concert, and the mock trial showed careful preparation and training, and drew large and appreciative audiences.

A Father and Son service was held a week later, when the Pastor, Rev. H. B. Neal, spoke suitably to the fathers and sons on the subject, 'The Man of Tomorrow." It was a very helpful and inspiring service.

Special music by the choir, and a male quartette was pleasingly rendered.

On Thursday evening about one hundred fathers and sons sat down to the Father and Son Banquet. It was really a great evening, where dads and lads had fellowship together.

The toast list was well arranged and the young men responsible for the speeches did remarkably well.

One pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of badges to several boys for their special work in training for service.

Taylor Statton of Toronto was the principal speaker of the evening and brought a great message of the new and better way of developing boy life.

The boys, in addition to providing their own Sunday School supplies and helping with the local church budget, have given $35 to the maintenance and extension fund.

With the coming of the spring and summer activities, a ball team is being organized.

F. A. Dailand and Rev. H. B. Neal are the leaders of the groups.

VISITS U.S. TO PROTEST.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Abingo Syzip, vice-president of the Chinese Banking Company and a merchant of Manila, is in United States to protest the rule that all bookeeping in the Philippines shall be done in English or Spanish. A large Chinese merchant colony there finds much embarrassment over this custom, he says.

SCENE OF ROBBERY ATTEMPT

Above is shown the Royal Bank at Strathroy, near London, Ont., which was the scene of an attempted robbery by an armed bandit this week. Inset is a photograph of Manager F. P. Hughes, of the bank, who was wounded in the arm by the gunman just as he was about to open fire. Mr. Hughes is also shown as he appeared after the wound had been dressed. The bandit fled, abandoning his motor car, which was recovered later.

RANEY'S MINORITY REPORT IN LYONS ENQUIRY DEFEATED AND LATE MINISTER IS EXONERATED

Progressive Leader Contended No Minister Should Deal With Government.

VOTE WAS 22 TO 5.

Conservative Committee Chairman Tried To Turn Tables on Raney.

TORONTO, April 1.—By a vote of 22 to 5 the public accounts committee of the legislature yesterday exonerated Hon. James Lyons, late minister of lands and forests, in connection with the dealings of his company, the Lyons Fuel & Supply Company, with the government of which he was a member, and with the contractors and licensees, who did business with his department.

By the same vote the committee turned down a suggested report prepared by Hon. W. E. Raney, Progressive leader, in which the declaration was made that no minister of the crown should have dealings with the government and that no member of the legislature should have contracts on government works.

The vote on Mr. Raney's minority report, which will go on to the house as such, was as follows:

For— Raney, Fiset, Sinclair, Kemp, Widdifield—5.

Against—Acres, Black, Bradburn, Clarke (Brockville), Currie, Eccleston, Edwards, Elliott, Finlayson, Garden, Graves, Grayhill, Hillmer, Keither, Kennedy (Timiskaming), McCausland, McBride, Morel, Owens, Patterson, Wigg—22.

Attack on Raney.

Wm. Finlayson, government spokesman in the committee, sought to turn the tables on Mr. Raney by declaring that while he was attorney-general in the Drury cabinet he was a director of the Copeland-Chatterson Company, which sold $2,385 worth of supplies to the government.

Mr. Raney replied that the moment it had come to his attention after he took office that the Copeland-Chatterson Company was seeking government business he had resigned as a director, and it was not until after he went out of office that he was again elected to the directorate.

Chairman Lewis, following the reading of the report prepared by Mr. Raney, suggested that there was no use entering into a long discussion. "Let us vote," he said. "Evidently Mr. Raney does not agree with me in the idea that this report should not be controversial."

But M. M. McBride of Brantford, was not content to do this. He began a lecture to Mr. Raney on his sermon, not according with his text, that the report should be non-partisan. He declared that the Progressive leader had not mentioned the matter in the evidence which reflected on the Drury administration. Nor had he mentioned the insurance commissions paid to Edgar Watson, former U.F.O. member.

"This is petty, picayune politics," said he and he asserted that Hon. Mr. Lyons had asked for a full and complete investigation and the ex-minister should be exonerated.

Raney Under Hammer.

Government Examiner Finlayson referred to the Lyons queries as "a lot of miserable questions."

"The whole province knows that no public man has had more complete vindication than the Hon. James Lyons," said Mr. Finlayson vehemently.

He referred to the Raney report as a "venomous document" and expressed surprise that Mr. Raney lent his name to it.

"Petty, small, spite," was the way Mr. Finlayson again described Mr. Raney's report.

Mr. Finlayson declared that Mr. Raney himself from 1920-24 was a director and a shareholder of the Copeland-Chatterson Company doing business with the government.

"And legal adviser to that company," called somebody. "The only difference is he was a lawyer," commented Hon. Mr. Lyons aloud.

Mr. Finlayson asked Mr. Raney if it weren't common courtesy for a man when he prepared a report to present a copy in advance to the chairman of the committee.

"I hadn't it finally prepared till a few minutes before committee," said Mr. Raney.

Discussed Report

"Isn't it common courtesy," asked Mr. Finlayson. "Oh, go on" said Mr. Raney.

"There wasn't a reporter here that didn't report and know Mr. Raney exonerated Hon. James Lyons here in committee the other day, and then he turns round and introduces this venomous, left-handed attack on the ex-minister.

"Not a single word does Mr. Raney give of the Clarkson firm which he admitted was favorable to Mr. Lyons, yet he has five pages of criticism—venomous criticism of Mr. Lyons.

"While he was in power, why didn't Mr. Raney amend the law to make it unlawful for a minister's firm to have dealings with the government? If he had he would not have been able to continue with the Copeland-Chatetrson Company. As for the Caledon road job and the pay of the men on it, it is simply an effort of the Progressive party to rehabilitate itself on the unpaid wages of the men. What do they care about the wages of these men? Not a rap."

He construed the reference to the liquor dispensaries as an attack on James Hales, as chairman of the commission, or Hillyard Birmingham, in charge of the dispensaries.

Couldn't Be Discussed

Mr. Finlayson said it was plain to everybody that the Home Bank deals could not be brought before the committee. "Mr. Raney knows that the 'legals' for the advertisement could not be discussed here in any legal fashion. He knows that the government had nothing to do with them. The deal was between a private person and a private advertising company.

"If Mr. Raney had wanted to mention the most sensational matter," said Mr. Finlayson, "why didn't he mention the Watson incident in his report, whereby a member of his own government received over $300 illegally for an insurance commission, which would have unseated him in the house?"

"But he never said a word about the Watson matter," said Mr. Finlayson.

Holds Stock.

Mr. Raney remarked in reply, that "almost anything is liable to happen when Mr. Finlayson is in the air."

The Progressive leader spoke very emphatically about his connection with the Copeland-Chatterson Company.

"I have no knowledge of goods being supplied by this company to the government while I was a member of the government," he declared, "after I had been in office for a while I was notified that the company was seeking government business. I immediately resigned from the board of directors."

J. A. McCausland: "Did you still hold stock?"

Mr. Raney: "Yes, yes, I do now."

Mr. Finlayson remarked that there was $2,385 in goods sold to the government.

Mr. Finlayson: "Can you tell me why the firm made no returns to the government in 1922-23?"

Mr. Raney: "I have no idea. They may have for all I know.

After the end of the Drury government, Mr. Raney returned to the board of the company, he said.

Called Partisan

Mr. Sinclair said that if Major Lewis had been sincere in his statement that a member of the committee could not be partisan, then two lines in his report exonerating Mr. Lyons would have to be deleted.

Mr. Raney's report simply followed Mr. Lewis' policy in more detail, said Mr. Sinclair. Mr. McBride's paragraph exonerating the air force was also partisan, he declared.

All that should be done, according to Mr. Finlayson's and Major Lewis' doctrine was that the report should say "So and so appeared before this committee and said so and so, let the public judge for themselves."

Mr. Finlayson said he was willing to delete the words of Major Lewis' report, "the investigating committee confirms this view," referring to the Lyons matter. Mr. McBride also agreed to withdraw his motion expressing opinion about the air force.

"I thought it was a very mild, reasonable finding," said Major Lewis.

No agreement about this was reached, Mr. Raney stated he would be glad to add to his report a paragraph to the effect that "the committee noted with pleasure the assurance of the premier in the house that the workmen on the Caledon road job would be paid their overdue wages."

Col. Currie argued that the committee should give a note of confidence to Hon. Mr. Lyons.

Vote 22 to 5

Mr. Raney: "Then move in amendment."

Col. Currie: "We are not going to let the other fellows play all the politics and take it lying down."

He then moved a vote of complete and unqualified exoneration of Hon. Mr. Lyons from any breach of the legislative assembly act.

A. W. Gray (Leeds), suggested that this was not properly a part of the report. "Even if the former government erred in this respect let us play according to Hoyle. This can be added later on."

Chairman Lewis suggested that the Currie amendment stand until the Raney one was disposed of and the vote was taken, resulting in 22 to 5 against.

REDUCING PILLS CAUSE OF DEATH

Woman Lost 52 Pounds in Two Weeks—Health Shattered.

DOCTOR'S WARNING.

DETROIT, April 1.—Her health impaired by the constant use of tablets taken in an effort to reduce her weight, Mrs. Charles E. Warcup, 32 years old, died Monday at her home at 305 Pearson Street, Ferndale.

Mrs. Warcup, who was five feet, eight inches tall and weighed 160 pounds, began the reducing pills last August and in two weeks reduced her weight 52 pounds. Since that time, according to Dr. S. M. Lewis, 22807 Woodward Avenue, who was first called in on the case, Mrs. Warcup was confined to her bed most of the time.

Two weeks ago Dr. C. R. Henry 22823 Woodward Avenue, Ferndale, was called to attend Mrs. Warcup. He said today Mrs. Warcup suffered from a goiter, and that a thyroid preparation in the reducing tablets caused the poison from the goiter to spread through her system.

This so weakened her system, together with the abnormal loss of weight, that when she suffered an attack of influenza, Mrs. Warcup was unable to fight off the disease.

Mrs. Warcup was born in London, Ont. Her husband operates a hardware store in Ferndale.

Besides her husband Mrs. Warcup is survived by one son, George, 11 years old.

Dr. J. H. Dempster, vice president of the Wayne County Medical Association, warned adults who insist on using drugs to reduce.

"There is only one legitimate way to reduce," Dr. Dempster said. "That is by diet and exercise. This method is harmless and usually improves the health. Thyroid extract, which many reducing pills contain, is dangerous in the hands of the layman."

CONVICTS ON WAY TO PENAL COLONY

Two Hundred Transported To Devil's Island.

LA ROCHELEE, France, April —Two hundred convicts of the French underworld are en route to Devil's Island, off the South American coast today, securely confined in the hold of the world's only convict ship, the Martiniere.

Devil's Island is one of the three Illes de Salut, off French Guiana where French criminals of the incorrigible type are transported, to remain to the ends of their lives. The convicts who marched aboard the floating prison Tuesday are the first to be transported in two years. Among them was Gabriele Mourey, the suave butler who, in April, 1923 imprisoned the family of Albert R. Shattuck, an American banker in the wine cellars of their Washington Square home, and stole $90,000 worth of jewelry. Mourey once before was confined on Devil's Island and escaped.

Hard labor awaits the convicts. The convict transportation system is a relic of less humane days, and for two years there has been public agitation to suppress the practice.

Thousands of French criminals have expatiated their crimes against society by transportation to the notorious Iles de Salut. Devil's Island is principally a leper colony, but it was there that Alfred Dreyfus, France's foremost political prisoner was confined in 1898 and 1899.

CHINESE APARTMENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1. — Construction has started here on America's first Chinese co-operative community apartment house which will be a six-story, reinforced concrete structure, divided into three-room and four-room apartments, with one of eight rooms.

Indigestion and Bilious Spells

Mrs. Kempton Crocker, Hantsport, Bishopville, Kings Co., N.S. writes:—"My husband suffered from kidney and liver derangements and lame back, for two years. Nothing seemed to help him. We read in Dr. Chase's Almanac of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver pills and he tried them. By the time he had taken two boxes he was quite well again.

PERHAPS it has never occurred to you that your troubles from indigestion are really caused by torpid liver action and consequent constipation of the bowels. Stomach tablets and lotions sometimes afford temporary relief but they do not get at the cause. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills positively remove the cause of trouble by their direct and combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels. A single box will convince you of their efficiency.

A JOINT CAMPAIGN.

A joint effort by Lindsay and Peterboro to per...ade the Ontario Government to take over the road ...tween the two centres as a Provincial highway is ...ggested, and there is no doubt that the effort would ...e strengthened through concerted action.

This section of roadway is very heavily travelled, ...t only by the motorists of Lindsay and Peterboro, ...t by hundreds of tourists, as the road is an import...nt link in the Kawartha Lake system.

Admittedly, it is not in shape for such traffic, ...d several sections of the road are so narrow that ...e conditions are dangerous.

In fact, a large number of accidents has occurred ...ecause of the restricted roadway, and whether the ...ad is adopted as a Provincial highway or not some...ing will have to be done to remedy this condition.

A Lindsay-Peterboro deputation should have no ...fficulty in presenting a very strong case before the ...ntario Government, and the Examiner is sure that ...e local branch of the Ontario Motor League, the ...hamber of Commerce and the City Council will be ...ad to co-operate with Lindsay representatives in ...rranging a joint campaign.

$45,000,000 IN TWO HOURS.

There is something wrong with our system of ...overnment when the Provincial Legislature, after ...asting days in futile discussion about stronger beer, ...e Ontario Temperance Act and other topics, can ...ss estimates totalling $45,000,000 in two hours.

"With very little discussion," says a press re...ort, "the House passed the main estimates, totalling ...bout $42,000,000, and the further supplementaries of little over $3,000,000.

$45,000,000 voted in two hours, "with very little ...iscussion," while one member would think nothing of ...evoting that much time to a speech on the O.T.A.!

The members could have known very little about ...he purpose of many of the items in the list because ...o time was available for discussing them.

They simply galloped through the estimates, and ...pposition members salved their conscience by asking ...hat some of the Ministers give a resume of the work ...f their departments—after the amounts had been ...assed.

The estimates are surely of greater importance ...han this, and worthy of more attention than can be ...iven them at a two-hour session.

The members of a Town Council who tried to ...ettle their estimates in such a brief period would be ...onsidered as almost criminally neglectful of their ...esponsibility as representatives of the people.

What then is to be said of Provincial legislators ...ho swallow $45,000,000 in two hours?

ELIMINATING BY-ELECTIONS.

Mr. Nickle's bill to make it unnecessary for a ...member of the Legislature who might be appointed ...o the Cabinet to have to face his constituents again ...n a by-election, provided his appointment was made ...within three months after the general election, will ...strike the average elector as a step in the right direc...ion.

There undoubtedly was a time when it was de...irable that Cabinet appointments should be endorsed ...y the people.

When these appointments were made by the ...Crown, the fact that the newly-appointed Minister had ...o be elected was a safeguard.

But that period has long since passed, and most ...people think that the Attorney-General might have ...made his measure even wider and provided for the ...appointment of a member of the Legislature to the ...Cabinet at any time without a by-election.

The existing arrangement is open to attack on ...several grounds.

Often it leads to the appointing of men of in...ferior calibre to Cabinet positions.

They are chosen not for their ability, but be...cause they represent a safe riding where their chances ...of re-election are absolutely sure.

On the other hand, men of greater fitness for a ...portfolio are passed by because their constituency is ...good fighting ground, and the political situation may ...be such as to make it poor strategy to run the risk of ...a Government defeat.

The Nickle Bill is a common-sense measure that ...public opinion will endorse—in fact, most Canadians ...will feel that it could with beneficial results be ad...opted in the Federal field as well.

NO TOWNSHIP BOARDS.

The expected has happened, and Premier Fer...guson has again withdrawn his township school board ...plan in the face of the strong opposition from the ...rural school sections to the measure.

Sam Clarke, Liberal member for West North...umberland, declared during the discussion that the ...Premier's idea is four years in advance of rural opin...ion, but the veteran member may have been somewhat ...off in his estimate, inasmuch as the strength of the ...opposition at present in evidence indicates that it may ...be three or four times four years before the merit of ...the proposal is appreciated by those for whose benefit ...it has been made.

Premier Ferguson intimated that the cost of rural ...education could be reduced by 25 or 30 per cent. by ...the adoption of the township school board system, and ...that the educational facilities in the country would be ...not only cheaper but better.

The figures he quoted as to average school at...tendance in rural sections are illuminating.

There are seven schools in Ontario with an aver...age attendance of only one pupil, nineteen with but ...two pupils, 45 with three, 97 with four and 173 with ...five. In fact, thirteen per cent. of the schools had ...an average attendance of fewer than 10 pupils, and ...while the average cost per pupil in all Ontario was ...$80.26, the cost per pupil in the schools with an at...tendance of fewer than ten children was $139 per ...year.

Fear that the "little red school house" will dis...appear has undoubtedly caused rural opinion to con...demn the Premier's proposal and to overlook the pos...sibility of better and cheaper education.

The bill will be heard from again; it is bound to carry eventually when its merits are appreciated.

THE SCOT IN CANADA.

Canada being a new country and one very largely developed by men and women who were originally of other lands, attempting to estimate the influence upon Canadian history and progress of different national groups, is to engage in a study which is both fascinating and illuminating.

There are those who incline to the opinion that the English have played a more important role in the creation of the Dominion as it now stands than have those of any other nationality; others give credit to Canadians of French descent as having done more for Canada than anyone else. Both may well point to a long roll-call of very eminent and serviceable representatives. The late Nicholas Flood Davin, as was to be expected from one of Hibernian birth, took up the cudgels in behalf of his compatriots and in his "The Irishman in Canada," a volume written in the language which only Davin could employ, was able to build up a case which spoke exceedingly well for the sons of Erin. Whereupon W. J. Rattray produced not one volume but several to prove the claims of the Scot. He succeeded in doing so to the satisfaction of a great many people.

At the risk of incurring the animosity of people owing other national allegiance, it must be agreed, with Rattray, that the Scot has performed the most spectacular service to Canada. It was from Scotland that the Hudson's Bay Company, that great commercial and semi-political organization which was the first to penetrate the Northwest, obtained the great majority of its officers, as the East India Company had previously done in the case of another section of the Empire. The Scot has a genius for trading akin to the influence which he exerts upon government. It was the Scot who peopled Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Glengarry and other parts of the Dominion which throughout the years that have passed have been scattering their representatives, most of them worthy ones, the length and breadth of the country.

Whenever great things have been done for Canada, the hand of the Scot or of the descendant of the Scot is usually to be found. We have not gone over the list of the Fathers of Confederation, but we are willing to wager that if such a task was undertaken, adherents of St. Andrew would be found in the majority. Certainly Scotland had quite an influential part in the conduct of the negotiations which preceded Confederation and it is necessary, in proof of this, only to point to the names of Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Oliver Mowat, Hon. William McDougall, Hon. George Brown, Sir Alexander Campbell, Sir Alexander Tilloch Galt and others of the same period of Canadian development. Since that time men of Scottish birth or Scottish descent have continued to have much to do with the government of this country.

Take the present Parliament. The Prime Minister is of Scottish descent. The leader of the Progressive group is by birth a Scot. There are 21 "Macs" sitting in the House of Commons, among them the only woman member. In the Senate there are eight members with the same prefix.

Take education. In others years Scotland gave to the Canadian universities such men as Sir William Dawson, Sir William Logan, Sir Daniel Wilson, Principal Grant and Sir William Peterson. Today we find her represented in the direction of the three chief universities of the country in Sir Robert Falconer (a Prince Edward Islander of Scottish descent), Rev. Dr. Bruce Taylor (a native Scot), and Sir Arthur Currie, a Canadian Scot from Middlesex, who wore the kilt when he entered the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

In the matter of railroad development, Canada owes more to the Scot than probably to any other. Lord Strathcona, Lord Mount Stephen, Sir Sandford Fleming, James J. Hill, Sir William MacKenzie, were all either of Scottish birth or Scottish ancestry. So is Sir Donald Mann, and we shrewdly suspect that there is more than a drop of Celtic blood in Sir Henry Thornton's veins.

In finance it is the same thing. The big men of banking have been very largely drawn from the counting-houses of Scotland, and at the present time Canadian-Scots from Nova Scotia constitute the "Big Four" of Canadian banking.

It is possible to pursue this study in an indefinite variety of directions. Scotchmen are great emigrants and great colonizers. They have ever grown restless of the limitations of their native land and have gone forth new fields to conquer. The population of Scotland is said to be steadily declining. It is no wonder; the Scot has formed the backbone of British emigration. In common with other parts of the Empire, Canada has good reason to return thanks for this emigrating tendency. We have gained more than can be accurately estimated and we shall continue to gain in the measure that Scotchmen are attracted to our shores. Is it only a circumstance that the Prince of Wales has just commented upon the fact that on his E. P. ranch in Alberta of 4,000 acres he employs only four men, and all of them are Scots?—Brockville Recorder and Times.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The optimist remarks that the important thing is that March has gone out—not how it went.

The Humane Society's efforts should be encouraged by a liberal response to Saturday's tag day appeal.

The "little red school-house" seems destined to remain for some time yet.

Even the weather has to indulge in an April Fool joke.

Indications are that there will be sharp fighting for the balance of the Ottawa session between Mr. Meighen and Mr. Dunning. The duel between the two should add spice to the proceedings.

And the coal men are advising people to get in next winter's coal now.

If you listen closely you may be able to hear the cheering in Oshawa and the Border Cities over Mr. Coate's lower automobile tariff motion.

If the Legislature could only distribute the energy shown in the last awful week the business of the Province would be materially expedited.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, March 31.—Cattle shippers this week a little overestimated the demand. The result is that the early week's supplies were not satisfactorily cleaned up, and the holdover has proved a drag on the market. Prices eased off first on the plain and medium stuff, choice butcher offerings holding fairly steady for a couple of days. An effort was made to clean up in todays market, but trade was slow, and prices on all grades of cattle were 15c to 25c lower than Monday's opening.

Calves were slow, but holding about steady for the best offerings.

A bunch of spring lambs sold at $16 each. Other lambs steady around $13.50 to $14 a cwt.

Hogs unsettled but weak, packers bidding 25c lower at $12.50 f.o.b.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, March 31.—(Canadian Press).—The feature of the domestic cash grain market here today was the increased demand from local exporters for Canadian western oats on spot and at bay ports and a fair trade resulted, including sales of No. 2 feed oats at 1¼ cents and 2 cents per bushel over the Winnipeg option, c.i.f. Montreal and c.i.f. bay ports, while for shipment from Fort William at the opening of navigation sellers were asking 2c per bushel over c.i.f. Montreal.

PRINCESS BETTER HAS LITTLE SLEEP

Condition Still Causes Anxiety, Hower—Wales Recovering.

LONDON, March 31 (Canadian Press).—Anxiety still continued today regarding the condition of Princess Victoria, sister of King George, who is suffering from influenza pneumonia. Lord Dawson, physician to the King, visited the Princess this morning and a later bulletin was issued saying:

"The Princess had some hours of sleep and her cough is less troublesome. Her temperature remains high The condition of the heart is unchanged."

At York House it was stated that the Prince of Wales, who is recovering from a slight aural operation, had passed a very good night and was progressing rapidly.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

AND HERE IT IS

Thousands of well-meaning men and women are studying nights and working days on plans for more pay or more profits, and right while they are struggling hard to make their schemes work, these very people overlook a simple rule that has always worked — a rule that is so sure in its resourcefulness. Here it is: Make yourself more useful.

The too constant use even of good things is hurtful. —Syrus.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

DO THEY LOVE TROUBLE?

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—It is admitted that women are more impressionable than men, and perhaps upon this basis Mr. Morton has based a wrong conclusion, when he says they "love trouble." There are many who will disagree with him, and few, I think, will absolutely approve his statement. In fact, these women themselves are not likely to take the statement without reprisals.

What have the women themselves to say about it? Do they love trouble? And why?

I'm a man, and I most emphatically detest troubles—and one of my greatest is a woman!

Yours truly,
T. D.

WOMEN AND TROUBLE.

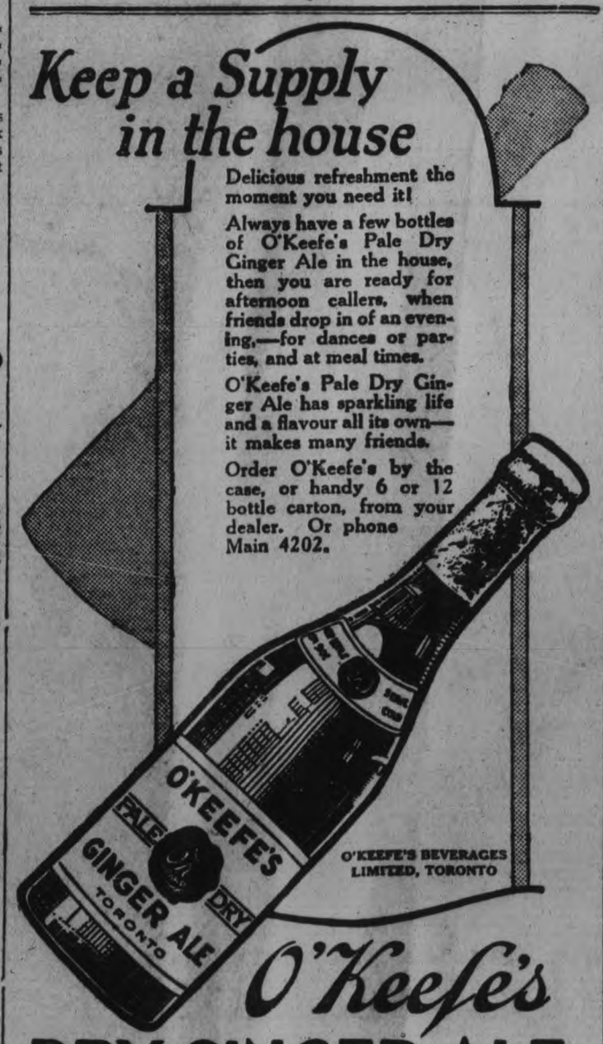
The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—It's no wonder the women's clubs are considering action on the statement made by Harry Morton, whoever he may be, that "Women love trouble." Such nonsense!

Likely he's the greatest trouble one woman at least ever has.

If men would stop to think of all the trouble they are to women, and cease trying to dissect her, marriage and life in general would run a lot smoother.

Yours truly,
NONA PARRISH.



Fellowship of Prayer

THURSDAY—
The Betrayal.

Read Jn. 18:3-11. Text: 18:5, And Judas also, which betrayed him, was standing with them.

Meditation—He had been Jesus' trusted disciple and friend. He had shared in the discovery of Jesus' Messiahship, and now he that had "eaten his bread lifted up his heel against him." The days of the exhilarating popularity of Jesus were succeeded by sullen opposition. It no longer paid. Judas believed, to stand with Jesus and when the Master and eleven followers are assailed by the officials of the Temple, Judas, Christ's disciple, was standing with Christ's enemies. He first betrayed him in secret and now publicly deserts his cause.

"Comrade, stop and bethink thee, ere it is too late, to what degree of wickedness and ingratitude thou are come."

Prayer—O Thou Glorious Christ, most heroic of all Beings, if we have stood with them who hate Thee when the popular cry was against Thee; if our foolish freedom, our feeble pleasures; our fatal self-indulgence suffice to hold us back from Thee and put us with Thy foes; if for some trivial piece of silver we have betrayed Thee and so ourselves; Lord of Pity, have mercy on us, free us from ourselves and save us. Amen.

FRIDAY—
The Crucifixion.

Read Jn. 19:15-30. Text: 19:30. It is finished.

Meditation—Truly this was a good man, sighed a thoughtful pagan bystander. Jesus was crucified for his goodness. They hated him not for any evil he had done, no man could convict him of sin, they killed him because his accusing goodness was a constant and inescapable inditement. The captain of our Salvation was made perfect as the Saviour of the world by unmerited suffering. Suffering deserved by the doer of evil he endured because he was the supreme doer of good.

"The Crucifixion was indeed the outstanding fact of Christian history. From the beginning when John the Baptist points his disciples to "The Lamb of God" this story looks forward to the cross. The last of the words on the cross in John's Gospel is this 'It is finished,' a word not of defeat but of triumph, a completion of this prophecy of the saying at the Last Supper. "I have finished the work which Thou gavest me to do."

Prayer—Standing, O our God, before the face of Christ so glorious, beneath His cross so strange. We cannot rest content with what we are. May Christ be born within us, and rise from the tomb of our dead selves, glorious and triumphant. Amen.

What do you want in a soap?

Do you like a soap that smells good?... Clean, delicately perfumed. Do you like a soap that looks good?... With that soft green tint of Eastern lands. Do you like a soap that feels good?... With a rich easy lather that streams off into the warm water in a stream of suds and bubbles.

Far more—do you like a soap that cleanses but doesn't irritate—that leaves your face cool and white and faintly tingling—that reduces the size of the pores as you use it day by day—that freshens and clears your complexion?—A soap that is the basis of the world's most famous beauty treatment?

Then you'll like Plantol—made of plant, fruit and flower oils, without a bit of animal fat—and you'll marvel at Plantol's price—ten cents.

MYSTERY WITNESS NEVER SAW CHAPMAN WAS EXPECTED TO PROVE ALIBI FOR HIM

Lawyers of Condemned Murderer and Mail Robber Balked in Their Plans For Reprieve as Days Slip By.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 1 (Canadian Press).—The new "mystery" witness, whose testimony was expected to help attorneys for Gerald Chapman, condemned mrderer and mail robber, in their attempt to secure a new trial, was identified yesterday as Albert Higginson, 70, of Meriden, Conn. It was learned on reliable authority that he returned to his home Tuesday convinced that he had never seen Chapman.

The testimony Higginson was expected to give, in an eleventh-hour attempt to save Chapman, was calculated to offset the testimony during Chapman's trial, by Louis Keck, that Chapman spent the night of October 11, 1924, at a hotel in Meriden. That was the night before Policeman Lilly of New Britain, was murdered when he surprised Chapman and an accomplice in the act of blowing a safe. Chapman's attorneys were undecided yesterday what their next move would be in their fight to keep Chapman from the gallows.

REFERENDUM IN N.Y. STATE ON DRY LAWS

Enabling Bill Expected To Pass the Legislature.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 1.—(Canadian Press).—A state referendum on prohibition yesterday seemed assured. All indications pointed to passage by the legislature of enabling legislation it is understood the question to be put before the voters has been worded by Elhiu Root.

It reads:

"Should the Congress of the U.S. modify the federal act to enforce the 18th amendment of the constitution of the U.S. so as the same shall not prohibit the manufacture, sale, transportation, importation or exportation of beverages which are not intoxicating as determined in accordance with the laws of the respective states."

TRANSIENT TRADERS CASE AT CAMPBELLFORD IS DISMISSED

Magistrate Payne Finds No Evidence That Defendant Offered Goods For Sale.

GOODS ON APPROVAL.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 1.—Magistrate G. A. Payne gave his decision yesterday in the case of The King vs Ray C. Root, who was charged with selling goods in Campbellford in violation of the transient traders' bylaw. This case was heard a week ago, the Magistrate reserving his decision in order to look up authortiies. Town Solicitor D. J. Lynch appeared on behalf of the bylaw and W. S. Herrington, K.C., of Napanee, the home of the defendant, was solicitor for the latter. The Magistrate's decision, which is here given in full, makes clear all the details of the case.

Rex Vs Root.

This case is under by-law 802 of Campbellford, regulating and governing transient traders.

The evidence and argument was taken and heard before me a week ago and after argument, upon request of counsel, judgment was not then given to allow either side to furnish authorities.

Since the hearing I have been furnished with certain admissions signed by Counsel and these admissions appear to take the case out of Re Lang 6 O.W.N. 629, as it is now admitted defendant's name is not upon the assessment roll in respect of income or business assessment and that the applicant had not a license. It has also been agreed that Robinson and Company be substituted as defendant instead of Root.

The words "other persons" used in the Act and by-law have been interpreted by Chancellor Boyd in Rex vs Geddes, 35 O.L.R. 177, as "other trading persons."

This is not a case of buying by sample and the "Pember" case in 3 O.W.N. has no application.

Easter Dresses.

Miss Shannon, who occupies premises and carries on business in Campbellford, issued and distributed a hand bill or poster advising the public that on the 23rd and 24th March, 1926, an exhibition of Easter suits, dresses and coats would be held at her premises and all garments would be for immediate sale, and Miss Shannon is, and her's is the only evidence we have on this point. Defendant Root acting for Robinson and Company arranged with her to bring suits, dresses and coats to her store on approval. She was to offer goods for sale to her customers for cash or credit, or any terms she saw fit. She was to pay 90 per cent of the price of all goods sold to Robinson and Company within 30 days of the first of the following month and she has the right to buy any goods not sold at the same price and to return any goods not sold. Miss Shannon's evidence is, that is always her manner of doing business in dresses, suits and coats, all such goods come to her on approval for sale. Root assisted in displaying the goods. There is not evidence he sold any goods nor that he offered the goods for sale. All money for goods sold was taken and paid to Miss Shannon, and she kept a record of all sales in her books. Upon this state of facts I am asked to make a conviction.

Mr. Lynch, for the complainant, contends that Miss Shannon in offering the goods for sale was the agent of the Company and the Company violated the by-law through her because it was the goods of the Company she offered for sale.

Miss Shannon Vendor.

Mr. Herrington, K.C., who represents Robinson and Company, argues that if Root had not been present to display or assist in displaying the goods it could not be argued that Robinson and Company were offering the goods for sale, and the send ing of a man with the goods could not alter the circumstances. Mr. Herrington also argues, every sale implies a vendor and a purchaser, the purchasers were the customers of Miss Shannon, and to constitute a sale there must be privity of contract between Robinson and Company and the purchasers. That if any of the purchasers to whom credit was given do not pay their accounts, Robinson and Company could not bring an action against them, the only person who could do so was Miss Shannon, the vendor of the goods.

In the Scales case, 41 O.L.R., Mr. Justice Masten says "It is a question of fact in each individual instance whether a man is or is not a transient trade, if he is not a transient trader the by-law relating to transient traders cannot be applied to him.

I am of the opinion that in the circumstances disclosed in this case the sales were made by Miss Shannon. She is to pay for all goods sold whether the purchasers pay her or not. She had the right to make and did make the terms of each sale. She could sell on time or whatever way she pleased, and she was the party offering the goods for sale and not Robinson and Company. There is no evidence that Robinson and Company or Root at any time offered goods for sale, and unless all persons sending out goods on approval subject themselves to the by-law I do not see how these defendants have in any way made themselves amenable to its terms.

The defendants do not ask for costs. I therefore dismiss the case without costs.

May Be Appealed.

The merchants of Campbellford have been eagerly awaiting this decision and it is now likely that the matter will be carried to a higher court, the merchants maintaining that if the law is as interpreted by Magistrate Payne that they have no protection against competition from outsiders who pay no taxes and that the by-law is practically void.

The transient traders by-law was introduced in the town council by Reeve Charles H. Davidson two years ago and was passed without dissent. It provides that no person unless listed as a taxpayer or who has been a continuous resident of the town for three months, or who has not entered for income or business tax, shall sell goods at retail without a license, the price of which is fixed at $200.

The penalty for a violation of this by-law is a fine, varying from $5 to $50.

JOY RIDE TRAGEDY.

Couple Found Dead in a Taxicab.

NEW YORK, April 1.—What began as a joy ride through Central park ended as a double tragedy yesterday.

The driver of a taxicab, startled by the sound of muffled shots, opened the door of his cab and found Christine Spagon 21, and Peter Patrissi 25, killed by bullets fired by the latter.

The couple had been writing industriously on a notebook just before the murder and suicide. Patrissi had even written his will and stuffed it into a vest pocket.

CHAPLIN'S SECOND SON.

"Tremendously Happy" Are Comedian and Wife.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 1. — "We had expected a girl, but we are tremendously happy," said 17-year-old Lita Gray Chaplin, who Tuesday presented her husband, Charlie, with his second son.

Charles Spencer Chaplin equalled some happiness records himself. He refused to leave his wife and his seven-pound boy to talk with a score of newspapermen who called after the event Tuesday.

Charlie, Jun., born last June, already has seen his brother, but had no comment.

The latest arrival in the Chaplin home has not been named.

U.S. RUM SHIP WAS ILLEGALLY SEIZED

Taken By Coast Guard Beyond 12 Mile Limit.

BOSTON, April 1 (Canadian Press) — The coast guard has no right to seize an American vessel more than 12 miles off shore, Judge Brewster ruled in United States District Court yesterday.

Counsel for Abel Doucette and Chas. R. Bentley, of Gloucester, whose rum laden motor boat was seized 20 miles off the north shore January 27 last, raised the point that the seizure was unlawfully made. The court held that a study of the statutes had failed to search and seize, except within the 12 mile limit provided for in the tariff act. Therefore, he said, the seizure of the motor boat and its cargo were without jurisdiction in the law, and that it must follow that the evidence thus obtained cannot be used against the men at their trial on charges of smuggling.

COPELAND SAYS WAR DEBT WILL NEVER BE PAID

Eventual Remission By United States Predicted By Democrat Senator.

WILL BE SHAMED.

Says Better Feeling Not Promoted in Britain Toward U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 1 (Canadian Press).—A campaign is now on in England for cancellation of the debt of the U.S., Chairman Borah, of the Foreign Relations Committee, said in the Senate yesterday in commenting on the recent speech of Chancellor Churchill on allied debts.

The British settlement based on British capacity to pay, he said, had not promoted better feeling toward the United States. Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, suggested there would always be a feeling abroad against America until all the debts were settled and urged ratification of the Italian debt agreement.

Within twenty-five years, Mr. Copeland said, America would be shamed into concessions because it would pay by then its own debts. He predicted Belgium and Great Britain would not pay half the money provided in their agreements and that the remission would be with "our full consent."

700 GUELPH 'PHONES CUT OFF BY STORM

Estimated Loss of $50,000 To Bell Company.

GUELPH, April 1 (Canadian Press).—This city was completely isolated by the storm which raged here all Tuesday night and Wednesday, rain and snow quickly forming into ice which overloaded the telephone and telegraph wires, leaving a trail of damage that will take some time to clear away. In the city the estimated loss to the telephone system is about $50,000, due to the destruction of a new cable line under course of construction and heavy damage from the collapse of other lines, there having been counted about 250 poles broken and the wires a mass of tangled wreckage. About seven hundred of the phones of the city are out of commission.

There are no reports of damage to farm buildings or to winter crops. The farmers are of opinion no injury has resulted to the crops or the fruit trees, the buds not being sufficiently advanced. Apart from the inconvenience of the storm, no serious damage is reported other than to the telephone, telegraph and Hydro wiring systems. Traffic on the streets was almost impossible owing to ice on the pavements.

The special numbers by the choir included an anthem, "The Lord is My Strength," and a quintette, "What a Comforter is Jesus," by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston, W. H. Coombe, V. C. Lambert and M. McDowell.

Rev. Mr. Holling chose his text from 11 Corinthians, 3:1-3, "Do we begin again to commend ourselves, or need we, as some others, epistles of commendation, or letters of commendation from you? Ye are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read of all men; for as much as ye are manifestly declared to be the epistle of Christ ministered by us, written not with ink but with the spirit of the living God, not in tables of stone but in fleshy tables of the heart."

"The apostles' authority has been called in question by the Corinthian Christians, and Paul, writing in reply, says, 'Do you ask for my credentials? You are my letters patent, since you have been changed from heathenism to members of the church of God.'

"A Christian is one who has taken in, and is telling out, the spirit of Jesus," and the speaker went on to show that the things people think of, whether mean and unworthy, or good, pure and gracious, get themselves said in their faces and characters. While Christ never wrote anything in the literal sense, yet there never was such a prolific author as He is, for He writes Himself in the changed lives of His people. "Say, what is the gospel according to you?

"An author is not always a writer, and the spirit of the living God writes in life and fire and beauty on the tablets of men's hearts the redemption story of Jesus and His love—the author and the finisher of our faith.

"We are the pen the spirit uses, and the readers are those who observe our lives, and if we ring true they will turn back to the book to substantiate what they see in us. Better than carrying a Bible is being a Bible. Better than singing, 'Is my name written there?' is the query, 'Is His name written here?'

"If the channel is blocked, if time and wear have blurred His image, O come to Christ and get cleansed; be re-written and re-stamped, that once more you may be filled and used and His name may be clear-cut in your character and life."

Messrs. C. Ball, J. Byam, J. Larmer, E. Burnham and K. Skitch were the young men who acted as ushers during the day.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

PRISCILLA DEAN
Famous Screen Star whose beautiful hair has much to do with her fascination

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified Cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

SEVENTH LINE SOCIAL.

Cavan Residents Hold Another of Pleasant Social Events.

MILLBROOK, April 1. — The neighbors of the Seventh Line, Cavan, recently held another in the series of social evenings with which they have enlivened the winter, "Lyndhurst," the large and comfortable able home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dawson, being chosen for the gathering.

About 75 guests were present, every one in the best of spirits, and prepared to enjoy the evening to the fullest extent. The Byam family orchestra furnished suitable music for the round and square dances which were heartily entered into, eben the onlookers taking pleasure from the lively strains as the programme progressed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dawson were assisted during the lunch hour by Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Larmer, Mr. and Mrs. Offa Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Jas Roddy and Mrs. Edwin Parks.

Reluctance to break up the happy occasion led the guests to resume dancing after refreshments had been served and it was well into the morning hours before the final good nights were spoken, and the last sleighload was on its homeward way.

REVERENCE THEME OF LENTEN ADDRESS

Archdeacon Beamish, of Belleville, Speaks in Marmora Church.

MARMORA, April 1. — A most impressive discourse on 'Reverence' was delivered at St. Paul's on Wednesday evening by Archdeacon Beamish, of Belleville. "Irreverence," he declared, is the perversion of man's religious instinct. Reverence is the expression of a spirit of carefulness, fearful of desecrating. The prophet Habbabuk declared, 'The Lord is in His holy temple. Let all the earth keep silence before Him.' The word of Jehovah came to Moses, 'Put off they shoes from off thy feet for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground.' David wrote, 'Silence is praise to Thee, O God in Sion.'

"Deepest praise is silence. Deepest penitence has groanings which can never be uttered. The speaker then gave a striking portrayal of the scene in Gethsemane which was referred to in the text chosen, namely, Heb. 5:7, "Christ was heard in the garden by reason of His great reverence."

"We, too," he said, "must know something of His spirit, wherein He offered up prayers and supplications with strong crying and tears, praying unto Him who is able to save us from spiritual death. We, too, shall be heard for our reverence." Continuing Archdeacon Beamish urged preparation for the commemoration of the greatest tragedy of human existence. "Among the things which separate us from God," he said, "is unreality. Unreality is displayed when we hold doctrines or truths which are not felt. What is the reality of our prayers and our creed if we are not in personal relation with a personal God? When God is missed out of life, all round of service and practice becomes a burden. When God's presence is not felt, then religion becomes cold, bare and lifeless. By heart, mind and body we should make expressive reverence.

"Indolence is another spiritual foe of ours. It is vain for us to be indolent and careless in the part we take in Divine worship. We have seen true reverence in the person of our Lord. "We are shocked if people fail in their recognition of sacred things. But there are lesser form of irreverence to be guarded against. Discontent with what you are is one form. Irreverence is also shown in the spirit of levity. Reverence is the greatest mark you and I can have stamped upon us. The secret of Gladstone's greatness was his great reverence.

"The way to become great is from within. Human life in all its expressions is sacred. If you want to be truly good and great, if you want to be a worthy character, you cannot succeed without that spirit which comes from a personal relationship with a personal God."

The Letters of Queen Victoria

Published by Permission of His Majesty

KING GEORGE V

—composed of the Queen's correspondence with her Ministers and with her relatives together with extracts from her personal journal reveal the innermost thoughts of this extraordinary woman. Here is recounted how she decided policies—solved political problems—what she thought of her attaches of Court—her views on important issues of her day—how she bitterly disliked Bismark—how Kaiser Wilhelm as a little boy was a favorite with her. She tells of her love and affection for her husband—her bitter grief at his death—all are enthrallingly portrayed in vivid narrative.

Not only does it disclose the inner workings of a great monarchial government during the years between 1862 and 1878, but it reveals the human side of the ruler—her activities as a woman and a mother. Here indeed is a literary and historical treat that no man, woman or child should miss.

SIMPLE METHOD TO ELIMINATE LABOR

Mothers Spared Suffering, N. Y. Doctor Declares.

NEW YORK, April 1.—Child birth without pain was the promise held out by Dr. James T. Gwathmey, of the New York Lying-in Hospital.

Speaking before the Medical Society of the State of New York, he told of a new method of treatment which in the last three years has been used in 3,000 cases at his hospital with 96 per cent. of the cases showing the mother suffered no pain whatever.

The new method assures that the mother not only will suffer no pain, but that she retains consciousness and her baby in most cases will come into the world crying lustily, instead of in a form of stupor, induced by drugs used in some methods and which always means a period of suspense before the child begins normal breathing.

Dr. Gwathmey further said that the method was so simple that "a country doctor could handle it in a barn."

The treatment consists of three injections of magnesium sulphite in the arm or leg muscles of the mother plus a "retention enema" of ether and quinine. One-sixth of a grain of morphine is given with the first injection. The three treatments are given at approximately half-hour intervals.

FATHER MURRAY LAID TO REST AT COBOURG CHURCH

Death of Beloved Priest Recalls Efforts Made in Parish.

FOUNDED IN 1840.

Parish Then Extended From Trenton To Whitby.

COBOURG,—On Tuesday, the remains of the Rt. Rev. Monsignor E. H. Murray, who died here on Sunday were placed in St. Michael's Church, where they lay in state until the funeral took place yesterday. Many citizens of all denominations visited the church, for a last look at the beloved priest, who was esteemed and highly regarded by the people of the town generally. The story of Monsignor Murray's pastorate of nearly 47 years is one of high achievement and success. During it he founded St. Joseph's Convent and school, had a new presbytery erected, and then came the achievement of his life, the building of St. Michael's Church, an exceptionally fine edifice. The story of his work in this parish and of those who preceded him, laying the foundations, is closely associated with that of the parish of Peterborough, and the work there, and indeed, of the work throughout this district. It is a story, too, of much self-sacrificing labour, crowned by success.

The Rev. Alex F. Kernan was the first Catholic priest assigned to what was called the "Mission of Cobourg," and he came here during the early days of November, 1827. At that time there was no Catholic Church on the lake front, between Belleville and Toronto, excepting a frame church in Port Hope, which had never been completed, and which was afterwards destroyed by fire. Father Butler, priest at Peterboro, had, previous to this, been coming to Cobourg every six months and to Port Hope every six months. By sending notice ahead of his coming, the Catholics in the vicinity of the two places received word of the day and hour of service. From Hamilton and Haldimand and from Hope Township, they came, on foot or in wagons, to attend Mass once every three months, at either Cobourg or Port Hope. For a few years these were the only services held.

The First Mass in Cobourg.

The late Bernard McAllister, in his reminiscences, graphically tells the story of the first Mass in Cobourg, which was held at the Old Courthouse. William street was not open at that time for vehicular traffic but a fallen tree had been placed over the creek, at the spot where the bridge now is. It was flattened on the top, and pedestrians could cross the creek in this way. Hon. Henry Ruttan was sheriff and Thomas Barke was governor of the jail. Mrs. Barke lent a table which was used as an altar. Mr. McAllister was a little boy and tired with the long walk, fell asleep during the service, but the kindly priest, signified he was not to be wakened. The local Catholics then approached Bishop Gotlin of Kingston, and asked for a priest who would settle here and in a short time Father Kernan was sent. For a time he held Mass in private houses and then with the loyal support of his parishioners, set about building a church.

The First Church.

The Hon. Henry Ruttan and the Hon. Zaccheus Burnham each gave half an acre of land for the site of the first church, which was erected on William street. Mr. Wm. Solomon owned a wood north of Cobourg, generally known as "Solomon's Pine Woods," and he gave permission to those interested in building the church, to cut all the timber they required. The generosity of these three men, who were not of the Catholic faith, shows the broadmindedness of the people of those times, and further evidence of this spirit was shown during the winter of 1839-40, when men of all denominations, gave their assistance in getting out this timber and conveying it to the site of the proposed structure. The work of building the church, which was 75 feet by 45 feet wide, and the year 1840 saw it completed with tower, belfry and spire the congregation numbered about fifty people. His Lordship, Bishop Goulin, of Kingston, with much pomp and ceremony solemnly blessed and dedicated the building and with much rejoicing the small congregation took possession of their first church home. The parish at that time was a large one. Father Kernan ministered to the Catholic people from Trenton to Whitby and north, taking in the Township of South Monaghan. It is told that one day there came a man carrying a trunk on his shoulder, to the little burial plot that had been laid out. In it was the remains of his little child and he had walked a long way in order that the rites of his Church might be performed, and his little one be laid to rest in holy ground.

It was not uncommon either for a little cortege to pass through the village of Cobourg that had come from many miles away. Children stopping in their play to follow it, would see it, stop at the entrance to the little burial ground, the priest would come from his residence near by, and with reverent ceremony dust would be committed to dust.

But there was one funeral that came as a result of their beloved priest being stricken down in the prime of his early manhood, and that filled the heart of every parishioner with keen sorrow. Father Kernan had occasion to make a business trip to Toronto. He was riding in a two-wheeled gig with Bishop Power of Toronto, driving a fractious horse. At "Rouge Hill" the animal became unmanageable, and Father Kernan was thrown out, his head striking upon a stone. He died that night at Gates' Tavern, to which he had been carried. The body was taken to Toronto and buried and, as news travelled slowly, it was a few days before his people here knew of his death. A deputation went to Toronto, and begged that his body be disinterred and brought to Cobourg. Their request was granted. One day a tightly sealed casket was placed on board the Steamer "Princess Royal," of the Royal Mail Line, plying between Toronto and Kingston. When the boat arrived at the little wharf here, reverent hands removed the casket and, solemnly conveyed it to his own little church, amidst the heartfelt sorrowing of his loved flock, and citizens of Cobourg generally. He was laid at rest beneath the altar of the church.

Other Parish Priests.

In the early days of the Catholic parish in Cobourg, missionary priests used to pass up and down through the settlements from Kingston to Toronto, and remain for a day or so with those who might need their ministrations, and so, for a few months, good Friar Wilson remained with the people here, until Rev. William Dolan came to take charge. The latter stayed until September, 1844, and during his pastorate a presbytery was built on William street, near the church. Father Dolan was succeeded by Rev. Michael Timlin who was parish priest here for 33 years. Under his ministry in 1850-51, a large addition of brick was built to the church, with a view of transforming it shortly into an entirely new edifice. But in July, 1854, the church was burned down. The walls of the brick addition remained intact and a new church rose—phoenix-like from the ashes of the old one, and Mass was held in it before Christmas of the same year. Father Simlin's ministry here was marked with much success. When he became old, and the cares of the parish rested heavily upon him, he asked for a helper and Rev. Father Larkin was sent. One day, not so very long afterwards, Father Timlin also rested from his labours, and his remains were reverently laid to rest beneath the altar of the little church.

Afterwards a twelve-acre field was purchased for a cemetery. It was laid out in lots and beautified. A special plot near the entrance was portioned off and the remains of the two pioneer priests, who had died here, while ministering to their people, were laid to rest there. In this same plot yesterday, with fitting ceremony and reverence, the remains of the one who had ministered here for nearly 47 years, Rt. Rev. Monsignor Murray, were laid to rest.

Grafton a Separate Parish.

Rev. Father Larkin remained as priest in Cobourg for two years after the death of the late Rev. Father Timlin, and then the parish was divided, and the parish of St. Mary's, with church and presbytery at Grafton, was formed, and Rev. Father Larkin was assigned to this charge.

URGES HOSPITALS FOR DRUG ADDICTS

Toronto Speaker Gives Address About Delinquent Women.

TORONTO, April 1 (Canadian Press). — "Delinquent Women as Seen in Penal Institutions" was the theme of an address given by Dr. Lillian Langstaff at a meeting of the Social Hygiene Club. "We should have hospitals for drug addiction cases," she said, "to which they could be committed in exactly the same way that insane cases are committed to hospitals for the insane." Contending that Toronto does much for sex offenders, who constitute the largest group among delinquent women, Dr. Langstaff stated that their treatment from the time they are arraigned in court until their release from sentence is not an effort to punish them for misdeeds, but an attempt to reform their mode of living. Life on the farm had taken the place of the old-time confinement behind walls and bars, and among favorable surroundings they gain in health of body and mind.

CAPTAIN TOM BEST AT MURRAY STREET

In City Yesterday To Prepare For Meetings Next Week.

Captain Tom Best, who comes to Murray Street Baptist Church next Monday to conduct a series of evangelistic services, paid a visit to the city yesterday.

Arriving at noon, he was met at the station by Mr. Doug. Loomis and taken to Hooper's, where a number of workers had assembled to meet him at luncheon. Those present included: Dr. C. W. Rose, Messrs. A. J. Madill, Joseph Wearing, Francis Sutton, Roy White, Doug. Loomis and Lew. Ingram.

When given an outline of the work being done, Captain Best expressed appreciation of the enthusiasm of Murray Street people in next week's services. He commended particularly the group gathering for prayer.

Last night Captain Best gave an inspirational talk at the regular mid-week prayer service at the church. In spite of the stormy weather, there was an exceptionally large number of people out to meet Captain Best, and they went away convinced that Murray Street people are fortunate in being able to have a visit of a whole week from him.

The presence of so many of the younger members of the congregation last evening, members of the Baracas, others and Ever-ready organized Bible classes, would indicate that the need for special services is generally recognized through out the congregation.

Captain Best returned to Toronto this morning, and expects to arrive in Peterborough again at noon on Monday, April 5.

Letters are going out to members of the congregation this week, urging everyone to support the services by coming themselves regularly and bringing their friends.

The Baraca Class has sent out a special letter to members, and a group of fifteen fellows is undertaking to look after personally inviting the "other fellow."

As Captain Best pointed out last night, his visit cannot be a success if the church and its organizations fail to do their part.

The Baraca Class expects Captain Best to give an address a week from next Sunday during the regular session of the class. A general invitation is being given to the men of the congregation to visit the class that morning.

There will be at least one afternoon meeting next week, when Captain Best wishes to meet all the juniors. This will take place on Thursday afternoon. It is expected that the junior choir which has been in training under the direction of Mr. Francis Sutton, will provide the music for this young people's service.

ACROSS CANADA AND BACK.

Returning, the trip will be by the main line of the Canadian Pacific, through the great canyons of the Fraser and Thompson Rivers, and through the Selkirks, and Rockies, affording scenery such as can be found nowhere else on earth; Lake Louise, the Pearl of the Rockies, the most perfect gem of scenery on the world; another day at Banff, Edmonton, the Capital of Alberta; Saskatoon, the city of optimism; Devils Camp, on the Lake of the Woods, near Kenora, thence to Fort William, where one of the fine Canadian Pacific steamers will be used across Lake Superior and Huron to Port McNicoll, then rail to Toronto, where the trip will terminate.

PETERBORO ENTIRELY CUT OFF

lo and Cleveland. These points were all reached by the line running west from Toronto around the lake, which was the only line in service. So far as telephonic communication with the north and east was concerned, Toronto might as well have been in the middle of the Sahara desert.

The suggestion was made to the chief long distance operator that the breakdown should give the girls "a chance to catch up on their crochet work."

"Don't you worry," replied the operator, with a laugh. "They've had a busy night explaining to subscribers what lines can be used and why the others are out of service."

Toronto Almost Isolated.

Toronto was practically isolated as far as telegraphic communication with the outside world was concerned during the early part of the day. Wires of both systems, C.P.R. and C.N.R., were down in all directions.

"It was the greatest prostration of the service experienced in years," said an official of one of the systems. "The financial cost of the interruption may not be as great as expected, however, owing to the fact that the area affected was not as large as in the case of some former storms."

Although the city was completely isolated about noon, four or five circuits were in operation at 9 o'clock last night. By 10.30 o'clock all the day telegrams had been despatched on the C.N.T. and the wires were busy with night lettergrams. At 7 o'clock the only towns that could be reached by this system were Kitchener, Waterloo, Guelph, Elora and Fergus.

Winnipeg could be reached only through Chicago, the north country was cut off entirely, and messages to Montreal had to be despatched through Buffalo. At the same hour nothing could be sent by C.P.R. Some rush messages had to be telephoned to Hamilton in order to get service.

Passenger trains heading toward Toronto all day yesterday crawled along without the aid of telegraphic orders. In spite of such a situation the regular trains were on time and the Chicago trains over both roads were only 20 minutes late.

Passengers on the Detroit train from points in Ontario between Windsor and Toronto related their observations of the effect of the storm. Windsor suffered only slightly, and all traffic continued normally. One citizen from London did not have anything disastrous to relate regarding the storm in that city, saying that it was very mild in comparison with Galt and Kitchener.

In Kitchener the electric power was affected so that various plants had to shut down during the day. Lights were on and off at times, but were not completely out of order.

Train Orders Held Up.

Reports from the despatcher's office of the C.P.R. stated that 200 poles were down the other side of Agincourt. Agincourt was the farthest wire connection that the office in Toronto had. No connection with Cobourg or Peterboro had been made last night. An engineer from Trenton, whose train arrived during the afternoon, believed that the storm had not run any further east than a hundred miles. Without the aid of telegraphic connection with the train despatchers, he said, it was a case of feeling his way along.

Brighton was apparently out of the path of the storm, as a visitor to Toronto from that town last night said that little or no effect of the storm was apparent.

Motorman's Adventrue.

One radial car travelled over the rails from Port Dover to Galt yesterday, and then only through the efforts of the motorman, who stood on the roof of his car and broke the ice from the trolley wire all the way. Connections over the telephone line from Galt to Preston were off. Galt could hear Preston, but the latter could not connect. At Galt the lights were off in the station, and business was carried on by the aid of oil lamps.

Officials in the Union Station last night were working under peculiar conditions. They knew that so many trains would arrive in the station during the evening, but the first definite word usually arrived from Mimico, West Toronto or Parkdale. All other wires were down, and the 'phone despatchers said that they had never put in such a day as yesterday.

Woodstock Struck.

WOODSTOCK, March 31.—Completely isolated from the outside world, so far as telephone and telegraph communication is concerned, Woodstock is to-day in the grip of an ice storm and snow blizzard which ranks with the disastrous storm of exactly four years ago today, which did hundreds of thousand of dollars damage in this district. Starting with a high wind and snow storm last night, conditions gradually grew worse as the snow turned to sleet and rain, encasing the telephone, telegraph and electric wires in heavy coatings of ice, and causing many serious breaks in the transmission systems. This morning communication with Toronto and points east was impossible by either telegraph or telephone, and this afternoon the communications from the west also collapsed, leaving the city completely isolated.

APPROVED BY GERMANY.

BERLIN, April 1 (Canadian Press).—The cabinet unanimously decided yesterday to accept in principle the invitation of the League of Nations for Germany to be represented on the commission charged with the examination of the question of the composition of the league council.

FASHION PARADE PROVES SUCCESS

Materials of Taffeta and Georgette Predominate at the Showing.

WELL ATTENDED.

It was an extremely interested throng of nearly four hundred women who gathered in the upper showrooms of the Richard Hall establishment yesterday afternoon, to watch for an hour and a half the parade of new modes on living models, with three professional mannequins demonstrating the very latest ideas in fashionable attire.

The models displayed were lovely. High lights of the mode of the moment are the predominance of taffeta and georgette as materials the almost exclusive use of black and dark shades in frocks the knee length or just a little bit above it, of the skirts extreme tightness of bodice and flaring silhouette of skirt the wandering waistline which progresses anywhere from a normal mid-point to somewhere just above the knees, making the skirt in some instances merely a negligible flare that finishes a long-waisted bodice long sleeves with tiny cuffs and high collars formed mostly by the use of scarfs that end in long tabs or handkerchief jabots thrown over the shoulder rounded necklines on the collarless models and sleeveless effects for evening gowns, a novel use of wool embroidery to form shoulder-caps on street frocks, and a return to the transparent long sleeves and upper waist section that was so familiar a portion of the georgette frocks of some seasons back.

The showing opened with a display of several ensemble suits, the coat linings and tops matching in material, and some of the suits developed in light shades. One pale blue model had an odd trimming on the skirt of diagonal bands of green and white material and was worn with a large hat of the same soft blue.

With a long-waisted frock of black georgette, posed over bright red, was a tight-fitting coat of black taffeta, the sleeves and hem finished with bands of the material cut with irregular edges.

A lovely straight-line frock of bright apricot georgette had tiny gold collar and cuffs, the blouse front finished with a handkerchief jabot, the back of the skirt plain, and the front smocked under the long loose blouse.

An odd hemline, the front considerably shorter than the back, which was cut in rounded fashion from the sides, was done in points, the black taffeta which formed the dress being lined with orange. This frock had a plain, tight-fitting bodice, with rounded neckline and no sleeves, the low waistline finished with a large silver flower and the skirt in bouffant effect.

Another black taffeta had a full collar of gold lace falling from the neck at the back and descending to the waist.

An entire front line of tiny steel buttons trimmed a black taffeta that had a hem with rounded sections, a second hem of georgette descending from the taffeta, and a sport frock of printed crepe had a jabot of red and white and a red leather belt.

Medallions of fine gold lace trimmed the grey frock done in accordion-pleating, the skirt formed of three short tiers of the soft material.

Green suede leather collar and belt finished a navy frock, and a black model had fan-shaped double aprons of black and white checked silk that also formed the small rounded collar and tiny cuffs.

One evening gown of sage green was fairly long and had a flared skirt ornamented with diamond-shaped metallic insets, centred with rose brilliants.

A square sailor collar of bright red, with red ribbons at the cuffs, was an odd finish to a black street dress, and a frock of poppy red had sleeve sections and hem of black satin. A gown of oleander pink crepe was trimmed with gold down the front in panel effect and there was an odd pattern in fine sand braid on the entire blouse section and sleeves of a sand-colored georgette.

Several coats were shown, of the form-fitting type, one in cape effect of dark navy, another in invisible check, developed in sand, with dark brown buttons.

KIWANIS CLUB PROGRAMME BY

chener was the example the speaker used. Kitchener, he said, was always silent in public, but in private he was a fluent speaker on many topics. His silence was the most valuable asset he had in his great leadership. David Lloyd George, he speaker said, was another example. He got his education at a public school, yet he rose through a solid wall of class prejudice, which we as Canadians do not appreciate, and after a tremendous struggle he attained the destiny which was his. By developing natural endowments that we possess we can all make ourselves more valuable to the city of Peterborough.

Isaac P. McNabb.

Isaac McNabb, in his talk on practical leadership in Kiwanis said, that the cooperation of the rank and file was necessary for good leadership. This, he said, was evidenced in the Great War when Marshal Foch took command of the allied armies. "In Kiwanis," he said, "we have an elaborate organization. In this organization every man has a big responsibility, but the real success of our organization depends on the spirit of the rank and file. Napoleon is credited with the remark, he said, that if he was given British troops the world would be at his feet.

Kiwanis in his opinion stood for the following:

K—Kindness.
I—Initiative.
W—Will to do.
A—Anticipation, or looking ahead.
N—Neighborliness.
I—Industry.
S—Stability.

If you have the plan on the side only nothing is accomplished. Having knowledge of the great organization for which we stand, gain faith to defend, faith to go, believing that the world will be at the feet of an organization, and which Kiwanis stands for us.

President Jack Craig appointed new member, Dr. F. C. Neal to the under-privileged Children Committee.

MERCY REFUSED TO TIGER GIRL

Husband Lied in Promised Confession to New York Police.

SHIELDING PALS.

NEW YORK, April 1.— The mercy that might have been the portion of Mrs. Margaret Whittemore, "the tiger girl," was lost when her husband lied.

Under the shadow of death, penalty for the crime of man killing, Whittemore couldn't "play the game," and his wife was forced to relinquish her chance to start anew. The bargain made by Whittemore to tell the whole truth of the crimes committed by his bandit gang, if only his "moll" were given freedom, was never consummated.

This was revealed by District Attorney Banton after he had checked parts of Whittemore's confession, and found the prisoner had "squealed" wholeheartedly on Anthony Paladino and "Baltimore Willie" Unkelback, gangsters who had "squealed" on him, but had tried to shield Jacob and Leon Kramer, and Milton Goldberg, who refused to make a complete confession.

Whittemore will not receive another chance to free his wife, Banton said. The bandit will be turned over to Baltimore or Buffalo authorities, as Governor Smith sees fit. He is wanted in both cities on murder charges. Baltimore and Buffalo are advancing every conceivable argument as to why each is entitled to the trial.

Brooklyn also has entered investigation of the gang. The King's country grand jury to-day is expected to return indictments against two "fences" charged with having dealt with the gangsters.

Other indictments against members of the gang probably will be handed up by the grand jury of this county.

LABOR NOT ON TARIFF BOARD

President Tom Moore Objects To Omission By Government.

MET PREMIER KING.

OTTAWA, April 1 — Announcement that the Department of Health would be placed under the direction of the Minister of Labor was made Wednesday by Premier Mackenzie King to a delegation representing the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. There was no intention of absorbing the Department of Health in the Department of Labor, the Prime Minister said.

As in the case of the State Department, the Deputy Minister would remain as administrative head of the Department of Health, and it would continue, as in the past, to function with its own organization. There would, however, be but one Minister for the two departments.

New Minister Present.

The delegation met the Government for the purpose of presenting its legislative programme. Hon. J. C. Elliott, the newly-appointed Minister of Labor, was present. He made a brief address, promising his most careful consideration to the representations which were made. In addition to the Prime Minister and Mr. Elliott, the members of the Government receiving the delegation were Hon. Ernest Lanointe, Hon. George Bolvin, Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Hon. Charles Stewart, and Hon. J. H. King.

Tariff Board Complaint.

One of the complaints voiced by the delegation was that the new tariff board comprised no representative of Labor in its personnel.

The Prime Minister dealt with this objection in his reply. The Government, he said, had been faced with two alternatives. It might have made the board a large one and endeavored to place thereon representatives of a large number of activities. On the other hand, it might make the board small and grant it wide powers to bring into consultation those representatives which it felt would be of assistance at any particular time.

The latter course had been determined upon. The board at the moment would have a membership of three, but its powers enabled it to ask for representation of labor or of the women of Canada, etc., when necessary. There was not an industry or a trade which did not feel the effect of the tariff in some way.

NOT GERMAN

rman Blood Predominates in Many Royal Families.

eedless to say, the announcent that Princess Astrid was to t Buckingham Palace immedily evoked speculation as to the lihood of a match being arrangbetween the Prince of Wales and twenty-year-old Swedish princess is a daughter of Prince Charles Princess Ingeborg. The fact Astrid is beautiful, is fond of ntry life and sports and is a ndid dancer lent an air of usibility to the story that a bethal is imminent.

hroughout more than two cenes, British rulers have sought ir brides among one or other of numerous princely families of many. The Prince Consort was he house of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha. n Queen Alexandra, though led by Tennyson as "the sea's daughter," was of German cent. And so, of course, was en Mary, despite her English h. There are few royal houses Europe, outside those of Spain Italy, where the German strain ot predominant.

he Swedish royal family is, howa striking exception.

e Princess Astrid is a member e house of Bernadotte whose der was one of Napoleon's shals.

e popular and widespread tra- has it that Marshal Jean iste Bernadotte was the son of innkeeper. The picturesque nd is, however, incorrect. The Bernadotte was a minor govnent official at Pau, where the t Bernadotte himself was born 763.

e entered the army at 17, and r the Revolution espoused the ublican cause, and in a striking eer won much distinction. ough out of sympathy with Napo's imperial ambitions, Bernadotte was one of the eighteen Marshals of France named by Napoleon I. on his accession.

Subsequently, though serving his Imperial master well, Bernadotte did not always agree with Napoleon. Indeed, the Emperor on at least one occasion seriously considered sending him before a firing squad.

A curious concatenation of fortuitious circumstances was to transform the marshal of France into founder of a new royal house. Bernadotte had shown considerable kindness to some Swedish prisoners who took home a story that made the marshal a popular figure throughout Sweden. The Swedish monarch, Charles XIII., was childless, and in his dotage; and a Swedish embassy to various European capitals sought a successor. The princeling first selected died suddenly; and then it was that one of the ambassadors, Morner, quite of his own initiative, in 1810 offered the Swedish crown to Bernadotte.

Napoleon laughed the idea aside as utterly absurd. Bernadotte himself so regarded it. Of humble family, without one drop of noble blood in his veins, the thing was impossible. So the marshal jestingly said that if the Swedish Riksdag offered him the crown, he'd take it.

The Swedish army, however, at that critical juncture, wanted as ruler a capable soldier. And Bernadotte, whatever his lack of noble blood, was an outstanding figure in that great galaxy of military talent developed under the first empire.

Within a couple of months the Swedish Riksdag made the formal offer. Bernadotte's jesting acceptance stood good. Charles XIII. formally adopted Bernadotte as his son and successor, under the name of Crown Prince Charles John.

There seems to have been some question regarding Madame Bernadotte. She had been Desiree Clary, daughter of a Marseilles banker, but a saving fact was that one of her sisters was the wife of Joseph Bonaparte, for a brief period King of Spain. Anyway, Desiree Clary, the banker's daughter, became Crown Princess—and later Queen—Desideria.

From his acceptance as Crown Prince, Charles John was virtual ruler of Sweden, directing the military and political policy of his adopted country.

He definitely aligned himself against Napoleon, and his contribution to the military tactics which ended in the defeat of the French Emperor at Leipzig was invaluable, though it has received unduly slight credit from English historians.

As Charles XIV., Bernadotte ruled Sweden from 1816 till his death in 1844, at the ripe old age of 81. The present king, Gustaf V., is his great-grandson, and Princess Astrid a great-great-granddaughter.

Another link between the Swedish [illegible] house and revolutionary and [illegible] France is the fact that Ber[illegible]son and successor, Oscar [illegible] Josephine de Beauharnais, daughter of Prince Eugene de Beauharnais, duke of Leuchtenberg, and grand-daughter of Napoleon's first empress, the famous Josephine. So that Princess Astrid is a direct descendant of the first Empress of France, though not of the first Emperor.

As King of Sweden, Charles XIV. seems to have pretty well belied the republican sympathies he cherished when he was the humble French officer, Bernadotte. His rule was decidedly autocratic. Yet throughout a third of a century as crown prince and king he retained an amazing popularity among the Swedish people of all classes, a popularity that has, seemingly, been handed down to all his descendants.

It is a singular fact that of all the royal houses established as a result of the revolutionary changes wrought by the great Napoleon, the only one still exercising ruling power is that founded as a result of an accident and a jest by the son of a humble French procurator at Pau.

The linking of that house by marriage with the British house of Windsor would be merely one more development in a romantic story — though one of peculiar interest to Canadians.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLES.

PARIS, April 1.—A local man tied wife's feet to a chair and made her sit with him until he had solved a cross-word puzzle. She had him arrested for cruelty when it was found that the rope was tied so tightly it caused blood to flow.

Not a Laxative

"The continued use of laxatives and cathartics only aggravates constipation," says a prominent medical authority.

Nujol is an internal lubricant, not a laxative, so cannot gripe. Take Nujol regularly and you will prevent the absorption into the blood of poisons from the constipated bowel.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit, and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

USE OF INSULIN HAS NOT PROVED TO BE INJURIOUS

Doctor Tells of Extended Life of Diabetes Sufferers.

FEW ILL RESULTS.

One Death From Overdose Only Instance Known—Is Very Effective.

NEW YORK, April 1. — The predictions that were made at the time of the original introduction of insulin in 1922, that its long-continued use would prove injurious to patients, have not been justified, according to Dr. John Ralston Williams, of Rochester, who addressed the section of medicine of the Medical Society of the State of New York here yesterday afternoon on the subject, "The Clinical Results of the Long Continued Use of Insulin."

Dr. Williams said that he knew of one instance, where an extreme overdose of insulin administered at home had caused death, but that minor overdoses had caused temporarily ill results only. Deaths from diabetes of persons treated with insulin are extremely rare, he said.

Tenure of Life Extended.

"Before insulin," said Dr. Williams, "a child under ten years with diabetes rarely lived two years. Between the ages of ten and twenty death occurred in from two to four years, and from the ages of twenty to thirty in four to six years. After thirty years the period extended from five to fifteen years. Since insulin there have been few deaths due to diabetes alone where properly treated. The tenure of life has been extended indefinitely."

Dr. Williams opposed the practice of keeping patients on the lowest possible diet and administering insulin only when it was necessary to save life. He said that experience indicated that a patient was happier easier to manage, and better able to work when allowed a diet considerably above the minimum for the maintenance of life. Even where the use of insulin was not absolutely necessary, it was administered to new patients who came to the hospital at Rochester with which he is connected.

Not Misled.

"We do that in a way to educate them," he said. "They learn something about insulin. Later when they go home, and are told that insulin is very dangerous, or that somebody has something just as good, they are not misled."

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 31. (Canadian Press).—Various Belgians who took part in the reception of the Canadian exhibition train which toured Belgium two years ago, yesterday received souvenir badges presented by the Canadian Government. The badges were presented at a gathering attended by a number of representatives of Belgian industries.

The Canadian exhibition train toured Belgium and France for the purpose of advertising Canadian products and industries and encouraging trade between the Dominion and these countries.

FIVE KILLED BY SLIDE OF ROCK

Blasting Operations in Upper New York Result in Minor Disaster.

THREE INJURED.

NEW YORK, April 1.— Fort Horn Rock, a stony promontory at Broadway and 123rd street, which through the years had withstood the rising tide of building construction, collapsed Tuesday into the adjoining excavation of the world's tallest building and five men were killed

Three others were injured. Blasting had been under way to prepare for erection of the proposed 65-storey Christian Missions Building and the laborers were removing rock from the excavation when the gaunt cliff started with a threatering rumble to slide down on them.

Trapped in the excavation, the five laborers had to stand for seconds while death in the form of tons of rock poured down on them. With the impact of the great mass of rock on the bottom of the excavation, broken stone flew in all directions, and three other laborers were so seriously injured by flying particles that they had to be taken to hospitals.

CARGO LIMIT FOR LAKE LESS

Chicago Diversion Blamed For Part of Nine Inch Drop.

WARNING ISSUED.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 31 (Canadian Press). — A warning that cargoes be limited to 17 feet 9 inches depth on Lake Superior was issued yesterday by George A. Marr, secretary of the Lake Carriers' Association. This is about nine inches less than last year's maximum.

Chicago's diversion of water is responsible for at least six inches less water than normal, Marr said.

PRESENTATION TO BAILIEBORO GIRL

Miss Kathleen Barnard Handsomely Remembered By Friends.

BAILIEBORO, April 1—On Friday evening about sixty of the young folks of this district met at the home of Miss Kathleen Barnard, and presented her with a handsome ivory clock and other pieces of ivory, as well as a beautiful box of writing paper.

An appropriate address was read by Miss Ruth Dawson, while Miss Esther Lang made the presentation. Although Miss Barnard was completely taken by surprise, she made a very suitable reply, thanking the young people for their thoughtfulness.

The remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in playing cards and dancing.

Miss Barnard is leaving shortly for Toronto where she intends taking a business course.

Bible Class Social

On Friday evening the men's adult Bible class under the direction of their teacher, Percy Barnard, entertained the women's adult Bible class of the United Sunday School at a social evening in Bateson's hall. There were about forty of the members present, and a most enjoyable social time was spent.

The pastor, Rev. W. H. Foley, acted as chairman, and the following program was enjoyed: duets by Miss M. White and Mrs. N. Thompson; solos by Mr. W. Parsons; readings by Mrs. J. Jewison, Mrs. W. Bateman and little Elva Jewison. The pastor made a brief address introducing the idea of returning again to the old custom of having family pews, and also announcing the fact that Easter Sunday would be observed as decision day, at which he sincerely hoped that a number of the boys and girls of the Bailieboro United Sunday School would make their decision between the two spiritual lives, and in the near future become members of the church. Brief addresses were also made by John Porter, teacher of the Women's adult Bible class, and P. Barnard, teacher of the men's class, and the superintendents, F. Dawson and F. Barnard.

At the conclusion of the program two very interesting contests were held. The party was divided into groups of four, while the first contest was a tree and plant contest. The second was a cake guessing contest, both of these contests made lots of fun for the entire party.

A splendid lunch was then served, and this brought the successful event to a close.

Among those who were present were, Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Foley, Mr. and Mrs. A. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jewison, Mr. and Mrs. F. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jewison, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bateson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Jewison, Mr. and Mrs. W. Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. P. Barnard, Mr. and Mrs. N. Thompson; Misses M. White, B. Harmer, G. Dawson, Mrs. W. Barnard, Mrs. W. Bateman, Miss Elva Jewison, Miss A. Heaslip, Mrs. J. Heaslip, Mrs. J. Long. Messrs. E. White, J. Halt, W. Long, F. Barnard, J. Porter, C. Wicks, R. Harper, E. Eagleson, G. Dawson, G. Fletcher, W. Gainer.

Philosophy goes no further than probabilities, and in every assertion keeps a doubt in reserve.

NAUEN, April 1.—A well-organized white slave traffic system has been discovered in the harbor of Latvia. Some 1,500 men emigrate a month from Russia to South America, the emigrants being mostly slave traders, accompanied by beautiful Aussian, German, Caucasian and Polish women whom they register as their wives. The prices paid are said to be from $5,000 to $15,000 each.

BRISK TRAFFIC OVER RICE LAKE

Spring May Be Near, But the Ice Is Apparently Firm.

SHOOTING MISHAP.

BAILIEBORO, April 1. — The ice on Rice Lake still remains firm and there is still a heavy traffic upon its surface. It affords a most convenient outlet for the farmers residing at the eastern end of the township to get out to the provincial highway, now that the sideroads are in such a poor condition for travel.

There is a great deal of snow upon the sidelines and in many places they are quite unsafe to drive horses on. Where the provincial highway had been kept graded down to enable the cars to travel on during the winter, the snow has almost completely vanished. Thus the farmers are enjoying the opportunity that the lake affords them of driving to the highway by car or wagon and escaping the bad sideroads. This winter Rice Lake has been travelled on more than it has been for many years, and the good road, which is so spacious that accidents very rarely occur, will be greatly missed when the ice becomes no longer safe to travel upon.

New Boat House.

W. D. Hibbard is getting ready for his summer business by erecting a new up to date individual stall boat house on the lake shore just south of his residence, and he has several fine new boats to add to his number this season including an up to date large motor launch. Mr. Hibbard will have more than 20 boats to start his business again with this spring. Of this number mostly all the boats are excellent cedar skiffs which have been built to stand the waves of Rice Lake

Henry Kidd Injured.

Henry Kidd, a resident of this village, happened with a painful accident recently. Mr. Kidd was shooting at a flock of sparrows, and while discharging a shot gun, pulled the trigger catching the soft flesh of his thumb between the hammer of the gun and the pin, tearing a huge piece of flesh of his thumb. The hand is being treated to prevent lockjaw.

Good Attendance of Members of Keene Congregation.

KEENE, April 1.—The annual congregational meeting of the United Methodist Church was held on Monday evening, when a goodly number were present.

TRAPPERS TURN TO NORTH GOLD FIELDS

Gold Has More Attraction Than Setting Trap Lines.

EDMONTON, Alta., April 1.—(By Canadian Press).—While despatches from Eastern Canada indicate that the Red Lake goldfields will see a genuine "rush" next spring trappers scattered throughout the Northwest Territories, are making their way to the scene of the reported silver strike near Fort McMurray and to Fort Smith from where stories have come of a promising platinum find.

The trek to both these centres, while it has not assumed the proportions of a "rush" has been one of steady movement. Many trappers have already abandoned their traplines in response to the more alluring urge of hidden wealth. Old-time prospectors from many points in the province, are preparing to leave for the North, early next spring, while a number of adventurers have already left to stake claims.

Several shipments of horses and supplies will leave for Fort McMurray this month and definite explorations work is expected to get under way with the break-up of winter.

STARTING WORK OF OPENING MINE

Repairs to Buildings and Machinery Come First.

PROPERTIES SOUGHT

MADOC, April 1.—On Thursday morning the first crew of workers will begin work on the lead mine about to be re-opened by the Neal Hollandia Lead Mine Co., Limited. This mine is situated about two miles north-east of Bannockburn. The first work will consist of repairing buildings and machinery that are now at the plant and installing such other machinery and erecting such other buildings as are necessary for the resumption of work. It is expected that the first shipments of ore from the mine will be made about the first of May. It is not intended to utilize the smelter now at the plant for some time to come, as the lead will be shipped in its crude form to a market which is seeking large quantities of it.

It is reported that two gentlemen from the United States were in Madoc the latter part of last week seeking lead properties for which there seems to be a considerable demand owing to the strength which has developed in the markets for that mineral. It is understood that the best-known properties have already been corralled by the Neal Hollandia Lead Mine interests.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By EDSON R. WAITE, Secretay, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

THAT you should not have to be asked to boost your city. You should do it without asking.

THAT you should boost morning, noon and night, always remembering that your city deserves boosting.

THAT there is good in every city. Help develop the good.

THAT you should always remember there are two sides to every question. You might be on the wrong side; if so, don't hesitate—get on the right side.

THAT now is the golden opportunity for your city. Don't postpone this work; do your share to develop this opportunity.

THAT the citizens of your city are sort of related. They, as a unit, are responsible for what work is done and what is left undone.

IT IS SAID THAT THE MARK OF A GOOD CITIZEN IS HIS WILLINGNESS TO DO WHAT WHICH WILL BE A HELP TO THE HOME CITY WITHOUT REGARD AS TO WHETHER OR NOT IT IS PERSONALLY AGREEABLE TO HIM. HOWEVER, THE KNOWLEDGE THAT HE IS HELPING THE HOME CITY SHOULD MAKE IT AGREEABLE.

BISHOP UNABLE TO VISIT MADOC

Poor Roads Cause Postponement of Confirmation Service.

FAREWELL VISIT

MADOC, April 1.—Owing to the exceedingly bad condition of the roads between Madoc and Belleville and the length of time it takes to traverse them, the visit of Bishop Bidwell to St. John's church last Sunday afternoon had to be cancelled. This cause keen disappointment to many particularly as Confirmation service was to have been held. Three of the candidates went to Belleville and were confirmed with the class of St. Thomas' church on Sunday morning. The remaining candidates will be confirmed at the next visit of the Bishop of the Diocese, it is expected.

Bishop Bidwell preached in St. Thomas' church in the morning and in Christ church, Belleville, in the evening.

This is the Bishop's farewell visit and Madoc people regret very much the impossibility of his being here.

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT Y.P.L. MEETING

Citizenship Evening Observed by Norwood United Young People.

NORWOOD, April 1.—A very interesting meeting was held in Monday evening by the Young People's League of the United church. About seventy-five were present. The president, Miss Dorothy Loye, occupied the chair. It being citizenship evening the programme opened with the singing of "O Canada", after which Miss Loye gave a short synopsis of the first four chapters of St. Mark's gospel. Miss Bertina Beavis then gave the bible reading and "Lord's Prayer" was repeated in unison, after which some matters of business were discussed and settled. Miss Margaret Armstrong received the prize for selling the most tickets for the concert given recently by Miss Frances Nickawa, under the auspices of the league.

A debate followed, the subject being, "Resolved that the automobile had done more harm than good." The affirmative was taken by Misses Anna Brethen, Lillian Howson and Florence Cameron and the negative by Messrs. Williard Stillman, Percy Gardner and W. Wendt. The judges were Rev. F. Stillman, representing the pulpit, Mrs. R. G. Lawlor, representing education, and Mr. H. Keefer, representing the press. Each speaker was allowed seven minutes and the leader of the affirmative three minutes to reply. Rev. T. M. Wesley was timekeeper. The speeches of all the debaters were very interesting but the decision for delivery was awarded to the ladies by one point. However the final decision was awarded to the negative side. While the judges were coming to their decision Miss Olive Webster favored the audience with an instrumental solo. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction.

COBOURG, April 1.—The interchurch debates under auspices of the Bay of Quinte Conference for the Whattam Cup are awakening considerable interest in this locality. On Friday night last in Trinity United church Hall here, the Cobourg and Bethesda Young People's Leagues met in debate. Trinity was represented by Dan Harper and George Turner, who supported the negative and Bethesda by George Kennedy and Gus Rosevear who supported the affirmative. The subject was: "Resolved that the spirit of co-operation as against the spirit of competition is to the best interests of our commercial life. Rev. Alfred Brown, D.D., presided with his usual ability. The judges were Rev. W. A. Bremner, Miss Phil Hickey and ex-Reeve R. Geo. Holdsworth of Hamilton township. BRITISH SETTLERS LIKE CANADA; WRITING FAVORABLY TO FRIENDS

Tell of Successes Already Attained in Their New Homes.

MORE THAN PLEASED

Here Year Under Selected Family Immigration Scheme.

OTTAWA, April 1.—British settlers who came to Canada last year under the Selected Family Scheme are proving good immigration agents for their adopted country.

Many of the members of these families have recently written to friends and the agents of the Department of Immigration and Colonization in the districts of Great Britain from which they came, giving an account of their efforts and the measure of success they have already attained. These letters are encouraging documents and indicate the good opportunities farming in Canada offers to the thrifty and industrious.

"We are all more than pleased with Canada," writes Henry Murchie, from his farm near Bawlf, Alberta. He came to Canada last May with his wife and six children from West Linton, Peebleshire, Scotland. "The two boys old enough to work, also myself and one daughter, have not been out of employment since we came to Canada," continues Mr. Murchie in his letter to the Canadian Emigration Agent at Glasgow. "The wages are superior to those paid for similar work in Scotland I would not say that Canada is a country where one can get rich quick, but to me it is a country where any working man can become independent, and that is something worth while to my way of thinking. As for people of Canada, I cannot speak too highly of them. They are ever ready to give you a helping hand.

"Now this is written in plain Scotch just as I have found things myself," concludes Mr. Murchie's letter.

Richard W. Morgan worked as a farm hand in Alberta from 1908 till he returned to his old home in North Wales in 1915. Last May he returned to Ponoka, Alberta, with his wife and six-year-old daughter. A few weeks ago Mr. Morgan wrote to the Shipping Agent at Oswestry, England, a letter in which he first describes his house on the farm purchased for him by the Land Settlement Branch. "We have quite a nice house," he writes; "kitchen, dining-room, sitting-room, three good bedrooms, milk house, good well, a barn with stabling for six horses and one large enough for 12 cows."

He was impressed with the welcome he and his family received on their arrival at Ponoka. "We were met by the Mayor, members of the Council and their wives," states Mr. Morgan. "They escorted us to the Royal Hotel where we had breakfast. We were given a parcel of groceries to take out to the farm. This welcome was a great surprise to us, for we were not prepared for it as the Prince of Wales would be. I am sure no one could have had a better welcome to Canada than we received."

James McFie is now a good citizen of Joyceville, near Kingston, Ontario, though he has been there only a few months. But this is not surprising, for he was a good citizen of Rothesay, Scotland. An indication that Mr. McFie is the right kind of settler is given in the following extracts from his letter to the Canadian Emigration Agent at Glasgow. "Just a few lines to say we have now been located in our new home in Canada several months. We have been well treated by our neighbour farmers, who help and give advice on how things are done here."

After describing his house and farm buildings, Mr. McFie writes: "I have one cow, have raised two calves, four pigs, 100 head of poultry; also one horse. I have a waggon, a buggy, a sleigh, binder, mower, rake, disc, plough, harrow, scuffler, etc. I have bought these myself. You get good chances at sales, so I am well satisfied. The field crops were hay and oats which were extra good. The size of the orchard is one acre, consists of 14 apple trees and we had a big crop this year, each tree on an average produced four barrels. We had 25 bags of potatoes, cabbage, carrots, parsnips, onions, parsley, beet, sweet corn, beans, peas, pumpkins, cucumbers. The tomatoes were my greatest surprise. We planted 40 plants in a piece of good soil and we took off an abundant crop. So I must say that a married man wanting to make a home for himself, wife and children, experienced in farming, does not need to be afraid, for he will soon be his own master. He can go out and in as he likes and for single men there is a great demand, if they have farm experience. They are well treated, master and man all the same; there are not three classes. There is one thing about the farming in Canada, the work is more easily done and easier on men than in the farms in Scotland."

The foregoing extracts are taken from only a few of many similar letters received by the agents of the Department of Immigration and Colonization, but they are sufficient to give a glimpse of the type and mettle of the settlers that are coming to Canada under the British Family Farm Settlement Scheme. The agreement between the British and Canadian Governments provides for bringing 3,000 families to the Dominion from the British Isles by the end of 1927. Under it the settler is loaned up to $1,500 by the British Government, the Canadian Government undertaking to find a suitable farm and assist the settler to establish himself and his family successfully.

FIRST SONG BIRDS HEARD AT OMEMEE

Robins and Song Sparrows Open Vernal Chorus.

OMEMEE, April 1.—Signs of Spring are trying hard to make an appearance in Omemee. Several citizens report having seen a robin and the song sparrow has also been heard peeling out sweet notes. Spring millinery is on display in the departmental stores while housecleaning necessities and labor saving articles appear in store windows. Wednesday's snow storm will, however, now delay its progress and one resident at least was pessimistic enough to remark that the prediction of no summer in 1926 might come true. The snow was fast sinking on the country roads and traffic was slow in many places. The mailmen did not cover their route throughout the entire week owing to the breaking up of roads and it will be some time now before the cars will be able to be used as was anticipated last week.

Among the prizewinners of the recent Mail and Empire picture puzzle, we notice the name of Mr. W. J. Thorne of Omemee, who was successful in winning a cash prize of $24. Congratulations.

IMMIGRATION IS BEING OPPOSED BY MANY PEOPLE

Steady Colonization of Canada is Necessary for Prosperity.

VALUES RECEDE

Agricultural Lands Are Steadily Becoming Less Valuable in Canada.

No public issue has been the victim of more platitudes than that of immigration on platform and in press. In European countries it is realized that the economics of population lies at the basis and foundation of progressive statesmanship. In Canada, where the subject is of such vital importance, we have never even penetrated below its surface. There seems to be no intelligent public opinion of the question, and our economic groups are consequently hopelessly divided on the issue. Added population merely spells further unemployment to the labor group and increased competition to the farmer. Hence, we frequently find our great rural organizations unfriendly and even officially antagonistic towards any effort to augment Canada's population. This creates a mischievous and dangerous national situation.

Public Apathy.

And yet an intelligent study of the population question leaves one in no doubt, that lasting agricultural prosperity is not possible without the steady, progressive colonization and development of our extensive vacant spaces by real agricultural settlers. The realization of such a program would, however, involve a constructive and forward looking colonization effort of a magnitude no government could safely contemplate today in view of the apathetic state of average Canadian public opinion on the subject. The supertask confronting Canada at this moment, therefore, would appear to be to convince her own citizens of the wisdom of regarding the population question as the corner stone of all public policies, which, indeed, it is.

Agricultural Unrest.

We have for almost a decade been confronted with the demoralizing spectacle of steadily receding rural land values all through Canada. This was the outcome of a combination of circumstances, but has been chiefly due to the cessation of immigration, coupled with the modern spectacular drift to the cities. Land values today, east and west, are at very low ebb, and many farmers have thus seen their chief asset shrink to such an extent that substantial equities have in some instances totally disappeared representing the loss of the fruit of years of hard labor on the part of every member of the family. This condition we may safely regard as the chief cause of the present agricultural unrest and exodus.

The Agricultural Credit Structure.

Land represents the principal borrowing asset of the farmer. Stable land values lie at the foundation of rural credit in practically all its forms. When land values become demoralized the whole agricultural credit structure is undermined. Credit of all sorts is curtailed and interest rates advance. In fact, it may be laid down as an economic axiom, that a prosperous agriculture and a contented rural population are not within the possibilities with receding and unstable land values. The demoralizing effect in itself upon the farmer of the progressive shrinkage of his chief capital asset is bound to exercise a most unfortunate influence upon his state of mind and actions.

Restoring Agricultural Confidence.

There is today a vast area of vacant lands on the market in the prairie section of Canada and improved farms are offered for sale in other provinces at bargain prices. The demand for such properties slackened preceptibly with the drying up of the stimulating flow of immigration some years ago. The farmer should be keenly interested in recreating a normal market for rural properties. A comparatively limited demand for land would quickly be reflected in strengthened values all around and the moral effect would be electrical. Urban business would automatically benefit through such a restoration of agricultural confidence. The bitter experience of the past and the good sense of the people would prevent anything approaching "boom" conditions which are always to be shunned.

Vigorous Colonization Efforts.

The Canadian farmer has a vital interest in the inauguration of vigorous and comprehensive policies by the various governments and railways designed to promote the actual colonization of our vacant agricultural areas. It would mean the stabilization of the value of his chief working asset, again placing his industry on a solvent basis, it would solve his labor problem, improve his social and economic conditions, lighten the burden of taxation and improve his position in many other directions.

There is no consolation except in truth alone. —Pascal.

YESTERDAY'S STORM HOLDS UP COMMUNICATION WEST OF CITY

Damage To Telegraph and Telephone Estimated at One Million Dollars.

CITIES CUT OFF.

Situation Intensified By the Heavy Rains and Drop in Temperature.

TORONTO, April 1 (Canadian Press).—Telegraph and telephone services in Central Ontario are still paralyzed to-day, following yesterday's sleet storm and violent winds which brought down hundreds of poles, particularly in rural areas. The situation was intensified during the night by continued heavy winds and lower temperatures.,, Electrical utilities suffered severely and in some places the tie-up was complete. Hydro power in Brantford was cut off after nine o'clock last night, while Guelph was practically isolated. Locally, transportation, light and telephone services were maintained with only slight interruptions, but traffic delays were numerous on account of broken wires and falling trees.

One death is attributed to the storm, but damages suffered by telegraph and telephone companies estimated at more than a million dollars.

TURKS CAREFUL NOT TO QUARREL WITH POWERS

Not Responding to Appeals of Fellow Moslems for Aid.

STUDY MODERNISM

See That Pan-Mahometanism Has Been Futile Catchword.

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)

LONDON, April 1. — (United Press).—The Mahometan nationalities of Africa and Asia are failing in their effort to stimulate a world-wide revolt against Christendom. The Riff tribesmen in Morocco and the Druse rebels in Syria are isolated in their belligerent activities against France. Their emissaries sent to other Mahometan countries have not succeeded in persuading any fellow Moslems that the time is ripe for international concerted action.

The Turkish Government is being watched carefully by the Christian powers in Europe for any signs of restlessness under the pressure which the Druse tribesmen especially are exerting at Angora. But an entirely correct attitude is being maintained by the Turks. They have their own dispute with Great Britain concerning the boundary of the oil regions of Mosul which antedates both the Moroccan and the Syrian uprisings. There is no relationship, in fact, between the Mosul controversy and the pan-Mahometan movement. Turkey gives evidence of believing that pan-Mahometanism is not a living issue at the present time.

On the contrary, the Angora Government is seeking its own isolation for the purpose of effecting economic and political reforms from within. There has never been a time in recent diplomatic history when the Turks showed such small interest in international affairs as now. The crafty diplomacy of the Hellespont, which reached its climax before the war during the sultanate of Abdul Hamid, has disappeared from Angora. The Turks are consistently following their original postwar intuition, which caused them to remove their capital from the frontier of Christendom, at Constantinople, to the inaccessible interior of Angora. Instead of challenging Christendom as the Mahometans of Morocco and Syria desire their fellow-Moslems everywhere to do, the Turks are turning to reforms in education and are extending freedom among women as well as men in the new republic.

That is to say, Turkish leaders have reached the conclusion that Mahometanism cannot be a strong force in the world until it becomes modernized. There is in his new movement the possibility of a tremendous evolution in Moslem culture and progress which eventually may affect vitally the international situation in the Near East and Southeastern Europe.

During the struggle between Mahometanism and Christianity, between the seventh and thirteenth centuries in Europe the Mahometans showed higher military skill than the Christians, as the Crusades bear witness. They developed a more versatile culture and alone kept alive the ancient learning of Greece. In Spain, especially, the leaders of Christian thought in medicine, engineering, science and the kindred arts, from all parts of Europe went to school under Mahomedan instruction. The Koran was interpreted liberally and progressivism flourished among the Moslems.

After the thirteenth century, a reactionary movement in theology gained the upper hand among the Moslems. Learning and creative activity of all kinds were suppressed at the behest of the theologians who preached that their own interpretations of the doctrines of Mahomet were sufficient for mankind's welfare. Simultaneously with this retrograde evolution in all Mahometan countries, Christian Europe reacted profoundly under the defeats of the Crusades and turned toward self-development and self-reliance which led to the Renaissance and modernism.

Since then, the Christian powers have flourished as the Mahometans have sunk to lower and still lower levels. The Turkish leaders are now beginning to understand the cause of this reversal. They are realizing that the theologians have been false guides; and this is the primary reason why the Turks but recently abolished the Caliphate, the Moslem office carrying primacy of dictatorial religious powers.

Turkey now is groping for a practical way of recovery from the inactivity of the past. Pan-Mahometanism is seen to be but a futile catchword. Not verbal formulae but education and progressive development in terms of creative action hold the secrets of Turkey's future, if there is to be any future. So, the Moors and the Druse tribesmen are making their appeals in vain or moral support from the rest of the Moslem world. The Moslems are divided among themselves, not because of internal emities, but because they are beginning to evolve the spirit of individualism which Christianty calls enlightened self-interest and which is the major driving force of progress.

FORD IN A FORD.

LOS ANGELES, April 1.—Completing the last 308 miles at a rate of nearly a mile a minute, Henry Ford arrived here early to-day, thus finishing his transcontinental trip in a flivver. Mr. Ford said he hadn't found a bump in the road. He drove around Los Angeles for several hours after arriving, saying he was not tired at all. He said he intends to start the return trip to Detroit to-morrow.

TRY BARBED WIRE.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Swayed by the oratory of Senator Borah, the Senate voted viva voce to-day to enter the League of Nations en masse. "What this country needs is more entangling alliances," Borah asserted in his ringing peroration. He hurled such a fire of scorn upon the few who opposed the League that they were reported to be packing their trunks for a junket to Geneva to see if they couldn't get the U.S. in at once.

RIDE HIM, COWBOY.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., April 1 (Via Shetland Pony Express). — "Wildfire," the bronco captured here last April 1, which no cowboy in these parts has been able to ride, was as tame as a furtle under the masterful hands of the Prince of Wales here to-day. His Highness mounted "Wildfire" at 6 a.m. (the Prince is a famous early riser) and at 6.30 a.m. was still in the saddle, doing a light canter around the pasture.

CHANGES TUNE.

WAXAHACHEE, Tex., April 1.—President Calvin Coolidge, better known as "Silent Cal," broke his long fast of silence here to-day with a ringing 12-hour speech denouncing government economy. The President declared the only way out for Uncle Sam right now was adoption of a policy of spending. "The treasury is too small to hold all the government's money," he said. "The only thing to do is to spend it."

BERLIN, April 1.—Premier Mussolini of Italy to-day offered a reward for the German chef who could cook a palatable dish of sauerkraut with garlic in it. "Il Duce," declared that upon his return to Italy he would forbid the eating of spaghetti and proclaim sauerkraut as the national dish. Conservative Germans declared this way was only another one of the Latin's polite overtures to Germany.

TORONTO, Ont., April 1.—Completely reversing his former stand, Ben Spence, chief of the Anti-Saloon League, came out here to-day unequivocally for light wines and beer. The former great bone dry leader asserted he thought the government sale of wines and beers was one of the crying needs of the times. Whisky would come later as a gradual development, of course, he said.

GRAND A. A. A. F. PATRIARCH HAS HUGE PETITION

Says Peterborough is Centre of Activity of His Organization.

WANTS HOLIDAY.

Largest Association in Canada is Ancient Association of April Fools.

Samuel Q. Weisenheimer, the Grand Supreme Patriarch of the A.A.A.F., left Peterborough today in his own special train, en route to Ottawa, carrying a petition signed by eight millions of Canada's nine million inhabitants, all of whom are present or prospective members of his distinguished society. In response to a small ad, appearing on the back page of The Examiner for two days, many applications for membership have been received. All those who applied for membership in the A.A.A.F. have been accepted, the G.S. Patriarch told The Examiner, the only qualification needed being that the neophyte must swallow everything he is told without question.

The petition which Dr. Weisenheimer is taking to Ottawa asks the Parliament of Canada—in consideration of its influence and the scope of its membership—to declare their great anniversary, which falls on April 1 of every year, a public holiday.

Before the departure of his train Dr. Weisenheimer allowed himself to be interviewed by a staff reporter of The Examiner, and spoke briefly of the traditions and present status of the society of which he is the recognized head. "The A.A.A.F.," he declared, "which stands of course for the Ancient Association of April Fools, is quite the oldest organization of its kind in the world, and a thousand times larger than any club or service association in the country. We have established branches in every town and rural district in the universe, which are growing in membership every year."

MANY MEMBERS HERE

Dr. Weisenheimer paid glowing tributes to this city, saying that Peterborough is one of the Association's most flourishing fields. He mentioned the advantages that Peterborough has as a centre of the A.F.'s in Eastern Ontario. "From the little I have seen of the place this morning," he said, "it seems to me that there are more genuine A.F.'s and more red-blooded A.F. spirit in Peterborough than in any other town east of Toronto."

Qualifications for full membership, on passing from the novice class, as outlined by the Supreme Patriarch, include not only the ability of the applicant to cla a good practical joke, but also to be the good natured butt of a joke. The campaign for membership was extended over one day only of each year, initiation tests being held at the same time. A special board of examiners, resembling in some respects the tariff board, considered the merits of all the April fools played, and those who were successful in passing received by return mail a badge bearing the insignia of the society and the letters A.A.A.F. suitably engraved.

MARCH WAS A LAMB IF YOU DREAMED IT

And It Ushered in To-day, Which Is April First.

Basking in the rays of midsummer sunshine, Peterborough panted its thirsty way through the hottest and driest March 31 in weather history yesterday. After cold, frosty nights and numbing days, indications clearly pointed to a change, but even the Weatherman was unprepared for a day which might well have been mortised into the middle of July.

Soft morning winds like breaths from the tropics heralded a warm day, but by 10 o'clock the thermometers of the city were climbing and climbing in a threatening way. Sparkling sunlight banished wonted overcoats, galoshes, gloves and winter furs. The heat wave which swept over the city called out white flannels, straw hats and shirt sleeves in downtown offices.

Birds in their little nests agreed that summer had come a month too soon, and chirped a cheery welcome. Electric fans whirred in homes and offices, and police reserves were called in to protect soft-drink parlors. Traffic cops donned sun helmets. Many parched sufferers leaped from the logs at the bathing beaches seeking relief in the cool waters of the river. With the exception of three negroes and two African explorers, the streets were practically deserted by 2 o'clock.

Water taps threatened to dry up early in the afternoon, due to the heavy demand on the supply. No relief from the heat-wave was promised by the Weatherman at an early hour this morning.

"There is an area of extremely high pressure just over Red Lake and unless the temperature moderates in the Eastern Provinces, the thermometers will read between 65 and 110 degrees Fahrenheit today," he said. "Yesterday was the hottest March 31st of which we have any record."

Ice-wagons were still clattering in the wake of milk wagons at 2 o'clock this morning. "Hardest day I can remember in my 45 years as ice-man," said George Gough, veteran ice-tosser, last night. He was just returning on his twenty-fifth trip to the storage warehouse.

March, instead of going out like a roaring lion, went out like a spotted salamander—if you were dreaming. And of course March 31 ushered in April Fool Day.

HEAVIER FIRE LOSS DURING FEBRUARY

Increase in Number and in Damage Over Last Year.

The provincial fire marshal's report for the month of February shows an increase of 142 in the number of fires over the same month last year. The total loss, and insurance loss show an increase but the loss not covered by insurance shows a decrease.

For the first two months of this year over the same two months of last year, the number of fires shows an increase of 144, but the net loss to property, owners and insurance companies, shows a decrease.

The chief fires in February were in Hamilton, where a factory was destroyed, causing a damage to the amount of $150,000; Fort William, where two stores were burned, causing a damage amounting to $130,000, and in Brampton where $50,000 damage was done.

CHURCH SOCIETIES' ANNUAL MEETINGS

Millbrook United Bodies Elect Officers For Coming Year.

MILLBROOK, April 1.—The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. S. Burnham, Main Street, with about thirty in attendance. The unfavorable state of the roads prevented members living any distance out of town from being present.

The President, Miss M. E. Needham, who has been away for some weeks, came home for the meeting and presided during the opening business period.

The secretary's report, given by Mrs Ross Edmunds, showed nine regular meetings during the year and three special gatherings; average attendance 26. Three members have died in the eleven months which make the church year, owing to changes in connection with the Union; 18 new names have been enrolled; total membership, 74.

Miss M. Duncan gave the treasurer's report, a total of about $975.00 having been raised during the year. The Aid is responsible for the heavy expense connected with the recent improvements to the church auditorium, and will have a considerable amount still to raise before this indebtedness is wiped off. The general satisfaction with the renovation has led some personal subscriptions to be handed to the treasurer, and it is probable others will help in this manner. The "human calendar," a novel means of raising funds adopted for the first time by the Aid in recent months, has already brought in $36.00.

Rev. Mr. Howard took charge of the electeion of officers, the list being:

President—Miss M. E. Needham.
1st Vice-President — Mrs. A. J. Brown.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. J. McKnight.
Secretary—Mrs. Ross Edmunds.
Treasurer—Miss May Duncan.
Parsonage Committee: Mrs. R. H. Edmunds, Mrs. J. L. Byam, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. Percy Stinson, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Mrs. W. E. Ball, Mrs. G. Locke.

Misses Elsie Spence and Wilma Fallis, of the C.G.I.T. group, presented a cheque for $10.00 toward the renovation fund, on behalf of that organization, and were heartily thanked by the president, speaking for the Ladies' Aid Society. Rev. Joseph and Mrs. Wilks gave a cheque for $5.00 for the same fund.

Refreshments were served at the close, and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed before the gathering finally broke up.

The annual meeting of the Young People's League was held on Monday evening, Rev. F. H. Howard presiding. The attendance was not large, and the president, Miss Estelle Hetherington, in her report, spoke of the necessity of making some change in the manner of conducting the weekly meetings or the League must cease to function. Amalgamation with other young people's organizations was suggested.

The report of the secretary, Miss Hattie Barnard, showed 29 regular meetings held during the year, nine new members added to the roll, and a total membership of 49, with an average attendance of 13.

The treasurer's report, given by Mrs. W. West, while not dealing with large figures, showed a balance in the bank on the right side.

Mrs. G. W. Sayles, missionary vice-president, reported over $50.00 on hand toward the Forward Movement, with a prospect of sending $75.00 this year for the League's share of Rev. E. Hibbard's salary, this being the missionary to whose support the young people are pledged. In previous years $100.00 has been sent, but the year closing five weeks earlier owing to changes in connection with the Union, givings have been affected to a considerable extent. Seven missionary meetings were held during the year, and one social gathering under this department.

The report from the Fifth Vice-President, under whose direction the C.G.I.T. work comes, showed 16 members on the roll, and an average of 13 at the weekly meetings. The girls had sent donations during the year to the Georgetown Home for Armenian Boys; to the China Testament Fund; to the Fresh Air work of the Deaconness' Home; had given $10.00 to the church thankoffering fund, $10.00 to the Maintenance and Extension Fund, and $10.00 to the Ladies' Aid Society toward the expense of recent extensive improvements to the church auditorium; and have sent their allotment to the National Girls' Work Board at Toronto. There is a growing interest in the group programme and the girls have assisted with a number of special evenings for other organizations during the year.

After considerable discussion it was decided, for the next three months, to try the plan of making the present officers and members who have been regularly attending responsible for the devotional meeting once each month; the mission circle responsible for the regular missionary night; the boys' group to take the third Monday and give a citizenship programme; and the C.G.I.T. group to take the last Monday and provide a literary topic.

Prayer by the pastor brought the meeting to a close.

BRITISH GOLD IS NEEDE

LONDON, March 26.—(United Press).—The Bank of England among its numerous tasks both great and small, is seeking just now to find the wherewithal to finance the pious pilgrimages of Mohammedans to Mecca.

This it does by flooding the Orient with gold sovereigns.

For Mohammedans, whatever their attitude toward the British Empire, have discovered in the course of several generations that the British gold sovereign is, of all the coins in the world, the most convenient for expenditures on a prolonged pilgrimage through unknown countries. So recently Amsterdam purchased 69,000 sovereigns from the Bank of England for transhipment to Batavia in the Dutch East Indies; these will be sold, at a small premium, to the Mohammedans in the Dutch East Indies and will leave a trail of the British gold behind as they go to Mecca. Hong Kong, Shanghai, Singapore and other ports do a similar business principally with the Bank of England.

Amsterdam finds it very easy to get gold sovereigns this way from the "Old Lady of Threadneedle Street" because of the London rubber market's heavy purchases of Dutch rubber which makes Holland "owe" Amsterdam a very considerable amount of gold. Otherwise this would be taken in the form of bar gold but with a thrifty eye to the forthcoming pilgrimage the Dutch metropolis demands sovereigns and gets them.

Altogether the Bank will send through the East about $1,[illegible] worth of gold coins for the convenience of the followers of the prophet.

ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING WAS HELD

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. James Present Them With Library Lamp.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. William James of 21 Crescent Street, entertained about thirty of their friends. The occasion was the thirty-third anniversary of their wedding. The evening was spent in cards and dancing; the prize being won by Mrs. F. Millken and Percy Blade, and the consolation prize by Mrs. P. Smith and G. H. Hutchison.

After partaking of a dainty and refreshing lunch, an address was read to Mr. and Mrs. James, after which they were presented with a beautiful library table lamp.

Mr. and Mrs. James were taken by surprise as they were not aware that their friends knew it was the anniversary date of their wedding. Mr. James made a suitable reply and the happy gathering broke up by them all singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

The address was as follows:

We, your friends, have taken this opportunity, it being the anniversary of your wedding, to extend to you our sincere appreciation of you as friends during the time which has elapsed since our first mingling together.

Your example and kindly spirit has been an inspiration to elicit from your friends admiration and respect. The participation in all good work at home and otherwise has had its effect and we ask you to accept this gift not for its intrinsic value, but as a reminder of the pleasant times we have had together.

Our best wishes are that God may spare you to celebrate many more such occasions.

Signed by those present.

A SECRET CONFERENCE

By Juanita Hamel

Through Love's process of elimination, the choice has narrowed down to just two—and now she cannot decide which of the two she really loves. And rather than make a mistake, she has called Dan Cupid into a conference and taken him into her confidence. Of course, Cupid, the little scamp, knows full well which one she is going to choose, but he is pretending to ponder deeply the momentous question.

The evidence of the photographs is produced and weighed, and the points of each subject are discussed thoroughly. Billy is handsome, so is John; Billy has money, so has John. And so it goes until Dan Cupid slyly asks: "But with which are you the most contended and happy? Which of the two are you gladdest to meet and sorriest to leave?"

Why, John, of course! Then the problem's solved—just as Cupid knew it would be. For where there's happiness and contentment and peace and joy, there you'll ever find Love. And the conference ends with all parties concerned thoroughly satisfied with the decision—and themselves.

HER OWN WAY

by A GIRL of TODAY

THE VERDICT.

"Although she knew perfectly well that it was I who was singing, Lola Lawrence said in a most annoyed voice:

"'I thought, Madame Seria, that you did not allow your girls to talk loudly or sing about your establishment. I think it is decidedly common.'

"'Oh, Miss Lawrence!' I exclaimed, 'I sincerely beg your pardon, I will not open my mouth again, you may be sure. You see I was so happy that I was modeling for your clothes and that you seemed pleased with them that I expect I sang for pure joy.'

"'Of course, Mamie, you said just the right thing,' said Madame Seria to be later.'

"'But, Madame, I meant it honestly. I sang because I was so happy. It is so sweet of you to take so much interest in me and you don't know how I will work and do anything you want me to do if I can only take lessons under Tortentio.'

"'Well, child, it's all on the knees of the gods from now on. Be a good girl and be patient. We will just have to wait until we find out what is going to happen.'

"I couldn't wait, however. I persuaded Madame Seria to lend me thirty dollars—I had by this time been going without my lunches and walking instead of riding on the street car, saved my entire ten dollar wage for two weeks and I went to Tortentio.

"'So you think you can sing, do you, young woman:' he asked pertly as he took my three hundred dollars in bills. 'What can you sing? Mind, I don't want jazz.'

"Again I sang Tosti's Good-bye, this time, however, accompanied on the piano in the most splendid fashion.

"I was nervous, hungry and tired. I did not sing as well as I had for Madame Seria, but when I had finished, Tortentio said:

"'You have a voice, I think I could make something of it. I'll take you if you promise to do exactly as I tell you. If you work hard, I think you will make the Metropolitan in about five years, provided you bend every energy you have in that direction. My price is twenty-five dollars a half hour. You should have at least three weeks.'"

HAWES' FLOOR WAX

ADVICE TO GIRLS

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

As I am a young girl in my teens I thought that I would write to you to get some of your advice. I am a young girl in my 'teens and have been going with a young boy for about two or three years, and I like him very much, and he says he likes me. He lives in the country and I live in the town, but I see him sometimes three and four times a week. Do you think that it is right for me to go out with any other fellow. If he does not go out with any other girl. He promised me that he wouldn't. But there are a number of girls that would like to go with him. I would like to go out with others fellows but would not like him to go with any other girl. My people all like him, he does not smoke as I do not want him to. So he don't, as far as I know. Do you think that he thinks much of me if I have went with him for three or four years and never got acquainted with some of his people. But I have been to his home when his mother and father were out, just met his sister and brother and like them very much. Do you think that keeping up in the style, would make him feel anyways shaky. Thinking that it would take all his wages when he is married to keep his wife in clothes? Hoping that he will always love me,

JACKIE COOGAN.

JACKIE COOGAN: Your are unreasonable to want your friend girls, and still leave you free to have other boy friends, don't you think so? Perhaps it is this attitude of yours that prevents him from proposing to you. He sees that you are selfish and jealous, and wonders whether you would act in the same way if he married you. It is certainly very exacting to tie a man up with a promise not to smoke. I don't wonder that he doesn't fall madly in love with you, as you wish. How would you like it if he asked you to give up eating chocolates? What harm is it going to do him to smoke, if he wishes to? You are a very unreasonable, foolish young girl. What you should do is to sit down quietly and think over your own deficiencies, instead of wondering about him. He is probably much too good for you in every way. I think your exacting attitude toward him has more to do with his reluctance to pop the question than your fine clothes. The first thing you know some quiet, reasonable, amiable little creature will carry him off under your nose and all the people who know you will say it serves you right.

The Home Kitchen

By Jeannette Norton

OLD-FASHIONED MEAT COOKERY.

A brief study of old cookery books yields many curious cooking stunts. Some of the following recipes may be eye-openers for the modern housewife and of interest, perhaps, to her mother.

Veal Cutlet.

Have the cutlet sliced in a half-inch slice and divide the slice into the correct number of servings. Dip each piece in beaten egg. Roll in very fine cracker dust, sprinkle with pepper and salt and place in a hot frying pan or "spider," in which enough butter has been melted to cover the bottom. Cover until heated through, then dry delicately, browning lightly on either side. Lift the meat to a hot dish. Add a little more butter and a half cupful each of stock and milk to the dish gravy and when hot thicken slightly and strain over the meat. Garnish with parsley and lemon quarters.

Flank Steak.

Select a fresh, thick flank steak, trim it carefully and, with a long sharp knife cut a pocket in it. Rub the steak well with a tablespoonful of grated onion, a saltspoon of pepper, a half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of powdered sugar, a tablespoonful of lemon juice, all worked into a heaping tablespoonful of butter. Rub over both sides with the mixture. Wipe, peel and chop a half pound of fresh mushrooms. Add to them a grated onion, pepper, salt, a teaspoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of minced white celery leaves, a half cupful of fine crumbs and a half cupful of cream sauce to bind the mixture. Stuff the steak and sew it up carefully. Place on a buttered baking pan, strew with a few crumbs and dot with butter. Pour in the pan a half cupful of stock, cover until the steak has warmed through and commenced to cook, then uncover. Cook in a medium oven. Garnish with breaded fried shrimp.

Roast Goose.

Select a young and tender goose, clean and prepare in the usual way. Next rub it inside and out with a mixture of pepper, salt, powdered thyme, sage and sweet marjoram. Place a cut onion inside the bird, then cover with a linen cloth and let stand in a cool place over night. In the morning prepare a sage and onion dressing, fill the bird three-quarters full or less, sew it neatly, remove the neck and stuff and sew it for a French breast, place a little salt pork over the breast and put to roast. Baste frequently. The bird should be well-trussed, so as to hold its shape. Serve onions, fried apple and gooseberry sauce with the goose. Chop the liver and gizzard, after they are boiled tender, for the gravy, and mash the liver to add to the thickening for it.

Boiled Pork.

Take a two-pound chunk of fine salt pork, scrape the rind carefully and wash clean. Place the pork in cold water and bring slowly to boiling point. Boil it gently for about one hour, try it with a fork and if the fork slips in easily the pork is done. Lift it and remove the rind, dust with pepper, sprinkle with a teaspoonful of sugar and a half teaspoonful of spices, turn over the juice of an onion and a lemon and a half glassful of cider. Set in the oven for a few minutes to lightly brown the top. Serve with a steak or boiled leg of mutton.

A Hamburger Pie.

Run a pound of top round steak, cut with a rim of fat, twice through the meat chopper. Add to it two grated onions, pepper, salt and a teaspoonful of sugar. Chop through it with a knife a tablespoonful of butter and add four tablespoonfuls of cream. Spread the meat lightly in the crust-lined pie plate, cover the top with very thinly sliced potatoes, then a thin layer of apple sauce. Put on the top crust and until the crust is done, about thirty minutes.

The Woman's Day

Written by a Woman for Women.

Touching brightly on woman's every major interest in life from books and babies to politics and psycho analysis.

(By Allene Sumner)

"I SEE BY T PAPERS"

"The life of the party" is what they called Mrs. Ida Goldberg, 105, who celebrated her birthday recently at an old folks' home. The lady who had seen 105 winters and summers come and go, "held her own" in the conversation, we are told. A life well spent, we opine—when one at 105 can still have enough of the zest for living to be "the life of the party."

Club life will soon supplant home life, and even the state may assume the care of children, says an Ohio judge, pointing with alarm at working wives "outside the home."

All right, all right, have it your own way—but please, please, PLEASE tell me how the home is to be bettered and children raised any better with only a working father bringing in about $125 a month when children's shoes cost $5 and rent $50. If working wives are wrecking the home, somebody'd best stir themselves about a whack at the H. C. of L. or bigger salaries for husbands and fathers.

MAKING MONEY

"She serves just like a horse and buggy," a friend commented on the waitress sent out by an agency. Waitresses, good ones, employment agencies will tell you, are as rare as diamonds in oysters. But it is not necessarily true that waitresses are born and not made.

A clever high school girl could earn her clothes and books and start salting away a nest egg for the college fund by acting as waitress on special occasions.

In preparation for this job, I suggest the purchase of a book called "The Up-To-Date Waitress," by Janet McKenzie Hill. Careful perusal, a white apron and cap, and you're all set for the job!

FORMAL LUNCHEON MENU

The formal luncheon menu is almost the formal breakfast, too. The following menu could be used for a wedding breakfast with slight variations, such as the addition of the wedding cake.

Grape Fruit Supreme (with cherry)
Bouillon Olives
Panned Oysters
Brown Bread Sandwiches, very thin
Chicken Timbales, mushroom sauce
French Fried Potatoes
Lettuce Salad, French Dressing
Buttered Rolls
Sherbet Assorted Cakes
Bonbons Coffee

RIGHT THING TO WEAR

Formal evening dress, with no sleeves, and little front or back, is worn only to a formal dinner, opera, ball, or formal reception. A hat is never worn with formal dress. A hair dress, a jeweled comb, or hair bandeau should accompany formal dress. Long kid gloves are correct with the evening dress, but it is not incorrect not to wear them. The gloves should be removed when in side, not turned back. Full evening dress is not particularly suited to the theater, unless following a formal dinner and theater invitation.

"All food should be beautiful—else it savours of the animal. Plain bread and butter becomes an aesthetic delight when properly cut, properly served, artistically garnished."—MacDougall.

WHAT TO READ

If you want fiction, try Brand Whitlock's "Uprooted." One chapter takes the hero and heroine to the tennis tournaments at Nice and Cannes. The author says of Suzanne Lenglen—"Someone held for her a great white cloak and, muffled in it, she moved slowly across the court, with the shining aureole of success that is worn by public characters, perhaps as much an attribute of the applause on which they thrive, as of the achievement that provokes it."

Greece has decreed a prohibition against the expropriation of any property in which a foreign state is interested, without the special permission of the Ministry of Justice.

WOMEN MORE BEAUTIFUL THAN EVER BEFORE

LONDON, April 1. — (United News.)—Women are more beautiful to-day than at any previous time in the world's history, famous British painters have decided by a vote of 11 to 1.

The one dissenting vote was cast by a woman, Miss Hepburn Edwards, vice-president of the Royal Society of Miniature Painters.

Philip Connard, R., thought that there had been no change in feminine beauty.

"The seas, skies, trees, birds and flowers are just as beautiful to-day as they have always been," he declared, "so are the women."

Walter W. Russell, R., said that shingled heads and lineless, flat-chested fashionable figures made the modern woman look less good-looking than she really was.

Menus for the Family

By Sister Mary.

Breakfast—Stewed dried apricots, cereal, thin cream, baked eggs, rye muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Cream of onion soup, croutons, hearts of celery, brown bread and butter, canned pears, sugar cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Baked and stuffed codfish, creamed potatoes, buttered cauliflower, stuffed green pepper salad, bran rolls, canned peach shortcake, milk, coffee.

Cod is one of the best of fish on account of its high mineral content. While the large cod is cut into steaks the smaller fish is delicious stuffed and baked. Codfish is considered particularly good for children since it's not an oily fish and therefore easy to digest, and of course because of its high food value.

If muffins are baked in long gem pans instead of round ones there is more surface exposed to form crust and the muffin is more digestible.

Rye Muffins.

One cup white flour, 1 cup rye meal, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons melted butter.
